He cut across the yard and vaulted the fence behind the oleander bush. A moment later he was swallowed up by the night. A smile quivered on Polly's lips as she watched him go over the fence with the agile grace of a college athlete. Then the tragedy behind her closed in and enveloped her senses again and she made her way to the walk and into the house.

The study key was cold in her clamp hand. Entering the living room, she stood for a moment to stare at the closed door on her left. Then, because she would not let herself be a coward, she squared her shoulders and walked straight to the study door and turned the knob..... The door was locked.

Angus had said, "If I were you I'd let the delegated authorities inform the family." But the delegated authorities had not arrived and Norris Fordell was dead—murdered—and the family knew nothing of it.

She remembered Julian, then. He had gone into the library. The door was not entirely closed, but the library was dark. She snapped on the light. Julian was not in the room.

With slightly stiff strides she crossed the living room and climbed the stairs. The old stairs creaked under her weight.

She stood before Sheila's door and called her name....and with her own voice shouting back at her, marched on to the facing doors at the far end of the corridor. Julian's open door was a clammy hand at her back as she knocked on the heavy panel and called in a strangly, dry voice: "Mrs. Fordell!....Mrs. Fordell....." The words raced down the walls and ceiling and came bounding back. The hollow thumping was repeated on every door in the long hall.

Nerves tightening, Polly stood very still for a moment, thinking. "I didn't know I could be so frightened," and was all the more bewildered by the knowledge that she feared was nothing in human form, but an intangible and invisible menace that hung in the silence of this stricken house. And then, she turned and saw the thin, white face glaring at her from the darkened doorway—and with all the strength of her body pouring out of her legs, she leaned back against Evelyn's door and forced a question through her taut vocal chords:

"Nip. Williams—what are you doing in Julian's room?"

INSTALMENT 7.

For perhaps ten seconds Nip Williams stood there, staring at Polly, rubbing her hands together as of washing them. Then, without a word, she darted into the hall and raced off toward the stairs.

"Nip!" Polly cried. "Nip—come here! I want to talk to you!"

But though Nip seemed not to be running at all, only gliding along the carpet, she had come to the stairs and disappeared.

Once more Polly's wide eyes were fixed on the darkened doorway. Had Nip Williams been alone in that unlighted room or was Julian——?

She heard someone coming up the stairs, heard her name called.

"Polly! Polly Markey...!"

Lieutenant Jerry B—ll appeared at the head of the stairs. By a tremendous effort of will, she gained away from Evelyn's door and advanced to meet him.

"Polly—are you alone in the house?" He saw the receding terror in her face then, and caught her by the arms. "You're all upset. What's wrong?"

She shook her head. "Nothing. I came up to tell the family." She extended an open palm. "The key to the study," she said. "Mr. Fordell—"

He nodded. "I know. Let's not talk about H."

"You know—you know he was shot—murdered?"

He was leading her toward the stairs, but now he stopped and studied her tense face closely. "Shot to death? Who told you that?"

"I heard the shot. Tod and I heard it. Somehow I knew it was Mr. Fordell and I hurried down and—and found him, dead."

The design of the 1938 registration plates is exceptionally attractive with Crown and Orange figures on Blue background.

To Save Ontario Motorists Time and Money

1938 Motor Vehicle Permits Are Now Available

DUE to the advance in the new car purchasing season and the fact that increasingly large numbers of used cars and trucks are now purchased at this time of year and following the practice established last year which met with such favourable reception on the part of the motoring public, 1938 Motor Vehicle Permits and Operators' Licenses are being made available in advance of the date of expiration of 1937 permits.

1938 Permits (now available) save the purchaser of a new car or truck the expense of 1937 registration.

They save the purchaser of a used car or truck the fee for transferring the 1937 registration (1938 Permit can be procured without transfer fee).

As indicated in the Budget Address delivered on March 9th of this year, the Government is able to announce a downward revision in the fees for the registration of Motor Vehicles.

PASSENGER CAR REGISTRATION FEES	1937 Fee	1938 Fee
4 cylinders	$ 7.00	$ 2.00
6 cylinders, up to and including 28 horse power	12.00	7.00
6 cylinders, over 28 horse power	18.00	10.00
8 cylinders, up to and including 35 horse power	15.00	10.00
8 cylinders, over 35 horse power	20.00	15.00
12 cylinders	30.00	25.00
16 cylinders	40.00	35.00

(S.A.E. rating of horse power shall be used)

All Commercial Motor Vehicles and Trailers have been reduced 25% from the 1937 rate.

The Fee for the registration of a change of ownership has been reduced from $2.00 to $1.00.

Fee for the Registration of a Motor Cycle has been reduced from $3.00 to $1.00.

CHANGE OF LICENSE YEAR

The Government having decided to change the license year to coincide with its fiscal year, 1938 permits and licenses will be valid to March 31st, 1939.

REFORMATORY ON FORGERY CHARGE

Hugh Peterson, Trenton, Sentenced to Two Years Less a Day

Trenton, Sept. 23 — (Special) Convicted of three charges, uttering a forged cheque, attempting to obtain the sum of $150.50 from the Belleville branch of the Bank of Montreal unlawfully on Sept. 11 and obtaining a cheque the property of the Trenton Dairy Company, Hugh Peterson of Trenton was sentenced to two years less a day determinate and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate C. J. Butler in police court yesterday. The sentence was imposed to the forgery offense and will run concurrently with the other two charges.

It was revealed by the testimony of Constable Fred Izard of the Belleville Police Department, that Peterson was arrested in possession of the cheque in a Belleville express office. "The accused was in the act of disposing of the cheque when I walked into the office" said the officer, and I was forced to put him down on his back on the floor to take the cheque away from him." Exhibited in court the cheque was badly torn and it was held together by strips of adhesive. It appeared that Peterson took the cheque into the Bank of Montreal in Belleville on a Saturday morning and attempted to cash it at the wicket. The teller referred Peterson to the accountant, David Jones, who refused payment for the cheque after carefully inspecting it. It was Mr. Jones who notified Constable Izard, a short time after Peterson left the bank. At regular intervals during the hearing Peterson said his actions were due to a drunken condition. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan produced Peterson's past criminal record, which disclosed the accused had been convicted of breaking and entering, theft and on breaches of the Liquor Control Act on several occasions.

Pleading guilty to a charge of operating a car in a manner dangerous to the public, Joe Creighton of Trenton was fined $22.75 including costs and his drivers permit was cancelled for one month.

William Hutcher of Toronto admitted stealing one clothes tree and two lamps from the St. James Hotel one night recently. He also pleaded guilty to speeding. He was assessed $20.65 altogether and the Magistrate imposed a six months suspended sentence.

Henry Tuttle of Trenton acknowledged being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $16.35.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

(Closing)

Toronto, Sept. 23 (CP)—A slow decline in the Toronto market through the last hour of trading increased its downward pace in the last hour today and the close brought new lows for the year in the miscellaneous mines and the other indices were much refloned. Brazilian, up a half point on heavy volume, was brought the only definitely strong spot in the industrial list while the base metals were the leaders in the downward movement. Selling was not heavy at any stage.

The slump carried International Nickel back to 53 for a loss of 1 3-4 and Noranda, Hudson Bay and Smelters relatively fractional declines. Ventures slipped about 25 cents and smaller losses were posted for Waite-Amulet, Pend Oreille, Falconbridge and Sudbury Basin. Silvers were steady.

Selling of the golds picked up a little in the final stage and McIntyre, Lake Shore and Dome eased down minor fractions. Mercury weakened 25 cents. Buffalo-Ankerite about the same amount and final prices showed losses of 1 to 15 cents for Little Long Lac, Sisco, O'Brien, Sylvanite, Wright Hargreaves, Central Patricia, Consumum, East Malartic, Kirkland Lake, Uchi Gold and Read-Authlen.

Bank stocks registered weakness though trade in the group was light. Toronto, Royal, Commerce and Montreal sold at new lows for the year, showing losses ranging up to 1½. Distillers-Seagrams lost 1-4 and Dominion Steel 3-4.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Selling orgas had the better of it in today's Stock Market.

Intermittent rallies were unsuccessful in generating energy on the upside, although a few issues here and there managed to retain modest advances. Losses, on the whole, ranged from minor amounts to 2 or more points near the final hour. Transfers were about 700,000 shares.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

MARKET COMMENT

The market continues to see-saw from day to day with little or no news to account for the movements. The public has not, as yet, received a satisfactory reason to explain the past month's liquidation, war scares, as at first reported, having been eliminated as a factor. Even though the majority of traders agree that bargains abound in the market, many have not the confidence to enter the market on the buying side on a large scale.

A number of constructive developments have taken place in past few days which, under normal conditions, would have found immediate reflection marketwise. These can be named as follows: —The refunding plan of General Steel Wares; inauguration of dividends on Regent Knitting; substantial improvement in earnings of Abitibi Power and Paper and another good monthly gain in Brazilian Traction's earnings.

Brazilian Traction Common May Be Placed on Quarterly Dividend Basis!

Earnings of Brazilian Traction have improved to such an extent that the directors may deem it advisable to place the common stock on a regular quarterly dividend basis before long.

Bank Statements

The annual financial statements of The Canadian Chartered Banks will be appearing during the next two months. These reports are expected to show improved earnings over the ones that were issued in 1936.

Livestock

Toronto, Sept. 23—(CP)— Hog prices were weak on the Toronto livestock market today. Other market divisions held steady in quiet trading. Cattle holdover from Wednesday was 1,000 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 450; calves 110; hogs 700; sheep and lambs 360.

Only a head of cattle were sold by early afternoon. Stockers ranged from $3.50 to $5.25 and a few plain butchers brought $3.65 to $5.25.

Choice veal calves traded at $10 to $10.50 with common quality downward to $7.50. A few grass calves moved between $4 and $6.50.

Off-stock hogs were quoted at $10.50 to $10.65.

Good ewe and wether lambs were priced at $8.75 to $9 with other grades from $7 to $8.50. A new medium to good sheep sold at $3 to $4.50.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, Sept. 23.—(CP)—Deliveries of 25 to 35 cents were posted for bacon hogs at Hull and Peterborough today while other market points reported steady prices.

Liverpools — Hull $8.75; Fort William $8.30; Stratford $10; Chatham $9.75; London $10.

Dressedweights — Hull $12.40; Peterborough $13.10; Barrie $13.80; Stratford $12.35; Kitchener $12.20 Chatham $14.40; London $12.35.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

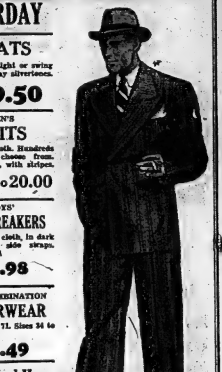
Montreal, Sept. 23—Dealers were expressing the belief yesterday that daily advances in egg prices of late have come to an end for the time being at least. Buying having improved, on the lower grades, which have kept the recent price advance. Despite the higher prices on Canadian markets dealers are able to export quite extensive shipments being in yesterday's receipts, of 2,160; other arrivals were 1,040 boxes of butter and 3,918 boxes of cheese, excluding trade receipts.

Sales of the Canadian Commodity Exchange were 200 boxes of Quebec fresh fancy butter at 30 1-2c, at which price the market was quoted at the close.

The cheese section was held at the Board of Trade at 12.30 noon, when 1,850 boxes of Quebec cheese were offered, the white selling at 17 3-4c and the colored bringing 17 3-8c. Ontario cheese was quoted 17 1-4c to 17 3-8c.

On the egg market graded shipments were quoted at 35-36c for A-large, 36-37c for A-extra large, 32c for A-pullets, 25-26c for B and 21c for C, with the lower part of the range generally prevailing.

WESTERN ONTARIO CANNERS PROCURE P. E. COUNTY TOMATOES



With heavy frosts destroying the tomato crop of Western Ontario, government officials and canners are forced to come east for supplies to bolster the year's pack. Prince Edward County tomatoes are moving toward Chatham in large quantities, a dozen or so canning firm from Western Ontario stated last night. "This is my fourth load from Picton alone," he said and we expect to haul them as long as the frost holds off."

Mining Magnate Donates $396,000 To Eng. Hospital

London, Sept. 23.—(CP Cable)—Harry Oakes, Toronto, mining executive now living in the Bahamas has donated £80,000 ($396,000) to St. George's Hospital, Hyde Park Corner, the largest single amount yet subscribed by the hospital's rebuilding fund. The donation will allow a start on construction next year.

BIRTHDAY CAKE PRESENTED TO HARRY ROLLINS

On Occasion of His 38th Birthday by Ladies of Conservative Club

Mr. Harry Rollins, popular president of the Ladies' Conservative Club, is pondering the question as to whether he might qualify among intimates as the "cake-eating politician."

Yesterday Mr. Rollins' birthday, though the fact was supposed to be a dim secret. At the weekly rally of the city last evening it would be was one of the speakers. He was astonished to find himself in the centre of a group which a chocolate cake with lighted candles —thirty-eight of them—also figured prominently. It was gracefully bestowed with due pomp by one of the ladies present. Whether or not his speech of acceptance also called for the act he was recipient of a beautiful corsage of vegetables, carrots, cabbage and onions in profusion.

The onions, it was vouched for at the conclusion of a second speech, had come directly from the Hon. Mitchell Hepburn's farm.

RESTAURANT OWNER MAKES A FRIEND OF BEGGING SETTER

Mr. Chas. Ling, popular Bridge Street restaurateur, believes he has at least one steady and dependable customer, even though a non-paying one.

Some time ago a large Irish Setter which called at the back door of the establishment was cautiously handed one of the bones due for the garbage can. The dog received the offering with thanking wag and hurried off.

Next and the day after at the same time of the day, the same animal has appeared, confident of the tidbit usually reserved. When the door was open in cooler weather, the Setter calls attention by scratching on it with heavy paw.

TRUCK DRIVER HURT BY TIRE FLYING OFF RIM

Painful injuries to his hands and legs were received yesterday by Fred Lasler, Charlotte Street, driver for the Belleville Fruit Company, when the rim of a heavy tire which had just been repaired flew off, striking the youth with considerable force. First aid treatment was given by co-workers on the spot.

Cambria Refuels for Return Flight Over Ontario

For the first time, a scheduled trans-Atlantic plane was fueled in Canada when the Imperial Airways flying boat, "Cambria," took aboard 700 gallons of aviation gasoline at an exact schedule, carrying out the procedure as it would be done for a commercial trans-oceanic flying boat making an Ontario stop-over. THURSDAY MARKET

Showing but little abatement in quantity, Elberta peaches again dominated the fruit display at the city market this morning. Prices generally were unchanged, but remained at approximately the same level as those of Saturday with selects selling at fifty cents, No. 1's at forty-five cents and 2's at forty cents per six quart basket. Tomatoes remained firm at fifty cents per bushel but while potatoes showed a slight decrease selling at sixty-five and seventy cents per bushel. Pech lots were offered at twenty cents.

Sweet corn sold to a slowly buying market at ten and fifteen cents per dozen ears. Pumpkin available squash nearing the peak of production was available today in all sizes and prices. They were quoted at from five and ten cents up. Staple vegetables sold at the considerable force. First aid treatment was given by co-workers on the spot.

Wolf River and Macintosh Red apples were fairly plentiful with the former offered at twenty-five cents the peck and the Reds at twenty cents per half peck. Bartlett pears at basket while Clapps were quoted at thirty-five cents the basket. Ripe grapes and several varieties of preserving plums were quoted at thirty and thirty-five cents per six quarts.

Eggs sold at thirty-two cents per dozen generally although some vendors asked forty for thirty-five cents. Pullets were offered at thirty cents.

Medicals were the only fish available today selling at two pounds for twenty-five cents.

RICH COAL SEAMS UNDER CASTLE

Famous "Castle Dangerous" to be Demolished Shortly

Edinburg, Sept. 23 (CP)—Rich coal seams have laid successful siege to romantic Douglas Castle, ancestral home of the Douglas family.

When the Earl and Countess of Home move, demolition will begin so the coal seams can be worked without hindrance. Old seams in the district have been worked out.

And so the stormy history of Sir Walter Scott's "Castle Dangerous" which repeatedly changed hands during the struggle between Edward I and the Scots, seems to an end.

So—perhaps—does the ancient legend which runs: "As often as Castle Douglas is destroyed it shall rise again in even greater size."

The castle was burned down in 1752 and the present structure built. Near it is the Chancel of the Church of St. Bride, containing the heart of Robert the Bruce.

Douglas Castle is now the laird's up residence as their Berwickshire estate near Coldstream. They plan to return soon to Lanarkshire and reside in "the Factor's house within sight of the old castle grounds.

HOWE IS FERRY SINKS

Canaseque, Ont., Sept. 23 (CP) —The Howe Island ferry sank in Lake Ontario today while carrying a British tourist car from the mainland to the island. All aboard were believed to have escaped safely but tardy were not available immediately.

Wimmen Psychology

"Barley Hellum, if you lets that dimmed city trash on the place ag'in I'll set the dogs on him. He's been a-comin' 'round here sparkin' you for nigh on two year an' I've seed enough of him. I'm sick an' tired of his high collar an' his fine clothes an' his puny-assin' white hands. Sometimes when I'm shakin' hands with him I feel like I'd ought ter cut of sm off as easy as I could pull up a weed. Keep him away from here! I reckon I've heard what I said an' I meant it. An', Ma, you better help her keep him away. He ain't a-comin' back on this place as long as I owns it. I" understand?"

He glared at the two women and waited for an answer. White-faced and startled they stood rooted to the spot. At last Mrs. Helm found her tongue and ventured a timid remark.

"But, Joe, you ain't never been turnt agin Ab before. You always thought such a heap of him an' liked like he you'd be real proud if him an' Darcy was to git married."

"It don't make no difrence what I was—HIm what I am that counts, An' yo needn't to worry with me. I don't want to hear a word."

"But, Pa," Sarah's voice was desperate. "you can't order him off the place if you own it, but you can't talk right then, when I'm around. Don't you never, never let me hear you say nothin' like that again."

Sarah's eyes blazed dangerously. She gave her father a defiant look. She gave her father a defiant look. She left the kitchen with her head held high.

The following Sunday afternoon Sarah sat on her porch and fumed and went out to meet Ab. She had walked nearly a mile when she recognized his high collar and humming toward her.

"What's the matter, Hon?" he asked in alarm when he saw her distressed white face.

"Nothing," she answered, embarrassed, "but Pa wants us to quit goin' together. He's down on you all of a sudden."

He jumped out of the car and looked into her face.

"Are you?" he asked tensely.

Almost imperceptibly she shook her head and he took her in his arms gratefully.

"Then it don't matter what he is so long as you ain't. Hon. Let's go an' set under that tree an' talk."

Several months of blissful silence elapsed before Ab spoke again.

"Don't you reckon, Honey, we could be gittin' married sorta soon now? I been waitin' for you such a long time."

Suddenly she looked eagerly at him. "Do Pa be end of good? Know him what he got for tryin' to act so hateful an' boss me. I never did feel as much to use notion o' gittin' married before."

"Let's do it then, let's slip off next Sunday an' git. Preacher Brown to marry us an' then we'll beat."

Sarah hesitated awhile, sat after go back and see what the old man minds coming she finally consented deciding to brave the wrath of her father rather than to lose her lover.

"You could meet me here right after church next Sunday," said Ab excitedly, "an we'll drive straight over to Preacher Brown's house."

He waited silently for her decision. Two soft little arms crept up and around his neck and her curly head rested on his shoulder.

The week flew by like a dream for the next Sunday morning dawned clear and bright. She scarcely heard what went on at church and hurried away afterwards to join her lover. The simple ceremony over they went back to her home to break the news.

"Well, folks, we're married," said Ab cheerfully as he wrung the hand of old Joe Helm. To Sarah's speechless amazement she saw her father step his new son on the back and laugh in his best company manner.

"I told you, Ab, women always works by contraries, didn't I?" he said.

"You sure did, sir, an' they sure do," agreed Ab fervently. "You made her do in one day what I couldn't in tryin' to get her to do for two years!"

"That's what old Professor Bat her calls 'Wimmen Psychology'," chuckled Joe.

Says Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, as good advice for home treatment as any friend can give, is to get a prescription known as Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask Doyle's Drug Store or your druggist for an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer burdensome, So penetrating and efficient is Emerald Oil that it also helps simple swellings due to strain to disappear.

That Body of Yours

By Joseph H. Barker, M.D.

ACQUIRING RELAXATION OF MIND AND BODY IN TREATMENT OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

When an individual learns that he has high blood pressure, he is apt to feel that as his blood vessels will not stretch properly, any unusual exercise or exertion, or eating certain foods may so increase the blood pressure that a blood vessel will break, and he will have a "stroke" or a "heart" attack.

Now it cannot be denied that a stroke or a heart attack may be caused by a broken blood vessel, due to exertion or over-eating, nevertheless the 'fear' of such a thing happening spoils the entire life of the individual, and in the majority of these cases there is no need to follow such strict rules.

Dr. John Ollie, University of Toronto, in the Canadian Public Health Journal says, "In treatment of hypertension (high blood pressure) one must do nothing harmful. Doctors should not cut meat, protein, eggs, fish) or salt out of the diet of such patients. Unfavorable suggestions, such as instilling fear of strokes and heart failure should be avoided. By reassurance, relaxation, and quieting drugs, apprehension and excitement should be reduced. Hypertension sooner or later helps to produce blood vessel trouble—hardening of the arteries—but only about 25 per cent or patients with hypertension of the arteries have an increase in blood pressure. Little is known about the cause of hardening of the arteries that most of the factors causing this hardening are beyond control. But focal infections (teeth, tonsils, sinus, gall bladder) can be removed, fatigue and mental strain can be avoided. Calmness of mind should be cultivated and one should go about work without hurry, worry or mental tension and learn to live lax mentally and physically.

There is nothing alarming in the increasing death rate from blood vessel disease—hardening of the arteries—because over 55 per cent of these deaths from heart disease occur in persons over 70 years of age, and over 75 per cent in persons over 60. The average span of life has greatly lengthened."

This advice from Prof. Ollie keeping calm, learning to keep relaxed mentally and physically, going about our daily tasks without hurry or worry—as given to us all in this public health journal should bring great relief and reassurance to those who have or think they have high blood pressure.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the cause of the trouble. Most sufferers are only looking for relief of the painful symptoms and overlook the fact that the source of trouble may be retained at proper temperature for from 3 to 5 minutes. Relief is often prompt and lasting when the inflamed tissues are thoroughly cleansed and use as directed. This formula, which is easily prepared, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the parts affected. Just mix 1 ounce Peterson's Ointment and 1 ounce warm water. It is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it means the beginning of relief for anyone to rout an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

"Between Two Women" Stirring Drama of Hospital Life

An original story by Erich Von Stroheim, once a distinguished Hollywood director, is "Between Two Women", the feature attraction at the Belle today and Friday matinee daily, with Franchot Tone, Virginia Bruce and Maureen O'Sullivan.

It is a dramatic narrative of life, death and romance in a great metropolitan hospital and it has been produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with all of its lavish resources.

Tone, as an ambitious young interne, plays an effective role with an artistic depth of understanding. Maureen O'Sullivan is a nurse, unhappily married to a brutal surgeon, and secretly in love with Tone. Miss Bruce is a cool and beautiful heiress who came into the hospital as a patient and goes out as an intended bride of the interne.

The interne is faced with a choice between love and duty when his own marriage goes on the rocks and he is summoned to operate on the husband of the nurse he really loves. If the melodies they can pick up the threads of life together. If not, then they are separated forever. The events that follow will be found thrilling and interesting, for no reveal baby would be to spoil the spectator's enjoyment of an entertaining picture.

M.G.M. has produced the picture with artistry and startling authenticity. It might well have been filmed in a hospital rather than on a studio sound stage.

The supporting players handle their roles with uniform ability. Cliff Edwards is a good reporter; Ilsley Troy appears as a telegraph operator; Janet Beecher, stage veteran, is a bed ridden invalid; Penn is a sadistic surgeon. Others in the cast are Charley Grapewin, Grace Ford, June Clayworth, Edward Norris, Anthony Nace and Hugo Marlowe. The direction of action was in the capable hands of Ernest Betz.

Jean Chatburn, Gregory Gaye, Ines Courtney and Arthur Auerbach are featured in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's miniature musical comedy, "Sunshine Sonot", with dances by Sammy Lee. "Have Courage" an amusing and entertaining humor, story featuring Joe Cunningham, Kathleen Lockhart and Robert Middlemas is announced for exhibition on the same program.

"The Good Earth"

During the engagement of "The Good Earth" which comes to the Belle Saturday, performances will start at 2.30, 6.40 and 8.15. For your perfect enjoyment of "The Good Earth" it is suggested that you please see it from the beginning at 2.40, 6.40 and 9.30 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL

H. G. Wells' "The Man Who Could Work Miracles"

The brilliant Alexander Korda—H. G. Wells partnership which was responsible for "Things To Come" has now turned its attention to comedy. The result can be seen at the Capitol Theatre where "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" is showing today until Friday night as bill No. 1.

Following the vivid drama and grim prophecies of "Things To Come," filmgoers will receive a pleasant surprise in "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," which ranks as one of the funniest and most spectacular comedies ever produced. Roland Young in the leading role gives a grand performance in the light, whimsical vein for which he is famous.

George McWhirter Fotheringay is a humble drapery assistant, who suddenly finds himself possessed of the power to work miracles. He starts in a small way by producing rabbits and commanding tables and chairs to float in space. But he becomes more ambitious. Failing foul of the local constable, he banishes the worthy to Hades.

Various people try to exploit Fotheringay's remarkable gift. His employer sees great business opportunities by exploiting him; the vicar, his scepticism shaken when Fotheringay produces a raging tiger upon his drawing-room hearthrug, is fired with a zealous enthusiasm to reform the world. Fotheringay becomes embarrassed and confused, and after the Squire tries unsuccessfully to shoot him, he decides to take a hand in his own destiny. With a sweep of his hand he conjures up a magnificent palace to which he summons all the ruling powers of the world. He becomes intoxicated with power and in a thrilling climax calls upon the earth to stop rotating. That is the end of Fotheringay's reign, for the gods take away his miraculous power, and he is left as he was before—an insignificant nobody.

"It Could Happen To You"

The average citizen goes about his daily business confident of his own safety—and the safety of those he loves—from the power of malignant evil. However, it is possible for tragedy to descend with stunning suddenness upon the most ordinary man, induced by circumstances beyond his control which propel him to destruction faster than any avalanche.

These things could happen to anybody.... They could happen to you!

Republic has marshalled the seething drama of these predestined most appropriately "It Could Happen To You," now playing at the Capitol as bill No. 2.

Abq Baxter turns in a blue ribbon performance as Bob Ames, the weak-willed young man, whose very weakness is part of the charm which ultimately destroys him. He contracts to buy a school to educate the foreign-born for citizenship. To pay for this school he decides to secretly "borrow" six hundred dollars from his foster father, a kindly old fashionedtown owner, named Max Barrett, who is father of his best friend, Fred.

In the midst of this half-robbery, Barrett is killed, and Professor Schwab, the former owner of the school, learns of Bob's implication in the crime. Schwab, a semi-lunatic with the lust for power, completely dominates Bob from that moment on, turning him from a pleasant, easy-going chap into one too scrupulous morals, to a vicious criminal.

PARALYSIS EBBING OFFICIALS BELIEVE

Number of New Cases Declines, Reports Show

By The Canadian Press

Health officials believe the infantile paralysis epidemic which has spread across Canada since June is retreating thanks largely to cool Autumn weather. Each day brings reports of new cases, but their number is declining.

The Ontario Department of Health will launch 10 medical depots for rehabilitation of sufferers crippled by the disease, Facilities of the Department, now that spread of infection is believed halted, will be sent towards cure. Splints and other apparatus to overcome paralysis will be provided where necessary.

Yesterday Toronto, hardest hit community in the country, reported eight new cases in 24 hours. Elsewhere in Ontario, Windsor reported two, Cobourg one, Port Colborne one, St. Thomas one, Lindsay one, and Hamilton two. Two new cases appeared in Montreal schools, and New Brunswick found three new cases.

A girl who attended the Student Christian Movement Conference at Lake Couchiching, Ont., Sept. 11-18 contracted the disease, and Ontario health officials were laboriously sought out 30 Toronto people who might have come into contact with her. All are under quarantine. Addresses of those from outside Toronto who attended the conference have been obtained, and health officers in their locality warned of the danger of infection.

Regnaud, Ont., Sept. 23—(CP)—Health authorities of Richmond Township bordering north of here last night decided to close all Township schools after 4 in view of the appearance of infantile paralysis in Espanola.

THE WEATHER
Moderate to locally windy winds; fair and warm. Saturday, fresh southwest to northwest winds; partly cloudy with scattered thunderstorms; cooler by night.

U. S. FLEET TO REMAIN IN CHINESE WATERS

Formal Notice Stands Until Controversy of China and Japan Ends

Needed For Protection of American Nationals In China

BOARD MEET

Chinese General Claims U. S. Under Treaty to Assist China

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP) — The United States Navy served formal notice today that the Asiatic fleet will remain in Chinese waters "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

This statement was issued by the Navy Department as a formal announcement of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, Commander-in-Chief of the Asiatic Squadron. It was made public after a meeting of the Navy General Board, highest policy-making body of the Navy Department.

Fall Sentence

The admiral's announcement said the navy's policy of maintaining warships at ports where needed for the protection of American nationals "will continue in force, even after our nationals have been warned to leave and after an opportunity to leave has been given."

The navy made its announcement of policy while officials studied, without public comment, the utterances today of the Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. The Chinese leader asserted the United States was under treaty obligations to assist his country in its strife with Japan.

Another phase of the conflict, the question of America's attitude toward any new demands territorial claims in China interested informed observers in Washington today.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. E. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Amazing quality of water! We ordinarily do not think of water as having any unusual quality. In weather it is there once in very great.

Large masses of water like the ocean store up heat capacities of heat in summer and let it out slowly in winter not changing its own temperature much. (Of course, it absorbs some in winter and gives off greatly lessens the extremes of heat and cold over the areas. The reason: Water has high specific heat; that is, it has a high capacity for heat. It takes more heat to make water rise in heat than any other common substance. Enough heat to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree will warm up one pound of copper 11 degrees.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP)—Pressure is high over the western half of the Dominion and the eastern area centred with a moderately deep disturbance centred over Northwestern Ontario.

The weather has been cool in the western provinces with rain in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Lake Superior District, and fair and warm from Southern Ontario to the Maritime provinces.

Lake Superior—Fresh to strong southwest to northwest winds; mostly cloudy with scattered showers; cooler tonight, Saturday, fresh to northwest winds; mostly cloudy and cool; probably some showers over east portion.

Manitoba—Fresh to strong northwest winds; cloudy and cool with scattered showers. Saturday, northwest to west winds; fair and cool.

Saskatchewan — Fresh northwest winds; mostly fair and cool.

Alberta—Fair and cool. Saturday, fair and a little warmer.

SCHOOL BD. MEETS

Trenton, Sept. 24 (Special)—Joyce Link, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Link, of Henry Street, Trenton, developed infantile paralysis, the paralysis setting in on Thursday. The victim will be taken to Kingston General Hospital and placed in the "iron lung."

This is the first case of this epidemic disease in Trenton. The Link family of the ill child has been placed in quarantine and several contacts are being investigated.

A meeting of the Trenton School Board to be held late today to consider the matter of closing the schools of this town for two weeks.

CAPTAIN DENIES SIGHTING YACHT

Says Radio Message That Endeavour II Was Found Not Correct

London, Sept. 24 (AP)—Fears for the crew of the missing yacht Endeavour II were allayed today when a message from the captain of the steamer Bretagne declared he had sighted the missing yacht off the Azores.

The tense denial of previous reports that the yacht was aground reached a tragic climax in the celebration at the illite fishing village of Tolmarry, where the new home of members of Endeavour's crew live.

Undeterred, however, Lloyds in London had also received the news joyfully. The historic Lutine Bell in the great hall of Lloyds rang twice signifying good news all see, and an old man in a scarlet coat had announced:

"Gentlemen, we're advised from the Azores that the Endeavour has been sighted."

Then to Joyful England came the radio from the Amazra's master:

"Hearing in broadcast from London that the Amazra had sighted the yacht Endeavour I, I feel deeply grieved to say that I have not sighted anything whatever about her and gravely deplore the statement made."

NOT POSSIBLE TO DELETE RESOURCES

Unlimited Supply of Timber in North Says Hepburn

By C. P. Stuart Wolfe

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Depletion of Northern Ontario's great timber resources is impossible, Premier Mitchell Hepburn asserted here last night.

If an army of men started cutting their way through to Hudson Bay by the end of time, he declared they could start over again on second growth, he told a campaign meeting here.

Millions of acres of new timber would become accessible when work was completed on the Ontario-to-Long Lac waters from the Hudson Bay watershed, Mr. Hepburn said. He said, when that timber was cut it would be replaced through reforestation program.

Hon. Dr. Faulkner Praised For Work in Health Dep't

Mrs. Thorburn, O.B.E., Says Services Best in Many Years

REGIME BUSINESSLIKE

"Do you know that the Hon. Dr. Faulkner was one of the first candidates for whom I agreed to speak in this election?" said Mrs. Thorburn, O.B.E., of Oshawa, prominent philanthropist and social worker speaking before the Liberal women of Bellerills at the Liberal Club rooms last evening in the interest of Dr. J. A. Faulkner, candidate in this riding for the Legislature in the approaching general election.

Dr. Faulkner's Work Praised

"I want to say that the Department of Health has been better served in the past three years by the Hon. Dr. Faulkner than it was for the previous fifteen years," Mrs. Thorburn declared, "and to the tuberculosis clinics which have been established by the Minister of Health. "Now instead of one as before, there are now seven and are getting back to normal and to Dr. Faulkner must go the credit for the work."

That some persons in Toronto had waited to keep this vital outbreak of infantile paralysis, she stated had been kept locked out, and one of the Ottawa papers declared Faulkner will not stand for that."

"And Dr. Faulkner did not stand for it," affirmed Mrs. Thorburn. "Those are two things to the which we in this province are very grateful to Dr. Faulkner."

Two Russian Generals Vanish in French Capital

Skobline And De Miller, En igres From Russia, Had Served in Dead Czar's Armies—One Theory is Men May Have Been S pirited Away

Paris, Sept. 24 (AP)—Agents of the Surete Nationale, hunting clues to the whereabouts of two vanished generals of the dead Czar Nicholas' scattered army, took the wife of one of them to headquarters for questioning today.

The authorities had been unable to find the woman, known professionally as Mme. Plevitzkaia, since before noon yesterday when she had reported her husband, General Nicholas Skoblina, mysteriously missing.

Wife Is Questioned.

Skoblina was an aide of the aged General Eugene De Miller, leader of the thousands of Russian emigres, who dropped out of sight Wednesday.

Surete inspectors, who had searched the Skoblina apartment, found the General's wife near Rue Falguiere in the Bois de Boulogne vicinity.

Then she left her apartment yesterday she was reported to have said she was going to see a dressmaker, has a reputation as a concert singer among the Paris emigres.

The case was the latest of a series of international mysteries that have plagued French authorities since Jean de Kovers, an American dancer visiting Paris, disappeared in July 32.

Police investigators continued to pick their way through a bumper harvest of intrigue, including reports that both a railway tunnel at Orchere on the French-Spanish frontier and a plot to steal a Spanish government submarine at Brest.

Explosion At Brest.

An explosion occurred early today along Rue Halevy in the heart of Paris. A garage containing several gallons of oil and explosives, police said, was left in the gutter. When watchmen and street cleaners came in contact with the bomb it exploded but caused no important damage.

A major phase of the inquiry into the disappearance of the two gen'ls was concentrated at Le Havre, where Surete agents were checking a report that Miller and Skoblina might have been spirited away on a Soviet Russian freighter.

J. Barrymore Credits Wife with His Success

Hollywood, Sept. 24.—(AP)—John Barrymore is back at work because "I met the most fifty". He referred to Elaine Barrie.

In four months, John has been in four pictures, done a half dozen radio performances and has settled down to hard work.

"A race horse that has won a lot of races looks haughty toward spending his teething days at pasture," John said today. "Well, I went to pasture and there I met the nicest filly.

"She said to me, 'You look pretty good yet. How about winning some more races?' And I said, 'Sure, I've won enough races. I'm tired.' Then you know how it is when you're termined fil—er I mean, woman."

Barrymore, "Great Lover," the ladies' idol and matinee star, gives entire credit for his amazing comeback to his latest flame, Elaine Barrie, the schoolgirl who interviewed him, married him, starred him, deserted him, sued him and made up with him.

Col. C. G. Williams Assails Hepburn Administration

BRITISH TRADE

Point Anne, Sept. 24—"If selling liquor for profit is one of the basic principles of Canada, Colonel C. G. Williams, Toronto, said today, it is time we took an axe and destroyed the principle. Liquor is one of the greatest curses Ontario ever had. And you will realize this when you take into consideration the seventy millions spent on liquor during the past three years and the women's beverage rooms where women and young girls imbibe the craving for liquor," Colonel C. G. Williams, Toronto, told a large crowd in the Parish Hall here last night in a spirited address in the interests of Dr. Ernest Marshall, Conservative candidate for East Hastings.

Mr. George A. White, Conservative organizer for the riding and the candidate also addressed the gathering which was presided over by Mr. Herbert Sheldon, Ward Chairman. Interspersing the address were vocal solos by Mrs. William Daily, nine-year-old Olive Reid and recitations by Mrs. Arthur Gleeson. Following the meeting dancing was indulged in until in late hours.

From Labor Standpoint

A former sailor in the British Navy and later a laboring man on the farms of Canada, Colonel Williams pointed out that it was well qualified to speak on the labor question and from the labor point are sa... ...ndamus Hurew Sun under a system that is Communistic. He said in his opening remarks, "During my tenure in the British Navy I had an opportunity to view the far-flung parts of the British Empire and could see for myself the strength, stability and might of its integral parts. Years ago I served on the rice of the union of Great Britain and their various ports in the strength of which link depends the might of the chain. SISTERS, COUSIN DIE IN CRASH

Reunion of Two Groups Followed by Accident on Scenic Route

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 24 (CP)—Reunion of two groups of sisters related as cousins, ended in death for three and injury to two others when their sightseeing automobile crashed off one of the scenic roads winding through the Capilano Estates, suburban West Vancouver property, project under development.

Mrs. Samuel Thornbury who left her Perth, Ont., home to attend the wedding of her niece, Muriel Morris last Saturday, was killed when the car went out of control yesterday and overturned four times at the bottom of a steep grade.

Mrs. T. W. Hogg of Vancouver, sister to Mrs. Thornbury, and Mrs. Robert Smith of Perth, Ont., cousin, died en route to hospital. The three were thrown through the roof of the car.

Miss Jill Graham of Los Angeles, Mrs. McBeth's sister, and bereaved driver of the car, suffered injuries. She was injured. Mrs. F. A. Cleland, wife of, a Vancouver real estate broker, sister of Mrs. Hogg and Mrs. Thornbury, received minor injuries.

Hon. Earl Rowe Says He Would Substitute Option-al System

By C. P. Staff Writer

Galt, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP)—Election of a Conservative government at the Oct. 8 Ontario voting will bring to an end the compulsory five-cent levy on cheese producers to maintain the Canada-United Kingdom Agreement, Hon. Earl Rowe declared in addresses yesterday.

He promised the Conservative Agricultural policy and also his party's intentions in a series of three meetings rooms. In the afternoon he addressed a Woodstock meeting and in the evening spoke at Galt. Today he speaks in Listowel and Kincardine.

Mr. Rowe declared he would be supplanted by an optional system, said Mr. Rowe in Woodstock at the

JOINT RIDING MEETING

Facing perhaps one of the most appreciative audiences he has yet addressed in the present campaign tour of Ontario ridings as speaker in the Conservative cause, Hon. Wm. Finlayson, K.C., Attorney at Prince of Wales School, College Hill, last evening was forced to extend his time limit in his complete resume of the present administration and the attitude of the present government toward the strikers in the city of which he is chief magistrate. Sharing all previous records for attendance within the memory of the oldest elector present, last evening's meeting was a joint one at which candidates for the Conservative ridings of East and West Hastings were privileged to speak briefly, their addresses shortened owing to the necessity of covering more than one location in the single evening.

Challenging Speech

And it was upon the insistence of his handclapping, cheering audience, displaying the same enthusiasm that had been shown each candidate, Richard D. Arnott of this city for West Hastings, and H. R. Welsh of Roslin for East Hastings, that he was induced to challenge Mayor Hall to extend his fiery, challenging speech to include many points not originally attended.

Introduced by Mr. John Reynolds, president of the Trenton Conservative Association, and chairman of proceedings at many Hall speeches, he pointed to the present campaign as being a direct result of the present East Hastings by-election. "We're going to repeat that, too. This time it will be a provincial one, however."

Mayor Hall learned that his address would not be in the nature of a political speech; merely an exposition of many things unknown to newspapers at the time of the Oshawa trouble merely because to or

Peace Thru Arrangement With Britain and France Says Report at Munich

Russia Not Included in Plans of Hitler And Mussolini

LIKE OLD LOCARNO

Proposal Said to Omit Inclusion of Belgium

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER

Munich, Germany, Sept. 24 (AP)—Informed sources disclosed today Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler have agreed to make a powerful appeal for peace when they speak Tuesday at the close of a huge demonstration in Munich.

Mussolini, en route to Munich today for special train for what is regarded in diplomatic circles as a highly important meeting with Hitler, has said to have completed his speech on the subject.

Peace May Speak In German

Italians in position to know said Mussolini first wrote the speech in Italian; then rewrote it in German. He speaks German fluently, having learned it while a bricklayer in the German section of Switzerland and, later, while in the Austrian jail at Trento, in the years before rise to power in Italy.

The speech, as it stands, probably will be made in German, although Mussolini may change back to Italian, these informants said.

Hitler, who already has arrived in Munich to greet Mussolini at the railroad station tomorrow morning, and the Italian leader were represented as having in mind the establishment of peace through some arrangement with Great Britain and France, according to information available in diplomatic circles here.

Soviet Russia Not Included.

However, their plans do not include the participation of Soviet Russia.

The arrangement might be between Premier Mussolini and Hitler and Mussolini reportedly being willing to enter into such a program.

It was said the new lineup of Locarno accord members would have to be the same as that of the old Locarno Pact. The only change in which they would agree being the inclusion of Belgium, which declared its neutral status, and the omission of the Rhineland clause, out of date now.

This version was taken to mean that Germany would not have to reject the British idea of a Northern Locarno embracing Great Britain, France and Germany, and a Southern Locarno embracing France, Italy and Germany.

ORDERED TO SURRENDER

Peiping, Sept. 24 (AP)—Japanese today surrounded the strategic Chinese base of Paotingfu, 90 miles south of here, and issued an ultimatum ordering the surrender tomorrow. The Japanese command reported the 50-foot walls of the ancient city of 100,000 people had been breached in a dawn attack.

Fugitive Trappers Surrender to Police

Edmonton, Sept. 24 (CP)—A prolonged man hunt through the wild hinterland of northeastern British Columbia in which airplanes were used by police posses to capture the fugitive trio ended today with the surrender of two trappers, wanted in connection with the theft of $34,000 for robbery at the Hudson's Bay Company Fort Nelson, post two years ago.

The trappers, who boasted during their visit to Fort St. John when police were absent that they would "never be captured alive," walked into Fort Nelson yesterday, after being harried by police close on their heels for two weeks, and gave themselves up. Names of the men were not yet known here.

Fort Nelson is in the northeast corner of British Columbia, 360 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Paralysis Abating

Only Seven New Cases Reported Yesterday

(By the Canadian Press)

Health officials throughout Canada plan to maintain vigilance against spread of the infantile paralysis across the Dominion for some time yet despite encouraging reports of waning.

"There appears to be a marked decline," Dr. H. E. McClelland, Ontario Deputy Minister of Health, at Toronto said, "but we must not be overstruck with greatest force. New cases in the Ontario capital are small in numerous as last week. Only seven were reported yesterday.

Britain Considers Protest over Canton

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

London, Sept. 24 (CP-Cable) Great Britain is considering a new protest to Japan against the horrors of Canton.

When Japan announced its intention to bomb Nanking, the Chinese capital, Britain made strong formal representations in Tokyo. The British objective was to have the safety of sanitary air projectiles.

In a note to Great Britain protesting the ban on the British Ambassador in China, Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen received gave assurance that instructions had been issued to airmen to take the greatest care not to attack non-combatants.

Protest 'Won't Deter' Japan at Nanking

New York, Sept. 24—(CP)—The New York Herald Tribune today said the last United States protest to Tokyo—in connection with the Chinese-Japanese fighting—would "no more deter the Japanese authorities" than the protests of 1931 when the seizure of Manchuria.

One more big newspaper said editorially the American Government has gone on record in order to refer to a later policy of Japan. The list is impressive, it added, listing protests from 1905 when the United States "took its lead in inducing Japan to make peace with Russia" to the note of Secretary of State Stimson protesting the Japanese occupation.

"There is no doubt that the latest note of Secretary Hull (Cordell Hull) expressing the hope that Nanking will not be bombed violates the moral sentiment of the world," the Herald Tribune continued.

COW KICKS HEADLIGHT OFF OF MOTOR CAR

When cows have their rights on the highways, and at least one "Jersey" refused to be moved from her side of the road without an argument, a motorist, driving along the Belleville-Trenton highway found to his sorrow yesterday.

Driving in the midst of the herd as it crossed the highway, the driver gently but firmly shoved one of the cows out of the way with the fender of his car. But he did not reckon with the cow's "compunction." The indignant bovine promptly kicked out with a protesting hind leg and removed the glass and rim from one of the car's headlights. Then placidly chewing their cud the herd moved peacefully along to their pasture leaving a more or less indignant motorist picking up the remains of a shattered headlight.

Inspector J. L. Savoie, R.C.M.P., headquarters, Ottawa, visited Sergeant Thos. Moore, R.C.M.P., Brockville division, were in Belleville, today making their quarterly inspection of the local detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under L. C. J. C. McPhee.

TWO CARS DAMAGED IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Two automobiles were badly damaged in a head-on collision on the Bethenerville road last night, but no personal injuries were sustained by the occupants of either vehicle. Ken Weese, Rossmore, was proceeding westward in the Bethenerville road, about two miles west of Rossmore at 10.00 p.m. last evening, when another motor car, driven in the opposite direction by George Knowles, R.C.A.F., collided with the front of Weese's vehicle. The force of the impact caused the Knowles-driven vehicle to hurtle over a ditch, through a wire fence and come to rest in a nearby farmer's field. The left front wheels axle, fender and running boards of both vehicles were damaged beyond repair. Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien, who investigated the accident, stated today that charges were pending in the case, following an interview with Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C.

TOURIST BUSINESS STILL REMAINS GOOD

Tourists have not yet deserted the country in spite of the advancing season, now that all camps at northern lakes in the county been closed and deserted, according to reports from highway observers. Number of tourists passing through the city is holding up much better than for some time past. It is noted by the Log Bumpkin Commerce. Local store keepers also report business with United States visitors keeping up fairly well.

R.C.A.F. BAND MAY PLAY SERIES CONCERTS HERE DURING WINTER

According to latest information received in the Belleville circles, Belleville residents will so given the privilege of hearing concerts during this winter by the R.C.A.F. band from the camp at Trenton. It is expected that Belleville band on the other hand will reciprocate by holding a series of concerts at the Air Camp at Trenton.

Stranded Motorcyclist Is Given a Helping Hand by Local Man

There are some Good Samaritans left in this world, at least so thinks Joseph Reilly, Montreal, motorcyclist, who discovered this fact yesterday afternoon when Mr. Albert Martin, 314 Church Street, drove down to the Belleville-Trenton highway yesterday afternoon and saw a motorcycle repairing to him at the roadside, he thought nothing of it. But when he returned two hours later and saw the same chap in the same spot he stopped to investigate. Reilly it appears, left Montreal Monday morning without food and with but little gasoline. Near Belleville, the machine he had built recently purchased broke down. His efforts at repairing proving fruitless he sat down disconsolately by the side of his machine. Hungry he eagerly accepted Martin's offer to push the machine to Belleville and partake of a meal. Nothing daunted and firm in his efforts to reach Toronto where he claims he has relatives Reilly refused the offer of strong cents and swung out on the highway to hitch-hike the balance of the journey. "I'll be back for the bike later", he sang out as he swung toward the broad highway.

POLICE BLOTTER

Found abandoned on the Cannifton Road a dilapidated Chevrolet coach, bearing Ontario markers number J-J-726 was taken into the custody of the police this morning. City engineers, busied at cleaning the streets, informed the police of the abandoned vehicle. The car had been in the same position for two days, it was learned. The owner's identity will be traced through the licence plate numbers, police stated.

Patrick Longhurst; Bay Bridge Road, reported the finding of a sail boat in the Bay of Quinte yesterday. The craft had apparently broken away from its moorings and was found afloat east of the Bay Bridge. It is a blue colored craft and is believed to have drifted out of the Belleville harbour.

Local police raided an alleged gambling house in Belleville yesterday. No arrests were made, although the name of the "found its" were taken and a large quantity of red back forms confiscated. Summonses will be issued in the matter, police intimated today.

Activities in and around the police station were quite tranquil last night, the only disturbance of the peace of the night resulting from the peaceful slumbers of two transients, who sought sleeping quarters at the police station.

Considerable commotion was seen at the intersection of Victoria Ave., and Pinnacle Street yesterday afternoon where a quantity of tar was spilled on the pavement. Employees of the Public Works Department soon covered the slippery street with sand, making motor vehicle progress safe. The wet slippery tar made braking facilities rather dangerous at the intersection for some considerable time, however.

JURY ATTACHES NO BLAME ON TRUCK DRIVER

Death of Fit. Lieut. C. Morrison Purely Accidental, Inquest Finds

That Flight Lieut. Claude Morrison late of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, came to his death in the Belleville General Hospital on September 15th as the result of personal injuries sustained on Sept. 10th last when a motor car operated by the deceased accidentally collided with an eastbound truck, driven by Basil Kurenski, on Highway No. 2, was the coroner's jury verdict submitted at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of Flight Lieut. Morrison held at the Police Court rooms before Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson last evening.

During the course of the investigation, conducted by R. D. Donnan K.C., local Crown Attorney, Motorcycle Patrolman J. L. Whitby, Trenton, who investigated the accident, testified that the late Flight Lieut. Morrison had stated to him before witnesses in the Belleville General Hospital on the day following the accident, that he "apparently a tire on his (Morrison) car had blown. This caused him to lost control of the car. Mr. Morrison also told Officer Whitby he was travelling fast and the approaching truck was on its own side of the road. He turned in his car to the driver of the truck," stated Constable Whitby in evidence.

Heard Crash

Sergeant-Major Wilberly, R.C.A.F. was the first witness called. "I was walking home and heard a crash to the west of me. I ran towards the noise and saw a truck stopped on the south side of the road. A little further along I found a car, badly damaged and a man lying alongside it. The driver exclaimed the man as Flight Lieut. Morrison," stated witness.

"Was he conscious", asked Mr. Donnan. "No, sir," was the reply of the witness who added, that the motor car was on the north side of the road and in a badly damaged condition. E. Holoban, R.C.M.C., corroborated this evidence.

Basil Kurenski, Ottawa trucker, stated he was driving along at only a moderate rate of speed. "I saw a motor vehicle coming towards me with its bright lobbing lights. I signalled for the "dims" but they were not given me. I took what I considered well to my right hand side of the road, but the approaching vehicle was on the side of my truck. I immediately stopped my truck and ran back the highway where my co-driver and I found a man stumped over the wheel of a car. I was unconscious and we lifted him out and unloosened his collar. Later the police arrived on the scene," stated the witness.

"Could you have done anything else to avoid this accident?" asked Mr. Donnan. "Only by driving into the ditch. I will not run over on my own side of the road," stated Mr. Kurenski. Corroborative evidence by Officer Whitby corroborated this statement.

Badly Injured

Motorcycle Patrolman J. Whitby stated that upon his arrival at the scene of the accident the injured man had been removed to the hospital. He examined the damaged vehicles and found the truck had been struck on the left side of somewhat back of the cab driver's door," stated the witness as he later related his interview he conducted with the deceased man in the hospital on the eleventh instant. He did not appear to be critically injured at that time, added the witness.

Dr. G. H. Noble, attending physician, told of the cause of death, a ruptured kidney and a paralyzed bowel, at the preliminary inquest. The coroner's jury, impanelled by Sergeant Arthur Booth, consisted of A. R. Schryver, foreman; M. McCaughin, J. Hamilton, G. Hammett, J. McCarthy, J. W. Barlow, T. Cushing, and D. Alderman.

His late residence was at 59 Gladstone Avenue, Toronto. He is survived by his widow Isabel (Rose Hall) Tate; two daughters, Mrs. P. R. Langford, Toronto, and Miss J. Tate, Los Angeles, California; one brother Mr. Alfred O. Tate, New York City, and one sister, Miss L. Tate, Toronto.

Interment will be made at Peterboro on Saturday.

WILLIAM KELSO

As the result of a stroke which he suffered on Monday last, William Kelso, who had made his home at 87 Dundas Street, for some time, passed away at the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 23rd. The deceased, who was in his 68th year, was born in the Province of Ontario and resided in this city for the past forty five years, being for many years a competent thamtith in the employ of the John Lewis & Co. Ltd. He had not been regularly employed owing to age and failing health. He was connected by all his home life in religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church and fraternally he was a member of the Orange Order. He leaves a widow and several nieces and one nephew.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper. The body is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home.

Alleged Gambling House Raided by Local Police

Raiding an alleged gambling house, local police laid charges of unlawfully keeping a gaming house against a resident, of this city, after finding horse racing forms and other alleged "tipster" material at 19 Bell Bridge Street, yesterday afternoon. Three local men were found on the premises with the result that "found in" charges were preferred against the trio today.

Following complaint received Sergeants Arthur Harman, Arthur Booth, Detective Fred Isard and P. C. Arnott timed their appearance to endeavour arriving at the suspected premises when it was thought the final hookups of the day would have been received. The authorities experienced little difficulty in gaining entrance, the door of the premises being open.

Police say that a large quantity of horse racing literature, racing forms and betting slips were found secreted behind a large picture in the premises. A large amount of cash was found on the alleged proprietor of the gaming house.

Today in local police court held before Magistrate R. D. Donnan K.C., the man appeared charged with keeping a common gaming house. The accused man did not plead to the charge, his counsel, H. J. Arnold, local barrister stating his client was not ready to proceed at this time. The case was enlarged until October 8th, upon mutual consent of Mr. Arnott and Crown Attorney Donnan K.C. The "found in" charges received the same consideration.

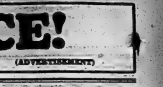
Belleville Merchants Have Ambitious Program For Brilliant Christmas Season

A meeting of the executive of the Belleville branch Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was held in the Y.M.C.A. Thursday night with President Richard Hennessy, in the chair, Past President Russell Woodley acting as secretary in the absence of Secretary W. J. Doyle because of illness. Various matters of interest to the merchants of Belleville were taken up, including Christmas lighting of the business section. This was discussed as some length and an ambitious program outlined which will have the support of the City Council and City Engineer. Final arrangements were left in the hands of a committee.

In the matter of the early closing by-law complaints were received that several stores are disregarding the by-law and keeping open during prohibited hours in the evening. Appropriate action will be taken on this matter.

A district meeting of retail merchants will be held in Belleville, October 13, sponsored by the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Ontario branch, the Belleville branch co-operating as host. It is expected that a large number of retail merchants from the entire Bay of Quinte district will attend the conference. The matter was introduced by Laurie Lewis, President of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Ontario branch, a member of the Belleville associate, and he was assured the hearty co-operation of the local association.

POLICE COURT



"You're the chap I let out of jail on your own recognizance and who failed to show up for your trial and appear in court, aren't you?" asked Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan K.C., of William Barnes, Niagara Falls, when the latter appeared before Magistrate R. D. Donnan K.C., in today's police court.

"Yes, Sir," replied Barnes, who was facing charges of theft of a Morris sedan, the property of Fr. J. Reid Sidney, and also of a Chrysler sedan, the property of John Mosher, Marysville. Barnes pleaded not guilty to both charges and was remanded in custody for one week, the Provincial Police being unable to proceed with their case today.

Barnes was brought back to Belleville from his native Niagara Falls following his arrest upon the execution of a bench warrant issued for his apprehension from a local court.

Robert Johnson, transient, appeared charged with intoxication and pleaded guilty as charged. "I've got a job to go to the first of the month" pleaded the accused before sentence was passed.

"You've been in this court on several occasions before and always give the same story. There can be no leniency in your case. Fifteen days in the common jail," stated His Worship. The same sentence was meted out to Charles Williamson, alleged companion of Johnson.

SAYS 'HUSSARS'

have forged a chain that has steadily grown in strength throughout the years."

Says C.I.O. Not Labor Union

"The C.I.O. is not a labor union", continued the speaker. "It came here with a perfect right in the Interests of Labor, and what did it need. Hepburn recruited his now famous Hussars to give strength to a myth, a situation that never existed. And wisdom has been shown by the Labor class of Ontario in shouting in stentorian tones, condemnation of Hepburn and his policy. We are passing through strenuous times and if ever there was a time that we needed sane men at the helm it is now, and the next few years. We need men capable of holding firm the spokes of the wheel; men who can bar the compass of Labor and other associations that go to make up the very life of our country. There never was a time we needed men to pull a strong oar in the ship of state, as at the present."

Last December's Fight

"Fast Hastings brings to mind other historic battles", claimed Colonel Williams, "but the battle waged here last December when Premier Hepburn to be waging a losing fight. Better he had learned there is a future for those who repent. If we ever get away from the principles of true democracy we have sounded the death-knell of the Empire".

Speaking from the viewpoint of a British born subject, Col. Williams stated that "Canada was the land of his adoption. I came to Canada in 1911 and secured work on a dairy farm. I studied the political situation then," he said, "and made my choice, and I have had no reason to change my opinion because down through the years I felt that the Conservative banner was the banner to get a square deal for all. What is Democracy? It is that thing that gives to the individual the greatest amount of liberty consistent with the well-being of the community. If it slips away, as it may as well pull the oakum from the seams of the ship of state and let it sink into the waves of dictatorship or some equally evil thing".

Why Ask For Mandate?

"Mr. Hepburn was sworn to uphold law and order", Colonel Williams said, "What right had he to ask the people for a mandate for the very things he is supposed to do? If we allow a man who chooses, to destroy our personal liberty and democracy, we have taken a keen axe to destroy that which we cannot replace. There is no place outside of British Empire that has the same democratic liberties and privileges that we have."

Graphically describing in detail the "greatest market in the world, the Great Market of London, England", the speaker stated that there "he saw acres upon acres of Canadian beef, eggs, butter, and hundreds of other products of Ontario. There in the showrooms of the British Empire, Ontario products are viewed by the population of a city of fifteen millions, who constantly clamored for Ontario's products. Yet when Hepburn took office, he closed this great market to Ontario for the sake of a cost of $38,000. Ontario lost millions through this act", declared the speaker.

Restore Ontario Rose

"Mr. Rowe will bring back this great market back to the producers of Ontario," he said, "and restore one of the vital connecting links that knit the people of the Empire together."

"Mr. Hepburn is too light a man for the heavy job of managing the Province of Ontario. Patriotism is not just the mere waving of flags and shouting. It is a passion of uplift and it behooves all of us to get out and follow the example of the people of East Hastings in the fine fight they waged on December 9. Elect Earl Rowe and sound a new note for Ontario."

Premier Hepburn is asking a mandate of the people on three questions of Succession Duties Act, the C.I.O. and a maintenance of the police. Instead Mr. George White, Conservative organizer of Metro, declares Hepburn will be his downfall, he has made mistakes and has admitted doing so. He does not need a mandate to carry out what is his solemn obligation to do. The present session that he says he has collected in Succession Duties during his regime are pure imagination. Here are the exact figures," said Mr. White, "during the 1930 the Conservative Government collected eleven millions, while in 1936 the Liberal government collected the same amount. In the period from 1930 to 1934 the Conservative government collected nearly thirty-five millions of dollars while in the same period of time the present administration has collected but thirty-one millions.

Claims C.I.O. Bogey Created

Referring to the C.I.O. question the speaker charged that during the Oshawa strike the Premier seized the opportunity to draw a veil over his other activities and created the C.I.O. bogey. "He wants you to believe Labor is composed of Communists, and Fascists, but remember, there was not a single disorder in Oshawa. At that time Hepburn offered to form a Union Government with the Hon. Earl Rowe to combat a crisis that did not exist. He wanted to create a bogey to fool the public into forgetting the Separate School question."

"He has admitted that he cannot keep the C.I.O. out of Ontario and in so doing has adopted the policy of the Hon. Earl Rowe."

"Did he ask for a mandate to amend the Separate School Act?" asked Mr. White. "He did not, and remember that the act is still in force and that this year taxes will be diverted from the Public Schools fund to the Separate Schools. In Belleville alone the amount diverted will be $900.00. Ottawa runs into thousands. The total diverted will be nearly $300,000. He did not ask for a mandate to discharge returned soldiers, to operate his beverage rooms; or to repudiate his Hydro contracts."

"It has been brought to my attention as a charge that people receiving the Old Age Pension and Mothers Allowance have been told how to vote by the party. As the organizer of the Conservative party I state that that is absolutely false. We have no agents doing work like that. People receiving these pensions need have no worry to the future as far as we are concerned."

Liquor Policy

Charging that the government liquor policy was designed for profit only the speaker said that many of the liquor stores should not and will be closed after Oct. 6th.

Stating that he was coming back to the electors of East Hastings with the same principles that won victory for him in the East Hastings by-election, Dr. Harold Welsh, Conservative candidate for the riding said that the issues were much the same as then. "I never bolted on the Premier of Ontario and the premiers of any other province, that any mandate brought from the people must have their wishes through their franchise. "My stand on the school question is exactly the same as I do repeatedly. It is important question. If he does what is right he will be accused of doubly betraying the Separate School supporters and using them as a political football. If he promises to do something then it is right to know what it is. My stand is 100 percent behind the present Public School system of Ontario."

Says East Hastings Proud

"The people of East Hastings are justly proud of the great service they did for Ontario on Dec. 9th last, when they hail a great blow to dictatorship in the province and established one of the landmarks for the preservation of British institutions."

"The Premier comes to you advertised as the 'Man of the Hour' declared Dr. Welsh." "But he omitted to say what hour. It is the eleventh hour that he comes to you for election both as a leader and policy of twenty-five millions. There is not a centre in the province whose machinery is not working in an effort to catch votes. He says he will take liquor out of politics. Another eleventh hour stand, after 17 years of maladministration."

"The hospitals of the province are in a shabby condition", continued the speaker, "and are unable to accommodate over three thousand patients badly in need of treatment. Now he proposes to build hospitals and sanatoria in the I have the proof by affidavit," he said.

Calls Subsidy a Joke

"The one mill subsidy is a joke, and nothing more than an election bribe. It amounts to fifty cents on every five hundred dollars."

"The Conservative party have no idea of intimidating those who draw Old Age Pensions and Mothers' Allowances into voting for them as was done by the opposition in the by-election last December", stated Dr. Welsh. "I charge it, and I have the proof by affidavit," he said.

Charging that a surplus of $25,000 owing to the users of the Belleville Power Co., in Thurlow Township had been absorbed by the government to cover deficits in other municipalities, Dr. Welsh stated that this "should have been paid back to users in dividends. Communications to this effect written by the clerk of the township of Thurlow met with no response from the government," he said. "After the last time I took the matter up I wrote the department a registered letter and they did not even do me the courtesy of paying attention to it. The reason they did not do so is this," said Dr. Welsh, quoting from a newspaper clipping, "that the surplus was used to cover deficits in other municipalities."

School Grant Cut

"If the school grants cuts all over Hastings County are commensurate with one in the northern townships which was cut approximately $500 then Hastings County and County School grants in the neighborhood of $200,000. He billed you for $170,000 over a period of three years in spite of the fact that a solemn agreement was made between the late Hon. Rob. Cook and James Hill that the highways would not cost a cent. He doesn't tell you that he took that amount and $200,000 in school grants from you but he shouts from the house tops that he is giving you a rebate of one mill."

"I congratulate the Liberal party on their selection of Mr. Brown as candidate and I notice that he has chosen for his slogan "A farmer for the farmers." Well I think I can go him one better. I am going to look after every class of people in this riding without picking out any particular class. I was born a farmer, became a country school teacher and then a country doctor. I don't think for one minute that I have let the farmers down. I can understand his problems and I know what he is up against. You are the people who made victory possible last year and I sincerely trust that you will reflect carefully the issues at stake and will again swing the province in line for the principles of British democracy. A government that is so earnestly needed."

SAVAGERY OF MODERN WAR

There is something about modern war which would have shocked generals of old. Wars were bloody in the days of Gustavus Adolphus and Napoleon but there was something of chivalry in war until recent years. Modern man has seen to it that not only soldiers but non-combatants and civilians far away from the ordinary theatre of fighting will be in danger.

The reason of course is that today every bit of strength of a nation is pitted against every ounce of strength and resources of another. Everything of the enemy that is destroyed is counted as so much gain to the rival. In modern warfare as it was seen in the Great war the entire nation is mobilized, civilians practically as much as the warriors.

Who then escape if nations go to war? In the Orient we have an example of the modern brutality. If nations scalled Christian for many generations went to war how long would civilians be guaranteed safety?

All this shows the wrongness of war. It inflames the people with unholy thoughts of destroying others in a red slaughter. The only saving graces of war are protection, and human heroism among shot and shell and gas, which valor avails not against the deadly missile.

How long can even this heroism which can be directed in peace to noblest efforts remain civilized if a general war should break out? Chivalry seems to have gone. Perhaps the middle ages and later modern times were too conscious of the sin of war and tried to dress it up with an artificial glory. But the modern leaves war what it is and does not blush at all.

Does this mean the slipping of modern civilization, even if individuals today are kind as may be?

Man sees the awfulness of war because machines are so deadly, that there is no use trying to hide it. Modern man too may perhaps be just steeling his finer nature to the bloody task, while he hates it, though in some theatres the readiness to resort to infamous implements of war would scarcely support any opinion but that the cruelty and destruction of modern weapons make man more cruel in a bloody test. It is so terrible because it is opposed to the normal.

What is war? One of the editors of the New York Times speaks in words which grip:

"As every front line fighter knows, war is not parades. War is weary men, plodding in the rain toward a rendezvous with wounds and death. War is the shell, heard first in the distance, coming nearer, dropping shells into the marching column; war is the machine gun singing its wild music, making widows and orphans with mechanical facility; war is men rotting on the wire, the wounded dying in the shell-holes; war is the bayonet plunged into living flesh; war is the decimated, shaken column, covered with mud, tormented with vermin, haunted with the memory of the dead, standing silent while name after name is no longer answered on war is the gassed soldier the muster-roll; struggling for breath. And in these latter days war is more than this: it is the slaying of women and children; it is the bombing airplane hovering over unarmed cities; it is the airplane swooping low to spray huddled refugees with bullets. War was hell in Sharman's time. It is the deepest level of the inferno now."

It is even worse than these words tell in Shanghai and Nanking. How the world would rejoice if this were the last? If war did not come any nearer? But war is no respecter of persons or countries. It is a danger which threatens every person on earth unless men everywhere or at least enough of them make it impossible. War proves nothing, except that it is of the pit and of the devil in its origin, though the motives of combatants be the purest patriotism.

Two things create love, perfection and usefulness, to which answer, on our part, admiration and desire; and both these are centred in love.—Jeremy Taylor.

There is nothing keeps longer than a middling fortune, and nothing melts away sooner than a great one—Poverty treads on the heels of great and unexpected riches.—LaBruyere.

Nothing is so oppressive as a secret—It is difficult for ladies to keep it long; and I know in this matter, a good number of men who are women.—Fontaine.

THE PASSING PAGEANT

The Summer's past, but still the magic stays,
As Autumn, clear and golden, comes again.
A torch flung out to fire all the leaves,
Its blinding beauty shakes the heart with pain.

The feathered caravans are flying south,
Drinking the winds as they sail o'er the hills;
These golden day pass swiftly on the wing,
While Nature, with her glorious wonder, thrills.

What dreams march in the shadows as they pass
Ere Winter comes to lock with ice the door!
Elusive joys which now are of the past,—
The tragic, sensuous sweetness is no more.

—Dorothy Sproule

A LOCOMOTIVE AND BOX CAR STEAMING DOWN FIFTH AVENUE while a cannon exploded intermittently from the interior was one of the highlights of a hectic week in New York City during the occupation of that metropolis by the American Legion, veterans of the Great War, in convention assembled. Occupation is right, for every hotel was crowded to the roof and every available bed requisitioned for the vets and their families. Chance visitors to the metropolis including many Canadians were chased over to New Jersey, the overflow filling the hotels of Jersey City, Hoboken, and as far afield as Newark. A parade of eighteen hours duration tied up Fifth Avenue and halted traffic between East Side and West Side effectually. Store windows along Fifth Avenue, the route of the parade, were boarded up fearing damage from the exuberance of the paraders. The snorting locomotive pulling the armed boxcar (19 bonnets, 8 chevrons) 40 men, eight horses, was only one of the thrilling sights of the parade, for tear gas bombs were exploded and electric canes were used on mounted police horses causing them to rear and buck and behave like untamed Westerners. Any disturbance to a request from police headquarters bombs and electric canes were banned. Half a million Legionaires tied up traffic almost completely and Times Square was early captured by the visitors and held—so much so that the Times Square region from 41st to 53rd street, both on Broadway and Seventh Avenue were closed by police orders to taxis, private autos, and all other vehicles except street cars and buses until the end of the convention, and the street cars and buses certainly had their own time getting through even at snail's pace. New York entertained the Legion and the Legion entertained the New Yorkers, so much so that it will be days before the city recovers its normal tranquility, and will probably awake to the realization that if they had to chose whether to entertain the Legion again or a tornado they would probably choose the latter.

QUITE ALL RIGHT

As the big car passed through the small village the visitor saw an old man sitting on top of a pile of furniture, smoking and looking most disconsolate.

The visitor stopped his car and leaned slightly out. "I'm sorry for you, my poor old man," he said, "no roof over your head; here perhaps this will help you," and he pressed a fiver into the old man's hand.

"Thank' ee, sor," said the old man. Very kind of you, Oi'm sure."

"I hope things will be better for you soon," said the other.

"Oi'll be quite orl roight when she's finished," replied the old man, jerking his thumb in the direction of a cottage door.

"Who's she?"

"Why, my old woman; she is whitewashing the place."

The Market Place of Industry

Domestic looms and local workshops supplied the simple needs of each community when the industries of Canada began. Customers were all friends or neighbours. The ability and integrity of every craftsman were well-known and created a demand for the commodities he made; his success was measured by the goodwill he enjoyed.

Communities grew and prospered; new settlements were established and thrived; the demand for manufactured products rapidly increased. Distant markets became accessible as transportation facilities improved. The scope of industry widened; goods were shipped farther and farther from every plant, and it became necessary to gain goodwill towards products and their makers in remote towns and villages where they were unknown.

The newspapers have provided this vital service to Canadian industry at every stage of its development. No other medium could ensure the frequent, friendly contacts with consumers, needed to establish confidence, or afford effective territorial control of merchandising activity, when local or national emergencies arose.

Today the manufacturing industries of Canada serve a national market; their products are on sale from coast to coast. Production has been centralized, distribution systems organized, but the success of every enterprise still depends on customer goodwill.

Therefore, progressive companies continue to use the local daily newspapers as an integral part of merchandising. Experience has proved that the daily newspapers of Canada, bought and read by more than two million families every day, provide the most economical and effective means whereby any industry can create public confidence in its policies and profitable demand for its products.

Let Farmers Decide.

"We will restore to the Marketing Board the principle for which it was intended and leave it to the producers to say whether they want a levy or not," he continued. Farmers would make their own decision on the cheese levy by secret ballot.

If elected the Conservatives would restore bonuses for improved livestock production and better sires. Agriculture, Mr. Rowe declared, required stimulation the same as every other industry.

"A Strong West Wind"

Under the Liberal regime the Minister of Lands and Forests spent seven times more in his own riding than was spent on agriculture throughout the province. Mr. Rowe maintained the present Agriculture Minister, Hon. Duncan Marshall, did no more for agriculture "than had a strong northwest wind would do."

Co-operation of hotel keepers will be sought in "cleaning up" beverage rooms. He referred to his Owen Sound address of the previous night when he said they must be "cleaned up or closed up" and explained hotel keepers knew this was not said as a threat to him. "I am confident we can clean up this with their co-operation," he assured himself. "But the people of this province demand we must clean up."

Had 6c "Make Peace"

He charged standard hotels could not obtain beverage room licenses "until they made peace with the member of their riding and often they had to make more than that."

"They had to make out a cheque as well," he claimed. "In one case of an excellent standard hotelkeeper I have the affidavit he had to pay and pay substantially."

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Mr. Rowe said he possessed photostatic copies of cheques paid by hotel owners. This would be presented "to a commission which will investigate the whole situation," he declared.

BUY NOW AND MAKE WORK

A Good Place to Buy GOOD USED CARS

"Buying a pile of junk that happens to run is like buying a hand grenade to be used for a football."

That is said by The National Safety Council, and it applies with particular force to the buyer of a used automobile.

And yet there is no good reason why one should not have all the advantages of comfortable, safe, economical and dependable automotive transportation in a used automobile that can be bought for a mere fraction of its first cost.

It all depends on where you buy the used car. We are not the only dealers who really recondition the used cars we offer for sale. But here is such a place.

We sell many more used cars than new ones. Our used car business grows from month to month because our used car customers always get what they want. Our used car customers send their friends to us.

This good will is worth far more to us than any possible profit on a used car sale. So we take good care of it by selling only used cars that will make good—that can pass any inspection.

Now is a good time to buy a used car. And here is a good place to do it. Come in and let us show you the kind of used cars we sell.

Norwood Church Destroyed

Peterborough, Ont., Sept. 24.—(CP)—Believed caused by an electrical short circuit, fire today gutted Norwood United Church 30 miles east of here. Damage was estimated at about $20,000.

Firemen were unable to prevent spread of flames. The church, a stone structure, was built 67 years ago.

STRIKE THREATENED

Toronto, Sept. 24.—(CP)—The Canadian Seamen's Union today threatened to "tie up every Canadian vessel on the Great Lakes", unless certain demands are met by Steamship companies by next Tuesday midnight. The announcement came on the eve of the annual movement of the new Canadian Wheat crop from Fort William and Port Arthur to Montreal.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Stock prices crumbled in today's market, many leaders failing 1 to 4 points to new lows for the peak two years. There were a few off as much as 10. Large blocks changed hands all the way down and the ticker tape frequently was behind.

Support buying was scarce, but extreme declines were reduced in many cases near the final hour. Transfers were about 2,500,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE
(Close)

Toronto, Sept. 24 (CP)—Stocks cracked to new lows for the year in all trade indicators today on the Toronto Exchange with selling in only moderate volume. The break was apparently prompted by market developments in New York and London and also possibly by selling from under-margined accounts. A Stock Exchange audit called this week a little ahead of the usual time is said to have forced some weak holdings. Consolidated Smelters dropped about 7 points, Noranda 3, Nickel about 2½ and Hudson Bay 2 points, all to new lows for the year.

Senior golds held up well, evidently getting moral support from Dome's declaration of a $1 dividend for the quarter. Dome registered a narrow net gain at 39, Lake Shore, Hollinger and McIntyre limited their losses to fractions but selling tilted the medium-price issues, including Macassa, Read-Authier, Sylvanite, Sisco, Wright Hargreaves, Teck Hughes, O'Brien, Little Long Lac and Pioneer for losses of 15 to 25 cents each.

Heavy junior golds were Uchi, Towagmac, Sladen, Preston, Perron, Lake Shore Base, Bankfield and Stadacona.

Some of the steels broke sharply, Dominion Steel and Coal B sold down to 13 1-4 for a loss of 2 3-4 and Canada Car Pfd. was down about 2 1-4.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Sept. 24—Local produce markets were steady to firmer yesterday. The egg section had a firmer tone, while other lines showed little change. Receipts were 1,916 cases of eggs, 2 boxes of butter and 6,461 boxes of cheese, including truck arrivals, and including 209 cases of eggs for export overseas. Sales at the Canadian Commodity Exchange were 200 boxes of cheese, fresh 60 score butter at 30 1-2c, at which level the market was quoted at the close.

On the egg market, while some sales were reported early at 1c less, grade alphamelts in cartons or 1cl. lots in free cases became mainly 30c for A-large, 29c for A-medium, 26c for A-pullet, 26-30c for B and 21c for C.

The cheese market was 14 1-4c to 14 3-4c for No. 1 Ontario while, 14 1-4c to 14 1-2c for No. 1 Ontario colored.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson Are Presented With Many Gifts

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson, Bayside

Rawdon—On Friday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison was the scene of a happy gathering when many friends and neighbors from all points from Bethel Mount, Pleasant, Shanty, Springbrook, Rylestone, Maple Grove, Belleville and other points gathered to enjoy a social evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson (nee Lenna Broadbent).

Miss Mildred Elliott was pianist and Rev. J. E. Beckel was chairman for the occasion. Mr. Beckel joined in "The More We Get Together" and "I Love You Truly."

Readings were rendered by Mrs. Percy Maddaford and Miss Mildred Morrison.

An impromptu speech was given by Mr. John Sloan and Mr. John Bateman expressed greetings.

Messrs. Mcdermit and Wannamaker gave several violin and guitar selections. Mr. John Mulhern sang a Scotch selection.

Miss Percy Morrison read the following address:

Bethel, Ontario
September 21, 1937

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson:
Dear Lenna and Ross:

We have gathered here this evening in order to tell you our wishes for joy and happiness as you embark upon the sea of matrimony. It is a great privilege for us to join with you in rejoicing at this most important step in your young lives.

You, Laura, have endeared yourself to us with your bright and happy disposition and we shall miss you much but we are glad the talent which we have enjoyed so much but we are glad that you will be far away so we shall still hope to meet you often.

You, Ross, are not so well known to most of us but as Laura's husband we welcome you to our city and you will both return often to our home town and friends.

The sea of matrimony, like other seas, is not always calm but in the words of Rigar Goest:

There are joys that you will share
Joys to balance every care
Joys in arm intwined with you
Will not fear the storms that brew
If when you are sorest tried
You face your trials side by side
Then you can smile at Care and Time
And your loving years begun
Will show you in days those gifts
In the hope that they will act as silent reminders of our love and esteem in the years to come.

Signed on behalf of your Bethel friends:

Vera Ketchison
Nellie Maddaford
Alice Morrison
Committee

Both Laura and Ross suitably replied thanking their friends for the lovely gifts and for the kindness bestowed upon them especially Thursday evening. Both thanked them for the use of their home. They invited their friends to call and visit them at Stirling. The bride received a large array of costly gifts including a beautiful six-piece chest of silverware, electric bridge lamp, electric clock, electric toaster, silver beaded china, glass and kitchenware. SLIGHT DISTURBANCES OF THYROID GLAND CAUSE SYMPTOMS

When the thyroid gland in the neck is overactive—too much juice or thyroid extract being manufactured—there is a great increase in the rate at which the body processes—burns—food, with stimulation of the blood, intestine. It is called goitre. By the use of the metabolism apparatus the rate is measured and if 15 or 20 or more per cent. faster than normal, then the removal of part of the thyroid gland is the usual treatment.

When there is less than normal activity in the thyroid gland, and the rate is slow, with the result that less work is 15 to 20 per cent. or more slower than the normal rate, the opposite condition is found—body and mind work slowly, and the skin thickens and is not properly removed from the body causing a blocked up condition—pearance although the skin does not pit on pressure. This condition is called myxoedema.

Thus the very active ionic (poison) condition and the contrasting symptoms of nervousness, very rapid heart, bulging eyes, indigestion and sleeplessness, and the underactive thyroid gland causes a general slowness or sluggishness of the body processes—decrease in weight, lack of ambition, sleepiness, wrong up of heart rate, and mental sockwardness.

While these are the outstanding symptoms where there is a great disturbance in the activity of the thyroid gland, physicians are now watching for conditions where there is found only a slightly more active and slightly less active thyroid gland.

Thus, when a patient is slightly underweight, is nervous, high strung, has practically nothing physically, beat of heart slightly fast, the blood count is high, metabolism test made, and it is found that while the rate is not above 15, but in his case it is 10 or 12. While no operation is required, more rest at night and an extra hour during the day is usually prescribed.

When there is an increase in weight, some mental and physical sluggishness, some slowing of the heart rate, and the metabolism rate shows about 90 the use of daily doses of thyroid extract often reduces the weight, speeds up the heart to normal, sharpens the mind and increases the desire to work or exercise.

Thus a disturbance of the thyroid gland, while not causing the "outstanding" symptoms, can be the cause of "in between" conditions.

AT THE BELLA
"The Good Earth"
Prize Winning Novel
The dramatic story of China's teeming millions, their struggles, their hardships, and their intensely human heartbeat of the great and little known nation, is transcribed from Pearl S. Buck's epic novel and the stage adaptation by Owen Davis and Donald Davis to the talking screen in "The Good Earth", starring Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, and opening a four-days' engagement at the Belle Theatre, tomorrow (Saturday), matinee and night.
Fruit of four years of research and preparation, the work of a film expedition that passed a year in China filming exteriors, studying the Chinese people, and thousands of authentic properties—including 125 sets—the production undertaken by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Director Franklin directed the ambitious production, filmed on locations covering thousands of acres on which 10,000 villages, towns, and even a large city in China were reproduced.
Muni plays Wang Lung the Chinese farmer in the picture, and "I Am a Fugitive", "Dr. Socrates" and other distinguished screen character roles, has given his finest characterization in "The Good Earth" is one of his most outstanding feats.
Luise Rainer, Viennese heroine of "Escapade" and Anna Sten, star of "The Great Ziegfeld", plays the intensely dramatic role of O-Lan.
Prominent players in the large supporting cast include Walter Connolly as the uncle, the Eurasian beauty Willy Lenk, as Lotus, Charley Grapewin as the old father, Jessie Ralph as Cuckoo, Soo Yong as the aged Lotus, Keye Luke as the elder son, Roland Lui as the younger son, Tamaki Yamaoka as Pear Blossom, Suzi Kim as Lotus' daughter, and Harry Hayden as the grain merchant, William Law as the gateman and Mary Wong as the little slave.
Pearl S. Buck's novel, "The Good Earth" has been one of the best-sellers of the last decade. It is the recipient of two prizes having been awarded the gold medal of the Month and also winning the Pulitzer prize for the best novel of the year.
The Belle Latest World News will be presented on the same program. Performances start daily at 2.30, 6.45 and 9.15. Thursday Sneak begins at 2.45, 6.55 and 9.15 p.m.

Gene Autry in "Round-Up Time in Texas"
Shifting his scenes of adventure to the romantic Portuguese Diamond fields of South Africa, Gene Autry ripsaddles and rides through a thrilling yarn in the latest of his Republic features, at the Capitol on Saturday and Sunday, starting at 2.30 and evening performance at 6.15.
Gene Autry's latest picture of Texas, Gene and Smiley Burnette take a leading part in the round-up in response to the request of Gene's brother, Tex, who has discovered Diamonds on his ranch.
Arriving, the pair find Tex missing and Gene's foreman Crane, cowboys take to the trail of revenge and justice.—With singing Gene and Smiley Burnette the pair gain the confidence of Joe Crane, the foreman, and help clear Tex.
Lovely Martha Dopp appears opposite Gene in "Round-Up Time in Texas", as the English daughter of the murdered man. A thoroughbred cast includes Dick Wessel, Frankie Marvin, Champion, Buddy Williams and Frankie Marvin.
Never pausing in its galloping pace, the picture moves swiftly under the superb guidance of Joe Kane, ace of action-drama directors.

Little Benny's Note Book

This afternoon in school Miss Kitty Kelly started to cheek with her ruler, saying, I'm sure I dont want to spoil anybodys pleasure, but on the other hand victims are pupils in this class seem to be awfully contented in the no difference between pleasure and duty. There's an appointment I have to reach at three, and the suitable tips for one is generally not the suitable time for other. Charlie Simkins, you seem to be enjoying the exercise of your power of speech, suppose you exercise it a little further by rising and giving the class an illustration of the difference between pleasure and duty, she said.

Yes mam, Puds Simkins said.

And he got up, saying, It's a pleasure to assess when you feel like it, but its a duty not to assess too sudden and too loud while your teacher is reading to the class.

I wasn't aware that sneezing came under the head of pleasure, but the illustration is surely true, as well let it pass, Miss Kitty said. Benny Potts, you seem to be in a talking mood, perhaps you would like to favor the class with a few remarks on the between pleasure and duty.

Well, Ed said, acting, it's a pleasure to except a present but it's a duty to say Thank you.

No doubt it is, but it should also be likewise a pleasure, Miss Kitty said. Perhaps I'd better give you an lesson.

Broiling Day at Cooking School

Largest Crowd Attends Third Day's Demonstration

At the final session of the cooking school sponsored by the Women's Association of the Tabernacle Church yesterday afternoon an even larger crowd than on the previous days greeted the demonstrator, Miss Shell. Small, but an ideal gathering.

Mr. Everett Smith introduced Mr. M. P. Duff who extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the Public Utilities Commission, to the women attending the cooking school mentioning the splendid results that were being derived from cooking with gas.

Yesterday was "Broiling Day" and Miss Small showed the many uses to which the broiling pan could be put and during the afternoon a delicious steak, half tomatoes and potato cakes were cooked in this manner.

Mrs. Lent on behalf of the Women's Association presented a lovely bouquet of Autumn blooms to Miss Small in appreciation of the splendid entertainment she had rendered.

Prizes were drawn for by Mr. Duff assisted by Mr. Howard Smith and were won by the following ladies:

Mixed Numbers—Mrs. R. L. Johnson.

WARMER WEATHER TEMPTS SWIMMERS

Swimming is not yet over in the district if Wednesday afternoon when two youths, evidently lured into divesting themselves of their clothing at Allen's Dock by the balmy weather of the past day or so, escaped to the water again in the admittedly chilly water.

Two Titles Change Hands in Boxing Extravaganza With Thil and Escobar Losing Jeffra Dathrones Escobar While Apostoli Wins Over French Champ.

GOREY BATTLES

Barney Ross And Lou Ambers Defend Their Crowns

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Three championship prizefights in one night, while a laudable enterprise on the part of any promoter, seems to be at least one championship prizefight too many. Especially if each of them goes the limit at 15 rounds without a knockout and the feature event cuts up and plays dead.

Thirty-five thousand, six hundred patrons sat through last night's prizefight extravaganza at the Polo Grounds, and when they finally stumbled out of the ancient baseball park this morning they were pondering if the new boss of Mike Jacobs, Harry Mayerson, perhaps been guilty of clothing them with cream. Barney Ross, welterweight champion, served an otherwise uninspiring spectacle with a close and gory victory over Cefferino Garcia, challenger from the Philippines.

Harry Jeffra, featherweight, whose chief ambition up to recently had been to become a golf professional, added a final fillip when it was hardly needed by winning the newly-created championship of the world from Sixto Escobar of Puerto Rico on points.

The bout between Lou Ambers, lightweight champion, and Pedro Montanez was the one that curled one up. Ambers gave him an awful pasting—yet he could not put a sweaty thing to watch.

Marcel Thil, the bald Frenchman, made a considerable bit in his night's initial turn, before he suffered a serious cut on his right eyelid and was declared the loser by Fred Apostoli of San Francisco early in the 10th round. Marcel had a clear lead on points at the time Apostoli stabbed high and the blood began to sport. He had put almost a permanent wave in his flashier opponent's mid-section.

This middleweight middleweight title wasn't at stake. You've got to be a European to win that.

The summary of the night's fighting:

Barney Ross, 143, Chicago, world's welterweight champion, outpointed Cefferino Garcia, 146½, Philippine Islands (15).

Fred Apostoli, 158½, San Francisco, stopped Marcel Thil, 159, France, European middleweight champion, 9.

Lou Ambers, 134½, Herkimer, N.Y., world's lightweight champion, outpointed Pedro Montanez, 134, Puerto Rico (15).

Harry Jeffra, 118½, Baltimore, outpointed Sixto Escobar, 117½, Puerto Rico, world's bantamweight champion (15).

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Joe Louis sat in the press box at the Polo Grounds last night and thought young Harry Jeffra was a while....

Of course, Mike Jacobs has a way of fixing things up.... If he doesn't land a Fred Apostoli-Freddy Steele title go for the Garden this winter it will be Steele's fault.... At that, Apostoli isn't so proud of his victory.... Old man Marcel Thil was miles ahead on points when his eye was cut.... Nobody can understand how Referee Johnny Mario called the Lou Ambers-Pedro Montanez bout a draw....Many think Johnny should have been a baseball umpire.

Best bout of the evening was the extra, added attraction in which Jap (One Round) Pacheco, the soldier of the Daily Mirror, planted a perfect right on the beak of Marcus Griffin, Broadway columnist of the New York Inquirer.... It was a pip, while it lasted.... This night's biggest disappointment was the terrible showing of Pedro Montanez.... Why he didn't throw his right oftener is still a mystery.... Mike Jacobs served the jewes with basket lunches.... Barney was a worried more than once in his bout with Cefferino Garcia....

The crowd was below expectations, but nobody has a kick.... It's a big night when anybody can say you add it to what he got out of the Farr-Louis and Braddock-Louis bouts. He hasn't had a bad night ner—unless you call between $50,000 and $100,000 bad.

PETROFF IN MAIN BOUT

Meets Johnny Gyroffy For First Time Tonight

Dan Petroff, the methodical and Orthodox Russian grappler, whom Promoter Ted Reeve has signed to meet Johnny Gyroffy, the Blue Hungarian grappler of the mat game, in the main bout of tonight's professional wrestling show at the Belleville Arena. Both Petroff and Gyroffy have clashed on previous occasions in Belleville, but have never met as opponents in the local squared circle.

Last season Petroff was undisputed champion of the mat game, winning nine consecutive bouts without being pinned, while two years ago when Gyroffy was the ring favourite, he met with equal success. Petroff has been the wrath of the fans fall upon his shoulders following some rather unorthodox tactics on a lighter opponent one fine evening. Gyroffy is endeavouring to regain the favor he held in the Belleville wrestling fans and will be seen at his top form tonight against Petroff.

In the semi-final bout Buffalo Jack Lee, Chief Lynx, the Rama Reserve villainous Indian, meets Jack McGregor, Scotch and Detroit relation of the famed Scotty McDougall. The latter promises to see another local favourite, Frank Slavic, the Polish Adonis, one-time wrestling Prince of Gaul, the pugnacious Toronto youth.

Football Curtain Is About to Rise

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The East's football season opens in a limited way tomorrow for the purpose of warming up the players and, just as important, warming up the customers. Eight senior teams, all but one appearing for the first time in 1937, engage in exhibition tilts.

Designed to steam up the fans in rather a big way for opening of the three major circuits Oct. 11, the programme Saturday is:

Toronto Balmy Beach at Montreal Indians.

Sarnia Imperials at Hamilton Tigers.

Queen's at Toronto Argonauts.

Royal Military College at U. of Western Ontario.

Ted Reeve's Queen's University team has lost three star halfbacks from the 1936 squad—Harry Bensaphine, Curly Ring and Johnny Edwards. And all of them have joined Argo who face the tricolor Collegians in Toronto.

But Reeves still has his first-string kicker, Johnny Munro, and here again the coach discovered bits of fresh talent to try out against the Scullers.

London expects to see Bill Storen's Western Mustangs pile up a score on the Intermediate R.M.C. team. The mustangs, with most of last year's stars on hand, are regarded as the team to beat in the Intercollegiate Union.

Wally Hilton, of Belleville, is back with the Mustangs again this season.

EX - HAMILTON PITCHER MAKES GOOD IN MAJORS

Joe Krakauskas Hurls Washington to VictVory Over Indians

Washington, Sept. 24 (CP)—Just about anything in the Washington Senators' camp was Joe Krakauskas for the asking today but the pitching laddie from Hamilton, Ontario, was more intent on winning ball games in the American Baseball League than anything else.

So far Krakauskas, who played some ball in Brantford, Ont., with a fair measure of success when coming south, has done all right in that department. He marked up his third win in four starts yesterday with a 3-2 victory over Cleveland. The Indians were held scoreless for eight innings, opposed during one of them by the Indians' ace artist Bob Feller. Joe allowed nine hits during his term on the hill and struck out two.

That contest left him with a record of four victories and one defeat that comes close to being impressive if not actually so. He has pitched 29 innings since joining the Senators from Trenton in the New York-Pennsylvania League and allowed only 36 hits.

On top of that Krakauskas struck out 16 batsmen. In an eight inning performance against St. Louis, Joe won 10-3, allowed six hits and walked only two. He went seven innings against Philadelphia Athletics, allowed only one hit, struck out eight and won the game 13-6.

Joe's next loss was against Detroit when he and the Senators dropped an 11-8 decision.

Despite Loss of Hands of Brown, Yankees Clinch Pennant

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's Diamond Embroidery Society got down today to the serious business of winding up its second straight pennant stitching assignment.

The Yankees had the American Baseball League flag all sewed up. The Giants, somewhat slowed on the fancy work, but apparently headed for the same results, were rapidly completing their hemstitching on the National League flag.

The Embroidery Society's very good friends, the Bronx Baseball Cheering sating Chowder Club, was all set to whoop it up in another exclusive civil war of the diamond for little old New York, comic World Series time, Oct. 6.

The Giants were 3½ games ahead as a result of their win over the Cubs yesterday.

The Giants' victory by an 8-7 margin yesterday in the rubber match of the three-game set with the Cubs produced the difficult battle of the lot.

Four Pitchers Used

Despite a 17-hit New York attack, Terry had to trot out all four of his starting pitchers before the Chicago clouters surrendered. Finally Lanky Cliff Melton, the southpaw rookie who applied a six-hit coat of whitewashing in Wednesday's game, was called on to save the day. And he did—by retiring the final two Cub batters in the ninth with one run in, and the tying and winning runs on base. Although he batted less than two innings, Carl Hubbell was given official credit for the victory, his 21st of the year.

The Yankees, meantime, though taking a 7-5 beating at the hands of St. Louis Browns, had the pleasure of watching an old ex-Yankee, Ben Chapman, clinch the American League pennant for them. Chapman, who loses no love for the Yanks, hit a homer into the ivy in the ninth inning, which gave Boston Red Sox a 4-3 decision over Detroit Tigers, and eliminated the second-place Detroits from the pennant chase. The Tigers are now 12½ games behind and have only 10 to play.

Cleveland Indians, finding Washington's Rookies too much for them, were beaten 3-2 and sank to fifth.

Jim Turner buried No. 19 as Boston Bees tossed out the Pirates 7-1. Don Padgett hit a homer and two triples and the Cardinals to an 8-4 win over Brooklyn Dodgers. Dolph Camilli's homer with the bases loaded gave the Phillies a 5-3 triumph over Cincinnati Reds, who used 22 players for a new National League record. Johnny Whitehead won his new game for the White Sox by driving in the only run for a 1-0 edge over the Athletics.

Yesterday's Stars

Ben Chapman, Red Sox—His ninth-inning homer with two on base beat Tigers 4-3.

Don Padgett and Mike Ryba, Cardinals—Padgett hit homer, two triples, driving in three runs, as Ryba pitched four-hit shutout in 4-3-2 relief trick to beat Dodgers 8-4.

Johnny Whitehead ,White Sox—Stanked Athletics 1-0 with seven hits and drove in only run himself.

Dolph Camilli, Phillies—His homer with bases loaded in 9-5 win over Reds.

Joe Krakauskas, Senators, Stopped Indians 3-2 with nine hits.

Jo-Jo Moore, Giants—Hit two doubles, three singles and scored two runs in 8-7 win over Cubs.

Harlond Clift, Browns—Hit homer with two on in 9-3 win over Yankees.

GOODFELLOW MAKES PREDICTIONS

Detroit, Sept. 24—(CP)— Ebbie Goodfellow, coach-manager for the Detroit Red Wings, has already sized up the opposing teams in the National Hockey League.

New York Rangers will be the team to beat, says Detroit fights for the Stanley Cup it has won for two years in succession. Ebbie says:

"Manager Lester Patrick it a shrewd old coot," says Ebbie. "He had a gang of good kids last year and the experience they gained will stand them in good stead.

But, "this season's Stanley Cup winners!" "Why, Detroit Red Wings, of course," said Ebbie.

NEWARK WINS THREE IN ROW OVER ORIOLES

Need Only One More Victory to Get in Little World Series

Baltimore, Sept. 24 (CP)—Newark's notorious Bears, ballyhooed as one of the greatest minor league outfits in baseball history, seemed in a fair way today of knocking their International League play-off jinx for a loop.

They turned back the Baltimore Orioles last night for the third time in a row and need only one more victory in the best-of-seven final play-off series to win the right to meet the American Association champion in the "Little World Series."

The opportunity to clinch the honor and the Governor's Cup Series may come tonight when the Bears meet the Orioles here in the fourth game of the League's last play-offs.

Last night's 7-5 win over the Orioles was No. 7 play-off victory for the Bears. They bumped off Syracuse in four straight games, then beat Baltimore 3-0 and 6-5.

The Bears had their ace, Joe Beggs, ready to work again tonight. He held the Orioles to one hit in the first game and 7 in the second start. Martin Russo is available.

Manager Harry Matuszak will take the mound for the Orioles, but he will try to win by batting rather than by better-fielding support than the Birds put up in their first three games.

Pete Sivess, upon whom the Orioles had counted strongly, started last night, but gave way to Al Hollingsworth in the seventh, when Newark came from behind, scored four runs and went out in front.

CALLING 'EM
Between the Lines
with Ken J. Colling

Both the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" and the Belleville "Panthers" gelled old lady traditions and the pigeon-pigeon jinx on Wednesday; both squads posed for newspaper pictures before their games. There is an old sports superstition that athletes sometimes still observe—that is: Never pose for a photograph before the battle.' Perhaps the reason the Panthers lost was partially due to this old belief, as the entire Panther squad posed for the pre-game picture, while only the starting Flyer squad watched the little bird-boy. Local grid fans may have wondered why the Panthers found it so hard to handle the Flyers in the earlier stages of Wednesday's game. The secret is due to the fact that the Airmen's sweaters, that is the scarlet portion of them, consist of a fine pliable canvas, which make it rather difficult to gain a firm grasp on the uniform. Later the Panthers reverted to the straight method of tackling the Flyers low and with considerable success.

The Oshawa sport scribbler says: "Apparently the Belleville Football Club wouldn't "pe-pher" the game planned at Oshawa by us." After Wednesday's game it wouldn't matter. As we think of it, Referee Johnny Mario did a swell job with the Panthers. The Oshawa writers, Cyril Lyzz, the Rama Reserve villainous Indian, meets Jack McGregor, Scotch and Detroit relation of the famed Scotty McDougall. The latter promises to see another local favourite, Frank Slavic, the Polish Adonis, one-time wrestling Prince of Gaul, the pugnacious Toronto youth.

The rafters of the Arena should ring loudly tonight, the old grappling favourites, who made wrestling a popular indoor sport locally, are returning to town. Such men as Dan Petroff, Johnny Gyroffy, Chief Lynx and Frank Slavic are on the card, every one a crowd-pleaser in his own particular way. There will be none of the gaffe, as carried by the alleged amateurs, who appeared here under the sponsorship of the Army & Navy Veterans. We do not think Dan Petroff ever was in a poor bout locally.

We are glad to report that Georgs Catzon, diminutive caller of plays, has been known as the quarterback for the Belleville Panthers, did not suffer a fractured shoulder on Wednesday, as was reported by other papers. What Catzon did suffer, however, was a serious wrench or sprain. Dr. K. G. Mitchell, the club physician, X-rayed Catzon's shoulder and found no fracture and the scrimmage practice until next Wednesday's game. During the period Catzon was sitting on the bench after being injured on Wednesday, Georgs was heard to remark—We've got a fightin' band of boys out there. I'm going to get in that football game." We can take that gang of Flyers in our stride, now that we've over "our stage fright."

It was announced through the O.A.S.A. that the Point Anne "Commissars" would meet Burlington in the intermediate "B" finals. The first game will be played in Point Anne on Saturday with the return game slated for Burlington Beach next Wednesday. If the weather remains as kind as it has been for the past few days, a capacity crowd will witness the Commissars play softball go. In all probability Lorne Coleman will get the home assignment while Lorne Belanger will be saved for the road game.

There are those who believe the Giants can coast in after yesterday's hectic 8-7 victory over the Cubs. Both teams used their Sunday pitchers, Terry holding out his finest array, in an effort to win that odd game and the Giants now have only a 3½ game lead to cash breathe easier. While all of this is going on in the National, Joe Boston, as the Yankees absorbed a beating at the hands of the Browns, but it made no difference, the Yankees clinched the pennant, Detroit lost to the Cleveland Indians more than anything else.

Two world's titles exchanged hands last night, Harry Jeffra, the Baltimore golfer, wrested away Frederic' bantam title, while Fred Apostoli took over Marcel Thil's middleweight championship crown. The Frenchman had his work cut out in defending his welterweight crown from a Philippine lad named Garcia, while those in the ringside world-famed new Referee Art Donovan arrived at a draw decision in the Lou Ambers-Pedro Montanez affair, as the bout was a dreary affair, and in all, every person was satisfied, including Mike Jacobs who made the odd few pointers for new wrinkles.

No Place for Politics in Municipal Affairs

Mrs. Thorburn made her appeal to the women electors on the score of the municipal conduct of affairs by the Hepburn Cabinet. She affirmed that the business of the province should not be subject to party politics, but that it should be conducted in the interests of party politics. The province, he declared, should be run as a business, he stated. The large hall was filled with women electors and a number of men who, no doubt, had come to present the case for the Hepburn Government.

Successful Administration

Mrs. Thorburn caused a laugh as she stated that she did not bind herself always to vote Conservative although it might be right arm would become paralyzed if I put across opposite the name of the Conservative candidate. What do we want? All we ask is the province is a businesslike administration. What is the record of the present men under Geo. S. Henry or the Government of the past three years under Mr. Hepburn? Mr. Hepburn has given us balanced budgets, surplus made October the 30th, reduction of Ontario debt. Mrs. Thorburn closed by stating that she would entrust with keen interest the results from West Hastings on the 30th of September.

Wanted in Public Life

Mr. Charles A. Cameron, M. P., was chairman for the early part of the meeting, but left the platform, handing the chair for the remaining portion. Mr. Cameron stated that the Liberal interest of women in public affairs saying it used to be the custom of women to stay in their homes, but he wondered if that was not the right place for them. The institution could carry on its work without the assistance of women in the community. Over half the voters in this province are women and in the United States the women it is said hold seventy per cent of the wealth.

A Time For Thinking

The present was a time when men and women should forget that they are Grits or Tories, but should think of things over, he said.

Asking what was the matter with the province, Mr. Cameron answered "I think we are suffering from a depression of administration as a minimum of cost."

"In my mind Mr. Hepburn is one of the most honest men we have ever had in public life in Ontario in many years," he declared. "I am not in the reduction of the salaries of the Premier and the Ministers and the abolition of ministerial motorcars which seems to have Liberal support in the province. I would drive their own cars at their own expense.

No Scandal

Mr. Cameron remarked that there was as far as he knew not a breath of scandal around the administration of the province.

"We do not want scandals affairs handled as a businesslike manner. Mr. Hepburn has handled affairs in a businesslike manner. He has reduced the debt, he has left in the face cannot help voting for Hepburn," as an employer of labor had told Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Cameron was a man to run the country as we would run a business. He was a man who balances the budget."

Mr. Cameron cited the Financial Post which he said had not been favorable to the Liberals, but stated that the Hepburn Government had been responsible for the province having a balanced budget in Ontario, the first province in Canada to do so, and that it was a credit on the benefits to the people. He also quoted the Post as stating that Mr. Howe had made a mistake in attacking the financial position of the province. The chairman dealt with the charge that the reduction of motorcar licenses had cost the province $2,000,000 stating that the reduction was promised before the last election by the present speaker by Mr. Hepburn as Provincial Treasurer.

Mrs. Faulkner spoke in appreciation of the address of Mrs. Thorburn and Mr. Cameron. The meeting had given the women workers and Liberal cause in the riding.

Mr. Fraser Aylesworth of Madoc was in charge of the musical programme of Dr. Faulkner and the Hepburn Government. He said the Hepburn Highway was one of the finest of roads, straight as a railway.

Among those who appeared on the entertainment program were pupils of Miss Mary Fralick's school. Miss Barbara Walden who gave dancing selections, Miss Jean Gordon in dances, Barbara Dinsell, who was in the competition. The girls had been doubles at the Canadian National Exhibition. Miss Gordon stood next to the finalist, singing a solo and dancing and Sully Brown and Inez Porter in dances. Miss Porter is a room dancing. Miss Muriel Vermilyea gave two fine readings. Mrs. Plumpton was heard in an excellent reading.

Mrs. H. Bone, president of the Belleville Liberal Women's Club acted as hostess and thanks to Mrs. Thorburn and to Mrs. Faulkner.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the members of the club.

It had been expected that the candidate Hon. Dr. Faulkner and the Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture who were speaking at Marmora and Deloro would be back in time to address the meeting but they did not reach the city in time to speak.

ROAD THRU LAKE

paign manager for Dr. Faulkner, president at Marmora. The candidate and Hon. Duncan Marshall were delayed in Toronto by the Cabinet meeting at Deloro by C. R. Wright, Reeve of Deloro.

Dr. Faulkner at the Deloro meeting dealt with the road work in Hastings during the past three years. He said that had accrued from the administration of Mr. Hepburn and the Government during the past three years. In opening his remarks, he thanked the people of Deloro for the welcome and told his listeners he was the servant of all the people of the riding irrespective of political belief. The Reeve of Rawdon was also congratulated for his cooperation in allocating the men for work in that township. "When we came into power in 1934 we were accused of doing some pretty rough things," the speaker declared, "but we too high there was only one thing to do and that was to get the administration costs," said Dr. Faulkner. "Sometimes we were criticized because the same as running a big business, while the Federal government was doing the same in administrations and there is no galvanging the people. Our Government voted for the Liberal regime at Ottawa during the past two years."

Give Accounting

"The question has often been asked by the Liberal opposition—and a reduction of the Provincial debt as the Conservatives did when they were in power. Well we have cleaned up the debt, advanced the tourist business, established new highways, made education costs less and administered the affairs of the Province in an efficient manner.

Turning to highway construction Dr. Faulkner dealt with the charge the speaker showed that in 1934 the county had only 14 miles of modern highways numbers two and seven and both cut across the county but the road was not completed from north to south. "The people of this county were promised a year by the two roads that were only trunk roads," said Dr. Faulkner. "The old Hastings road has been a burden of this county for years. A modern highway from north to south is necessary to the development of this county and there is nothing to show for it. I decided that it was time for the County as a whole and that was what I was elected for, to give good consideration to the matter and when the new road should start at Madoc and proceed to Marmora, and then to Combermere, Barry's Bay and Ottawa."

Two Motives in View

"Two motives were waiting through this road, the first to give the unemployed a chance to live like human beings instead of existing on a relief office for a handout and to give this province a highway that the County Council should have done years ago", continued the speaker. "In September, 1937, the road was assumed from Madoc to Marmora. Work has been started on it and is to be finished and maintained by the Province without cost to this county" Dr. Faulkner declared that one of the promises made by Hepburn in 1934 was that the Provincial Treasury had been fulfilled. He stated that the province had reduced the 20 per cent. assessed against the county for the cost of Provincial highways, from 20 per cent to 10 per cent of the cost of County roads, and had taken over 1,000 miles of roads if we hope to invite tourists to our county and this year the province had taken into the province more than 13 million dollars maintenance.

Dr. Faulkner claimed there were 1,000 miles of new and modern provincial highways within the county at the present time and that with the completion of the road work on the mill rate in the county had been reduced by one mill and that in 1938 after the payment is completed this year on the cost of number 7 highway, the Provincial debt will be further reduce the mill rate another mill and possibly two mills. "I say in all truthfulness that the County Council have increased their expenditure during the Hepburn years all the benefits that the Hepburn Government has given to the county is entitled to this new Highway for which the people of Thurlow Township has practically paid for a paved road running through the Township parallel to the highway.

Prizes Work of Club

"Dealing with social legislation, the speaker stated that this legislation had cost the county in the county in the past ten years nearly a million dollars. Hepburn was assuming the cost of this legislation instead of the municipality," stated the speaker. The speaker praised the work that was done by the Women's Institutes and Game Club, a non-political organization. The Game Club have been protected in this are by an efficient overseer, whom I had the pleasure to appoint and the game has been protected so well, that there is not only good hunting but sportsmen," said Dr. Faulkner. "In 1933 the government of that time put into the waters of Hastings County 443,000 fish while in 1937 under the present regime, there have been placed over 2,000,000 and we will be more placed and this county will become one of the best fishing grounds in the Province."

Dealing with the Health Department he had been expressed," said the speaker and "the latest blast is from the Conservative candidate in West Hastings, who states it would be better off at Queen's Park at my desk looking after the infantile paralysis epidemic, while another has held me responsible for the epidemic, which has swept the Province." I can only say that these are "infantile remarks of a very petty politicians." I can say, that this epidemic broke out before I circularized every M.O.H. and practically every Doctor in the province on the best means to stop the spread of this dread disease and the experience has stood me very assistance at no cost to any one municipality. I have received very many letters of appreciation from the Province of Ontario for the services rendered by the Health Department during the epidemic, stating that Mr. Hepburn practically saved the province from disaster.

"A policy of pay as you go has been strictly enforced," declared the speaker. "Under Premier Hepburn," the speaker declared, "the province has been relieved of the burden of the source of revenue has been taken from the Succession Duties tax." A saving has been made in interest charges by buying up these bonds," declared Dr. Faulkner dealt with the reduction in the cost of distribution of radium from the province. The decrease in cost of radium for treatment for cancer, declared he was reduced by the purchase of a radium bomb, now placed at the Toronto General Hospital for $100,000, while before its purchase, radium for the province cost $300,000 a year. "The Hepburn Government from the Henry Government from the Hepburn Basis at a cost of six per cent per annum.

Costs Reduced

In defending his department, Hon. Dr. Faulkner showed that it had been materially reduced with the same standard of efficiency maintained. The speaker had allowed where under the Conservative Government, the municipalities had obtained the coal business for an institution at Kingston and in 1931, 1932, the cost was $51,000 and $34,000 respectively but in 1936 the cost was received $56,633, while the present government bought the coal for the institution for 1937-38 for $27,000. "These figures are not my figures but those compiled by the auditors employees retained by the Hepburn Government," declared the speaker asked for the confidence placed in him in 1934 in the conduct of order that the present government could complete their benefits to the province and file it for inspection.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, who had been with Delcro and Marmora met at the latter village showed the large audience the benefits that had been obtained under the Hepburn regime. He told that a deficit of $15,000 in the Game and Fish Department in 1934 had been turned into a surplus of $236,000 in the first year of administration under Hon. Harry Nixon. The speaker followed this with the assertion that a deficit of $180,000 in the Liquor Control Department in 1933 had been turned into a surplus in 1934 of $1,084,000 by Hon. Peter Heenan, the present incumbent of that department. Commenting on Hepburn one by one, the speaker showed that $31,197,000 had been saved by the actions of the present government.

Criticizes Policy

Dealing with the platform of the Hon. Mitchell Howe, the speaker said he thought that such policy could never be charged with grand or petty larceny. He criticized Mr. Howe's policy with respect to the doubling of the succession duties and car licence fees. The speaker said it was unworkable and if it was put into effect by Howe in a motor car would not benefit and probably would be a loss to the Province, when it was urgently needed for relief. Mr. Howe's platform might be in Toronto at the time. Hon. Duncan Marshall defended the handling of the Succession Duties stating it was better to receive the money when it was due, than to prosecute in a criminal court and Dr. Faulkner dealt with the expenses of keeping the man in jail for the crime committed.

Dealing with the bonds were trafficked in by a certain Toronto firm, who is now out of the country and he advised the man to leave the country and he has not to Ontario might be a costly one.

The speaker praised Dr. Faulkner for his handling of the Health Department and the Mental Institutions in the mental institutions were being given good care by a competent staff due to their suffering and that plans were being laid by him for the erection of a number of units of buildings in different parts of the province. He said it is apparent this work has not been carried on as rapidly as some would have liked but that the money had to be provided. "The Province is the province are in a fine state as the Province has been able to handle the handling by our Premier and the social work could be carried on as it has been. You elected in 1934 a government to cut out the useless expenditure and to put the province on a business basis and we have come back to you with a record of which we ask your endorsation of the same.

Hon. Duncan Marshall declared that 40 per cent behind the Premier in his action on the C.I.O. and he had maintained law and order and effectively put the curb on the Communistic activities and to this country to grow fat off the workingman and this Province. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

HALL SAYS

didn't take the trouble to print.

Claims Mismanagement

His city, he declared, had been slandered long enough, slandered by the Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, the Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, who, he further charged, was politically political cut of the trouble from the commencement and acted accordingly after the strike "which he held up so that the Premier could sign the pact with the C.I.O. and papers signed in his Toronto office."

"If Hepburn wants to come to work on the lines of that automobile plant, he's welcome, I'm willing to try and help themselves, then I'm one too."

The election campaign was first started, Mitchell Hepburn didn't like the way things were going, he injected the C.I.O. bogey. Now he is telling people all kinds of things that never happened during the strike, and he was never within 100 miles of the city all the time of the whole period of the walkout."

What They Did

The matter of alleged fraud, the charges that have been hurled about by Mr. Hepburn, Mr. Hall pointed out against those who are said to be responsible, he said, that would disappear before the insight of Hepburn's own Toronto office.

Question Time

"If these great plants which employ men can bring over their own Premier and Cabinet, and they are still further, work from them by Hepburn, then why can't the workmen use their own anti-dope methods by bringing over their own Premier.

"We want decency in public life. We want a Premier who will not be as spectacular as Mr. Hepburn, but you can trust him. We want a Premier who is an honest Premier. Even at the risk of a party break, I cannot support a man who will stop him."

Mayor Challenges Hepburn

A direct challenge for Premier Hepburn to meet him on any platform in the city to discuss the issue of the C.I.O. and the Oshawa strike was issued by Hall long ere by the Mayor.

"What I want to do is get him on that platform, but I have pleaded and begged and insulted him for Premier Hepburn to meet me. What does he know about the situation? He was never within fifty miles of it at any time. I have a few things also which have not been said as yet, but will be."

"Hepburn will be licked in St. Thomas, he won't dare, right to his own town and told them that."

As the opening speaker of the evening, Dr. Harold Welsh, candidate for East Hastings declared that the wonderful turnout of political electors was just one sign of the confidence won by the Hon. Earl Rowe.

Briefly Dr. Welsh referred to the East Hastings by-election for which he thanked the polls of Trenton, Herchimer and College Hill, which had helped him with their votes. Then you were told what to say Tammany Hall tactics, and you are not now. You are asked merely to vote upon a great principle which can do a great service to your Province."

"The Conservative party has and will always abided by the great public school system of the country," asserted Dr. Welsh continued. "We are not the other side to say about the matter. What are they going to do about it? Mr. Hepburn, Mr. Howe and Dr. Faulkner and Mr. Nixon have all promised what to do, we want to know that before October sixth.

Mrs. Harold Premier pretends he wants a mandate to keep law and order in the country. When he was elected to office he took a solemn oath to do this. Why hasn't he done it, or what is he want a mandate for if he can't do it," continued Dr. Welsh.

East Hastings By-Election

Dr. Welsh continued the events of the Liberal party was declared by the speaker, who pointed out that Premier came into office,with a "disorganized cabinet, and haven't accomplished much since they have been in. Now they are not so sure. So far Premier has not said what he is going to win and perhaps won't do so. Right now he holds down the same number of cabinet portfolios as Mussolini. He was forced to come to the people to see what he knew he was, that is the reason for the East Hastings election.

Speaking Program Changed

"After three years of administration the province has the heaviest taxation the provinces has seen, he has the highest number of relief cases being 35 millions of dollars on roads, but on the eve of election they are trying to get before we to erect "bumpsigns on the highways.

Vocational Courses Proposed

The Hon. Earl Rowe's policies as progressive ones. One of his acts will be the creation of a new Department of Mines, Forestry, Game, Fish and Fisheries Department which will receive $2,000,000 instead of dollars worth of tourist trade to the country than the Hepburn cabinet minister million per year as at present.

The debt of the province at the present time is increasing at the rate of $2,000,000 a month, Dr. Welsh who declared the present government is the most extravagant ever seen in the province. In spite of this, services have not improved, but are almost every department, it was charged.

Dr. Welsh dealt with the unemployed as I was in the fight in East Hastings by-election for the Liberal party. I was told in the fight in October sixth, they'll know I'm still in, because we are going in with a leader who has already proved that such a vote of confidence by electors in this riding is awakening to the public is clearly evident," concluded Dr. Welsh.

Mayor Arnott Speaks Briefly

Mayor Arnott, candidate for West Hastings who was also present at the second meeting in Trenton, briefly spoke on the principles of Liberalism to the audience at length in favor of Mayor Hall with whom he had always.

He had this to say however: "Mitchell Hepburn is not the candidacy and support the Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, because he did it. Why get mixed up in this political game they added. The C.I.O. is a thing of the past, it is a thing of history, it is a thing of unimportability. Go as I know you will; vote for the leader and the party who have done so much for Canada and that control," concluded Mr. Tummon.

"At first, yes. Then Angus came," Ted went on. "Your wife didn't mind my taking charge. Shall we ride somewhere?"

His eyes watched her through a thoughtful silence. Then, he said, gently, "We're not talking any more now. You've gone white at the shock. I'll tell you, Jerry. Forget-me-not. He was not shot."

"Before she had back. "How do you know? You haven't seen him."

"That's right," he said, "I haven't. Have I? How that's just. The noise and the coroner ahh, later, and presently the reporters will come along and—" He saw Angus coming up the stairs and was suddenly silent.

Angus said, "They're waiting for you, Polly."

She nodded, thinking, "It couldn't have been more than five minutes ago that Angus left me in the yard. Perhaps less. And it seems like hours."

A tall, lean man with graying mustache came up. "I'm the coroner, Miss Markey. I want to ask you a few questions...." And that was the beginning of the ordeal for which Angus had warned her to save her strength. Every one asked questions; so often the same questions over and over. And all the while there was a subdued sort of bedlam going on around her. A police officer called off names, for fingerprinting. They went up one at a time. Angus Gerbrook sat at the officer's left. And the questioning went on.

At one o'clock Lieutenant Brett found her completely surrounded by persistent reporters, her small face drawn and the fingers of her slim hands tightly locked before her.

She looked up at him with a faint smile. The young officer forced his way through the packed group. "Sorry, boys," he said. "Ten this corny lady has had enough." That was all. He led her out to the porch and down the steps. "Stop! You don't mind my taking charge. Shall we ride somewhere?"

He apparently expected no answer. She let him help her into a small roadster. She remembered a time—when he had said, "So you're feeling better? Feel fine? Tired of a friend, aren't you?" She felt that now.

He got under the wheel, started the car, and when a few moments later they turned into its street and Polly looked up at him, he said, quickly:

"Don't talk. Relax. Loosen up all over. Your mind, too. They make no allowances for physical limitations in these investigations. You'll be going through this for days. Better begin to get hard-boiled. Let 'em get their information from some other source. Don't be wearing your nerves out talking to anybody who happens to be curious. And get that frown off, and quit thinking about what has happened tonight. Think about something else—me, for instance. Just exactly what are you thinking of me at this moment?.... No, don't answer.... I'll tell you. You're thinking, 'Oh' all the garrulous idiots I ever ran into, this parrot takes the cake. Does he go on talking like this endlessly? Why, he's worse than any woman reporter...."

Polly suddenly burst into laughter.

"There," he said, grinning, "it worked. Nothing can hurt you very much while you've laughter like that inside you." He pulled the wheel over, sharply, and the car turned into a sandy road that ran between midgetish houses and on through a narrow pass in the sand dunes to the now narrow beach. "You beg the tide's coming in," he said, "or we could ride the beach. Still, it's nice here if you're keeping your mind on the moonlight and the murmur of the sea."

Polly thought of the rainy, lonesome beach of four hours ago, blinking lower in the mist, she said, "If you don't mind, I'd rather keep my mind on you—Jerry. I didn't know there was any one like you in the world." And realizing what she had said, she could have slapped her own face for the seeming boldness of it. It was, under the circumstances, an invitation—and he promptly accepted it.

Polly put her hands against his chest and said, when her lips were free, "I asked for it, I suppose. Though I didn't mean to, really."

His arm now was on the back of the seat, his fingers still touching her shoulder. He said, "You were going to get it whether you asked for it or not. Moonlight—"

"Any girl in the moonlight, probably!" She loosed away from him, smiling up at his irregular profile.

He was digging around in his pockets. "I girl like you wouldn't object to a pipe," he said, and produced a straight-stemming pipe and, after another search, a pouch, and began to fill the small bowl. "Well, no—not just any girl. Some girls don't do a thing to moonlight, nor moonlight to them."

"I suppose you've tried all types?"

"Well——" He struck a match and shielded it with his hands. "A good many, anyway. After all there are no approved books on such matters. We either learn from experience or we never know. Generally speaking, there are only two types—the girls who are used to being kissed in the moonlight and the girls who aren't. The girls who make a habit of it lose the trick of blending with moonlight. The minute they try to blend, the magic goes. The effect is synthetic."

Polly laughed, softly. They were in a world apart, a world suddenly subtly created and sustained by this nonsense. "It must be wonderful to be a wife," she chided. "And you've learned all you know from your own personal scientific research?"

"That's right," he said with complete gravity. "And I'll tell you something else: I can look at a girl and tell you at a glance when her she's a blender or a non-blender. How the instant I saw you soaring through the air between the wharf and the ferry yesterday afternoon, I said——"

"You said," Polly supplied, "Now there's a natural-born blender. That girl would absorb moonlight without half trying because she has never been kissed in the moonlight."

"Oh, yeah?"

Their mingled laughter floated out through the night.

"Jerry said—Relaxed?"

Polly breathed a sigh. "Completely, lieutenant——"

"That's the wrong kind of consolation."

"Jerry," she said, her face turned to his.

"Beautiful. How do you make your voice do that?"

She said, not really thinking at all, "Jerry—and Polly."

"Jerry—and Polly," he said after her.

"Sounds sort of sugarish, doesn't it?"

"Sounds sort of sugarish, doesn't it?" the "Polly, I mean."

"It sounds so exactly right for you that I can't understand why they tried to call you Pauline."

Polly smiled. "There's no need to talk to me any longer, Jerry. I'm relaxed, and I've forgotten for minutes at a time that not very far away Angus and a flock of policemen are waiting for me to come back. You can be honest and sensible now if you like."

His hands met and knocked out his pipe on the handle of the door. "I'll be both," he said. "To begin with, I kissed you!"

She looked at him, steadily. "I said at last, I know. Because I gave a convincing performance of sleepy little girl who had to be carried that when a young man drives her down to the beach he isn't doing it to engage in a scientific discussion of lunar attraction and the tides." After a pause, she said, "I practically asked you to kiss me. Said, in effect, I know there was any one in the world like you, and I meant it —but in the way you thought."

"You meant I had just pulled you out of the sea, and you were grateful and wanted me to know you were grateful. I didn't understand." The fingers moved over the curve of her shoulder and closed on her arm. "I kissed you because I wanted to make you angry, Polly. Being angry you couldn't go on thinking about Fordell and the coroner and the police."

"And all you succeeded in doing was making me feel a fool," Polly said. "Were you horribly disappointed, Jerry?" She twisted his shadowy face hovering above her own and presently she lifted a hand to touch his cheek—a light, caressing fingers. "You've been good, Jerry, terribly, terribly good. Because I wanted to make you angry, Polly. Being angry you couldn't go on thinking about Fordell and the coroner and the police."

"And all you succeeded in doing was making me feel a fool," Polly said. "Were you horribly disappointed, Jerry?" She twisted his shadowy face hovering above her own and presently she lifted a hand to touch his cheek—a light, caressing fingers. "You've been good, Jerry, terribly, terribly good. Because I wanted to make you angry, Polly. Being angry you couldn't go on thinking about Fordell and the coroner and the police."

"Jerry?" It was a startled, earnest cry.

"I know," he said. "I must not say it. It isn't true and it isn't possible. It just doesn't happen like that. I'm giving you a line. Love at first sight is for honey. When a man kisses a girl the first time he has an opportunity, he's just that kind of a line. All right, have it your way. But I'm telling you and not for the last time, Polly Markey....." He told her without words, with lips that were soft and warm and profoundly sweet against her own and after a little while some crept over his shoulders and around his neck.

And thus, as he walked the beach alone, Angus Garbrook found them.

INSTALMENT 8.

Engrossed in the problems of this tragic night, Angus walked with eyes on the sand and did not see the car until he could have reached out and touched it with his hand. As he hailed he saw that the car held not one person but two, a man and a girl forming one smooth shadow in the moonlight.

Angus backed away. He was not conscious of having made any sound at all, but suddenly the smooth shadow broke and divided and as Angus turned away a torchlight blazed and he heard a voice that was unmistakably Polly Markey's say sharply, almost accusingly, "Angus....Angus Garbrook!"

He faced the funnel of light, smiling, "I suppose I've been guilty of an inexcusable blunder," he said quietly, "but the fact is I was pretty well absorbed in something less pleasant than two young people on a moonlit beach." He stood by the car and after a moment the light went out. Peering into the luminous darkness, he said with a little laugh, "Oh, hello, Ted. I thought I left you representing the Army at the scene of the crime."

Jerry didn't say anything. He may have been smiling. Angus could not be sure. And then Polly said, "I asked Jerry to bring me out for a breath of air, Angus. I stood it as long as I could."

"I see," Angus said, "I see what you mean." Angus said, "but even so, you can round out a decent alibi with the theft of the starting point. Suppose the third watched valuable formula he believed to be in Fordell's possession. He steals Fordell's paper, glowers at it, not knowing what he wanted, and goes back to make another search. Fordell surprises him in the act and he gives Fordell the works. Not a very ingenious explanation, I'll admit, but it holds water."

"Don't be that fit is with the unlocked window screen and the use of a ladder available outside the window?"

"Why not?" Angus asked. "Whatever the motive, the guilty person had to have access to the study. He gained it obviously by climbing up on a step-ladder, opening the screen, which he must have unlocked when Fordell was there] from the room, and striking the fatal blow."

Polly said, quickly, "You mean Mr. Fordell was—stabbed?"

When the two men only looked at her, she asked, "Why all the mystery? When I told you I heard the shot, you said as if you thought I had been imagining sounds; and when I told Jerry—" I told you frankly," Jerry said, "that he was not shot."

"Then how was he killed—and why are you both so reluctant to tell me?"

Angus put a hand on her arm. "Simply to try to spare you one of the unpleasant details, Polly," he said, gently. "When you stood in the doorway of the study, Fordell's head was hidden by the two letter baskets. I observed that when you spoke of a shot." He paused, then said abruptly, "Fordell's skull was crushed, Polly. The police haven't been able to find the instrument."

"Did the police find any fingerprints on the ladder, Angus?" Polly asked.

"Yes," Angus said, nodding, "and on the window sill. Also on the telephone on Fordell's desk on the typewriter, the fine cabinets, the bookshelves and the radio. They've made a thorough job of it."

"But the radio isn't in the study," Jerry said. "I imagine every one in the house left fingermarks on that." And Polly said, "They'll probably find my fingerprints on the typewriter and the file cabinets and the bookshelves."

YOUR NAME IN MONDAY'S PAPERS!

Will your name appear in Monday's newspapers? If it does, will you be writhing with pain in the emergency ward of a hospital, will your mangled remains be resting in a funeral parlor—or will you be held by the Police on a charge of manslaughter?

If you are a motorist and value life and property, help to stop this slaughter of innocent people. The death toll from car accidents in Ontario must go down!

We are justly proud of the Police of this Province—but they cannot be everywhere. Most accidents occur when a policeman is not around. Traffic violators know better than to speed, cut in or crowd other cars with a policeman in sight.

Ontario Motorists will Co-operate

When you see a motorist driving in a manner dangerous to the public, take his number, make a careful note of the actual time and place and when you reach your destination write to the Motor Vehicles Branch, Department of Highways, Toronto, giving full details. We do not invite reports of minor infringements of the traffic laws; you are requested to use sound judgment. We will deal adequately with offenders.

Out of the Bag

By DUFORD HICKS

McClure Newspaper Syndicate
WNU Service.

Edna looked at him, with musing eyes. He was drawing pictures to the infinite delight of the baby. He boyish interest in his own pictures was enlisted in his pleasant face—the face of a man to whom life would always be interesting and good though others bored it just the opposite.

When the youngster had been "shooed" to bed Edna asked:

"George, you're nothing but a big, good-natured boy. Do you realize that you and me are pretty low in June, and that you haven't even a job?" she asked frankly.

He smiled his friendly smile: "Don't worry, Honey, it will all come out in the wash. I'll get going one of these days, and then everything will be fine and dandy."

She laughed a little bitterly, "But I do want a home, and I want you—and I don't want to wait too long—and perhaps be unhappy afterwards."

He sprang up, caught her in his arms and smiled into her eyes: "You'll be said with smiling eyes, won't we."

After he had gone she went into the living-room where one Hilton was reading.

"I say, you can do as you wish, but it sure is puzzling what you see in him. So far as I can see George hasn't a job and I don't think he'll be trying to get one. You like him because he's good-natured and easy-going. You used to think a lot of Bob Blake. He can give you a good home even if he hasn't the love of chatter that George has. He's a likable fellow," her father said.

She nodded. "I told Blake he could take me for a ride this evening. I'm him, I don't want to know—"

When, later in the evening, snug and warm and cozy in the front seat of Blake's powerful roadster they were sliding smoothly along through the scented dusk to the southern evening, she began to wonder more and more.

As the long wide concrete road opened before them like a silver road of dreams in the moonlight, his right hand crept here, while his skilful left hand guided the wheel, and she felt her self drawn in his.

"Edna, I wish we could have many rides like this—as man and wife—" he began.

Then Fate intervened. The car began to jerk and slow down. He eased the lever and shifted gears. The engine choked and died. He swore softly.

He clambered out, muttering. He tried this and tried that. His anger mounted in his impatience. "I'll have to go back to the telephone to a city garage from the farmhouse," he said shortly.

She walked in the silence. When he returned he sat in the car in sullen muttering, disgusted at her announcing help was coming. A car came swiftly up the grade. It stopped. "Hey it is, fellows. In trouble all right," a cheery voice called.

Edna jumped. It was George's gay voice. A man came up to the car and questioned her. Then they went to the car. Edna watched from the depths of her furs as George went at the engine. How did he happen to be with them? A man got in beside her to work the starter at George's orders.

"Who is he?" she asked motionless.

"An expert," the man said. "Fixed been at the day automobile school all the month and was on nights in my shop. He's a wonder."

The engine roared. "All O.K." George said cheerily. "All aboard. Let's get it back."

Bob's irritation hung over them like a cloud the rest of the way. When he stopped at her home,he told in detail the story.

"Bob, it's useless. I know—simply know we would never be happy together," she said at last with finality.

In the house she called the garage from which she had come and asked for George. He answered her greeting:

"Way, girlie, I was re-ay to surprise you. I wanted to make good at this first, so kept it a secret. I go to the head of the mechanical department next month—learn the little house, some oaks with from me on it too. Say, don't you want me to come up and tell you all about it, now the secrets out of the bag? Want me to?"

She answered a bit tearfully. "Oh, my dear, I do—please come!"

RAWDON

Rawdon Wellmans United Church was beautifully adorned with bouquets of gladioli, asters, zinnias and foliage on Sunday last being the occasion of their anniversary.

Miss Lucille Dracup was pianist and the choir of sixteen voices rendered in the morning "The Earth is the Lord's" with Mr. Geo. Watson taking the solo part and "Trust in the Lord With All Thine Heart" with Mr. Geo. Geddan as soloist. The service opened with "The Church's One Foundation."

Rev. A. W. Harding, Springbrook, brought a splendid message from the text "Now Are We the Sons of God."

A very fitting climax to the service was the rendition of "Thine Be the Glory Around Us I Lift Up My Longing Eyes."

At the evening service Rev. Harding spoke from the subject "The Seven Rules" and gave a heart searching message based on the Scriptures "And They Constrained Him Saying "Abide With Us" for it is Toward Evening and the day is Far Spent." The choir rendered "Smiling Thine Eye" with Mr. Reg. McCue as soloist and "Light at Eventide" with Mrs. Carl Clancy as soloist. The Misses Mina and Lucille Dracup contributed a duet "Wandering Child Come Home."

The thanksgiving was very gratifying and the choir closed with the rendition of "The Day Thou Gavest Lord is Ended" and "Holy Holy Holy" Reginald Heber Grows for Ever Till All Thy Creatures Cry They Best."

"SUFFERED SIX YEARS WITH CONSTIPATION"

"For six years I suffered with constipation, and I decided to try ALL-BRAN. I have been using it once a day for about four years, and it has certainly done the work." —Mrs. Herman Pastrall (address on request).

Tests prove that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is safe and effective for correcting constipation. Also:

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently sweeps and cleanses the intestines. It also furnishes vitamin-B to tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. Three times daily in severe cases. You'll find this food far better than habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London.

Remember Labor

The premier enlarged on his plans for reorganization of the present Department of Labor under a Minister devoting his whole time to the one department. Instead of being "only an inspection department", he intended to make it a "real" department, he said.

Since the privy council had ruled unemployment insurance and regulation of wages, hours and conditions of work were within provincial jurisdiction the department would handle all labor legislation and social services.

The new department would be given administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act, instead of the Attorney-General's Department, and the proposed unemployment insurance.

"We are ready to deal with these problems affecting labor in an active and aggressive fashion," he said.

"We recognize labor is entitled to a larger share in the profits of industry and we propose to secure that in an orderly way and avoid industrial disturbances, injurious to labor and industry alike."

TRADE BOYCOTT OF JAPAN IF CHARGE UPHELD

Nations Within League May Be Called Upon For Effective Measures

Best Method to Refuse to Accept Exports From Japan

TO STOP AGGRESSION

British Paper Urges Public to Refuse to Buy Japanese Goods

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 25.—(CP)—(Cable)—A movement is under way for a trade boycott of Japan. The executive committee of the League of Nations Union urges the Government—should the committee of 28, find Japan responsible for the present conflict in China—to declare publicly:

That they (the Government) are prepared to carry out their duties under the League Covenant:

That they are ready in particular to join in whatever measures may seem wise and effectual in putting a stop to aggression, provided other countries are ready to do the same in sufficient numbers to make such action effective.

Refuse Exports

The committee added that in its opinion the best method would be for all countries concerned to refuse to accept any exports from Japan.

The National executive of the Evangelical Free Church Council adopted a resolution calling on the Government to take steps to prevent further atrocities and especially to restore law and order by urging recommendations of the League Advisory Committee with a view to abolition of aerial warfare altogether.

The Non-Chronicle of the week's readers, without waiting for official pronouncement, to refuse to buy or sell Japanese goods.

REFORESTATION IN WEST ONTARIO ROWE PROMISES

Placed in Districts Suffering From Flood And Drought

LIQUOR POLICY

Claims Man With Criminal Record Given Beer Licence

London, Ont., Sept. 25 (CP)— A water conservation and reforestation plan to aid western Ontario districts that have suffered from floods and drought is promised by Conservative leader Earl Rowe if his party is elected to power in the October 4 Ontario election.

Concluding a western Ontario tour last night at this centre of the disastrous Thames River spring floods, Mr. Rowe declared: "We're going to have a plan for water conservation and reforestation and everything to give man something to do rather than teach them to do nothing."

Reference to the proposals, which he believed a provincial responsibility, came after Mr. Rowe continued his attack on the liquor administration of the Liberal government. He promised to "nail the hide on this beer-tanned government to the fence."

Prudence Record

"Here is the pictures and criminal record of a man who served 11 jail terms in 11 years," he declared, holding aloft a photograph and some papers. "He was given a beer license under the Hepburn government."

The Conservative leader also declared he had the affidavit "of a respectable hotel keeper" which alleged "an agent of a member of the legislature forced him to pay $50 to defray the expenses of the Liberal leader and his wife to the opening of parliament."

Mr. Rowe said before October 4 he will show further evidence of his charges against the government's liquor administration in the form of "cheques endorsed and cashed by cheque endorsers and by government agents."

Reforestation Plan

Speaking of his plan for drought and flood relief, Mr. Rowe said such a plan was a provincial responsibility. He said he would "either spend $20,000,000 on reforestation than spend $20 and teach men to do nothing."

The Conservative leader declared scientists had proved that land could be useful and fertile a score of years after it had been flood wasted. He went on to declare that in central Ontario "we have only half the land."

If his government came to power he would call a conference with appointed to the labor department on forestation and the labor men. He declared his government would have a conciliation board of men who understand labor problems.

TRENTON SCHOOLS ORDERED CLOSED UNTIL OCT. 12TH.

If Further Cases of Poliomyelitis Develop Further Closing Planned

ONLY ONE CASE

Children to be Excluded From Public Gatherings, Health Bd. Orders

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Trenton, Sept. 25.—(Special)—Using every possible measure to prevent a poliomyelitis epidemic in Trenton, the School Board closed all town schools until October 12th at an emergency meeting following the discovery of a case of infantile paralysis yesterday. If any further cases are reported the educational institutions will be shut down for a longer period. Dr. W. B. Crowe, Medical Officer of Health, announced.

The only victim of the dreaded disease to date, Joyce Link, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Link of Henry Street, is being treated in Kingston General Hospital.

To keep children from mingling the annual College and Dufferin School Field Day to be held in Bayshore Park was postponed till a future date, yesterday.

Children Excluded from Meetings

Parents have been advised to keep their children at home and to keep people in charge of places where the public gather have been asked to keep children under 16 away.

The following resolution was passed at the Board of Health Meeting, "Moved by H. V. Wright that the Board of Health in Trenton Ontario realy having developed in this town all schools in Trenton will be closed until October 12. That children under 16 years of age be excluded from all public gatherings for a period of ten days and that the parents be impressed with necessity of keeping children at home for the same period of ten days in order to avoid a further spread. The resolution was carried by Mayor H. R. Cory.

Fumigation Ordered

It was further moved by E. Wilson and seconded by H. S. Langdon that the Board of Education be requested to have all schools fumigated during the period between September 26th and October 12th. Shortly after 11 was announced that there were 20 students in town a number of mothers took their children to the country to avoid the risk. Several residents have reopened their cottages to keep their children out of town.

Last night, Dr. J. W. Farley administered the nasal spray to a number of children and it is expected that many more will be treated today.

Old Country Industrialist Speaks

Nearly one hundred guests were present at the first interesting address given by F. J. Downs of Bradford, England, at the weekly dinner banquet held in the Gilbert Hotel last night. Mr. Downs is head of the firm of Downs-Coulter Company a large textile firm with factories throughout the British Empire and a plant in Trenton. Mr. Downs and his wife and son are visiting Canada. W. A. Fraser, M.P. of Northumberland County introduced the guest speaker with a very eloquent address. Chairman of the evening was Kenneth Carter.

Following the dinner, Mayor H. R. Cory, R. D. Graham, Fred Ault, Dr. Farley, Mayor Fraser, A pleasing round of entertainment was given by Mayor Cory's Merry Men, who kept the gathering laughing consistently with his jokes and songs during his act. Sgt. Cooper leader of the R.C.A.F. band played a few selections and Mayor Cory and Leslie Hearts was at the piano.

Frankford Youth Hurt

John Waddell of Frankford, is in Bethel Hospital, Trenton suffering painful injuries received when an auto operated by Mrs. Earl Harrison of Trenton, collided with a car driven by Charles Blakely of Frankford on Front Street, north of the C.N.R. subway yesterday. The injured lad was riding in the Blakely machine and suffered a cut forehead and leg from shattering glass. A number of children riding in the Harrison vehicle escaped without hurts as did both drivers. The two cars were extensively damaged about the front, the Harrison car especially. Trenton police investigated.

Barge Captain Rescues Steamer Crew Members in Rowboat

Red Roc, Ont., Sept. 25—(CP)—Treacherous Nipigon Straits today held the bodies of five persons, plunged to their deaths when a southeast gale lashed the steamship Neebing until it keeled over and disappeared.

Fifteen persons were aboard the ill-fated craft, owned by the Shu-Mac Lines of Montreal, as it towed the barge Couteau with a gravel cargo. The vessel was bound from Copper Island to Red Rock, near Nipigon on Nipigon Bay in Lake Superior.

Captain A. L. Carney of Port Arthur went down with the wrecked ship. Others who died were: T. J. Bechencke, chief engineer of Port William, W. Smith, fireman, Port William; Ray Paterson, cook, Port Arthur and Ray Paterson, cook's helper.

Steamship Fathers, Swamped

As it moved into the gale from the shelter of Mona Island the Neebing faltered. The gale whipped the waters about her until a huge wave struck. The battering finally shook the Neebing, a 1,108-ton vessel built in Toledo, O., in 1892, to the bottom.

So sudden was the ship swamped the crew had no time to launch lifeboats. Mrs. Paterson, lone woman aboard, and the four other victims apparently were trapped below deck by crumbling waters.

Help Given From Barge

Second engineer James Keenan, Port Arthur, suffered from exposure, was helped to safety when those aboard the barge put out in a rowboat to pick up crew members floundering in the rough water. Kenderis and the barge anchored until the Shu-Mac Lines tug Straith-more hove in sight to take the survivors to Red Rock.

Why the Weather?

Science Service Meteorologist Ocean currents and climate!

So much currents really af-fect climate that if they are on the west coast of a country. Parts of western countries of Europe are 30 or 40 degrees warmer than the similar latitudes, due to the warm Gulf Stream. The coast of Peru is much colder than the coast of Brazil of the same latitude, due to the Peruvian current which is cool. It should not be inferred that currents are the sole control of climate of these or any other countries, but they are a positive influence.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 26 (CP)—Pressure is high over the Western half of the United States and on the Atlantic coast, with a deep low area in the north-western Ontario and a shallow trough extending southward across the Great Lakes. The weather has been cool in western provinces with light scattered showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Showers have also occurred in northern and western Ontario while from the Ottawa Valley eastward the weather has been mostly fair and warm.

Lake Superior—Moderate westerly winds; fair and cool today and Sunday.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan: West to southwest winds fair today and Sunday and becoming a little warmer.

Alberta—Mostly fair today and Sunday with a little higher temperature and possibly light scattered showers in northern districts.

Autopsy On Teacher Shows A Crude Illegal Operation

Evidence Adduced on Murder Charge Against London Doctor

NURSE TESTIFIES

London, Ont., Sept. 25—(CP)—Mary Wilkinson died from effects of chloroform administered her by Dr. C. A. Cline about 12 hours after an illegal operation was performed on the 37-year old school teacher, Mrs. Emily Robertson testified today at the preliminary hearing of Dr. Cline on a charge of murder.

"She died within 10 minutes" said Mrs. Robertson, a graduate nurse held by police on a homicide charge arising from Miss Wilkinson's death. Her husband also is charged with murder, and Lorne McFarlan is being held on a criminal charge in connection with the case.

Preliminary hearing of Dr. Charles A. Cline, charged with murder, opened here today before Magistrate Donald A. Menzies with a crowded courtroom in attendance. The 70-year old physician is charged in connection with the death Sept. 9 of Mary Wilkinson, 37-year old public school teacher. Her body was found in the Thames River Sept. 14, five days after she left her apartment on Richmond Street North. An autopsy showed the dark-haired teacher was subjected to a particularly crude illegal operation.

DEBT - CARRYING CHARGES REDUCED HEPBURN CLAIMS

If Elected Perhaps Cut Them in Half Ottawa Electors Told

BIDS FOR TRADE

Assured Revenue of 10 Million in Perpetuity in Lumber Area

(By CP Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—(CP)—Since the Liberal Government assumed office steady progress had been made towards reduction of the proportion of revenue required each year to meet interest charges, Premier Hepburn told a Liberal rally here last night.

This was due to the administration's successful struggle with financial interests for lower interest rates and to increasing revenues as a result of business methods of administration.

In 1934 the Government had to dispense 42 cents out of every dollar collected on revenue for interest charges. Had the debt-increasing policy of the Ferguson government continued this proportion would have gone up.

Instead it had been down and now only 26 cents was required.

If given a new lease of power, Mr. Hepburn predicted he would be able to reduce the province's debt-carrying charges still more and perhaps cut them in half.

Assured Revenue Promised

An assured revenue of $10,000,000 in perpetuity was in sight as a result of the Government's administration of the Lands and Forests Department, Premier said. Much of this department was in the red. This year it would return a profit of $4,000,000 next year $7,000,000 and in the following and subsequent years when 12 large mills now being constructed were in operation $10,000,000.

Expanded efforts to make Ontario attractive to tourists are planned by the Government as a programme calling for the development of a number of public parks, beaches and playgrounds has been mapped out and will proceed as revenues are available.

While primarily intended for the improvement of Ontario people these recreational centres would add greatly to Ontario's tourist attractions. The Premier said Ontario was wedged in amidst the most popu-

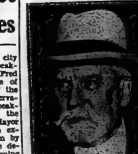
Mayor Arnott And Others Address City Hall Rally on Issues

G. A. REID ON HYDRO

"There is just one thing I want to do during this present election campaign: I want to keep it clean, free from side issues or personalities. The whole thing is too big; there is too much at stake to indulge in that kind of electioneering. This is not a party fight. Rather, it is an appeal to common-sense, the presentation of a case to the electorate for them to decide."

Thus did Richard D. Arnott, Conservative candidate, address a meeting of the Riding of West Hastings in the general provincial election, make it clear at the city hall last evening, that his election and the election of the Conservative party in Ontario would be won by the judgment of the electors on the record.

Pausing in his roundabout swing of the riding during past weeks, Mayor Arnott centered his campaign in this city to receive an ovation from local supporters in the city hall, Assisting him as guest speakers at the meeting was Mr. Fred Gardiner, K.C., Deputy Reeve of Toronto. To the guest speakers was accorded almost the same welcome as that given Mayor Arnott and to the latter went the expression of loyalty thus shown by the listening audience was, he declared, one of the most heartening incidents of the campaign to date.



Hard Work

"It has been strenuous during the last few weeks, it has meant a lot of hard work. But it does my heart good to know that Belleville people, especially, are with me in such numbers, you display this evening," declared the local candidate.

Referring to his guest speaker, Mr. Gardiner, Mayor Arnott declared he would defer his remarks in favor of him. "All I can say at this time is that I am proud and happy to be able to represent the Hon. Earl Rowe and his distinguished colleagues in the coming

STORY IN PAPER LEADS TO ARREST

John Dunlay, Shannonville, Held For Theft of Dance Camera Missed 8 Months Ago

As the result of a news story appearing in last Monday's issue of the Ontario Intelligencer, Provincial Police authorities were able to apprehend a young man, who had been sought by Madoc police in connection with a camera contest held in that community five months ago. Yesterday Provincial Constable Dymond and County Constable Percy Greer, Tweed, arrested James Dunlay, Shannonville farm hand in that village and charged Dunlay with breaking, entering and theft. He was remanded to the custody of the County jail for one week.

One week ago today at the "world's fair" in Shannonville, one of the features attracting the day was to catch a greasy pig. After a hectic chase, into the waters of the bay river, a lad named James Dunlay finally gained possession of the pig and received two dollars for his efforts. The story of the "world's fair" in last Monday's issue of the Ontario Intelligencer, and it was the ultimate result of the story that led Provincial Constable Dymond learned of the whereabouts of Dunlay, who was being sought by Madoc authorities in connection with a robbery committed in that village last May.

When confronted with police next week, authorities Dunlay is reported to have made a statement in connection with the alleged crime. The lad was in tears when turned over to the custody of the county jail officials. He will appear in county police court to be held at Madoc next week.

ALBERT COLLEGE ANNOUNCEMENT

It has come to our attention that certain derogatory rumours have been circulating locally and abroad having to do with the Second Year Arts work at Albert College and its recognition by Queens University.

Albert College has been given the privilege and commission by Queen's University to give tuition in the Second Year Arts Course and the students taking the same are registered as Queen's University students studying at Albert College. These students are given tuition in, and study exactly the same subjects, and write the same examinations as the students who are studying in Kingston. The University Professors visit the College from time to time and give personal supervision over the work. Furthermore, the Queen's University Professors mark the examinations papers and full credit on degree work is given by the University to students successfully completing their courses at Albert College. Dean Matheson of Queen's University publicly commended the College on the results of last year's work.

Our enrolment in the Second Year Arts' class this year is the largest since the institution of the work. Students may register on or before Tuesday, September 28th.

IDEAL WEATHER GREETS VISITORS TO TWEED FAIR

Attendance Nearly up to Last Year Despite Feats of Epidemic

GOOD RACING

Quality of Exhibits Quite High And Quantity Above Average

Tweed, Sept. 25 (Special)—Perfect weather greeted the directors of Tweed Agricultural Society yesterday at their annual Fall Fair, and the crowd, despite the infantile paralysis epidemic, was but little short of that on hand in good years. In most departments the exhibits were quite up to the standard of other years as regards both quality and number of entries. The obeese exhibit was light this year.

The main hall was thronged with visitors interested in fancy work, flowers, domestic science and other exhibits. The manual training of the boys of Tweed Consolidated School as well as the exhibits of Mrs. Arber's class in Hastings County also commenta as did the nature study exhibits of the local High School.

CAMBRIA CIRCLED CITY ON VISIT

"Queen of Airways" on Way to Botwood After Trip to Toronto

With the rays of a brilliant September sun forming a golden halo about the silver sheen of her fuselage, the Imperial Airways liner "Cambria" roared out of the west a few seconds before three passenger afternoon on the dot, slipped through the air eastward, after circling over the city.

Minutes before the time of her scheduled arrival, people lined streets, roofs of buildings and other points of vantage to get a view of the "Queen of the Airways" flight on into the beautiful ship, with motors humming a soft symphony suddenly appeared over the trees to the west of the city.

Sinking gracefully it gradually turned northward then again turned and followed a route directly over and along Front Street where hundreds of people cased in admiration as the ship passed over their heads. Out over the Bay of Quinte, the Cambria swung, then turning again headed in an easterly direction and with increasing speed disappeared into the eastern skies.

Word Picture of Coronation Is Given Canadian Club; State of Europe Described

Thomas Wayling Pays Tribute to Stability of British People

TELLS OF TRAVELS

Thomas Wayling, ace Canadian reporter, author, and lecturer, and past president of that aristocracy of Canadian newspapermen, The Canadian Press Gallery gave ample evidence yesterday afternoon to the members of the Belleville Women's Canadian Club that he is still a peer in the realm of the fourth estate, when he inaugurated the autumn season of that organization with a colorful glowing word picture of his experiences during the coronation of their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and his subsequent trip through the British Isles and Europe, as a passenger liner in the Thomas Parish Hall.

With a smooth flowing eloquence unadorned with flowery superlative; in the simple language and phraseology that has brought him to the top ranks of Canadian newspapermen, he described the events, that made British history, in a manner that held his audience spellbound from beginning to end, one and one half hours at his disposal.

In a low well-modulated voice, but somewhat changed inflection as he changed from the topic of the pageantry of the Coronation to the humour and pathos of scenes on Sloan Hill gravestones, this dynamic little man through the magic of his art figuratively transported the listeners in his audience and happenings in his clever descriptions.

Impressions Described

Impressions of England and the British people were very vividly described by Mr. Wayling in his opening remarks. "The English atmosphere was wonderful all through the coronation period," he said. Millions of people lined the route, the highest pitch were milling in and about London, and there was not a single accident, nor did I see a policeman have to resort to his baton during this historic time. The co-operation of the British police, Scotland Yard and the International police, kept the Coronation free from any unfortunate incidents. Crime as it was not criminals, that were looked for and that to stay on the job. Another was that type of person hovering on the borderline of mental instability. These were the types considered most dangerous".

"To detail the preparations by the police. Every possible suspect was listed and locked in his home by the night along the route of procession every tenth policeman faced the crowd. Organization was perfect. There were 200 first aid stations and 20 ambulances and first it is a fact that is seldom known," smiled Mr. Wayling. "There were also born along the route of procession during Coronation Day and the night last."

Every city, village and hamlet held its own general decorations and lighting scheme. So impressed was the Prince of Wales with the decoration used by a prominent London Store, that he bought the whole scheme and sent them to India to be used in a native celebration, Mr. Wayling.

"A prominent night-club owner sent his orchestra out on the balcony of his premises to entertain the crowds outside, for two days and two nights and the crowds undefying all this was the British respect for law and order. The Crown itself is based on it and it is the biggest thing in the British Empire today."

Described Origin

Mr. Wayling described the origin of the Coronation, and its progress down through the ages. "Henry the VIII, you remember," he said, "He raised Parliament to increase his despotism and he as responsible for creating an instrument that forever ended despotism in the land."

"The Crown rules but it does not govern. Canada, with the basis of the British Constitution on the supreme symbol of the Crown. One, great symbol of unity. There are two symbols left, St. Peters of Rome and the Crown of England. It seems a paradox, that a free people should subscribe to a monarchy, but that is our system. One can give loyalty to Democracy without giving one iota of loyalty to the state."

Mr. Wayling in his description of the historic events that transpired in Westminster Abbey during the Coronation, was a humorous mention of himself as a newspaper reporter, "getting the story for his paper."

"My seat was behind a stone pillar four feet wide from which I could see nothing. I left there and looked for a better vantage place. Four times I was discovered hiding in peers' boxes and four times I was out," he smiled. "I came to see the Coronation and see it I did." When the vested boys choir moved solemnly down the Abbey, they had a surprise in store. I was utterly lost-fly but did not know what to be singing. During the rehearsal of the day previous I was lost in the Abbey vaults. when I took refuge down a spiral stairway. Emerging through a strange door I found myself in the peers' seats. I saw the solemn procession pass through a great door and I promptly fell in the line behind the Duke of Norfolk and Mr. Mackenzie King, the Premier of Canada, I was never so glad to see my self in all my life," laughed the speaker.

Mind Works Quickly

"On Coronation Day after the ceremony I dashed out and down the spiral stairway and this time found myself in the Abbey courtyard. There stood Queen Mary's carriage and the Royal coach. How was I to get out of the courtyard before the procession left? My mind works quickly at such a corner I found a ladder. Seizing it I walked boldly to a gate where a burly policeman eyed me suspiciously, then allowed me to pass. I stood the ladder against a nearby wall while the crowd parted to let me through and viewed the procession from the top of it while a policeman stood guard at the bottom. The Royal coach passed so close that I could almost touch it," said Mr. Wayling.

"The Coronation ceremony was one of great splendour," joked the speaker, "and one of the unforgettable pageants I have seen. Queen was dressed in pure white, surrounded by big gawgaws, and moved audibly. There she stood, a simple young man, taking on the big job of his life. The thing that was the end of his private life and the beginning of the end of the Hierarchical glare, that surrounds the throne."

"Queen Mary, the Queen Mother, stood by, looking every inch a Queen Mother. I don't think she would not think she had passed through the ordeal of the day, that no other mortal has ever experienced. Today, she is one of best-loved figures in the Empire.

Two Princesses Beloved

"In direct contrast," continued Mr. Wayling, "are the two princesses. Princess Margaret Rose is the most beloved person in the ceremony playfully dug her older sister in the ribs when the crown was placed on her head she shook her head vigorously to see if she was still there. The two princesses of the King and Queen is something that Britain is proud of. There are the two princesses brought up like your children and Canada—and I'm glad to say that," the speaker added.

In his general impressions of England the speaker dwelt for some length on Britain's place in the world. "The passing of the Canbria over Belleville a few moments ago, he said, "symbolizes that we are not invulnerable from attack. And I might say that the finest air force and finest airmen in the world, that was proven in the great war. Our Canadians today are well trained and we can train them to be great pilots here in the land of opportunity. A lot of them are going to England, where they are making good in the Royal Air Force."

"We in Canada need not worry about war. England and her Great Britain has proven to the world her will for peace. She disarmed herself to the point where she was when she saw, that others would attack her with impunity. They could not prepare. Today she is arming solely for defence. She is proving to the world the crime of another war by increasing her police force. She is ready now."

Described Flight

Mr. Wayling described his flight with a crack squadron of British fighting planes to the Royal Review at Spithead. It was a glorious sight as we took off," he said. "no less than seven planes flying in perfect formation, winging in wedge formation. We were over five and three hundred miles per hour during the Review, but due to poor visibility that was called off, thank goodness" said the speaker. "An amazing fact I learned after we had landed was that every pilot in that formation was a youth, who had been in the service less than six months. If England can do that over night, what has she got behind all this with her veteran

Let Them Down

"I have been asked on several occasions since my return, what was the general feeling in England was regarding Edward's abdication" stated the speaker. "Was he forced out, I was asked. "The general belief in England is that he was not. He asked all walks of life in England, from the peers to the laborer, the farmer and the professional men what they thought, and the answer was generally the same, 'He let us down'. There is no bitterness in England against Edward, and I think that he is being kept out of England."

"There are a number of 'Shockheaded Peters' in England who like to put him at the head of a party hoping to be return. Edwards knows this and is too big a sportsman to do anything that would involve the Empire in trouble."

As Lady Aberdeen put it. "We shall miss Edward's many admirable qualities."

The meeting concluded with a brilliant eulogy of Their Majesties the King and Queen, "in this case it is close with God save the King" he said.

The appreciation of the members of the Club was conveyed to the speaker by the President.

There Will Be No War Says Visitor from Scotland

Folks in The Old Country Not Frightened by Noise and Bombast —Rearmament of Britain Inspires Confidence—If War Threats Were Serious War Would Have Come Several Years Ago When Britain Was Weakened by Disarmament Movements — Homeland Prosperous as Never Before—Canada Pleasant Eyesopener to Breezy Optimistic Scottish Business Man Seeing ThisCountry For The First Time

Buddy of countenance, sturdy of body and stalwart of stature, a real typical Scot whose smile indicated that life is good and time while fleeting still brings much that is good to those with Colour video and abundant faith—such might fairly describe a visitor to the sanctum of this Great Family Journal, Friday, Col. David Sutherland, of Edinborough, Scotland, a visitor who brought a refreshing breath of optimism and glowing admiration for Canada on his first visit to these shores. Col. Sutherland and his wife are making an extended tour of Canada and the United States and while in Belleville are the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie. While here they will visit various relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Canada surprised him, frankly admitted Col. Sutherland, who had not expected so many evidences of prosperity and permanance, rather having anticipated seeing more smaller built homes of wood and less land cultivated. From Father Point to the St. Lawrence to Montreal a constant panorama of well-tilled farms made a smiling prosperous landscape on both banks, with villages and towns intersperced at regular intervals, their towering church spires and many schools carrying out the note of prosperity and deep contentment everywhere. This was an eye-opener to Col. Sutherland, and this impression of prosperity and permanence was deepened when he visited Montreal and Ottawa. He was much impressed with the fine appearance of business buildings and the beautiful homes in the suburbs of the cities.

Belleville's Old World Beauty

After viewing Belleville from all angles, Col. Sutherland declared himself delighted with this city. Its air of business prosperity, beautiful homes and contented citizenry. In many ways it reminds him of cities of similar size in Scotland and England.

Col. Sutherland intends to spend some time in the rural sections in the vicinity of Belleville and expects to find much to entertain and instruct him in Canada's agricultural methods, together with a close up of the cheese-making industry and the dairy industry generally.

At the completion of their visit here Col. and Mrs. Sutherland will motor to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Washington and other centres in the United States.

Homeland Prosperous

Prosperity is the key-note in the old land, said Col. Sutherland, both England and Scotland enjoying a era wave of prosperity of gratifying proportions, and not all due by any means to the rearmament program, now being rushed to a climax. An extensive housing program is being carried on under municipal and government auspices and slums are being destroyed and comfortable homes with all conveniences and attitudes. Homes are constructed under this housing program to suit the income of the family, from the two-room, kitchen, bathroom, apartment would rent at twelve pounds a year, about sixty dollars. By the system of financing that the municipality will in time have paid off the government and own the home. In Balfagh municipality, about the size of Belleville, situated eighteen miles from Edinborough, 1,000 of these houses have been erected of various sizes to suit the individual income, from two to eight rooms with bath and everything, three hundred are now under construction and five hundred more will be constructed.

Dilapidated Homes Destroyed

To show how whole-heartedly and efficiently the Scotch have gone into this housing and slum clearance business it was interesting to learn from Col Sutherland that if a house was in need of repairs rented or not, the owner was notified to make specified repairs, failing which the house was condemned, closed, and the family therein removed to one of the new model houses suitable for the purpose.

Incidentally the same municipal problems which trouble Canadians are common over there, with parking being one of the worst and seemingly unsolvable. Various plans having been tried there as here, from parking meters, paying to an hour, zoning etc—so it is comforting to know that our own problems are only one little section of world-wide problems, probably creating just enough to give us something to think about and worry over, besides a topic for argument.

There Will be No War

War clouds do not trouble the Col. Sutherland, they are satisfied there will be no war, and the various preparations visible in the British Isles are only precautionary measure to instruct the people what to do in case of enemy air raid, etc. Great Britain is re-arming in a big way and does not invite attack in consequence. If war was precipitated by any power with designs upon Great Britain this would have occurred, in Col. Sutherland's opinion, several years ago, before the re-armament program was undertaken. Besides while war talk may be big and blustery there is a strong silent sentiment deep down in those countries from which the threat may come, which would become very evident in a war crisis and effectually put a stop to such foolishness. Outside of the parliamentary ballyhoo Europe does not want war.

With Royal Scots

While his own Regiment was the Royal Scots, Col. Sutherland was attached to a British regiment during the war, and saw action on several fronts, fortunately escaping injury.

Some years ago Col. Sutherland retired from active business disposing of his large "soft goods" store in Balfagate which he had conducted for years with success. The "soft goods" store by the way being somewhat like our dry goods store with perhaps a greater variety of departments. Balfagate is a pretty little city, prosperous and progressive, and among other claims to fame was the birthplace of the James Y. Simpson, discoverer of chloroform, a boon to mankind who conferred upon humanity one of its greatest boons that pain erased and life saved. Sir James Simpson was born a poor boy and by his own ability rose gradually in the world until a gracious sovereign expressed the wish of a grateful people by raising him to knighthood.

3RD SIDNEY

3rd Sidney—Mrs. Peter Aikens, Mr. and Mrs. Lake and family of Belleville spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aikens also visiting Mr. Frank Aikens and family and calling on old friends in Sidney.

Mrs.-H. Hubble, Mrs. S. Weslowe, Mrs. A. M. Lawrence and Mrs. E. Hubble were visitors in Belleville on Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Burley,and Line. where Mrs. Burley Sr., is now visiting.

Scientist Creates Cancer in New Way

Transplanting Healthy Tissue One Part of Body to Another Causes Cancer

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Creation of cancer in a new way was announced today by Albert Fischer, Danish scientist, whose skill in growing living tissues of flesh in test tubes led the Danish government to equip and present him with a special laboratory.

He transplanted a bit of healthy, normal, non-cancerous flesh of a mouse from one part of the animal's body to another. After two or more "moving-days" of this sort, the normal tissues turned into cancer in a number of cases.

The new cancer was carcinoma, one of the two main divisions of he disease. The experiments led Dr. Fischer to a new theory of cancer, that all the normal tissues of the body contain fully developed malignant cells at all times.

Cancer appears when for some reason these malignant cells get the upper hand. Dr. Fischer's experiments are announced in the American Journal of Cancer.

He starts by pointing out that the wild growth that makes cancer is not confined to this disease. Normal cells of the body show it when repairing wounds. This is true even in old age. The difference between the repairs the body makes on a wound and cancer,is that the rapid growth of new flesh stops when the wound is healed. In cancer it does not stop.

Dr. Fischer's new theory differs from the majority opinion of cancer students. They hold not that the cancer cells are present all the time, but that cell mutations, changes in the nature of normal cells, cause cancer.

SM-3(ok over there, said Col. Sutherland, "they are satisfied there will be no war, and the various preparations visible in the British Isles are only precautionary measure to instruct the people what to do in case of enemy air raid, etc. Great Britain is re-arming in a big way and does not invite attack in consequence. If war was precipitated by any power with designs upon Great Britain this would have occurred, in Col. Sutherland's opinion, several years ago, before the re-armament program was undertaken. Besides while war talk may be big and blustery there is a strong silent sentiment deep down in those countries from which the threat may come, which would become very evident in a war crisis and effectually put a stop to such foolishness. Outside of the parliamentary ballyhoo Europe does not want war.

With Royal Scots

While his own Regiment was the Royal Scots, Col. Sutherland was attached to a British regiment during the war, and saw action on several fronts, fortunately escaping injury.

Some years ago Col. Sutherland retired from active business disposing of his large "soft goods" store in Balfagate which he had conducted for years with success. The "soft goods" store by the way being somewhat like our dry goods store with perhaps a greater variety of departments. Balfagate is a pretty little city, prosperous and progressive, and among other claims to fame was the birthplace of the James Y. Simpson, discoverer of chloroform, a boon to mankind who conferred upon humanity one of its greatest boons that pain erased and life saved. Sir James Simpson was born a poor boy and by his own ability rose gradually in the world until a gracious sovereign expressed the wish of a grateful people by raising him to knighthood.

CLOSELY BOUND

Inland Canada has been brought into close touch with the Old World with the visit of the flying boat Cambria which has finished a goodwill tour of Ontario.

Few could have believed even a few years ago that an air cruiser which is capable of crossing the Atlantic would be paying a visit so far from the eastern coast and that there would even be an airliner which would make scheduled Atlantic greetings.

What Belleville saw on Friday is but the earnest of a development in air travel which will change the entire face of the world unless a disastrous war which would halt enterprise of this kind in order to devote all attention to mobilization of the world, should break out. No man can mark off even in imagination what will be the achievements in travel.

Today in Belleville, many hundreds of miles from the Atlantic we are within a few hours of England. That is unbelievable but it has been shown.

DICTATORS MEET

Two leading men of Central Europe are meeting in Berlin and Nazi Germany will render a great welcome to Mussolini, of Fascist Italy when he comes to talk over affairs with Hitler, the National Socialist dictator of Germany. What they will talk about and how much of what they will confer upon will get to the world's ears is the subject of interesting guesses. Some claim that neither Germany nor Italy will agree at this stage to a military compact. It is said that there will be bids for agreement with the great democratic powers of the West, namely France and Great Britain.

But the meeting will provide food for many thrills and much excitement in European chancelleries and always mystery.

Knowledge of the inner circle of diplomacy must be extremely interesting but of that few will ever get to know much. As a matter of fact much is even hidden from those who take part. They know their land's story but they are dealing with careful diplomats and statesmen who do not allow even an ally or associate to know everything.

This meeting has come at a time when the names of Italy and Germany have been closely linked up with militaristic Japan since the undeclared war on the Chinese began, and also when Italy seems to be indicating a little more desire to woo the British Government. It also follows hard on the troublous question of the elimination of piratical submarines from the Mediterranean which has yet been quite settled, though submarine attacks have ceased for some days.

When the historian of the future writes the history of this age and appraises events one of the most interesting stories will be exposed, but before that takes place, some events may help to put proper value on the various diplomatic conferences.

UNNECESSARY ACCIDENTS

People are highway conscious for a number of reasons, their beauty, their importance in transportation and it must not be forgotten for the red stain which is upon them through mounting toll of fatalities. One official has said that there will be six hundred persons now living who will be dead in a year's time through accident on these fine roads, unless the motoring public changes its way, that is the careless driving public. So it is no wonder the people are highway conscious.

Dread of the thirteenth place at table may seem little to the anguish of those who have passed through the crash in which a life has been lost.

The same official said that ninety per cent of the accidents are avoidable. Some persons have taken him to task and expressed wonder why he did not say one hundred per cent of those who will be victims need not die, for in reality there is nothing that is an accident really.

The Port Arthur News-Chronicle says that "there never has been and never will be a motor traffic accident that could not have been prevented by proper precautions on the part of all involved.

It is also said that there would be a fifty per cent reduction in accidents if needless tooting of horns was stopped. Have you ever noticed how impatient some drivers get with another who does not spring away fast enough at the start light to suit those in the rear. Horns are sounded too readily.

One day recently the newspapers carried a story of highway tragedies and strangely but perhaps not so strangely almost all of the victims were pedestrians.

THE THUNDER SHOWER AT NOON

All through the still hot morning
Something seemed to wait,
Even the birds were listening
By the vine-clad gate.
Like a runner with tidings
To bear to the town,
More than once a quick wind ran
Up the street and down.

'Twas noon ere he came, the strange
God who rode unseen
High overhead, and his dark
Cloak hid the sun's sheen.
No one saw his chariot, as
It rumbled on high.
But everyone saw his bright sword
A-gleam through the sky.

With a quick hand he tilted
The cup of his shield
And threw a silver shower
Of rain to the field.
All at once the bright sun shone,
And loud in the street
Sounded the gay birds, singing
A summer song sweet.

A CARNIVAL OF FISTIC CHAMPIONS was held at the Polo Ground, New York, Thursday evening, when bouts in the various classes were held with championships supposedly at stake. In the lightweight class fifteen rounds of boxing determined that Lou Ambers would retain his championship crown against one Montenes, from Porto Rico. From the radio version of the fight, blow by blow, Clem McCarthy, it would seem to be anybody's contest, and it wouldn't be polite to take away the championship crown under those circumstances. However, fromthe radio description it would seem that it might have been ruled no contest for not fighting. The contestants hardly mussed each other's hair, there were no knockdowns, or knockouts, each embraced each other eagerly at every opportunity, and seemed reluctant to cease kissing at the referee's call of BREAK. In fact the referee was the busiest man in the ring, untangling the contestants from their frequent and fervent embraces. It was announced that Ambers was to get $65,000 for his share of the boxing contest, while Montenez was guaranteed $40,000. Sure the gashouse gang would put on a better show for two bits, a real fight. The public as usual played the sucker part, putting up his money to see pink tea boxing contests labelled prize fights. In the old days fighters would go to a finish under London Prize Ring rules and bare knuckles for less than a thousand bucks. Times have changed since John L. Sullivan, Paddy Ryan, Heenan, and other real fighters have passed on.

DERELICTS IN KINGSTON HARBOR have long been an odd sight to passing motorists—so many old hulks huddled together, as if for companionship and to reminiscence of the proud glad days when they sailed with freight and passengers from port to port—now swinging sluggishly at anchor in the port of missing ships. Now these old hulks are being dismantled and the hulls towed out to deep water and sunk. The first of these to sink ignominiously in Davy Jones graveyard was the Simla, long anchored in Portsmouth harbor. Others at Portsmouth are being dismantled for the same fate, while similar work is under way at La Salle Causeway on four derelicts. Besides the Simla, the Palmbay, Simon Langell and the barge Augustus, are under sentence, together with the steamer Starmont. Mr. Sarnor and barges Hattie Hutt and St. Louis, will soon join the Simla in 150 feet of water.

BIRTHRATE IN ITALY, GERMANY, AND RUSSIA is increasing under government encouragement, and virtually by government decree, but in the United States the birth rate has been decreasing since 1930, depression starting the decline which is not expected to reach full recovery before 1941. Washington Bureau of Education for the United States reports the estimated primary school enrollment this fall at 20,206,000 pupils, 1,000,000 lower than the 1930 peak. All of which should please Hitler and Mussolini who have been urging bigger and better babies for bigger and better armies and bigger and better wars for bigger and better glorification of the dictator nations, hardly out of the debtor nation class.

Three Brothers Charged with Murder for Avenging Death of Their Sister

Three brothers who avenged the death of Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor by shooting to death Brig.-Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, 61, at Shirleyville, Ky., were charged with murder. The three brothers—Jack, Dr. E. S. and Roy Garr—lived at Denhardt as he had charged in a previous trial. The Garr brothers, shown in the upper right as they appeared in court, indicated a self defence plea, as they told police they believed Denhardt was reaching for a gun. Slor of the hotel.

This photograph in the lower left shows spectators gathered about the front of the hotel and Denhardt's body lying at the door. He was shot as he attempted to open the front door of the hotel.

Jap Bombers Start Raids Int ended to Annihilate Nanking

During British, French, and American protests against the barbarity of their methods, and Anglo-French warnings that Tokio would be held responsible for loss of life or damage to property, Japan's aerial armada grounded for days by Japanese high command frankly muddy fields, finally unleased a fur-declares is intended to annihilate lous bomb assault upon Nanking, China's nationalist capital, killing, wounding and maiming hundreds of civilians. It was the opening raid in an aerial campaign, which the Japanese say is designed to annihilate the city of 1,000,000 people. A line-up of heavy bombers such as the ships which swept over Nanking is shown here, with an aerial view of the city in the background. Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the generalissimo, who is shown inset, heads the Chinese air forces who must face the task of halting Nippon's flying legions. Unrestricted bombing of all important Chinese cities has been threatened by the invaders.

Interrupted Romance

by Jackie Alexander

Angus laughed, quietly. "They aren't missing any here," he said. "We will all be involved in the Susquenda. I imagine. But they'll make allinsistence fast enough, and they may find something worthwhile. Carter sent a man over to the Charleston police headquarters with the fingerprints from the letter and the window ledge. He seems to have something definite in mind."

"Who is Carter?" Polly asked.

"Chief of the Inland police," Angus replied—and suddenly: "By the way, we had better be getting back. He's a pretty businessible gent and if he finds us missing, we may have to do some explaining. I think I'll be startin back, anyway. Didn't mean to break up a conference."

Jerry said, "Come on, Garbrook. We're going back. No sense in walking."

Angus protested, but Polly said, "Don't be like that, Angus," and pushed over against Jerry and the opened the door.

They were on the highway again when Polly asked, "Did you find Tony Marco waiting for you, Angus?"

Angus grunted. "There's a queer duck." he said. "I'm aware he didn't know Fordell had been murdered, but he was so jumpy he never could explain why he went over to my place. All the same I could get out of him was that he had found the study door locked and he had a hunch something was wrong. I've a faint suspicion Marco and Fordell didn't hit it off as well, but I wouldn't want to be quoted."

"You won't be," Jerry said, "because I had the same opinion myself. Did the coroner get anything out of him?"

"Not when I left the house, he hadn't," Angus laughed. "He hadn't even had a chance to talk with him. When we left my place, Marco went back as far as the beach gals at Fordell's, but he wouldn't go in. He said he would nose around a bit first. It didn't occur to me he wouldn't show up inside after a little and I went on alone. After that everything was fine. It's stiff, of course, with coroner's jury and the third degree, but then Marco's not exactly in from the picture show and Evelyn put on a brilliant performance. And after a little Julian flew in, all innocence and ignorance; and by the time the coroner got around to making a list of the family and servants and employees, Marco wasn't to be found."

Jerry said, "You don't think he's Marco."

"No, I don't," Angus said quickly. "But he's going to have a merry time of it, I can tell you that. He'not only had a record as a New York gangster, but he boasted of it; and they don't like the gangsters in this part of the country. Guilty or innocent, they'll make it hot for him. He'll have to prove a water-tight alibi."

"Marco," said Jerry, "was a moron."

"Yes, and in my opinion," Angus said, "a homicidal moron. He probably got mixed up with a gang of New York gunmen, found it too hot, and crawled out while he was still all in one piece."

Subconsciously Polly heard what was being said, but she was thinking of this past hour, of Jerry snatching her away from the rain-barrel and driving her down to the beach, of that first abrupt kiss ....of the second, and what Jerry had tried to say to her. ....I don't want to kiss you again, Polly, and this time not to comfort you or get your mind off unpleasant things, but because I ..." He had not spoken those two sweet words, but now they were a song in the air. No matter that he hadn't said them. No matter that waking to a new day there would probably wonder that he had even wanted to say them. They belonged to that moment back there on the beach, a rapturous, enchanted moment rescued from time by midnight.

Polly looked up at Jerry's dark profile and was mentally speaking his name when she felt Angus' arm thing closely over her own. Slowly she turned and met his half smile, suddenly wondering if he had seen her in Jerry's arms. She did not, whichever her fate, though Angus' touch seemed to break the last strand of a fragile web in which her thoughts had been enmeshed. She told herself: "They're both nice and I suppose they both look on me as a very young and inexperienced child who happens to be in the middle of something she doesn't know anything about and they think I need the comforting touch of a protective male." And though she had not forgotten the letter Tod had buried in the ring and its clear implication that Angus was in love with Sheila, she pushed this memory into the background of her mind as both irrelevant and unimportant. She liked these two men, she would go on liking them. And though Angus would never know it, the smile that came at last in response to his own was inspired by the whimsical thought that perhaps he too had theories about girls and moonlight.

Every one attached to the household was in the living room when they arrived, including three colored servants, standing in a frightened huddle, who had been routed from their beds.

Polly's gaze shifted from face to face. Was the murderer of Norris Fordell one of these?.... She saw the coroner motion to Angus and for a full minute the two men stood silent, talkjng in undertones. Then Angus came back to where she and Jerry stood just inside the door and she knew before he spoke he had information he considered important.

"The fingerprints on the step-ladder and the window were Marco's," he said, and added, grimacing, "How all they mean is labor. He is still among the missing."

"Poor Marco," Jerry said. "How why do you suppose Tony climbed up to that window?"

Angus looked at Jerry, but he didn't say anything. Polly's eyes widened again. "You think he didn't do it, Jerry?"

"They Marco?" Jerry said, and lifted his broad shoulders in a casual shrug. "I prefer to think he didn't do it, if that's what you mean."

"Well—" Angus said and was silent. Then: "Here, let's add it up. We have Evelyn's word for it that Fordell and Marco quarreled this afternoon. She doesn't know what it was about, but that isn't important. They quarreled and a few hours later Fordell was murdered. We find a thirty-eight calibre automatic on Fordell's desk that may not be Marco's and if it is, I have no idea why he left it there—but I do know Marco was not a thirty-eight calibre automatic. He showed it to me less than a year ago. .... All right, Polly sees a shadow on the shade and a little later Marco appears going toward my place. If anyone had a duplicate key to the study, it was Marco, for it was his job to protect Fordell. For the sake of argument, let's say it was Marco's shadow that Polly saw. Yes when I follow Marco over to my house he pretends to know nothing of the murder and denies very strangely. Then—" he gestured with his hand, "Marco disappears and fingerprints are found on the ladder and the window ledge. ... What's the answer?"

Polly's face was a crimson flame. She didn't dare look at Jerry after Evelyn's back as she and Sheila climbed the stairs. Obviously, Fordell had told his wife something of his new secretary's background, and Evelyn had twisted the facts to fit her own malicious insinuations. There was nothing of courage about she told herself. "No cad will pay the slightest attention to what she says." But when she turned at last and saw Jerry's eyes upon her, flushed face, she was suddenly self-conscious.

Jerry asked quietly, "Is she waiting through her hat, Polly?"

She stared him down. "What do you think, Jerry?"

For a moment he looked away, then meeting her gaze again, said, "I think you had better tell me all there is to tell, Polly. Then we'll decide she and Julian are on the spot and can't lay the stairs. She put him down and held his small hand in hers. "You must go back to the house, Jerry."

Her voice broke.

Jerry climbed the stairs, slowly. Tod looked down at the grave young face and said to Jerry, "Now they all down there, Polly? Is it a party?"

"Yes, of Tod." She led him through her room and into his bedroom. It was all right, Tod had Father, Polly? He hasn't gone to sleep yet, has he?"

She sat on the edge of the bed, her arm around him. "Father's busy, Tod. He won't tell me goodbye, Tod said, tearfully. He pulled up on one elbow. "He never went away before without saying goodbye."

"He couldn't, Tod. He—he didn't know he was going away. He—he found he had to go, he—"

She turned her head away, brushed the tears from her eyes, then rose, quickly. "Go to sleep now, please, darling." She bent down kissed him, and started for the door.

"But you'll tell me tomorrow—where Father's gone? Tod called after her. "I hope he hasn't taken away like Mother did. They said Mother went on a long journey", but—but she never came back...."

She stopped for the knob. "Tod, please. Tod! Tomorrow...."

They were all standing when Polly returned to the living room. At the foot of the stairs she passed Evelyn and Sheila. Evelyn glared, the color rose in her cheeks and abruptly she said:

"You're the one who told the police my Julian was out of the house when my husband was murdered!" it was an accusation and though she tried to hold her tongue, Polly replied in spite of herself:

"If Julian was out of the house when Mr. Fordell was killed, then he has nothing to worry about." She said, and then, "I remember Julian came in from the porch just as Sheila entered. I found that Mr. Fordell had been—killed. As he did."

Evelyn's violet eyes blazed. "You're lying!"

"Mother, it!" Sheila said, quickly, trying to draw Evelyn away. But Evelyn said in a raised voice:

"Julian went directly to his room—for dinner and did not leave it again until he heard the commotion downstairs. You think that I don't know why you told that lie?" Suddenly she jerked her arm free of Sheila's clinging grip and leaned toward Polly. "Why don't you tell the police you know Norris Fordell in Washington? Why don't you tell them you followed Norris Fordell from Washington to his own island? Why don't you tell them the last man you worked for died under mysterious circumstances and that you were the last person to see him alive ...."

Polly's face was a crimson flame. She didn't dare look at Jerry after Evelyn's back as she and Sheila climbed the stairs. Obviously, Fordell had told his wife something of his new secretary's background, and Evelyn had twisted the facts to fit her own malicious insinuations. There was nothing of courage about she told herself. "No cad will pay the slightest attention to what she says." But when she turned at last and saw Jerry's eyes upon her, flushed face, she was suddenly self-conscious.

Jerry asked quietly, "Is she waiting through her hat, Polly?"

She stared him down. "What do you think, Jerry?"

For a moment he looked away, then meeting her gaze again, said, "I think you had better tell me all there is to tell, Polly. Then we'll decide she and Julian are on the spot and can't lay a grain of truth in what she said to you, she's likely to cause you more than a little trouble before this is cleaned up.... You were working in Washington when Fordell was murdered? How did you know him there?"

"What do you think?" she said, her eyes challenging.

"I'm simply trying to help you, Polly."

He was, of course. She knew that. She tried to help her to think how would even consider the possibility that here was a basis of fact in what Evelyn had said. And yet there was, indeed, a basis of fact in the woman's insinuation.

"No, I didn't know him in Washington," she said, "I knew who he was, naturally, but I never saw him."

Jerry nodded. "And this man you worked for—he did die under mysterious circ—ances."

Again she was tempted not to answer, but she said at last, clinging in his sleep. They said it was his heart. As far as I know, there was no autopsy."

"And you were the last person to see him alive, Polly?"

She nodded, slowly. "Yes, I was the last person to see him alive." Again the blood rushed to her head. "I suppose the inevitable conclusion is that I murdered him and then came down there and murdered Mr. Fordell?"

A faint, hurt smile came to Jerry's lips. "I'm not the coroner or the police, Polly. I'm trying to save you the humiliation of having to explain all this in public. The only way to shut Evelyn up is to give the authorities the facts in advance .. They're after Marco now, but they'll never be able to prove Marco killed Fordell, and that means they'll begin to check every other angle. The only sensible thingto do is tell the coroner and the police what Evelyn has given them the full facts, let them make their own check."

Polly shrugged. "Whatever you say, Jerry." She studied his face. "There's just a tiny little doubt in our own mind, isn't there?"

"You really think that, Polly?"

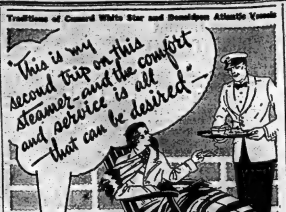
She didn't say anything and the next moment Angus came up. Presently Jerry went off and when she looked for him again, he had left the house.... He had wanted to help her and, far from being grateful, she had been downright ugly. The more she thought about it, the more incensed with herself she became and if she had had any idea she could find him, she would have gone to him and told him she had been a little fool and that she didn't want anything to happen to him, the memory of their little while on the beach. But it was after three o'clock in the morning and at last she went to her room and crawled into bed. And when she saw Jerry again, he was standing with the coroner and chief of police Carter outside the Charleston morgue.

"Tomorrow ...." Polly had said, and it was tomorrow and the sun was high in the hour the coroner's car and in their bathing suits. Polly said:

"That's how it is, Tod. Mothers and fathers go away and sometimes they don't come back for a long time. And all the while they are gone they wish to be brave and happy and not think about them too much. My father went away a long time ago and then my mother died.

"And they never came back, Polly?" Tod was staring out to sea, his little face bright with tears. "They never came back. Tod, and sometimes when I think about them, it hurts. ... But I don't know they want me to go on being happy, so—"

"Polly.... you won't ever go away and leave me, will you?"



She swallowed the lump in her throat, but it was still there. "I won't, Tod. If Evelyn will let me stay. You see, I was working for your father, Tod, and he was good to me. But whatever happens, Tod, you'll be brave and be happy and perhaps ..." She did not finish. She could not.

Tod dug his heels into the sand. He was crying now, openly, silently. "You don't mind if I—I-I-just—I-I-just a little, Polly. I c-c-can't help it!"

She put her arms around him and held him close and her own tears rolled down her cheeks and fell on his yellow head.

Weddings

PALMER—REYNOLDS

The parsonage of Holloway Street United Church at 44 Hillside Street, was the scene of a simple wedding yesterday when Clara Kathleen Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds, Marmora, became the bride of John Palmer, of the same village. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. E. Newman. Attending the bridal couple were Mr. Arthur Drinkwater and Miss Ida E. Reynolds, both of Marmora. The happy couple will reside in Marmora following the honeymoon.

LARGE—DARRAH

A quiet, but interesting wedding ceremony took place at high noon today, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Darrah, 309 Bleecker Avenue, when their daughter, Helen Leone, became the bride of James S. Large, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Large, both of this city. Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of Tabernacle United Church, officiated in the presence of a large number of intimate friends and relatives. Under a wedding bell canopied with a large wedding bell from which white streamers hung and in the room decorated with pink and white flowers, the bride was given in marriage by her father, George Darrah. The lovely bride, gowned in New Rose Chiffon Velvet with gold accessories and carried a huge bouquet of rust roses and orchids. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Pascoe, gowned in Midnight Blue velvet and also carried "mums" and roses. The groom was attended by "Pat" Day. Mrs. Arthur Nayler played the wedding music.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served and a reception held. A huge wedding cake decorated the centre of the table artistically decorated for the occasion. Congratulations were poured on the happy couple and Rev. D. T. McClintock proposed the health of the bride and groom in a short but inspiring address. The couple left soon after the reception for Toronto and Western Points, the bride travelling in a knitted suit of Spanish Rose, brown coat and matching accessories, on their return they will reside in Belleville. Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in the younger set of the city and all will wish them many happy years.

AFTERNOON TEA A REAL SUCCESS

Even the weather on Friday afternoon smiled and made a conspicuous success the afternoon tea held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Corbett, on Bridge Street, in aid of the Milk Fund of King George Home and School Club.

With the hostess, Miss Corbett, receiving the guests, was Mrs. Charles Bankey, President of the Club. The beauty of the spacious living room was enhanced by tastefully arranged brass jardinieres of autumn flowers, salvia, Michaelmas daisies and asters. The tea table with its beautiful white madeira cloth in centre of dark red salvia in a blue pottery bowl and coronation blue candles was the pastoral inspiration. Presiding at hostesses were Mrs. H. J. Clarke, and Mrs. L. A. Kells. Followed later in the afternoon by Miss A. Lounsbery and Miss J. Smyth. Assisting in serving were Mrs. R. E. Smith, Mrs. A. Wells, Miss Frances Mc-Mrs. O. A. Stewart and Mrs. W. Mitchell. Mrs. W. Johns and Mrs. W. Harrison kept the tea urns replenished while assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. H. Musgrave, Mrs. R. Blakely, Mrs. J. Little and Mrs. R. C. Ashbury.

The home-cooking table under the direction of Mrs. F. Turner, Mrs. C. Osmond and Mrs. J. Arnott was unique in its arrangement and the wide veranda against the setting of late summer plants. Mrs. H. Quinsey was in charge for the afternoon and Mrs. A. Hilchon general convenor.

BRIDE-TO-BE IS GIVEN SHOWER

Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 22 1937 the home of Mrs. R. Mills taste-fully decorating for the occasion was the scene of a happy gathering when the Misses Eileen and Dorothy Mills were hostesses at a shower given in honor of a very popular bride-to-be, Miss Bessie Bleecker.

The early part of the afternoon was spent enjoying contests etc after which Miss Dorothy Reid called on the bride-to-be to take a prominent place and read the address after which Miss Mae Lois Mills drew in a wagon bearing a basket full of gifts. The basket was decorated in pink and white with a dainty little bride standing beneath the wedding bell on top of the gifts.

Miss Bleecker unwrapped the gifts which were varied and useful after which in a few well chosen words she thanking her friends for the interest they had taken in her and for the gifts.

A delicious lunch was served by the Misses Mills and Miss Eileen Vanderwater assisted by Mrs. R. Mills and Mrs. F. Monk. Miss A. Horton poured coffee.

Guests of the group were taken on the lawn after which the guests departed for their homes wishing the bride-to-be a long and happy life.

Following is the address:
Halloway, Ontario.
Sept. 22 1937

Dear Bessie:

We your friends and girl companions have gathered here this afternoon to spend a short time with you before you enter into a new and happy exerience on the threshold of wedded bliss.

We feel we could not opt let this occasion pass without expressing to you our appreciation for your fine sterling character and the way you have helped us at all times. Your talents have always been at our request and never once have you failed to respond to it. For this Bessie, we feel deeply grateful.

We are reminded, too, not only of your willingness to aid us but of your friendly and jolly nature at all our gatherings. We have ever found you a true friend in every sense of the word, and it is a pleasure to know that we may still have your companionship in the future.

It is the wish of all present today that prosperity, love, health and happiness shall attend you wherever you may roam, especially happiness for life is dull and drear without it. There is a way which will lead you to it called "The Road to Happiness."

This is the road to happiness, Start now, from where you are.
Turn to the right and keep straight on,
And you'll not find it far.

Along the path of willing feet,
And over Heart Ease Hill,
Across the fields of Sweet Content,

The stream of Glad Good Will.

Then through the lane of Loving Heart,
Across that's called To-day,
And down the steps of Little Things,
Into the Common Way.

And take the cloak of Charity,
The staff of Wise Employ,
A pair of Need of Daily Grace
A flask well filled with Joy.

A word of cheer, a helping hand
Some good to give or share,
A bit of song, a high resolve,
And you'll find Road of Happiness.

For Happiness does not roam.

May you find the road not hard to follow—and happiness to greet you at the end.

We ask you now to accept these miscellaneous gifts as an expression of the regard in which you are held. May each individual token remind you of our feelings of good will for you.

Signed on behalf of your girl friends

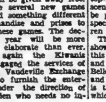
Kiwanis Big Indoor Circus Oct. 19th to 22nd to Present Many New Novel Attractions

October 19-20-21-22 promise to be Red Letter days in Belleville, for once again the Kiwanis Club come to the public with what they claim is their greatest effort in their annual Carnival to be held in the Arena on the above dates.



It promises to be all new this year, introducing several new novelties such as a contest to crown some lucky girl Miss Belleville, "Queen of the Kiwanis Carnival." There will be two special matinees for ladies principally, when a Fashion Show will be staged. A lucky number program. And the formation of the United States—"Bank Night" every night—fifty dollar bills will be given away free. There will be several new games this year, and something different in the merchandise and prizes to be won at these games. The decorations this year will be more effective and elaborate than ever.

And once again the Kiwanis Club have engaged the services of the Canadian Vaudeville Exchange of Toronto to furnish the entertainment, under the direction of Mr. Bill Garden who needs no introduction to Belleville audiences.

They will present their newest and most elaborate Revue—"Sensations of 1938" with all new faces, all new talent, garnered from far and wide featuring sensational and thrilling novelty acts—georgously costumed and pretty dancing girls—radio stars—comedians, singers, dancers and musicians. It's tops in fast, clean entertainment and if you have liked the previous productions staged by this the largest firm of Theatrical producers in Canada, you will certainly rave over their newest and most elaborate production "Sensations of 1938"—with fifty top-notch artists and beautiful scenic and lighting effects. It will be presented once nightly, with a special matinee for school children on the opening day.

The ever popular dance and floor show will be given also. All in all this promises to be the biggest and best Carnival ever staged in Belleville, so plan to attend now, and remember this thing to say is that most worthy cause for which the Kiwanis are noted.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TREATING THE FEVERISH CHILD

One of the natural mistakes mothers make when a youngster has a little rise in temperature is to give some fever reducing remedy, when, as a matter of fact, the body's temperature has been raised in order to fight off the ailment or infection. Of course, if the temperature is unduly high, it should be reduced.

Dr. Joseph K. Calvin, Chicago, in the Chicago Medical Society Bulletin, stated:

"If the fever produces restlessness loss of appetite and other symptoms, or reaches 104 degrees Fahrenheit, measures to reduce it should be made. A rapid tub bath in lukewarm water is much better than sponging with far less exposure to the child. Wet, tepid, flannel packs or packs about the body, or wet sheet packs including arms and legs are good fever reducers, if kept wet with tepid or cool water. Such packs can be left on until the desired reduction of temperature is obtained. If a convulsion occurs, relaxation can usually be secured in a tepid, not hot, tub bath, followed by a wet pack and an ice bag to the head."

There are two or three other suggestions by Dr. Calvin that should prove of great help to mothers, worried about the youngster's fever.

First, the youngster should be kept in bed during the fever. There is always the chance that some childhood infection is present and the patient's heart reserve must be maintained.

As the youngster has lost his appetite starch foods that he likes, and plenty of liquids should be given. The foods will keep up his strength and the liquids will help rid the system of poisons and wastes by way of the kidneys.

"A daily movement of the bowels is desirable and this can be accomplished by a mild laxative such as milk of magnesia, an enema, or a suppository, depending on the mother's and the child's preference. Seldom, if ever, does a child or even a child's physician use castor oil, calomel, or salts. An enema every other day during an acute illness is enough as there is not much waste to be removed.

These suggestions about treating the feverish child by Dr. Calvin can be readily followed by most mothers.

Empress Pens Sympathy

Japan's beautiful EMPRESS NAGAKO, who, with her country engaged in a war of major proportions against China, penned a piece of sympathy and consolation for the soldiers' families as home. She wrote:

"There are no words

FRIENDS HONOR YOUNG COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tighe Are Presented With Lovely Gifts

The Front Road friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summers to present Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tighe (nee Annie Summers, with an address and presentation. The address was read by Miss Francis Bradshaw at the close of which a handsome silver tea service and an electric lamp were presented to the newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Tighe thanked them in a suitable manner after which refreshments were served A social evening followed. The address is as follows:

Sept. 22, 1937

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Tighe;

Having learned of your recent marriage, we your friends gathered here tonight, feeling we could not let this opportunity pass without meeting with you in your old home once more to extend to you our best wishes for your happiness in the coming years of your married life together.

You, Annie, will be greatly missed by your Front Road friends, during the years you have lived among us we have found you to be a shining example of the perfect neighbour and friend.

It isn't looks or style
Just something that you can't explain

That makes them seem worth while
It isn't anything they say
Or anything they do
But when it is that makes a friend

We have found it all in you.

Mr. Tighe, you are not as well known among us, but it is our hope to become better acquainted as time goes on. We contribute our part in your happy choice of a life partner and extend to you the hand of friendship and our good wishes for long years of happiness.

We are glad to know your home is to be near us. We shall still be able to continue our friendly relations with each other, sharing each others joys and sorrows as we journey through life.

We now ask you to accept this gift as a slight token of our regard for you with the wish that it may be the source of the good wishes and blessings of your Front Road friends.

What Local Theatre Managers Say About Coming Attractions

AT THE CAPITOL

"Case Against Mrs. Ames" and "Mountain Music"

Two of the most drama-packed situations which can enter any woman's life engulf Madeleine Carroll in the title role of "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," at the Capitol Theatre on Sunday midnight at 12.06, as revival hit No. 1, brought back by popular demand.

Mrs. Ames is first charged with the murder of her husband, then with loss of her only child through a court action.

Miss Carroll appears as the beautiful wife of a California millionaire handsome socialite, who is found fatally shot under circumstances which damn her as the murderess. She is brought to trial, defended by Alfred Mowbray, a prominent attorney retained for her by one of her most bitter enemies—the wealthy and powerful mother of her slain husband.

From the moment of the story's opening during the sensational court trial, things happen with terrific rapidity.

Suddenly realizing that her own attorney is seemingly pulling his punches in her defense, Miss Carroll dramatically asks the court to permit her to left her own story.

The trial over, Miss Carroll still stands accused of the murder of the one she loved, but for her ordeal is followed immediately by the second, a fight by her mother-in-law for custody of her child. "The 5,000 pound baby" who stands to inherit the Ames fortune.

Even more bitter and packed with drama than the murder trial, the contest for the son brings startling revelations and concludes starred with Miss Carroll, has been her most dramatic appearance.

He vows that he will "bust the Ames case wide open" and produce new evidence of Mrs. Carroll's guilt. He tries—and the case is broken wide open in another fashion.

"Three Cornered Moon"

Shown as bit No. 2 on this grand revival program is "Three Cornered Moon" with an all star cast of "stars", headed by Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen and Mary Boland.

Today Only

At the Capitol today (Saturday) only, Gene Autry in a thrilling western, "Round Up Time in Texas" with some of the singing and comedy supplied by the one and only Smiley Burnett. In addition a selected program of short subjects. Evening show at 6.15 with last complete show at 9.30.

AT THE BELLE

"The Good Earth"

Pearl Buck's Sensational Tale of China with Paul Muni and Luise Rainer

The Most distinguished motion picture to reach the screen since the inception of talkies is announced for presentation at the Belle today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, starring Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer photoplay version of Pearl S. Buck's widely-real novel, "The Good Earth." Three years in the making, the dramatic scenes necessitating the transformation of a California mountainside into a Chinese landscape with acres of rice fields, gardens and Villages. "The Good Earth" is not only an artistic achievement but is one of the most stirring, most vibrating and gripping stories ever to be unfoldegi on the screen in the history of picture-making.

No little of this is due the portrayals of its two stars, Paul Muni and Luise Rainer for both respective roles of the poor Chinese farmer, Wang, and his obedient, self-effacing slavegirl wife, O Lan. Here are performances of sheer brilliance and acting intensity. Muni and Miss Rainer not only make you see in the Chinese farmer and his wife but feel them, breathe them and believe in them. It is questioned whether any two other personages of either screen or stage could have played these roles as Muni and Luise Rainer play them.

In admirable support of the stars is headed by Walter Connolly, Tilley Losch, Charley Grapewin, Jessie Ralph and hundreds of Chinese players outstanding of which is the work of Keye Luke in the role of Hai Lui Sunanna Kim, Chingwan Lee, William Law and Soo Yong. The excellent work of the cast together with the sensitive, artistic and perceptive directing of Sidney Franklin fuse the whole of the narrative together, giving it a sparkling clarity and emotional depth.

"The Good Earth" is a picture of pictures. Direction, camera work, sound recording and backgrounds are outstanding triumphs, but above all you will remember the portrayals of Paul Muni and Luise Rainer as the central figures of the enthralling material.

The Belle Leisure World News Events will be exhibited on the same program.

Performances start daily at 2.30, 6.45, and 9.15. For your perfect enjoyment,—if "The Good Earth" it is suggested that you please see it from the beginning at 2.30, 6.50 and 9.30 p.m.

Yankees Win Their First Start As 1937 Pennant Winners By Downing Red Sox 5 - 1

Now 13 Games up And Ready For World's Series

GIANTS, CUBS IDLE

Diffy Dodgers Have Chances to Put Giants on Spot

(By Ed Feder)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bill Terry has his fingers crossed "Rolling Bolly", Grimes has his tongue in his cheek, and Brooklyn's drooping (but still Daffy) Dodgers are ready to give their all to make history repeat for dear old Gowanus.

Anything can happen now. The Giants, sporting a 2 1-2 game edge and seemingly headed for the National Baseball League pennant, tangle with the Dodgers in a series opening today. And the Brooklyns, struggling with a nine-game losing streak, would like nothing better than to beat their best-loved enemy right out of the picture.

There was no change in the National League picture on yesterday's program. The Cubs, travelling in from the West, had the day off; The Cubs, 2 1-2 games behind in second place, had a date with the Cardinals, but rain in St. Louis washed it out after an inning of play.

In the American League, meantime, the Yankees began the polishing process for the start of the World Series less than two weeks off by topping the Red Sox 5-1 in their first start as 1937 pennant winners.

The win was the Yanks' 97th of the year and gave them a lead of 13 games over the second-place Detroit Tigers, who met up with Dempsy Calabosas on one of his few good days of the season and were whipped 2-1 by Cleveland Indians.

In the only other game on the program, Cincinnati Reds made four errors in one inning and were trampled by the Pirates 8-2. Every other club in the big show had a holiday.

CORNWALL LOSES TO TERRIERS 17-6

Lacrosse Series Even And Third Game in Toronto on Monday

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 25.—(CP)—Canadian champions for the last three years, Orillia Terriers today were back in the running for the all-Canada championship.

Defeated 11-10 at home Wednesday by Cornwall Indians, Eastern Ontario's all-star aggregation, the Terriers smashed through to a 17-6 victory in the second of their best-of-three series here last night to force a deciding game at Toronto Monday.

Attributing the Wednesday upset to over-confidence, the Terriers settled down to business, out-played and out-scheduled their heavier opponents and left no doubt after the first few minutes of the game as to the outcome.

Their passing combinations clicked with precision as they fired the Indians with their speedy style of play. Cornwall faded in the game and centred after a brief flash of form in the second quarter concentrated on trying to keep the ball out of their nets, guarded well by Chuck Gamache.

Winner of the all-Ontario championship meets Montreal Canadiens, Quebec titlists, for the chance to represent Eastern Canada at Vancouver against the best of the West. Terrier left no doubt they were set on making the trip.

Joe Cheevers and Ernie Curran were Orillia's top goal-getters but all was distinctly to pick an outstanding member of the Terrier team as they concentrated on teamwork that usually ended in the Indian's nets. Cheevers and Curran both were good for three goals.

Gamache looked good for Cornwall as he turned away many accurate-looking shots. Percy Whitford, who sank two goals and fired the Indians with his enthusiasm, stood out for the locals.

CHIEF LYNX PINS SELF IN BOUT WITH AL DUNLOP

Pro Wrestlers Return For Fall Term at Arena

THREE GOOD BOUTS

Dunlop Performs On Main Stunt Card

Iron Man

With the patrons standing in their seats and shouting for a fall, Buffalo Joe, alias Chief Lynx, the Rama Reserve Indian, practically lost the main bout of last night's wrestling show at the Arena when he topped over backwards, after having Al Dunlop, the Cleveland rubberman, practically at his mercy in the third round. The wily Indian and Dunlop had each won a fall in the main bout, when Buffalo Joe turned the aggressor and gained a strong arm and body hold, from the rear. Suddenly Dunlop lunged backward and the Indian lost his balance, both grapplers crashing to the mat and while in reverse gear, Chief Lynx was counted out as the patrons sat in amazement.

Professional wrestling returned to the Belleville Arena last night, with three sterling bouts, Al Dunlop, the Cleveland heavy, assuming the "Ironman" act by wrestling to a 30 minute draw with Johnny Gyroff, the lithe Hungarian lad. In the preliminary and subsequently beating Buffalo Joe, alias Chief Lynx in main bout. Dunlop and Lynx tossed each other hither and thither with gusto and abandon, no holds were barred and the contestants staged a slugfest, that would put Joe Louis and Tommy Farr to shame. Fists, elbows and knees were used although the boys actually showed more wrestling holds than have been seen locally in many moons. In the first round Dunlop gained a double hammerlock and applied the pressure with might and main, but the Redskin did not concede the fall and finally gained the ropes to save himself and return to floor Dunlop with three rapid-fire flying mares and win with a press in something like 25 minutes.

Torrid Smashes

The second round saw the boys again revert to exchanges of torrid elbow smashes with Chief Lynx being by far the most courteous of the two behemoths of the brawl and eventually falling victim to a reverse body hold as Dunlop knotted matters up to win with a reverse body slam. The Indian was the aggressor in the third and final round. He gained a dual armlock and body hold from the rear and seemed ultimate winner when suddenly Dunlop lunged backwards and Chief Lynx toppled over backwards to fall on his back, where he was counted out, having practically pinned himself beneath Dunlop. The patrons of the brawl were far from satisfied, as Dunlop brought the wrath of the fans upon his shoulders for repeated gouging of al.

Frank Slavic, the 170 pound little Hungarian, proved too strong for Frenchy Labbe, Quebec, and won in two straight falls over his lighter opponent. This bout proved fast, clean and saw two nimble and agile grapplers stage one of the fastest bouts ever seen locally. The fans sat in the pews and applauded with hand-claps, the agility and speed with which these two boys worked. It really was a treat. Labbe was much the speedier, but Slavic proved the stronger. Slavic won the first fall in a little less than 15 minutes with a rolling cradle hold, following a series of masterfully applied Irish whips. Slavic repeated this done by pinning Labbe the second time with a full nelson swing and press.

The absence of Dan Petroff and Joe McDougal, the former not arriving from Boston, resulted in Al Dunlop and Johnny Gyroffy wrestling to a 30 minute draw in the preliminary. During this bout the boys were all knotted up, resembling the monthly advertised pretzel at times and also applied many pounding holds. The consistants were in the throes of a dual arm and leglock, both being the aggressor, as the final bell sounded. Incidentally Dunlop is a much improved wrestler, his bouts in the larger centres this season having proved helpful in his profession.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

—By Ken J. Colling

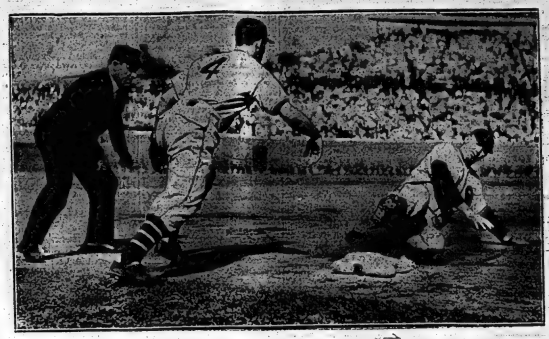
So, in all likelihood, Frank "King" Clancy will coach the Montreal Maroons next season. Clancy, one of the most dynamic figures ever to grace the N.H.L., was retired from active service last season, to act as the Toronto Maple Leafs' "goodwill ambassador," during which time he is reported to have done considerable scouting for Connie Smythe and company. We remember the first time Clancy ever played in Toronto. It was at the old Mutual Street Arena when Ottawa was playing the old Toronto Arenas. Babe Dye, Reg. Noble, John Ross Roach, and others were with the Arenas that night. Babe Dye scored the winning goal in overtime, as we remember it, but the big feature of the game was Clancy's speed. At times the Toronto forwards stood still and assumed that look of—"What's the use, we can't catch him, anyhow", as Clancy travelled up and down the ice in fireball fashion. "The King" was really travelling in high gear that night, you see it was his first appearance in Toronto and naturally he wanted to make a good impression, much to the chagrin of the Toronto players, however.

Clancy has a lifetime job as "goodwill ambassador" for the Leafs, if he wants it, he says Daryl Harron Smythe, but the Leaf management will not stand in his way if he wants to take his hand at coaching. There is one thing, however Clancy will not be permitted to do—play for another team, if he leaves the Leafs. Regardless as to where Clancy appears, the Leafs reserve he will have the good wishes of the general hockey public.

While on the subject of hockey players we might as well comment. Understand the Port Colborne "Sailors" are prepared to place a strong senior hockey team in the O.H.A. this season. The Sailors hope to be included in a strong loop that will include themselves, Hamilton, a Toronto entry and Oshawa. The Sailors have a few additional stars besides those to appear here on Friday versus the Flyers in the Allan Cup playdowns.

The above proposed arrangement is far from the set-up the senior hockey moguls spoke to us about a few weeks ago. The Motor City hockey members were then prepared to place a team in a group that would include Hamilton, Toronto, K. C. A. F. "Flyers" and either Queens University or a Kingston club.

Conducting a pre-season hockey school the New York Americans will train at Calgary, the Rangers at Winnipeg, Boston Bruins at Hershey, Pa., and the Maroons at Montreal. The Black Hawks train at Hibbing, Mich., while the other teams have not definitely selected their training sites. Incidentally, Glen Brydson, Kelleher Coleman, has left for Chicago and will join the Hawks in training next week. Brydson, it will be remembered, wanted to play baseball in the South Hastings League this season, but his professional hockey status debarred him.



Reports coming out of Trenton are to the effect that unless the artificial ice is installed in the Belleville Arena, the Flyers will be playing their home games in Shea's Oshawa or Kingston. Personally we do not believe such rumours, for various reasons. First, neither Oshawa or Kingston would support the Flyers in the same manner Belleville would, environs did last winter, they have hockey clubs of their own. Then the matter of travelling expenses would invariably absorb practically all of the receipts of the team continued through its schedule. We happen to know approximately the net gate receipts enjoyed by the Flyers last winter and no hockey club would consider moving the venue of their games after such a successful season. Flyers made money during their regular schedule, which is unusual throughout the regular season.

We understand the B.C.A.F. will again enter the Kingston pre-season league for training purposes. With the exception of Frank Lowrey and Roy Laing the Flyers are intact, although rumours have Stan Partridge retiring. There are a couple of new hockey players now stationed at the Airport, but if the Flyers are loaded in against Oshawa, Queens and Peterborough they will need more than two additional players. Also we know the Petes have imported three high-class juniors, while Oshawa, made a creditable showing in the senior ranks last winter. The Flyers' management intimated recently they would like to locate in the eastern section, possibly with Gananoque, Kingston and Queens, if possible. After winning the intermediate "A" championship last winter, however, the O.H.A. may step in and order them into the stronger group along with Oshawa and Peterboro.

Just what the Orillia Terriers are trying to pull off is not particularly to any great extent. The Terriers and the Cornwall Indians met at Orillia recently, with the latter winning 11 to 10. Many of the fans were disappointed about the final result, as the Terriers had rallied in two fast goals in the initial period. At any rate the Terriers annexed the Toronto leg of a third and final game, when they stepped into Cornwall and won to the tune of 17 to 6 on Friday evening. Whether the Terriers garnered in a baptism of the oats of the return, along with their victory, is not known at this writing. Also, but there are a few who do not believe the Terriers did not try too hard at home.

Do you remember when Bobby Jones climaxed his "grand slam" of golf seven years ago today when he captured the United States amateur title at Philadelphia. He had previously won the British amateur and open and the U. S. open.

guished party as candidate in this riding. I can assure you he is a real man and one we can trust.

The contrast between the party represented by the Premier, Mr. Hepburn and that represented by the Hon. Mackenzie King was, indeed a strange and noticeable one, he pointed out. "We have Hepburn's party platform condemning the policy of the Hon. Mackenzie King to an extent, which is noticeable even to a child," How many Mackenzie King Liberals do you see working for the Hepburn Liberal now?" asked the speaker.

The time is no longer when politicians can assume office merely upon the strength of promises, continued Mayor Arnott. Now the record of the party is the one which is looked upon. The promises that have been made, and broken after office has been gained. "In after three years of maladministration of government in Ontario, Mr. Hepburn who is again appealing to the electorate for a second term, knows himself very little about how he has failed.

"It is a great thing, the brilliant way of doing things, of writing out a promise, the final say and deciding by their franchise what shall be called a promise. Now I appeal to you on behalf of the Conservative party to repudiate completely Mr. Hepburn and his party, and the government he has given us in the last three years past. I ask you to consider all angles before your judgment is cast.

Plenty of Promising Claim

"We have had promises, promises, promises. We may have been fooled once—anyone is liable to be, but there is no reason why we should be fooled twice.

"This time Mr. Hepburn makes his main appeal on two things, a supposed cut in taxation which, when carefully scrutiny will appear to be no cut at all, and the abolition in the fee for motor car licenses. These weren't cut three years ago, nor two years ago, but now, on the eve of an election. You can draw your own conclusions from that.

"I am in this fight to the very last, but so far as I can I will make it a clean fight. This is no time for side issues or for personalities. There is too much at stake for that. Dr. Faulkner is a personal friend of mine and I respect him. But I cannot respect the party to which he belongs," declared Mayor Arnott.

The C.I.O. bogey has been raised by Premier Hepburn in an attempt to distract the attention of electors of the Province from many of the main issues of the day, it was charged by Mayor Arnott, who devoted brief moments to an explanation of how trouble started in Oshawa, pointing out where they were it was claimed by them, denied the rake in rises given fellow workers across the border engaged on the same work for the same company. It was explained how an attempt was made to have a union formed for self protection following a walk out from the plant, and the determined efforts to prevent the organizer from carrying out the expressed wish of the workers. The story of the eight hundred Oshawa war veterans who marched to the Cenotaph, there to deposit a wreath in memory of the fallen dead, and their formation of a self constituted police body afterward, which took particular care, that every worker in that city obey the law, even beyond the legal limits for fear of "an invasion of troops to settle the trouble."

Using Own Right

"Yet there was no trouble. The men were merely using their inalienable right, the right to join any union they wished. Perfect order was maintained in Oshawa. But soldiers were rushed in there just the same. You remember how Mr. Hepburn filled the newspapers with scare headlines and thrilling news of strikers and the danger that existed, and the call to Windsor, to say that went up? That's the hoppy that Hepburn has now resurrected. Then he could find nothing else.

"That," promised Mayor Arnott "is my hope, to have Mayor Alex Hall himself, of that city, come down here to Belleville and tell us all about this thing, the same as he has told thousands of others, who I am gradually exchanging the last to the real thing."

Outbursts of applause greeted this announcement by the Mayor.

Two platforms of two different parties are presented to the electors of the Province, declared the West Hastings candidate. They stand in direct contrast, it was advised. One a flimsy, shaky structure, built without foundation and supported by promises, that are as thin as they appear. They have the choice of a second one, built solidly on a foundation of trust and worthy issue and stability and integrity.

"Which will you choose?" asked Mayor Arnott in conclusion.

To the tune of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" sung by the hall, the speaker took his seat.

Introduced by Chairman

Introduced by Chairman Harry Rollins, president of the Belleville Conservative Club, Col. Sir Gardiner, K.C., Deputy Reeve, Forest Hill, Toronto, the principal speaker received also the same warmth of welcome as evidenced with the arrival of Mayor Arnott. Humility is acknowledged the welcome and paid tribute to their choice of the candidature for Richard Arnott as candidate.

"This year you have a choice. I stand here not as a politician, but as one of the younger generation of Conservatives that industrial, arrogant, overbearing government of the past three years turned out at the polls in overwhelming fashion.

"The backbone of the Conservative party has been the young man within its ranks, the younger men who have been able to put their shoulders to the wheel and go forward in spite of it all.

"You have welcomed this election for at last they are going to have their say in the manner in which they may say anything. Because during the past three years they have not been ruled by Legislation, but by "Proclamation."

"One wonders what a man like Hepburn who received the largest majority last election ever returned by any Premier before him should want to come to the country when he had at least two more years left for himself and party in office. But the wonder disappears when one thinks why is analyzed.

Lost Respect is Claim

"He has lost the respect of the people of the Province of Ontario. Canada as well during those three short years by the arrogance he has displayed, by his dictatorial attitude he has assumed since taking office. He knows he has to do something quickly before he gets any deeper in distaster. Thus you have a snap call election.

"The better class of Liberals have deserted not only Hepburn, but have turned to the Conservative party, declared Mr. Gardiner. He cited the instance of Dr. Jas. McQuibban, a prominent Liberal who has been selected as Conservative candidate for North Wellington. He cited also the case of W. F. McCaffrey, who broke out of Queen's Park with the remark attributed to him that he was the last of the sitting in Queen's Park. Hepburn's policy, he continued, dictated by Hepburn, which are entirely foreign to Liberalism."

Hepburn declared that this very keenly and he knows the cause is a lost one. He has had to act quickly," declared Mr. Gardiner.

The Hon. Arthur Roebuck and the Hon. Peter Heenan, K.C. Croll were recounted by the speaker as two of the most independent men in the Cabinet.

"Yet, when the C.I.O. question came up these two ministers, men not even consulted. Hepburn merely chopped their heads off when they disagreed with him on his policy concerning it. Then he threw them out of the Cabinet. It will thus be that this does not go in Ontario.

Scoffs Suggestion

Mr. Gardiner scoffed at the suggestion any Prime Minister would be forced to go to the people for a mandate to maintain law and order. "We never heard of such a thing," he asked. "No matter what party be in, if he be a Prime Minister he is under oath compelled to maintain law and order. That is one of the inherentes of the country behind him with which to do it? If he is injected into any of the duties or functions in this respect the British Constitution will put him out in no uncertain fashion.

"The declaration of the C.I.O. Premier Hepburn also overstepped the bounds of his authority, declared his speaker.

"In the first place he did what no leader is expected to do in the British practice. He entered a laborting man's dispute. Instead of standing by and acting as judge or referee, he took an active part. He injected himself into it. But he knew that as the result of the East Hastings by-election he would have to have some provincial issue to twist to make as much capital out of it as possible. That the matter was no issue at all. Nor is it now. But does he care. Not he. Ever since the people have been given some information on it?

"Labor may join any union it likes as long as the law is observed. The only issue in this election is the record of the government for the past three years, declared Mr. Gardiner. And in the campaign of 1934 Hepburn promised two years of rest, one was to reduce taxes, the other reduce the debt of Ontario.

Debt Not Reduced

"In the year 1934 when Premier Hepburn took office the debt was declared to be $10 millions of dollars. Now it is $12,000 debt increase every day," stated Mr. Gardiner reading from a sheet of notes. A red book, stated to be the 1937 Budget Address of Premier Hepburn from which he held up for inspection.

"He called that a "Sunshine Budget". It should be named the "Dismal Swamp Budget" commented the speaker.

The debt of the Province in 1934 was $10 millions. But since then there has been an increase of $2 millions a year, or a total of $6 millions to date, the sum taken from the Hydro by him to reduce the debt. Another $5 million also should be added to this, the sum which he is going to set aside for bad building. He's going to put a million dollars riding and a man on its every member's back yard," declared Mr. Gardiner, and supported by promises, that are as thin as they appear. They have the choice of a second one, built solidly on a foundation of trust and worthy issue and stability and integrity.

"Which will you choose?" asked Mayor Arnott in conclusion.

To the tune of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" sung by the hall, the speaker took his seat.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)— Attempts to rally the stock market today met with further reverses.

Recoveries running to 3 points appeared shortly after the dash, but leaders soon ran into sufficient offering to halt the comeback and improvement was cancelled in many instances, or converted into declines.

The latest buying provided little incentive either way. Transfers were around 1,200,000 shares.

Among Canadian issues, International Nickel and Dome Mines climbed around a point. Fractional advances were made by Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and McKinney Porcupine. Off slightly was Canadian Pacific. Canada Malting a little while Dominion funds held even at par.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, Sept. 25.—(CP) — Short covering gave some groups of the Toronto stock exchange mixed lift in the first hour of today's trading but later the selling was better than the buying and the market drifted down again to show more losses than gains at the close.

Base Metals were the strongest group in the early stages. Noranda bulged 1 1-2 points and Sherritt 2. Nickel held up while the gains of the leaders were almost entirely lost before the close.

Siscoes dipped to a minor low but came back to show a minor net gain. Mining Corporation and Nipissing also showed a firm up and up.

A group of the medium-price Golds, including Pamour, Pickle Crow, Little Long Lac, Sylvanite, Sisco, Lamaque, Pandora, Read-Authler and McKenzie slipped back 7 to 15 cents.

PATRICIA CALFERY, 2, KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR

Running from between two parked cars today, directly into the path of a motor car driven by Mrs. Ida Cullen, Michigan City, Indiana, little Patricia Calfery, two years old, 59 South Front St., sustained a slight concussion but no fractures. She was taken to the surgery of Dr. W. J. Kennedy and later to the hospital where she was X-rayed. The driver of the car was not held.

CHEESE BOARD

Three prices were again registered on today's regular trading at the Belleville Cheese Board. Volume was fairly heavy as registered on the Board.

A total of 2176 white and 226 colored cheese were offered. 1751 white cheese sold at 13 13-16 cents. The balance of white sold at 13 3-4 cents. An initial bid of 13 cents had been registered. A price of 14 1-16 cents was accepted for the colored cheese.

Buyers were — Mr. Cook, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Murphy and Mr. Fraleigh.

Buyers present were Messrs. Meyers, Taylor, Hart, Hunter, McCreary, Cook, Morton, Fraleigh, Murphy and Johnson.

GRAVEL-LADEN

From Red Rock the crew and those on the tug Sarnia were rushed to Port Arthur by automobile. Keeping in touch with Collector of Customs at Port Arthur by telephone and wireless, Captain Hall of the tug Sarnia received instructions to proceed to Red Rock and his search brought him to the foundering barge in the shivering passengers. The throughmore appeared more than eight hours after the Neeltje went to the bottom.

Decision to Make Run

Konderka, barge captain, said the decision to make the barge his shelter off Moss Island from right Monday morning until early Tuesday o'clock Friday morning. Lake Superior gales drove the craft to cover from Thursday night until early Saturday morning.

Then with a hundred yards from Moss Island shelter the storm whipped in the Neeltje out of control. Konderka said no explosion rent the craft. High seas, kicked up by the terrific winds, flained in The Neeltje, 193 feet long, with a 32-foot beam, went down shortly after seven o'clock.

Wave Breaks Over Rudder

"We ran into the storm under-way from Moss Island when a terrific wind struck us and we lost the engine's bulwarks," said Konderka. "Then the waves began to pound us and I knew something was wrong so I slashed the tow rope on the Nelson Donaldson."

"Another big wave crashed over the bulwarks and I noticed the vicinity once or twice from the Nelson Donaldson. Then a wave came on me and suddenly all almost engulfed under water. Nobody got a look after that and by the time I got back the Nelson was gone."

Konderka from the barge one of the crew appeared to grasp Mate Harvey, by Captain Hall. Konderka and the crew members clinging to wreckage he picked them up in the lifeboat and the floating after-house.

Crew Rescued Through Storm

Konderka dared the angry waters in the lifeboat from the barge. He rowed to each crew member clinging to wreckage. He saved Harvey, the mate, and then set out for the floating after-house and saved the rest of the crew.

After succeeding in launching a lifeboat from the Nelson Donaldson with the help of two members of the barge crew, rescued those afloat in the lifeboat. With the rescued ones aboard the barge, he started to pull towards Red Rock.

The tug Strathmore finally hove in sight, picked up the barge and tain from the lifeboat and then rescued those aboard the barge. They were put in bed, given hot food and dry clothes.

HEAVY DISPLAY GARDEN PRODUCE ON CITY MART

The gold of the peach, the red of tomatoes, the green of corn, the pumpkin with the whole set against the background of the many fruits and vegetables painted a barrel-load picture when the market opened this morning as a large number of farmers and growers of the district arrived with a fine display of fruit and dairy produce to a typical Saturday morning business—and more to come later.

Peaches in the history of the market were in quantity and quality, while facilities in the immediate vicinity broadened the scope of the display.

Prices generally remained firm with little or no fluctuation as noted in vegetables. Potatoes, while not over-plentiful were quoted at 40c per peck and $1.60 per bag and per bushel, according to quality. Tomatoes were offered in no limitation to deviate in price with quantity and quality. Many of the market vendors offered their stocks at 40c. Sweet corn of the Evergreen variety was also offered at 40c. Saturday morning shoppers selling at 10c per dozen ears. Pumpkin and squash headed a long list of popular selling at reasonable selling at prices ranging from ten cents upwards. Yellow and red onions were sold at prices from 10c up. Beets, onions, radishes and carrots were sold at prevailing prices.

Dairy Display

A fine display of dairy products greeted shoppers in the fluid section of the market. Eggs in new high with "A" selects selling generally at 35 cents although in some quarters higher prices were demanded. Medium grades were quoted at from seven cents with pullets at twenty-three.

Butcher chickens were scarce at seventy-five to ninety cents per pair, while other poultry was plentiful selling at prices ranging from seventy cents to as high as $1.20.

A few ducks were in evidence at eighty cents each. Farmers' butter remained firm at sixty cents.

Lake Trout and pickerel were rapidly picked up by fish-lovers at twenty-five cents and twenty cents per pound respectively.

Fruit Flourishes

Siberia peaches again headed a fine fruit display with No. 1's selling at forty and forty five cents per basket; No. 2's at thirty five and forty cents and a few 3's at thirty cents. Plums were also plentiful and were quoted at thirty and thirty five cents per six quart basket.

Preserving pears responded to the response from Saturday morning shoppers selling at twenty. Bliss Damson selling at thirty cents per basket. Crawford peaches and green pages were offered at the same price. German Prunes remained firm at sixty cents per basket.

charge against Mrs. Miss Wilkinson's death. His wife, Emily and Lorne Wilkinson, son, are the nominal charges in the case.

Charles H. Hill, K.C. Hamilton and Hon. W. E. Raney appeared for counsel for the doctor.

Nurse First Witness

Mrs. Robertson under cross-examination admitted knowledge Dr. Cline four years and caring for patients in his home on occasional times in her own home. She said a woman patient whose name she did not know, was brought to her house on the morning of September 17 by her husband. The man went straight to a front bedroom which Dr. Cline arrived a half hour later. The doctor went in to see the patient, and asked that his instruments be given, forceps, a pair of scissors be sterilized.

The witness under the questioning of the Crown Attorney described further details of the doctor's attention to the woman.

Patient Put to Bed

Mrs. Robertson, on her own accord, said there was a considerable amount of bleeding, which was unusual. Later the patient was returned to bed and Mrs. Robertson said she was instructed to administer a hypodermic. Three hypodermics were administered, she said.

When the doctor returned that night, the patient was again placed on the kitchen table and an anaesthetic was used at any time.

"He (the doctor) said he had done and ordered the patient put to bed," continued the witness.

When placed on the table the patient was in such agony she could not lie still, the witness said. God's sake get some morphine."

Obtained Morphine

The doctor obtained some morphine and left to return the next morning. Mrs. Robertson said under the influence of the narcotic in the hypodermic.

Mrs. Robertson said the patient's condition was bad. When the doctor returned, he had a fresh set of instruments and a mask.

"If the doctor just tell her I'm going to do something," witness said she was told by the doctor.

He then administered the chloroform and "she was gone within 10 minutes."

An Even Fight

By MEREDITH SECHOLL
McClure Newspaper Syndicate
WNU Service.

Being desperate, Claudia decided to resort to desperate means to achieve her end. She cast about in her mind for some course of action. Be its nature scurrilous or ridiculous, scandalous, mean, merely glared across at Diane and Peter. There was no doubt but what Diane was enjoying a quick and complete revenge on her very much on the public eye by virtue of the fact that it belonged to America's greatest football star.

It was as if fate provided her with the weapon she sought. Impulsively she said: "Oh, I'm so lonesome, did I mention about meeting Nigel Todd yesterday?"

Diane and Peter stopped talking. They looked in her direction, and Claudia's pulse leaped. Peter's eyes had lighted and listened glowed.

"I say, that's splendid! What sort of a chap is Todd? I'd like to meet him, he's absolutely a first-class player."

Claudia fluffed her hair and said casually, "And a first-rate man with the ladies! She laughed lightly. "He's coming down tomorrow. We're to have dinner together." She had intended to say more, but Diane unexpectedly, astonishingly interrupted.

"Oh, that will be just grand! We'll all have dinner together. Then you'll have your chance to meet him, Peter."

Peter looked patently perturbed. "But, after all, perhaps your sister and Todd had planned something else."

"They won't mind. Especially Nigel. Nigel's grand. He likes to have people around."

Claudia met her lips. "Nigel!" she said. "You—you've met him, Di?"

"Dozens of times! My dear, he's glorious. Haven't I told you?"

"No" said Claudia, "you haven't." She hesitated. If this were true, if little sister Diane did actually know Nigel Todd, it would make things awkward.

She smiled winningly at Diane. "A pity," she said, "Nigel's practicing late and won't be arriving until early evening. I was to meet him in town at the station. You're leaving on the 5 o'clock train, aren't you, Peter?"

"No," said Diane, "he's not. He can stay over and I'll drive him up myself, Sweetie." she bounded in her seat. "I'll call Nigel on the phone and ask him to come earlier," she started for the house, and Claudia rose in some alarm. "No! Wait! You really shouldn't. I mean, let me go with you and talk to him."

Diane was already at the door. She disappeared 'mans, and Claudia, flinging hasty curses over her shoulder at Peter, followed. Inside the living room Diane was wailing.

Claudia stopped dead still and stared. "Well," she said, "Are you going to call him?"

"If I do," said Diane, "it will be rather awkward for you, won't it, darling?" She took a step closer. "I should call him. I should beg him to come down here. Just to show Peter what kind of a person you are. But I am not going to, because it won't be necessary to employ such an unfriendly device to get Peter for myself. I'd try to explain to you what I mean, darling, only I know how futile it would be. You wouldn't understand. The fact that I love Peter and Peter loves me doesn't mean a thing to you because you're too hard and callous and unscrupulous and aren't capable of love yourself.

"This is the first time I've ever defied you, Claudia. That's because always before it hasn't meant anything. It's different now, Peter's mine, and I'm going to keep him at all odds—even if I have to fight you with your own weapons."

Diane suddenly stopped talking and turned away. At the door she paused. "Sally Allen's here waiting for you to spend a week-end with her for old times' sake. It would be wonderful if you ran out there."

Claudia opened her mouth, closed it again without speaking. In that moment she smouldered what her sister had meant by saying—"even if I have to fight you with your own weapons." Diane had resorted to artifice; she had lied about Nigel Todd. In that case it was an even fight.

Looking through the window she saw Diane and Peter talking together out on the terrace. She watched them a moment and then laughed bitterly. It wasn't an even fight. Hardly. Diane had won—and it was too late to do anything about it. Bill laughing. Claudia went to the telephone and called Sally Allen.

R. S. McLaughlin Reviews Growth of Motor Industry In Canada in Past 30 Years

Tells Interesting Story of How The Industry Came Into Being

"MR. SAM" NOW 66

Oshawa, Sept. 25.—Witness to tremendous changes in the field of transportation since he was first associated with it, R. S. McLaughlin watched his 66th milestone the other day and paused long enough to glance back over the record. As senior motor car man in Canada, Mr. McLaughlin is better qualified than any other to review the progress of the industry and to measure the Dominion's growth, as a builder of automobiles. In the development of the Canadian industry, his own record has been a proud one.

The birthday of Mr. McLaughlin was really a triple anniversary. He was able to look back exactly 50 years to the day in September, 1887, when he entered the employ of his father in the McLaughlin Carriage Company, which came into existence chiefly because "Mr. Sam" saw the opportunity offered by the "horseless carriage".

As a boy of 16, Mr. McLaughlin told an interviewer, he started to work as a full-time employee in the carriage factory. Three years he served as an apprentice in the upholstery department, later taking charge of that section temporarily in the McLaughlin factory. Then came duties in the office and with it the task of general designer. Showing much talent as a designer, he was given free rein and for many years he designed every model turned out at the works. This meant drawing up the specifications to the most minute detail for as many as 140 annual models, including sturdy carriages and sleighs, sporty buggies and traps, democrats and cutters. When cars came along he designed the early models for the McLaughlin Motor Car Company. The carriage influence was plain enough in the early cars, but somewhere the influence of the motor car made itself felt in the seats, doors, lamps and top designs for the carriages.

A Turning Point

It was no snap decision that resulted in the formation of the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, according to Mr. McLaughlin. "I did a lot of travelling," he said, "to investigate the automobile business. The carriage trade, of course was anything but cordial to the upstart motor car. Nevertheless, I considered we should be very careful lest we reject an opportunity. I saw many motor car plants, including the Pierce-Arrow in Buffalo. I interviewed E. R. Thomas, maker of the Cleveland Bicycles and the "Thomas Flyer", a big, impressive car. Then I went to see W. C. Durant of the Buick Company. I had known him before in the carriage business. My visit to Mr. Durant resulted in the McLaughlin-Buick alliance, and my travels were over. We used the Buick engine, designed our own bodies, and began to make cars. Naturally we did not drop the manufacture of buggies then. It was some time after my brother and I had entered into a contract to manufacture Chevrolets in Canada that this all-important step was taken. Following the most careful consideration, we realized that the motor age was here to stay."

"The year 1915 definitely marked the turning point," continued Mr. McLaughlin, "for that year we sold our entire carriage business to Carriage Factories Limited. In this connection it is interesting to note that the president of that company was the late J. B. Tudhope, our good friend, and keenest rival in the business."

In the early days the making of automobile bodies in Canada presented no great difficulty. They were principally of wood, and the carriage- building tradition proved useful. "And you know," chuckled Canada's leading motor car executive as he reminisced, "before the advent of metal closed cars, the carriage industry frequently played a leading role in the matter of design and equipment technique.

"The principal problem at the outset," recalled Mr. McLaughlin, "was the necessity of importing so many parts of the chassis from the United States. There has been tremendous progress in that respect. For example, engines, axles, generators, transmissions, shock absorbers, wheel castings, spark plugs and radiators, to mention only a few of the component parts, are now completely manufactured in Canada."

He referred proudly to the fact that the Canadian industry was often a step ahead of the United States in motor car improvements. At this juncture, the President of General Motors of Canada pointed out that windshields, windshield supported tops, rigid side curtains, natural wood instrument panels and top bows had been developed and used on McLaughlin-Buick cars in Canada long before they had been featured on United States cars.

Mr. McLaughlin is also proud of the part he played in introducing the first electric head and combination stop and tail lights on the McLaughlin-Buick. It was his naturally progressive spirit and perception of the requirements for safe and convenient operation of cars which led a strong impetus to his inventive genius.

Again, in 1921, the adjustable front seat design was developed and in November, 1923, patented for Canada, for use on McLaughlin motor cars. A few years later it was to be found generally on cars made by General Motors.

In January of 1913, there was a steadily increasing demand on the part of automobile purchasers for some device or equipment which would permit a lady driver to start the motor without having to use a crank. The answer was forthcoming in March of that year in the form of an electric starter which was offered on McLaughlin-Buick cars in Canada, just twenty months before they were adopted by Buick in United States.

An energetic, clear-thinking executive at 66, "Mr. Sam" is an inspiring personality in the Company of which he is president. He is also actively associated with other Canadian industries, railways and banks. One of the busiest of Canada's industrialists, he finds time to take a hand in civic and charitable enterprises and to engage in recreations which have made him one of the Dominion's best-known citizens. His racing stable is one of the country's finest.

Naturally, his birthday was not an occasion for relaxation or letdown. He spent the day at his desk in the General Motors office.

CALL GERMAN-ITALIAN BLUFF, SAYS SPANIARD

'Two-Headed Monster' Words Used by Del Vayo To Describe Fascism

'Asks Recognition of Aggression by Italy and Germany

PURCHASE OF ARMS

Extension of Protection of Nyon Anti-Piracy Patrol Sought

Geneva, Sept. 27 (AP)—Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish government delegate to the League of Nations, described today the havoc "all the hosts" of Germany and Italy, "this two-headed monster which appears to wish to destroy us on all Europe."

The former minister of foreign affairs created a tense atmosphere with his impassioned appeal and condemnation of German and Italian intervention in the Spanish civil war on the side of the insurgents.

Not a seat was vacant at the long tables of the Commission on Political Questions. Every inch of press and spectator space was packed thirty-six hour-long indictment.

Five Proposals

Del Vayo proposed the adoption of five proposals presented by Juan Negrin, Spanish government premier, to the league Assembly. They are:

1—Recognition of Italian and German aggression.

2—Grant of wars to restrain it.

3—Granting of rights to the Spanish government to purchase material freely.

4—Withdrawal of all non-Spanish combatants.

5—Extension of the protection of the Nyon anti-piracy patrol to the Valencia region's shipping on the Mediterranean.

Four Answer Nations

A group of nations outside of the league, police Alvarez Del Vayo said, has "united in a pact which is admirably described by President Roosevelt in his recent quarantine speech."

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Waterspouts! These are the tornadoes of the sea. Sometimes hundreds of feet in height they then become waterspouts; and when waterspouts exist land areas they become tornadoes. At the water surface there is great excitement and the sea is churned into a great foam. Waterspouts form generally in two ways: first, by oppositely flowing air adjoining each second, by a superimposed surface layer of air over a dense mass. Whirlwinds are formed in this way but waterspouts are formed in some manner not understood. Most of the waterspouts form in the tropics and in a counterclockwise direction, but those rotating in a clockwise direction are not unknown.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO PREVENT SPREAD OF POLIOMYELITIS

Trenton, Sept. 27, —(Special)—In an attempt to prevent poliomyelitis from spreading in Trenton, a fence was strung around the home of J. S. Lisk and a twenty-four hour watch is being kept over the quarantined home by three guards, who work eight hours apiece. Last Thursday the Local Officer of Health, Dr. Walter R. Orowe found Mr. Lisk's eight year old daughter, Joyce, suffering from infantile paralysis. The tiny victim was moved to the hospital. On Saturday she was moved back home. Her condition is being watched closely. Other members of the Lisk family are allowed to leave their home but must not go outside their fenced-in enclosure. The reason the home is being guarded is to keep children of the neighborhood from coming in contact with members of the Lisk family until the period of isolation is ended. In the meantime doctors are administering the prescribed serum. Residents near the outlying district have been given the usual warning. The

V.O.N. MEETING TO ARRANGE DRIVE

To complete plans for a week's membership drive which will begin on Friday, Oct. 1st, a meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses Committee is being held in the Y.M.C.A. this evening. The matter of arranging for the canvassers and ground plan for the drive will be the chief business of the meeting. The previous success of citizens in last year's appeal was most gratifying and encouraging to the committee who hope for similar co-operation on the part of the community this season.

NO DODDER WEED FOUND IN THE COUNTY

During the past few days reports that Dodder weed has been discovered in certain parts of Eastern Ontario have been filtering to various agricultural offices.

Interviewed today Joseph Wilson, agricultural representative for Hastings County stated that up to the present no reports had been received regarding the presence of this dangerous weed in this county. Agricultural representatives have been asked to be on the lookout for this pest, and immediately it in their crops are asked to report either to their local agriculturist or the district seed inspector.

The Dodder weed is regarded as one of the most noxious growths among farm crops. The weed, vine-like and light in color is a parasite and has a small white flower, on the blind stalk under which fasten themselves around the stalks, plant and drain the juice from it. Other plant foods are Pinch, Ontario, this week, covered an area of four square feet.

Spring Lock Shuts Out Merchant And Locks Key, Hat and Church Collection in Shop—Firemen Aid in Entry.

Any break-in is news, but when a man escapes with a considerable number of others to break into his own premises, that is news de lux.

All high noon on Sunday, as people were returning from church an unusual scene was witnessed at a very well-known store on Front Street. A fire truck stood in the street and half a dozen stert, handsome men in blue uniforms were hurrying to the door of the premises, and also at the door, axes and other accessories suitable for a break-in. A crowd gathered instantly and the following remarks were overheard:

"It must be a short-circuit."

"Perhaps it's a fire, but that can't be as there's no smoke."

"No, there's a burglar trapped inside."

Just then Belleville's firemen had forced a transom over a new front door with very great difficulty, despite their numerous, powerful weapons, and the ubiquitous man in blue was passed through an opening less than a foot in height.

The crowd outside waited patiently with wonder and to appease their curiosity the proprietor of the store and instigator of the breakin, made the following somewhat shamefaced explanation:

"I came to the store to see that the safe had not been pummelled and to make sure that some coppers in the till were still there. My door key opened a new burglar-proof Yale lock which I had not as yet had time to become accustomed. I entered the store and locked the door after me while I examined the premises, but unhappily, I left the key in the lock on the inside. When the time came to depart as I thought without incident, I opened the door and let the wind bring it shut as in the old story-books days when there were no Yale locks for me, and when I carried a key on a string strung conveniently hanging from my neck. No sooner had that strong new door closed than I realized what had happened; I was locked completely in my fort and without a quarter lying beside me for the evening's entertainment. I rushed to the nearest free telephone and tried to locate several members of my staff without duplicate keys in case of emergency, but found you cannot get such a perfect day, but that nobody would be home! Then was I using calling the police for they had tried our back door every night for years and solemnly affirmed from time to time that it was as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar. Then I called the firemen and found them at dinner, but they left everything so hot, steaming and delightfully odorous, and came truck and all to help me get out, but to no avail, the latchkey. Now, people, don't you think these fine fellows in blue should have a substantial donation for their splendid Relief Fund?"

Many smiled incredulously and others said, "Sure" as if it came out of a fund ever which they had some share of control. Still others went on their highly pleased way as to the entertainment with the remark, "Glad it was no worse, Mister."

"All's well, that ends well."

until the return of a Conservative government would come.

From 44 estates now under investigation the government hopes to collect a total of between $50,000,000 and $70,000,000.

Premier banned the second of the five items Ottawa estates which have been under review. It is that of the late J. Frederick Booth and the claim is for $1,300,000. Another item to be announced a claim for $2,500,000 against the estate of the late John B. Booth.

FOUR ARRESTED AFTER THEFT OF SUM OF MONEY

$100 Taken From Cash Drawer of Local Service Station

MAN IDENTIFIED

Sledge Hammer And Crow Bar Found in Car

Four men were arrested and held in custody following the theft of $100.00 from the local Shell Gasoline station, at the corner of West Bridge and Coleman Streets, on Saturday evening. The arrest of the quartette was made by Motorcycle Patrolman Robert Collacutt after the robbery had been discovered by service station attendant, Reg. Pringle of this city. The robbers, the police believe, broke open the four men held, allegedly having walked into the service station and unlocked the cash drawer, removing the $100.00 in bank bills while Mr. Pringle was engaged serving other customers.

The prisoners, who gave their names as Michael (Pick) Dicko, 32, of Vancouver, who was identified by Mr. Pringle as the man seen loitering about the service station prior to the money being found missing, Joseph Constantino, 26, of Toronto, John McCardel, 26, also of Toronto, and Joseph Tervett, 30, of Montreal. The quarrette was arrested by Traffic Officer Bleecker as they drove into Colborne. They were in a car owned by Tervett, and where Tervett was allegedly identified as the man to have stolen grips and the surgery of a physician, some days ago. When apprehended Dicko was found in possession of $251.00 and Tervett had approximately $30.00 in bills added.

Manitoba Licensed Car

The quartette was travelling in a 1929 model Chevrolet coupe, bearing Manitoba license plates, which made their apprehension available. Mr. Pringle supplying local police with a full description of the car and also the man to drive the vehicle and of the time the car was being serviced in Belleville. Found in the car, at the time of their apprehension, was a sledge and heavy 36 pound sledge hammer, a crow bar, and a flash light, used for burglarizing purposes.

About 6.30 p.m. Saturday night the Shell Gasoline Oil Company licensed plates drove into the Shell service station and Pringle was promptly chased and Mr. Pringle, the attendant there was engaged in serving motor oil. The driver, described as a man about 33, dark and unduly stout, approached Mr. Pringle as Mr. Pringle attended other customers, and requested a dollar's worth of gas. Mr. Pringle informed the police. The clerk of the station cash box, were lying on the floor of the car, but after the quartette had driven away from the station discovered the keys inserted in the cash box. Subsequent investigations revealed that the cash box had been entered and $100.00 in large denominational bank bills taken. The local police relayed the robbery westward where Constable Bleecker finally apprehended the quartette at Colborne.

Sergeant Arthur South Detective Fred Lambert and Detective Fred Ford to Cobourg, where the driver of the car, who is alleged to have been the man to give his name as "Pick" Dicko, was identified by police line-up by Mr. Pringle, as the man to have been driving the car at the time. Dicko was also identified by Mr. Pringle. A charge of theft was laid against Dicko, while the other three men are being held for further investigation, local police not having any evidence in which they were travelling, the car, which was owned by the man bar are all being held as material evidence.

Remanded One Week

Three of the quartette, Dicko, Constantino and McCardell appeared in local police court, before Magistrate Ponton, Cobourg, today charged with the theft of a sum of money from the Shell gas station at Belleville. The men were not asked to plead, the charge being enlarged for one week, owing to the absence from the city of Detective Sergeant Arthur South, K.C.

The fourth member of the quartette, who police say is Gordon Mansfield, Montreal, was unable to appear, due to illness. Police allege had Tervett uses dope to excess and was in such a condition from the lack of the drug, that a physician had been called to attend him at the county gaol this morning. The charge against him will be read at the gaol hospital today and he will receive the same consideration as the other three prisoners.

McCardel was the only member of the trio to make any statement, who addressed the court, "Can't I get out of this on bail or some other way?" asked McCardell at the court.

"You'll have to see the Crown Attorney about that," replied Sergeant Harman, who read the charges in open court. The three were later returned to the court house and were again asked and remanded in custody for one week.

A. F. STOUT VISITS HIS OLD HOME

Hastings County Native Occupies Prominent Post

A. Fred Stout, National Legislative Representative of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, who makes his headquarters at Washington, D.C., is visiting Hastings County as a holiday. Born in Madoc, Ontario, and moving to Toronto as a young man, Mr. Stout started on the career which has brought him to the front in labor circles when he began work on the Canadian Pacific Railway maintenance of way. His interest in this branch of railroading and his ability as a man brought him soon to the front and it was not long before he was actively engaged in the work of organization. For years he has been travelling back and forth across the international boundary and the time finally made his home in Washington.

Speaking to the Ontario Intelligencer, in, as he terms it, his native air at peace. "We have twenty-one standard organizations among railwaymen," he said, "and these twenty-one heads are federated and act together in the work of laws for handling railway matters. We have a Railway Labor Act to adjudicate agreements. This works very satisfactorily." The railwaymen's organizations are members of the A. F. of L.

"In normal times we have had 2,000,000 men working in the United States," he said. "Today there are about 1,700,000 at work. These figures do not include the figures for Canada. Now the twenty-one organizations speak for all these workers, but not all members of the organizations but the organizations speak for them."

Mr. Stout pointed out that the Railway Executives' Association is composed of the presidents of the twenty-one standing organizations which control railways in the United States. Canadian organizations elect their own grand officers, he said.

Speaking of the trend, he remarked that more men are being employed. Railwaymen were working a short time in the United States and now they are gradually coming back to full time.

Mr. Stout made passing reference to the St. Lawrence project, pointing out that the railways of the United States pay a tremendous sum in taxes and they build their right of way and maintain it.

Mr. Stout is spending a few days in this section renewing acquaintances. He is a cousin of Mr. James Haggerty, county treasurer.

POLICE BLOTTER

Complaining that mischievous boys were stealing stems and generally destroying her garden, Mrs. J. D. MacMillan, 18 Isabel Street, asked police assistance in order to discontinue the theft or fruit from her garden yesterday afternoon.

Sergeant Arthur Booth and Constable Ellis investigated and later ascertained the names of four teenaged boys, who were reported to have been not only stolen the fruit but used obscene language in the presence of Mrs. MacMillan. Charges are being gained entrance to the property by breaking a fence, that separates the MacMillan property from the West Bellevill playground. The mischievous lads were warned to discontinue such practices.

Two other teen-aged boys were apprehended on Saturday by Detective Fred Isard, following the theft of a bicycle belonging from the premises of Mr. F. Elliott, 51 South John Street. The pans were found in a local junk store, badly battered and smashed. The pans had been sold for old metal. The two boys will appear in local Juvenile Court, charged with theft, this week.

Two inebriates, who were apprehended near the eastern limits of the city Saturday night, were arrested and detained at the police station until early sunday, when they were released on payment of cost today charged with intoxication.

Women's Association Bridge Street Church

After two months' intermission a good attendance of the Women's Association met in the ladies' parlour of Bridge Street United Church, last Friday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Slater, presided, and the meeting was opened by Mrs. Moon and Mrs. Gilbert.

Miss Brown read the minutes of the last meeting, and Miss Dickens read the treasurer's report.

Funds were placed at the disposal of Mrs. Richardson for flowers for the sick, and also at the disposal of Miss Sulman and Mrs. Moon for the decoration of the church. These ladies were highly commended for their efficiency in these departments.

The Association decided to have a free-will offering instead of the usual annual supper, and the details of this matter were assigned to Mrs. Slater, Mrs. Howard Clark, and Mrs. W. Deacon. This same plan proved very successful last year.

Mrs. Galloway is planning to have an evening tea October fourteenth, assisted by four of the twelve groups comprising the Association, at which the men will serve the coffee and sponsor a singsong.

The perfect autumn day and the splendid assembly inspired the members to an unusual degree. The closing hymn "More Love to Thee" was followed by refreshments of tea and cake.

Teachers, Instructors Of O. S. D. Convene

The first meeting of the Association of teachers and Instructors of the Ontario School for the Deaf was held September 15th in the sewing room. The retiring president, Mr. A. Clark, thanked the members and committees for their co-operation throughout the term and turned the meeting over to the new officers for the year 1937-1938, namely:

President—Miss Myrtle Reid
Vice-President— Miss Mildred Goodfellow.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Rosamond Van Alstine.

A vote of thanks to the retiring officers was proposed by Mr. Gordon and seconded by Miss Peel on behalf of the Association.

On September 25th the Teachers' Association held a corn roast and weiner roast in the sewing room. Was in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Stratton and Mr. and Mrs. Munroe who are leaving.

Everything combined to make a perfect evening. Supper served by Mr. Morrison's cottage on the bay shore the party proceeded out-of-doors where a bright moonlight held sway. By a big bonfire vast quantities of roasted corn and marshmallows were consumed. Then the party returned to the cottage for the social. Community singsongs until the big moment of the evening arrived.

With an appropriate speech Mr. Jack Morrison presented a silver tray to Mr. and Mrs. Munday and a casserole to Mr. and Mrs. Stratton expressing the good wishes of the Association. Mr. Munday and Mr. Stratton replied expressing their appreciation and thanks. Then all sang "For they are Jolly Good Fellows". As if corn and marshmallows were not sufficient treat the social committee then served lunch and all dispersed about eleven o'clock after a merry evening.

Everyone agreed that the committee is functioning in the evening's entertainment were much deserving of credit.

TENNIS PLAYERS ENJOY MATCHES

Members of The Canadian Press Play at Quinte Courts in City

Tennis players from the Montreal and Toronto offices of The Canadian Press met in this city over the week end for a friendly match and were most delighted with the hospitality shown them at the courts upon which they played. Six members of each office composed the teams, the Toronto team including Gillis Purcell, Elmer Dulmage, Charles Jones, H. Gilmour, Jack Farrah and W. Hilton, and the Montreal team R. Burritt, Robert Clarke, Douglas Ahearn, Harold Brunet, Peter Barclay and Stanley Leblanc. Six single matches were played and three course matches and although no score was kept the calibre of tennis played was excellent.

The games were played on the Quinte Plaine Skating Club courts at the corner of Dufferin and Queen Street through the kindness of Ivan Reid, the president and members of the executive. The two clay courts were in excellent condition thanks to the work done on them by Johnny McGorman and Stephen Licence for the match and the thanks of the players for the use of them was expressed to the executive by Gillis Purcell, News Editor of The Toronto Office. During the matches many visitors of the club came to the courts to watch the play and to all, who in any way contributed to the success of the visit the thanks of the players is expressed.

Young People Conduct Rally Service at the Tabernacle Church

Three interesting and helpful services were held in Tabernacle United Church yesterday. There was a large attendance in the morning at the Communion Service. Parents came out in goodly numbers to the Rally Day Service of the Sunday School. The service was under the able direction of Mr. A. D. Archibald. Rev. Wood over read the Old Testament lesson. Willma Judge and Mary Cherrington and Loretta Stark told the story. Dr. T. McClintock gave the address.

A large audience was present at the Young People. The song service conducted ably by Mr. Johnson was greatly enjoyed by all. Miss Joan Bennett took the invocation. Miss Dougherty read the scripture; Mr. W. Bennett took the prayer and Mr. Gordon Oliver announced the hymns. Rev. Dr. McClintock preached on the text, "What then shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ."

Hamilton, Ont. Sept. 27 (CP)—Salvage operations for scrap copper on the bottom of Hamilton bay's harbor are now almost complete. Among them was an ancient car found 30 feet out in 14 feet of water. The car is believed to have been in the water about four months.

FAULKNER

Are we going to stand for the introduction of Hitler, Mr. Speaker, as their have in Russia?

A loud chorus of "No's" arose from the audience.

"If I don't get his vote I won't stand for that sort of thing, for the introduction of this in Ontario by any C.I.O. element. We want honest people in Ontario, we want an honest government to rule them. We want those people, who vote according to their conscience, and the best interests of good government," responded Dr. Faulkner.

"The opposition is now trying to have the people believe we are a discredited party, I can only call attention to the actions of the Conservative party in this respect. I can point out Col. Drew, who pulled out of the Conservative party is now heading an Independent Conservative party, and I anticipate that when the Hon. Earl Rowe is defeated, in his own riding, too, that Col. Drew will head the Conservative party, and we will have a fight as far as West Hastings goes." (Applause).

C. I. O. Discussed

Dr. Faulkner again turned to the C. I. O. question.

"Through the British Empire representatives of this kind has yet been allowed to spread. Workmen in the British Isles from time immemorial have had walkouts and strikes, yet they have always been settled by themselves among themselves: there has never been any necessity for the help of any international union, and I don't believe such would be tolerated. Yet in Ontario we have the leader of the Conservative party actually inviting them to come to Ontario and organize."

Dr. Faulkner refuted in no uncertain terms statements said to have been made by the opposition, that the administration of the Liberal party had been marked by inaction.

"True we have not plunged into any orgy of spending, but we have reduced costs and increased services and efficiency of the various departments," he declared, citing the dismissal of political representatives of the various districts and instituting civil service.

"Right here in Belleville you have one of the travelling tubercular clinics in which three people, a tubercular specialist, a technician and a clerk are at the service of the people at all times. Last year this clinic examined 2,100 cases. Of this number, one hundred were recommended for the Sanatoria, all this without cost to the patient in Belleville.

"The Conservatives while in power from the years, 1919 to 1934 spent the total of $838,000 for tubercular treatment in the province through the construction of institutions. Since assuming office the Hepburn Government spent just $768,000 for the relief of these sufferers by the building of new accommodations in the hope of stamping out this terrible disease," declared the speaker.

As to the matter of tax increases, the opposition forces have been forced to resort to the use of hyperbolee, fantastic imaginings, in their effort to show that any increase in any taxes had been added. It was charged by Dr. Faulkner.

"Let them show or tell me just one instance where this has occurred," he invited.

List Lengthy One

The list of accomplishments of the Liberal party since taking office has been a lengthy one, he continued, pointing to the fact the cost of provincial highways had been taken over from the counties, the assumption of the Old Age Pension, which has saved the city of Belleville over $5,000; Mothers' Allowances, which has saved Belleville $14,581.00; the one mill subsidy returning to the city $10,300.00 and other savings.

The matter of the Liquor Act has also been one that has come up for much discussion, declared Dr. Faulkner, charging the original act to be one which was first introduced by the Henry Government. "Do you know that when the Henry Government was in there was a total of 15,000 applications to sell beer in the Province?" he asked. "And further, I invite Mr. Rowe to tell me of one "amendment" toled in Belleville. If he can I'll donate $100 to the local hospital."

The reduction in car licence fees is one that came about naturally and is the result of a promise made by Premier Hepburn many months ago when he told the electors of the Province they would benefit in that manner just as soon as finances would permit, declared the speaker.

"And, if that is an election dodge, then when you elect me on October 5th every act I do after that will be an election dodge, because, like Hepburn, I will work solely for the betterment of the people I represent" he added.

"We have been charged with the unfulfilled promises made before the last election. Show or name me one that has not been filled, if made."

"And now we come to Mr. Gee, Reid's pet subject, Hydro. He prides himself on his knowledge of that department. So did it when Sir Adam Beck was at the helm. Reid is much like the Conservative party. He is the alleged power shortage in Ontario. He was fighting for the withdrawl of the Hydro shop, now merged as a Public Utilities, and he saw a lot of gas blown in the window. "There must be a shortage of electricity with the solidity, the security and stability of the Liberal platform."

Hydro shop is getting prepared; they're stocking up on gas ranges.' There are other arguments about the present Hydro situation just about as strong as that."

Men Paid 35c An Hour

"Mr. Reid also mentions his trips back through the northern part of the county, where he claims men were getting low wages for road work. He doesn't remember the time when workmen at the same labor under the Henry Government got the grand sum of 80 cents per day and this was three months before the elections.

"Today on contract road work just south of Bancroft men are getting 35 cents per hour. The County Council is paying the high rate of 50 cents per hour.

During the past three years of Hepburn rule Belleville has benefited by the sum of $125,823.33 per tax rate, it was pointed out by Dr. Faulkner.

In the matter of Succession Duties to date a total of 28 million dollars have been collected by the Hepburn Government "and Premier Hepburn is ready to collect very much more." Dr. Faulkner pointed out.

Had the cancellation of Quebec power contracts not been undertaken by the present government, Ontario would have burdened herself with an obligation which would have lasted for forty years or more, and the system would have been bankrupt in two years, it was declared by the speaker.

"By this cancellation and the rewriting of contracts the people of the Province have made a saving of from six to eight million dollars per year and while the opposition forces have attempted to make a joke out of the rural hydro system, they are going ahead for still further extensions through the Province to add to the many hundreds of miles that have already been placed."

Take Definite Stand

Though opposition forces have attempted to pass it up lightly the matter of C.I.O. stands as a definite issue before the people today declared Dr. Faulkner who declared himself definitely against such organization. "I take my stand on this matter definitely and I am willing to accept the consequences. That's the way I believe the matter to be," he added.

"We have heard a lot of stories from Oshawa on this matter. To hear some of them you would believe that the city was full of police the day the strikers quit. Though police were sent at once by the Federal Department, in the event of a major strike and disturbance, they were not quartered in Oshawa, but in Toronto.

"I have not found in all my travels through this riding one man who is favorable to that organization."

In his conclusion Dr. Faulkner requested electors to "look at the issues as they are presented to you by the various speakers, then judge for yourselves."

"I hope that in this election the ghosts of the people do not rise so high that they can't appreciate the distinctions, and are unable to vote without that calm thought so necessary for the best interests of the province. Upon that decision rendered after careful judgement and clear thought I am willing to abide by the decision," concluded Dr. Faulkner.

Mr. A. R. Collins, K.C., in his introduction of Mr. W. A. Fraser, M.P., Northumberland, declared the spirit "which inspired the men and women of Ontario to go forward in 1934 and drive Honest George and party to the dugout," is again prevalent. He offered his tribute to the Conservative candidate of West Hastings, numbered among his best friends, but regretted the platforms of the two parties. "the instability and shiftiness of the Conservative platform" with "the solidity, the security and stability of the Liberal platform."

W. A. Fraser, M.P.

Mr. Fraser, greeted with rousing applause, urged a dissection of matters which had been put forth by speakers on both sides. "Let us discuss the reason why we should or should not vote for a certain candidate or a certain party," he urged.

Turning to Dr. Faulkner, Mr. Fraser described the local member as being "the nearest thing to an outstanding statesman that has been produced by either party in the past three years."

"I do not believe there has been a more conscientious or more efficient servant at Queen's Park than your own Dr. Faulkner," he added amidst a rally of cheers and applause. "He left his lucrative practice as a family doctor in your city to accept the position of family doctor for all Ontario. Now he is willing to go back again if you say so."

Striding to the front of the platform, Mr. Fraser gazed over the audience.

"Can anyone in here give me something to work on? Can anyone here give us some matter to discuss? Can anyone in the audience tell me why there should or should not vote for the present government?"

Silence greeted the request.

"I'll be glad to talk over any matter with any one of you. We are here for a plain and simple discussion of the merits or demerits of the case. A serious discussion of a serious matter. Politics is not a burlesque; it's a serious business of living. You have to do your own thinking as, for example, "Why should I vote for Dr. Faulkner and Premier Hepburn?" declared Mr. Fraser, continuing, when unable to raise a question among the audience.

Attack on the Liberal government in the full swing, it was stated by the speaker, who was referring to his subject. "We have one instance of it from Alex Hall in Oshawa—Alex Hall, whose statements lately about Premier Hepburn have been anything but kindly."

Willing To Debate Matter

"Its goes around saying he wants a debate with Premier Hepburn on the C.I.O. question when he knows that every minute of Mr. Hepburn's time has been booked long ahead and no such debate can be possible. Therefore he talks all the louder.

"Well, I offered to take the Premier's place. I offered Hall to meet him anywhere, anytime. I suggested a debate on the platform in his own home town. He refused. Then I offered to go to my home town. So far he has refused. I offered to meet him anywhere and debate C.I.O. and Labor, or anything else he wants in the House that it is impossible to meet Hepburn and he does not want to meet me, and I want the press to get that so that he can see it.

"Therefore, I would suggest that Mr. Hall put up or shut up," added Mr. Fraser above the din of applause.

Premier Hepburn has never questioned the right of men of Ontario to organize, it was pointed out by the speaker. This right, it was further shown, is the right of any man in any country except where dictatorship rules. Canada has always recognized it, whether it be trade, national, domestic or international union.

"But Premier Hepburn and those who are wise enough to see, know the danger of international political organizations digging their roots into the democratic soil of Ontario. There is a vast difference between craft unions and international political unions which might develop into a menace such as we have seen over the border of starting a Fascism that has demoralized freedom in other countries.

"And if you would avoid this you will vote for Premier Hepburn on October 6th.

Patronage Discussed

The matter of party patronage was dealt with by Mr. Fraser.

"When the Liberal government assumed office in 1934 it found Queen's Park solidly Tory, the whole civil service was Tory. They talk about Premier Hepburn discharging a few, but they forget that when R. B. Bennett went into office he discharged over 14,000 civil servants from one end of the country to the other. He gave as his reason he wanted 'a loyal civil service'. Ferguson and Henry built up a civil service, that was timeyning and one half per cent. Tory, and yet the opposition talks of patronage. If Ontario is unfortunate enough to have Earl Rowe as its next Premier every Liberal holding office will be cleaned out. I would say that Earl Rowe would go enough; he should have cleaned down to Col. Drew.

"A party owes loyalty to its workers, just as much as workers have a right to expect a like differentiation when it comes to the point.

Describing the Hon. Earl Rowe as a "reactionary Tory", Mr. Fraser further charged him with "deliberately and wilfully" trying to sell best interests of every Liberal holding office will be cleaned out. I would say that Earl Rowe would go enough; he should have cleaned down to Col. Drew.

"A party owes loyalty to its workers, just as much as workers have a right to expect a like differentiation when it comes to the point.

Describing the Hon. Earl Rowe as a "reactionary Tory", Mr. Fraser further charged him with "deliberately and wilfully" trying to sell best stand to his advantage at the time".

"I sat in the House with the Hon. Earl Rowe the time he was a back bencher with the R. B. Bennett Government, and though he poses as a friend of the farmer now, he wasn't so in 1934 when he voted against the Trade Treaty negotiated by Mackenzie King in Washington, which Treaty enabled Canada to increase her exports greater than any other country in the world, exports which had to do with the farm, livestock and other agricultural products of the field. Mr. King did more in that direction to help the agricultural industry of the country than any other government before him," declared Mr. Fraser.

Just Old Party Claimed

"The Rowe party is the "Old Party" with a new and false face, and the people of the Province have come to the realization of this. We are past the horse and buggy days of politics and a new era has begun. Now we know a lot more about government than we ever did. And now they know that the Hepburn Government has been the most courageous one of leadership and business administration that has ever been given the Province.

Somewhere, at the psychological moment in every crisis this country has given us a man, who could step in and restore order out of chaos. Once a crisis developed and the late Mackenzie King stepped in and took charge, he created a new morale, a rejuvenation of the minds of the people. Every time we have a Liberal government at Ottawa the people enjoy a period of prosperity and security. Another crisis in 1934 gave us Premier Hepburn, who also stepped in and took control of a debt burdened province, and today he stands sex high in the minds of the majority of people of Ontario. He not only rejuvenated finances, but Liberalism itself. You vote for Hepburn and the Hon Dr. Faulkner & mandate to carry on," concluded Mr. Fraser.

Mr. J. N. Mulholland, barrister, Toronto, in his brief address pointed out that the present debt reduction by Premier Hepburn was but an embryo of things to come. Stated Mr. Hepburn and let him carry on, he has already handed you dividends", appealed the speaker. "Now while we are nearing the peak of one of the Liberal government records, it is time to allow the work to be finished" he added.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Fraser and Mr. Mulholland was tendered by Col. Roscoe Vanwarmer and responded to with rousing applause from the audience.

During the evening the Belleville Brass Quartet presented several selection while previous to the opening of the meeting, community singing was led by Bandmaster Fred Jobson.

WILKINS REPORTS FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR LOST FLYERS ON ARRIVAL IN TORONTO

Dropping from a black night sky into the waters of Lake Ontario at Toronto, the powerful seaplane which carried famed Arctic explorer Sir Hubert Wilkins and his party on their unsuccessful flights across the Arctic in search of the last Russian flyers, completed the next-to-last leg of its return flight to New York to report the results of his experiment along with Herbert Hollick-Kenyon and Al Chesapan, Canadian pilots who accompanied the expedition, Sir Hubert telephoned Vilhjalmur Stefansson at New York to report the results of his experiment, as it was moored at the Toronto harbor after completing his flight from Winnipeg.

ARGOSIES OF AIR

Britain has led the world in ships for hundreds of years as the widespread empire indicates, and is not behind with the flying machine and air liner. There is the same intrepid attitude of Britishers towards this service of crossing land and sea as there was in the great days of the Sir Francis Drake. Young Britishers have not failed to keep the part of Britain to the fore as they have dared the earth's farthest bounds in quest of trade.

To the airmen of today must go a great meed of praise not only for developing aviation but also for keeping Britain to the fore with striking progress.

One of the latest evidences is the visit of the flying boat Cambria which was a true imperial guest.

THE LAST DAYS AND NIGHTS

The last few days of the great election campaign in Ontario are at hand, when electors will be asked to absorb more than the usual amount of political information, speech, prophecy and general news.

The season has been ideal, missing entirely such a stretch of weather as witnessed the staging of the election last December in the east riding. No one wanting to hear the issues of the day need miss the forensic appeals of candidates and their supporters in ninety different ridings.

The modern automobile has speeded up present day elections, because it permits the appearance of public men on as many as three platforms of an afternoon or evening. Speakers have been knitted up in a network of appearances and meetings and have crisscrossed one another on the highways as they sped from one place to another.

The past week has witnessed an increase in the election fervor and the present week and the two days of electioneering and canvassing next week before the day of voting bid still further to intensify the interest.

THE CARNAGE OF PEACE

(New York Times)

The Japanese drop bombs on twenty Chinese cities So frightful is the slaughter that Canton alone reports 2,000 dead or wounded in two days. Yet the slaughter that goes on year after year in these peaceful United States is more appalling. If we do not protest in horror, as we protest against the bombing in China, it is because our slaughtering is the result not of deliberate intention but chiefly of downright carelessness. In a word, our deaths are caused by accidents—many of them avoidable accidents.

The National Safety Council compiles the gruesome figures for the year 1936. The record is enough to send shudders up and down the spine. One injury in every nine seconds, a death every five minutes, so that the year's total includes 10,730,000 persons injured and 110,000 killed! The Japanese will find it hard to beat this record of a single ghastly American year even with sudden, deliberate death raining down from their airplanes on the most densely packed cities in the world.

This is no new manifestation of the hazards of life in the United States. The skull and bones on the black flag of death fluttered more triumphantly in 1936 than ever. There was an increase in the accident death rate of 10 per cent in 1936, so that the total rate now stands at 86.4 per 100,000.

To what may this carnage of peace be attributed? The automobile at once leaps to the mind. To be sure, its record as a killer is shocking—37,800 deaths in 1936, or 34 per cent of the total. And yet the home outdid it with 38,500 killed, or 35 per cent of the total. Even if we deduct 4,600 from this total because they were caused by excessive heat, the figures are alarming enough. According to the Kansas State Board of Health, falls and burns constitute two-thirds of the home death total, with bedrooms accounting for 27 per cent, living rooms for 14 per cent, kitchens for 13 per cent, stairs for 9 per cent, dining rooms for 7 per cent, bathrooms for 4 per cent, places inside the house for 3 per cent and the grounds about the home for 23 per cent. Perilous indeed is domesticity. For a peaceful life, with a ripe old age assured, give us the high-speed railway train. In 1936 only twenty-three passengers lost their lives on American railways. Speed yet safety—it shows what can be done.

SANCTUARY

If, between dawn and darkness, you can find
Somewhere, some secret loveliness to lie
Cool on the heart; some attribute of sky,
Hushing the vicious wheeling of the mind;
Some attribute of earth—a willow frond,
Lifted by wind; three snow-white birches bowed
Over a pool; a shell, a stone, a cloud—
You will have found the rainbow's pot of gold;
Wise men, since earth was very young, would give Kingdoms for such. Nothing betrays them—cold,
Nor heat, nor storm. Possess them while you live;
Then, dying, test them from the closer range,
Change within substances defying change.

John Williams Andrews.

THE CAMBRIA HAS EBEN AND GONE, giving us another glimpse of the last word in modern transportation, the flying boat which bridges the Atlantic in a few hours without visible effort. What a far cry to the old horse and buggy days, the covered wagon before that, and the sailing ships which sometimes took months to cross the Atlantic—a voyage which the Cambria accomplishes in a few hours. Long and narrow with graceful lines, less noisy than an ordinary plane the Cambria breathes the suggestion of power and ability—and while rejoicing in the wonders of science and the speeding up of transportation methods which turn weeks into minutes, the disturbing thought persists that the same facilities would enable enemy bombing planes to cross the Atlantic and wreak havoc—if they could carry enough fuel for the return journey or have some refueling base on this side of the world. However, a bomb or two from the sky might jar us out of our complacency, our faith in distance immunity, and some folks' pathetic faith in the protection of our powerful neighbor, Uncle Sam. Don't forget that the most powerful election slogan ever used in the United States was Wilson's "He kept us out of war."

BRIGHTON WAS ALL AGOG WITH EXCITEMENT a week ago Friday. (Note —Agog not to be confused with Gog and Magog) when three beer robbers were run to earth there and captured after a gun fight and a pitchfork duel. Such excitement rarely comes to a small town, and the small town newspaperman is faced with something out of the ordinary—perhaps he has been on the qui vive for just such an opportunity for years to show just how he could handle such a story and scoop his big city brothers. Alas and a lack for the Brighton editor his paper had gone to press and the type distributed ere the story broke and he was forced to see the big city dailies play up the story in word and picture while his press remained idle and silent. That he appreciated the position is evident from the following remarks in the subsequent Friday issue which betray both philosophy and bitterness, just a shade, perhaps:

"Stories a week old are not very newsy but to omit a report of last Friday's excitement around town would be almost impossible. With policemen and constables from all surrounding districts here and with many of the male population joining in the hunt, excitment ran high. Early risers, night watchmen, light sleepers and forewarned constables were all ready for the fun which began here about five o'clock a.m. and ended about six o'clock p.m."

Snakes, like the python draped around his young neck here, bring him more joy than a baseball autographed by the entire Yankee team would an American youth. According to claims, the lad has now found delight in handling the poisonous ones and, strange to tell, the dangerous reptiles seem to know his touch and Gena has not "yet" been bitten.

The Belleville Bowling Club held a Scotch-doubles tournament upon their greens on William Street. The weather was ideal and twelve teams of bowlers played three games each. The largest score was piled up by Judge Deroche and Mr. Phillip Brocket, who had 36 shots to their credit. The lucky winners were presented with handsome electric lamps constituted of brass and formed like trench bombs, the gift of Mr. W. B. Riggs, who is one of the enthusiastic officers of the club. It was a popular victory as the genial judge and the local Y.M.C.A. Secretary are comparatively new players and are loyal supporters of the club.

FLAMING GASOLINE MENACES SECTION OF SAN FRANCISCO

Almost like a scene from a lost world is this elevation view taken in San Francisco as a gasoline blaze roared through the plant of the Standard Oil Co. there, exploding gasoline and oil tanks. A large section of the city was threatened as flaming gasoline, showered on the surrounding area by the explosions, ran down street gutters. Great sheets of flame sparting from the breached tanks, and the dense cloud of smoke that settled over the area produced the weird picture.

MARKET STOCKS

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—A series of sharp rallies and declines put life in trade stocks today.

The list jumped 1 to 4 points at the opening, then fell back almost as much and, in the fourth hour, negotiated another brisk advance that put the favorites at their best levels of the session. Transfers were about 2,300,000 shares.

A break in U. S. Steel was a momentarily unsettling factor. The ticker tape was laid on both the upturns and downturns. The Steel was off about 3 after being up approximately this amount at the start. It retrieved the loss and was ahead a point near the final hour.

Support was said to have been inspired partly by the belief the market had been kicked around more than it deserved. Helpful also was the action of the Federal Reserve Board in loosening credit regulations for member banks.

The pronounced weakness of "big steel" stirred special interest in brokerage circles in view of the action of the stock exchange in investigating transactions in the stock for the last three weeks. This was started Saturday with sending of a questionnaire to members.

Bonds turned to a lower trend in sympathy with the fresh weakness in shares, but some leading commodities were fairly steady at higher levels.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto Sept. 27.—(CP)—Late buying gave Toronto Stock Exchange listings a strong closing tone today. Best gains for the day on many issues were established in the last hour after profit-taking had cut early advances.

Brazilian Traction sold up 1 3-4 to 22 1-4 and Consolidated Smelters at 63 was up more than 4 points. Other industrial shares were in evidence on slight demand and golds were generally firm. Such base metals as Aldermac and Hardrock were somewhat lower in good volume.

Interest centred in the Kirkland Lake section around mid-day and most of the selling was in that district. Falconbridge and other Base Metal issues turned heavy while gold shares held about the morning prices.

Ford A came out at 19, a shade below Saturday's close, but other leading Industrials were on the upside. Consolidated Smelters broke at 61 1-2 for a gain of more than two points after reaching 63 in the early session.

Livestock

Montreal, Sept. 27 (CP)—Receipts were heavy on all sections of Montreal Livestock Markets in early dealings today and trading moved briskly. Calves gained 25 cents while hogs lost about the same amount to provide the only price changes as other divisions held steady and unchanged.

Receipts—Cattle, 1825; calves, 1125; sheep and lambs, 6000; hogs, 2791.

Good steers made around $8 with mediums from $6.35 to $7 and common lights up to $5. Medium cows went from $3.50 to $4, while common butchers sold from $3 and canners and cutters from $2 to $2.75.

Good veal calves made $9 with medium good to good kinds in mixed lots at $8.50 and common lights down to $6. Drinkers sold at $4.50 while grassers made from $3.25 to $4.25.

Good ewes and wethers sold at $4.75 on lamb sections with culls and feeds out at $6.75. Sheep went from $3.50 to $4.50.

Bacon hogs, fed and watered, sold at $10.25 with selects at the usual $1 premium. Butchers and heavies went at $9.75 with extra heavies and lights around $9.25. Sows sold from $6.75 to $8 with odd tops up to $8.25 and $8.50.

MARKET COMMENT

The market decline that set in early in the week of Sept. 13 has had three distinct phases. First was the bear raid, which resulted in considerable selling and was followed, about much liquidation in mining securities. Particularly the gold producers. This had the effect of depressing prices in other sections of the list.

The market then staged a mild recovery only to be again shaken from its foundations through the so-called "war scare". Despite the fact that Chamberlain and the London stock exchanges held steady. Wall Street and subsequently the Canadian markets, tumbled sharply. The war scare is believed to have been engineered by interests who desired lower security prices, as the bear stock racket, prices of beneficiaries in the event of a war, broke even more severely than the rest of the list. It is also indicated that talk of war was used as a blind to force the sale of stocks.

When the war scare subsided somewhat, reports were immediately issued by many business depression, that industry was due for a very severe decline with its resultant effect on sales. Many stories also appear to have been circulated to the effect that the Canadian business situation was due for a severe slump. Rather there is ground for optimism.

The writer has been in conversation with a number of local financial and statistical and investment bankers, and in every case the opinion has been expressed that the market is in an oversold condition and that a sharp rally is warranted. Those making purchases at current prices, if they are willing to exercise patience, are bound to obtain good profits. The selling of certain funds at the moment is in an envious position for the reason that he can choose between the best of the issues or securities.

Market Rally is Overdue

Forced selling came into the Toronto market on Friday in a big way. Marginal accounts were liquidated and the bulk of the buying was on a cash basis. If we can trust the estimates of this year's earnings of leading corporations, it seems a safe observation that the conditions existing so far in the downward direction and that the smart rally is overdue. There are plenty of stocks available now at twelve to fifteen times their estimated earnings by the time the year is over, but are not overpriced. The bargain hunter is having his day and idle funds will soon go working.

Cheese Boards

The Eastern Ontario Cheese Board sold 1,000 boxes at Belleville, 1,655 boxes at Alexandria—Boarded 1,655 boxes; 1,655 sold; 1,655 white; no sales; white at 13 15-16 cents, colored at 14 1-16 cents.

Woodcraft Classes Enjoy Experiences In North Country

One Youth Meets a Large Bear And Makes a Hurried Retreat

Meeting four hundred pound brown bears, young deer and other animals of the north is just a part of the experiences of the detachment of Belleville and Trenton youths sent to the timbered regions near Algonquin Park, Ontario in woodcraft and reforestation under the program of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Classes, according to letters received by friends of the youths residing in the city.

Glowing reports of the daily life and the training being given under competent instructors feature the letters. One youth writes that his daily patrol suddenly came face to face with a large brown bear out on a berry-foraging expedition. The youngster stopped, stared for a moment, then dashed to the camp for help. Brush winked alcepy eyes and slowly ambled away through the bushes.

NORTH COUNTRY FAIRYLAND OF COLOR

The magic brush of Jack Frost is skimming lightly over the trees and woodlands of the county and district has left a brilliant fruit of Autumn scenes and yellows in its wake. Travellers returning from the northern parts of the county over the week end state the woods are rich in the full glory of the autumnal coloring alancing out in contrast against the greens of the balsams.

GREEK RITES OF BAPTISM HELD

The rites of baptism of the Greek Orthodox Church were performed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evening when the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pappas was baptized into the Church by Rev. C. Stavrau of Toronto, assisted by Father Valasis of the Greek Community in Toronto. George Karrys of Toronto was godfather of the child, a position most important in this impressive ritual. Greek citizens from Montreal, Toronto, St. Catharines, Peterboro, Kingston, Belleville and other points were present to honor Mr. and Mrs. Pappas and a number from out of town.

The ceremony, which occupied about one hour, of time was most impressive and was carried out in the Greek language by the presiding priest. The child, according to the Greek custom, is named by the godfather and the parents are not aware of its name until given by the godfather at a certain point in the service. The child was immersed in old and water and during the whole ceremony, the baby did not utter one cry. To the guests, not of the Greek faith, this was the most interesting and instructive.

As the conclusion of the ceremony, the health of the child was drunk and later all the guests were seated to partake of a most sumptuous repast given by the parents of the child, which included all the delicacies of the culinary art. Concluding the feast, Frank Sakos of Toronto, acted as chairman and called upon Charles A. Payne, K.C., Professor Valasis, Mayor D. D. Arnott, George Karrys, the Godfather, Alderman Harris Leavitt and Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, Vicar of St. Thomas' Church. Each expressed his pleasure at being present and wished for the parents and godchild every happiness. Sam Pappas, father of the child, thanked all for their courtesy.

Following the addresses, the members of the Church Guild danced their native dances in celebration of the event, the graceful dancing to the strains of the Commodores completed a most enjoyable affair.

Youth Not Sworn In Giving Evidence

Do you know the nature of an oath and what it means?" asked Magistrate Ponton of a boy in the police K.C. of a twelve year old boy, who was called to give evidence during today's local police court.

"Yes sir, to tell the truth and nothing but the truth," answered the lad.

"If you don't tell the truth what will happen to you?" further asked His Worship of the lad.

"I'd go to jail, I guess," replied the frightened lad.

"Then do you know about an oath?" further asked His Worship.

"Well perhaps I'd go to the informatory if I didn't tell the truth," added the lad, who was still rather confused.

"I don't think we will swear this lad. I proved with him that he knew about this case", concluded His Worship as he indicated that perhaps the boy did not know the full meaning of an oath. The police court case continues with the lad being a willing witness, however.

PARALYSIS TOLL REACHES 174 FOR ALL OF CANADA

Three Deaths Yesterday — 2,000 Are Under Treatment

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—Health officials looked hopefully today for signs of abatement in the infantile paralysis epidemic that started early in June. Canada's death toll reached 74 yesterday with three deaths as total treatments across the Dominion topped 2,000.

Two of the deaths were in Ontario where the hospital treatment list showed more than 1,900 names. Ontario's fatal cases since the start of the disease reached 53 when Bernice M. Brear, 16, died at London, and Norman Sherk, South Cayuga farmer, died at Hamilton.

Third death yesterday was in Gloucester County, New Brunswick, bringing that province's list of fatal cases to four. Health authorities in New Brunswick called blood doctors to keep the serum made from recovered cases of infantile paralysis well ahead of possible demand as the cases to date totalled 78.

Bright spots in the infantile paralysis map were in Kentville, N.S., where schools, closed yesterday, are scheduled to reopen today and at Edmonton where junior and intermediate pupils resumed studies after three weeks' extra holidays because of the disease.

London, Sept. 27.—(AP)— The master of the British steamer Cheyenne picked up the London office of the Associated Press today that he had rescued the crew of the Endeavour I, long-missing America's cup yacht, at noon British summer time today.

Captain Alcock, the Cheyenne's master, telephoned from sea with the Endeavour I through the radio which exerting a pull of honors for the one-time cup challenger broke her tow off Nantucket two weeks ago.

His message from off the Irish coast brought the report Endeavour had been reported found. The first report from the Irish coast led to the south, proved erroneous.

Plan Innovation For Young Scholars At Christ Church

Christ Church on Sunday next is having a children's service in connection with the sermon period at morning service. The service which is to be continued this Sunday, Rev. G. O. Fallis, Rector, explained this week in order to provide a more interesting period for the children than in past years, when they sought worship God as they should be. This is of course a parental responsibility and cannot be overlooked, he appreciate the difficulty."

The sermon time was picked by the minister as one which fails to appeal to children. He announced that the children would attend with their parents, the morning service and when the sermon period came, they would go to the parish hall where they would receive instruction. After the sermon the scholars will resume their place with their parents in the church. The rest of the service will be normal, concluding all to appeal to the children.

In the way it is hoped to attract more children to church and relieve the parents of the task of keeping them quiet during the service.

Weddings

DENISON—LONG

At Bridge Street United Church, Picton, on Saturday 25th inst., Mr. Lambon Denison and Miss Mary Ann Long, both of Napanee, were united in marriage by Rev. Arnold Semple. They were unattended and will reside in Napanee.

BLAIR—BAKER

Trenton, (Special)—Mabel Violet Baker, daughter of Mr. Jessie Baker and the late Mr. Baker and Sidney Elliott of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Elliott of Ottawa, were quietly married on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Trevor Bowerman, Dundas street. Rev. F. A. Smith of St. George's Anglican Church officiated.

Wearing royal blue crepe with matching accessories the bride looked lovely. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Isabel Goslin wore, navy blue with matching accessories and corsage of sweet peas. Bridesmaid Miss Dorothy Blair, was best man.

A reception was held at Mrs. Grover Bowerman's after the ceremony. Relatives and friends were present, and the guests were received by Mrs. G. Draper and Mrs. S. Elliott. They were dressed in navy blue with white and a corsage of Briarcliffe roses. After a motor trip to Toronto and western points the couple will live in Ottawa.

MORAN—WAY

Trenton, (Special)—St. Alphonsus Catholic church at Wooler, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday morning, when June Elizabeth, daughter of Horace F. Way and Mrs. Way, was united in marriage to William Thomas Moran, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Moran. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Hand.

Given away by her father the bride was attired in midnight blue velvet and wore a corsage of Talisman roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a prayer book that was carried by the groom's mother forty-five years ago. Miss Agnes Moran of Toronto, cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaid. She wore black velvet with corresponding accessories and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath. The groom was supported by his brother, Gerald Moran.

After the ceremony a reception at which immediate friends and relatives were present, was held at Fitzhurst Manor, Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Moran will reside at Codrington.

FREDERICK—BLEECKER

On Saturday, September 25th, Marsh Hill Church, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Bessie Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bleecker of Hallowey, and Gerald Earl, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Frederick, were united in marriage.

The church was appropriately decorated with autumn flowers and leaves.

The bride looked charming in a dress of white lace over white satin, and carried a veil, with bouquet of Ophelia roses and baby's breath. She was attended by Mrs. W. A. Eggleton, who acted as matron of honour, Mr. Donald Bleecker, his brother, as groomsman, and Misses Evelyn Bleecker, as flower girl, Her father, Mr. Benjamin Bleecker, gave the bride in marriage.

The matron of honor looked lovely in a dress of old rose velvet with carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations and the little flower girl was very pretty in a make taffeta dress carrying a basket of autumn flowers.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, to about thirty invited guests, which took the form of a buffet luncheon.

After luncheon was served the bride and groom left on their honeymoon to Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern points. The bride's travelling costume was a blue suit with matching accessories and on their return they will reside at Charleston.

The out of town guests were Mr. Dougal Bleecker, Jr. of Toronto; Mrs. Dougal Bleecker, Mr. and Mrs. Mary Bleecker, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Leonard, Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Blackburn, Belleville, and Mrs. W. A. Eggleton, Eggleton.

ROUGE—DENIKE

A pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon, September, 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Denike, 303 Ann St., when their eldest daughter, Susan Margaret, became the bride of J. Wilson Rouge, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rouge of Toronto. Dr. J. Semple officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Dougal Bleecker, brother of the groom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of blue lace over taffeta and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Denike, wearing a pink lace gown and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mr. Milton Loughead of Toronto, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of black velvet with a corsage of roses. The groom's mother also received wearing a gown of wine velvet and a corsage of roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Rough left on their honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a brown knitted suit with brown and green accessories. On their return they will live in Toronto.

RATHBUN—BROATCH

Trenton, (Special)—An important fall wedding was solemnized in Holy Sepulchre church on Saturday afternoon, when Lenore Marie Broatch, eldest daughter of Mrs. Broatch and the late Arthur Broatch, Trenton, became the bride of James Percy Rathbun, Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rathbun, Trenton. Rev. J. U. Robins conducted the service. Miss Dorothy Meredith Crews, sister of the groom, sang, "All Joy Be Yours" during the signing of the register. The wedding music was played by Leslie Hearns, choirmaster of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in white suede lace with a fingertip length veil, and carried a shower bouquet of Johanna mid roses. A bandeau of white velvet flowers held her veil in place. Miss Jean Broatch, a sister of the bride acted as maid of honor. She wore a model in pale blue taffeta with accessories to match and wore pink lace mitts. She wore a blue hair band with pink rosebuds and carried a bouquet of pink briarcliffe roses. Mr. Reginald Campbell of Toronto, was best man. Miss Jean Rathbun, of Prince Edward County, a cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She was attired in pink taffeta dress trimmed with blue and carried a pink basket of little garden flowers.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served on the lawn at the bride's home. Many immediate friends and relatives were present and Mrs. J. E. Rathbun dressed in black velvet and wearing a corsage of red roses and Mrs. G. J. Broatch in purple velvet and a corsage of yellow roses received the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun left by motor for a ten day trip through the New England States to New York City. The bride travelled in a wine wool dress trimmed with grey leather and a top coat of grey wool trimmed with Bombay lamb. She wore wine accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun will reside in Trenton.

FOUR STAR success seems to be that of the velvet beret for early Autumn as worn by the well dressmer wear. A charming profile beret of black velvet has a soft velvet ribbon laced and brought through for bows at the sides.

BACK TO AUTUMN and ready for the formality and luxury that marks the new season. Typical of this trend is an afternoon frock of gray crepe with bands of ostrich-like grey marabou forming the cape and marking the square neckline. The matching crepe jacket has cuffs of platinum gray fox.

GOOD MANNERS

by MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Bridesmaid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to be a bridesmaid for a close friend of mine, and several questions have arisen.

1. The bride has offered to pay for my dress. Should I offer to pay for it, or do I give it back to her after the wedding? I can afford to pay for it.

2. It is taken for granted that the bridesmaid have a shower for the bride-to-be? We have many mutual friends.

3. The boy friend is to be best man at the wedding. Would it be proper for us to give a wedding present together, or would it be better for us to give separate presents?

4. After the ceremony, should we, the attendants, offer congratulations to the bride and groom immediately, or after the other friends have congratulated them?

Mary.

1. Usually it is taken for granted that each attendant will pay for her own costume for the wedding. The bride-to-be tells every detail or the costume, but the attendant is supposed to pay for the dress and accessories. Perhaps this friend thinks that this entails, for some reason, appropriate. But if I were you, since you are able to pay for it yourself, I would tell her that you would like to abide by custom and pay for your own attire. But assure her too how much you appreciate her offer and thank her for her generosity.

2. It is not taken for granted that the bride's attendant gives a shower for her. But since usually she is a close friend of the bride, and since, as in your case, they have many friends in common, it is a natural gesture for her to make.

3. It is better taste for you and your boy friend to give separate presents.

4. After the ceremony, everyone should wait for the bride's parents first and the groom's parents second, to offer their felicitations to the bride and groom. Then the other relatives of the bride and groom give their good wishes. Then the attendants, and then the other guests. And by the way, remember: do offer "best wishes" to the bride, not "congratulations." It is bad taste to offer "congratulations" to the bride!

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married at home and on account of illness in my family, no guests can be invited. Should I send announcements of my wedding to my friends living here in the same town?

L.

Yes. If you send announcements they are sent to the entire list of relatives and friends, of both the bride and the groom, whether they live in town or out of town.

Response to Toast

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a toast is given in your honor at a dinner party, should you rise and drink with the other guests or remain seated and not drink.

Woman Reader

When the toast is proposed to you, do not rise and drink from your glass. As the guests drink to the toast, bow and say gracious "Thank You." You do not drink while the toast is being drunk to you. After the toast has been drunk, you may if you wish and if it seems appropriate to the occasion, rise and briefly thank the guests.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Advice to the Lovelorn

by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Miss Fairfax:

To thunder with college! I have a bunch of junior misses who want to marry my girl instead of going through the senior year. My daughter Carol Cain asked this, because I'll admit she has made a good many sacrifices to put my college bills so far. Her final graduation is next June. Should I wait to get a better job and be able to support my wife in better style than if I'm only an under-graduate. What do you think of this?

Junior

I agree heartily with your daughter's point of view, that (whether you learn anything in college or not) it is far better for a young man or girl to get a good job if they can flourish a diploma in the face of a father who is over-crowded with job-seekers. Tell Carol to stick out another four final year. If the girl amounts to anything, she'll wait for you.

Mother's Extravagance Kept her from Marrying

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I enjoy Theresa's letter telling of her mother's extravagance in going to beauty parlors and having her reduced, buying jewelery and otherwise wasting the family funds. I am glad to receive from friends to pay those bills. I disagree with your solution of the problem.

Theresa had brothers and sisters, but she was going to enjoy her own, salary $50 a month to put where it belongs. Many women have every comfort, but would not be allowed to run up bills like that good. But only should Theresa, the spinster member of the family, enjoy the whole salary. Her brothers and sisters, who were married and comfortable, should be taxed with the spendthrift mother's board.

In your place I should have advised an equal division on the part of the children to pay for the mother's keep.

Critic

The letter stated that the married brothers and sisters declined to help the extravagant mother and live with them, and said they shouldn't contribute anything to her support, owing to the fact they have young children to bring up.

Now maybe I left this out of the letter, but there it was in black and white. So there was no solution except to choose between sending the mother to a charity home at $50.00 a month, or putting her into a home run by charity. I agree with you that it is pretty tough on Theresa to spend $50. out of her salary of $125. caring for a mother who acquiesced in not reducing her waist-line and trying to get back to a slim figure.

But Theresa is a fine girl; she remembers her mother when she was little and was lovely. A mother aged extravagances and is glad to get out for her.

Wants to Have Faith in Her Husband

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The handicap in my problem is a fifteen-months old baby whom I want to keep. We have not been married something over two years and every time I go anywhere after dolling himself up, goes out, I beg to go with him but he says he prefers to go alone. So, naturally, it looks to me as if there is another woman in the case, especially since he is so careful about his appearance. He does not out on these solitary evening affairs.

He always has a good alibi, and claims that he goes out to set with the baby so more work. But why should business be conducted at night when he knows I want to be with him, keep the home together, especially with the baby. The plight of a child with separated parents, kicking around from pillar to post, is pitiful. If you have so often said in your columns.

I cry myself to sleep every night. Friends have offered to stay with the baby, but I am afraid they'll take me out, but that seems to be the last thing he wants.

Unhappy

The first thing to do in solving this problem is to stop crying yourself to sleep at night. That never did anybody a favor. A forsaken woman except give her red eyes, which spell her fatal to the nervous wreck of her. If there is another woman in your husband's life, she'll have that edge over you. There is something in human nature—women especially—that can afraid most of us have, which make us impatient with a fretting creature.

Dry your eyes, look your best and cultivate a few social contacts on your own account. If some interesting person will take care of your baby, go to the movies with some of your women friends. At least, you won't weep while you're there. And don't try to find out about the other woman. If you break down your husband's alibis, nothing is more certain than he will probably try to brazen it out. Cultivate a more cheerful attitude and it will help a lot.

A regular beauty routine helps her fresh and lovely

By HELEN POLLETT

NEGLECT YOUR POISE and old "Pop Time" will get his claws in your hair. It is the woman who attends each day to certain matters pertaining to pulchritude that stays fresh and lovely.

Allot one half-hour at bedtime to pamper yourself in beauty form. Have a warm, sudsy bath if it does not make you wakeful. Cold cream your complexion, use a hand lotion and apply cuticle cream to the finger nails which you're doing that last duty, slip the orange wood stick under the cuticle, lift it and snip off any shreds that may appear.

Use a foot powder. It is a wonderful help, especially if one travels, or spends most of the day, function in it. If there are corns or callouses places, apply mineral oil.

Then for your glorious crest. It has a finger wave, perhaps, and needs a clip, or trimming. If your hair is strong, brushing is out of the question, but your fragile under your tresses and give the scalp a facial massage. This can be done without weakening the undulation.

It has an invigorating effect upon the growth, keeping the scales from forming and rouses blood circulation upon which the hair shafts live.

Long, silky eyelashes are the envy of every girl. Theirs pretty fringes can be coaxed to grow thicker and longer by application of mineral oil. Precisely, a little lightly. If the oil streaks over the cheeks that's all right, too. Glistening skin makes the eyes look starlike and sparkling.

If it aires appear repeatedly, see an eye specialist. In time they will ruin the growth, destroy the delicate papillae from which the tiny fingers sprout and have their being.

Sometimes perspiration, remedies fail. That is when the skin moisture results from emotional upsets. There are girls who are always at high tension, suffering from self-consciousness and nervousness. It is not to be expected that any application, no matter how excellent, will promote a change for the better.

The tall woman should not wear ruffles and flounces. And how often on the tall woman does! She arranges for frivolous clothes which do not suit her type.

Her aim should be to appear stately. Long, graceful draperies and simple effects will make her a stunning picture, a joy to the eye. The broad-rimmed hat gives her better proportions than the tiny bonnet and the abbreviated turban.

Flat finger nails are not pretty. They should arch gracefully. If they are flat, massage the sides of the fingers, pressing the tips gently to a point.

The fabric of the nail is transparent. The rosy color is imparted by the blood streams. If circulation is poor, there will be blue rose petals. Dirt and harsh soaps impede the circulation. Wear rubber gloves like a good girl when doing rough work about the house and of changing the typewriter ribbon.

Presentation to Popular Couple

About forty friends and neighbours called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hay, Echo Crescent, Wednesday evening, when a large crowd assembled to partake of ice-cream, cake, tarts and coffee. This was the joyous ending of the charivari party given the night before to Mr. Leon Macmullen and his bride, the former Miss Marguerite Wade of Picton.

After the eats, the gathering was called to order by Mr. Stanley Spafford, who thanked Leon for the ice cream and welcomed the bride to this community and smurch. Mrs. Macmillen very graciously replied and said she felt she would enjoy the friends in this community.

For friendly stimulation . . . millions turn to this truly roaster-fresh coffee!

FIRST, the tantalizing fragrance of its aroma—
Then, the goodness of its matchless flavour. . .
And then—what friendly cheer! Its friendly stimulation buoys you up . . . and never lets you down!

Vita-Fresh Maxwell House comes to you truly roaster-fresh. It's packed in a super-vacuum tin . . . the one sure way to bring you coffee as fresh and wholesome as the hour it left the roasting oven.

DROUGHT-RIDDE N SASKATCHEWAN PRODUCED THIS WHEAT CROP

Drought-ridden though much of Saskatchewan is this year the land crop has produced the proud title: "Bread-basket of the World" produced this excellent crop. This year the yield was 45 bushels per acre from this field and the crop as a whole.

CHINESE SOLDIERS ON THE MOUND AGAINST JAPANESE INVADERS

But the shrapnel clipping being hurled by these Chinese soldiers crouching behind a breach in the Kiangsze sector, on Shanghai's Bund, Professor in the line of these missiles is credited with stalling the Japanese war machine in the disorganized area.

Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen, Mary Boland in "Three Cornered Moon" today and Tuesday at the Capitol.

that will linger in the minds of filmgoers for years to come. Mmi, in an incredible realistic Chinese makeup, offers an enthralling characterization. The farmer seduced by riches and flattery, Miss Rainer goes beyond makeup to the point where even her thoughts seem to be embodied in the Oriental conception. Her work in "The Good Earth" proves beyond argument that she is one of the incomparable actresses of the screen.

There is not a flaw to be found in the entire cast. Walter Connolly is splendid as the uncle; the European dancer, Tilly Losch, scores in an interpretative dance sequence; Charley Grapewin is excellent as the Old Father, as is Jessie Ralph as Cuckoo. The Chinese players headed by Soo Yong, Keye Luke, Roland Lui and Suzanna Kim are uniformly good.

The sets, shifting from the acres of landscaped farm regions to the exotic palaces of the rich, are breathtaking in scope and visual beauty. In every picture is a veritable trip through China.

The triumph for directing this ambitious and spectacular undertaking goes to Sidney Franklin. To him, to the stars of "The Good Earth" to its outstanding cast of players, to its designers and craftsmen go the accolades for a production which raises the standards of picture-making higher than they have ever been raised before.

A very interesting newsreel completes an entertaining program of screen entertainment.

The entire program will be repeated again tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee daily.

By all means see "The Good Earth". It is a picture you never will forget for it is a picture that will live for many years.

Sarnia Imperials Open Season In Impressive Style by Win Over Hamilton Tigers Saturday

O.R.F.U. Had Field Day as Balmy each Takes Montreal

QUEENS DEFEATED

Collegians Shy of Condition Against Toronto Argonauts

(By The Canadian Press)

There is no guarantee exhibition game winners will be in the hunt for titles later in the season but Sarnia Imperials have shown enough this early to be considered a nice wager to retain their Eastern Canada football championship.

Art Mazmanian's well-balanced Ontario union team ripped Hamilton Tigers' line to shreds Saturday and while they were only leading 15-10, should have had a much greater margin. Navy Tigers admitted that.

While the hope, looking even stronger than had been placed in Tiger ace Hamilton, Balmy Beach made it a double triumph, for the O.R.F.U. by their 20-inning 7-6 victory over Montreal Indians 10-3 at Montreal.

Toronto's strong Argonauts looked impressive in whipping Queen's 14-4 at Toronto but the Collegians are being reorganized by Coach Ted Reeve and had little of the strength they will show later. University of Toronto Ontario were easy winner 18-5 over the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union team at Kingston.

Played in Rain

Playing in a driving rain, Tigers led Imperials 6-4 at half time and lopped them off at 15-10 counter after mark. Then the Ontario union turned on the heat and with four several lengthy ground gains sent Ormond Beach over for a touchdown which, after Gene Gallagher's Summer Stirling held an edge in a kicking duel with Bill Hewitt and the Imperials' greater strength, along the line was responsible for when they moved the yardsticks 13 times to Tigers' twice.

Lyn Thomson and Jack Prisella, two of Balmy Beach's 12 freshmen players, led the Toronto team in their victory, while their star half, Ab Box, was out of the game with a bruised shoulder. Thomson's kicking and running put Beaches in position to score just before Prisella tossed the pass which gave the Toronto team the only touchdown of the game.

Doug Scott, a halfback playing at outside wing, booted two converts and got Beaches' other major score with a field-goal placement in the last quarter.

Argos Easy Winners

Two converted touchdowns and two single points gave Argonauts their 14 points against Queen's. The Collegians seemed to lack conviction, and did nothing to open up the play. Argos looked good for this stage of the season. Their passing attack clicked often and on the ground they showed a great deal of power in their running game.

A blocking kick led to their first touch, Orval Wilson scooping the ball and passing it to Leo Deadley, who ran over the goal line for the score. Their second came, when Doug MacPherson took a pass from Jerry Shilton and ran into Queens' line in the final quarter.

Harry Batt, Argos' veteran of Western's forward pass attack used but little as there was nothing wrong with their set plays. Two of the three touchdowns against the Military College team were realized by sweeps around the ends. Boyce Sherk, Eric Gillespie, quarterback, got two of them and started the play for the third.

OUTSIDE CHANCE FOR ROUGHRIDERS

Must Win All Their Games to Get Into Play-offs

Winnipeg, Sept. 27 (CP)—Regina Roughriders, champions of the Western Football, retain only an outside chance of qualifying for Western Interprovincial Union play-offs in the current season.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Southbound Riders from the title hunt here Saturday with a 13-0 victory. Regina must win its four remaining games and hope Winnipeg and Calgary divide honors in their next two meetings to bring a three-way tie.

The Roughriders have lost four games, Calgary and Winnipeg a pair tied with three wins and a loss. The top two teams play off.

Two other leagues opened the season in the West Saturday, North Shore Lions and Mewigmaal tied 7-7 in the Vancouver Big Four and Edmonton Athletic Club and University of Alberta Big 4 at Edmonton ended in a forfeit-formed Northwestern League game while includes University of Saskatchewan, While Sox, 14-5.

SKYROS CAPTURES CORONATION STAKE

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—The Coronation Stakes title has changed hands again but still there is no definite claimant to the Canadian 3-year-old championship.

In the thirty-second running of the $1,500 Irvwills test at the Woodbine Park opening Saturday afternoon, the red and gold silks of Mrs. R. Tidwell, who triumphed when Skyros, piloted by M. Dello, flashed to a speed-record, four-length victory over the favorite—Willie Mooney's Jimmy Tempest.

Tempestuous, the Mrs. T. Stevenson-owned gelding, ran like a real champion to carry off the honors in the 32rd running of the autumn handicap, a $2,000 event. Ridden by Bryson, the stellar son of Stickle Bombardment packed a weight to his rivals, but led from start to finish to defeat Dr. C. N. Mooney's Dicky Caldwell's Jimmy Tempest—two carried 127 pounds, as compared to 115 on the second horse.

H. R. Bain's Sun Power, a double winner at the Thorncliffe meeting, was another to place and a half lengths back for third.

MINNESOTA USES ALL FIVE TEAMS IN GRIDIRON GAME

Along With Pittsburg Gave Great Display of Man Power.

NO SURPRISES

Big Games of Schedules Will Commence Next Saturday

(By Alan Gould)

New York, Sept. 27—(AP)—From most any angle of examination today, the game from United States College football's first bonafide touchdown Pursuit a rough idea of what it must be like to tour a string of boiler factories. The reverberation of scoring power echo through the list of results from coast to coast.

Minnesota and Pittsburgh, twin contenders for National Champion-hip honors, rattled off 19 touchdowns against the gridiron equivalents of grain Saturday. Minnesota used five complete teams to shell shock North Dakota State 60-7, it as blasted Ohio Wesleyan, 56-6 with a similarly extravagant display of manpower.

More significant were the triumphs achieved in Saturday's major games by California on the West Coast, Stan Stirling, the middle-weight Vanderbilt in the Old South and Cornell in the East.

California Golden Bears climbed the Pacific Coast's Big League ladder by shellacking St. Mary's 30-7.

Stanford Gives Setback

Simultaneously Stanford was thrust back for the second straight year by Santa Clara, 7-7, while Washington's Huskies repulsed the inter-sectional challenge of Duke with a well-executed aerial attack 14-0. Southern California trampled the College of the Pacific, 40-0, Idaho signalled its return to the conference fold by spanking Oregon State, 7-6, while Gonzaga held Washington State to a scoreless tie.

The day's biggest crowd, 66,36?, dedied rainy weather to see Ohio State open the campaign with a decisive 14-0 victory over Texas Christian.

There were no surprises otherwise in "big 10" circles as Illinois inaugurated Bob Zuppke's 25th season with a 30-8 triumph over Ohio Uni-Stirling held Vanderbilt's Commodores scoreless in the first half, and Indiana outscored centre, 14-0.

Cornell captured one of the day's most thrilling matches from Penn State, 21-20, in the last period. Its second season under the direction of Carl Snavely.

Colgate, which meets Cornell next Saturday, disposed of St. Lawrence by 21-0 without appearing to be sweating. Navy's new coaching regime got off to a flying start, Red opened its season under the direction of Carl Snavely.

Colgate, which meets Cornell next Saturday, disposed of St. Lawrence by 21-0 without appearing to be sweating. Navy's new coaching regime got off to a flying start, Red routing William and Mary 45-0.

Giants Practically Cinch Flag Having Four Game Lead with Only One Week Left to Play

New York Team Wins And Cubs Split Double Bill

ALLEN WINS 14TH

Cleveland Hurler Yet to be Defeated This Year

(By Sid Feder)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

'Tis all intents and purposes, the Giants had the National Baseball League pennant locked away in their "Weakie" pocket today, but there's still the bare chance those big bad Bees from Boston will knock them over the head and take the title right away from them.

In fact, the last hope for the Cubs, who now trail Bill Terry's Terriers by four full games, lies in the ability of the baffling Bees to continue their fine over the galloping Giants in the two double-headers at the Polo Grounds today and tomorrow.

It will take a sweep of the four-game set, or close to it, to keep the Giants away from successful defense of their crown through the last week of the season, a defense that may not do it, unless the Cubs can make a right about face and knock off the Cardinals and Dizzy-nati Reds in their seven remaining games.

The matches now stand, any combination of 6—8 wins for the Giants over the Bees or Cubs, or 6—7 wins, making up that total—finishes the pennant for the New Yorkers. They have 11 games to play, to the Cubs' seven. Even if they win only six of these, the pennant will stay in their lethag.

Dodgers Resign Twice

The Brooklyn Dodgers, once the Giants' best-loved opponents, showed how easy they were over the week-end by losing a two-game series to the New Yorkers. After bowing Saturday, they put up a game enough fight yesterday, Leroy Mahaffey, Chicoma, a reformed Philly, and the "white-haired boy" of Manager Terry troupe, walloped a homer in the ninth inning to break up the game with a 6-5 victory. Cliff Melton, the southpaw Rookie, was the rubber-armed ace of the Giants with a 1 1-3-inning hitless relief job.

Meantime, the Cubs managed only an even break in their double-header with the Cardinals, Bill Lee folded in the ninth inning and Chicago took the opener 6-4, with a four-run uprise in the final frame. A six-run spree in the sixth inning brought an 8-5 Cub victory in the nightcap.

Yanks Defeated

Jack Wilson's speedball slants baffled the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox socked the American League champions 7-2, while holding them to six hits. The Cleveland Indians, given classy fireball flinging by undefeated Johnny Allen and Bob Feller, downed Detroit twice, 9-4 and 3-3. The opened win was Allen's 14th straight victory.

The Pirates took the Cincinnati Reds twice, 5-4 and 2-1. The Bees, warming up for the Giants' series, slaughtered the Phillies 17-3, with Tony Cuccinello hitting three homers and Rookie Pitcher Milt Shoffner zeroes.

The White Sox trounced the St. Louis Browns twice, 6-4 and 4-1. The Athletics rallied to an 11-inning, 7-all tie with the Senators.

KINGSTON JUVENILES WIN

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 27.—Kingston Frigidaires won out over Hamilton Farrar's in the final finals, 8 to 7 after a close-fought contest in the Ontario Juvenile softball finals at the Cricket Field here Saturday afternoon. One of the bright spots of the contest occurred in the second inning when Bluton circled the bases, starting in two runs before, him. OSHAWA SWAMPS TORONTO SENIORS

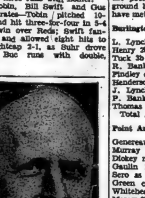
Oshawa, Sept. 27.—Oshawa General Motors trounced Toronto G. and W. in the O.B.A.A. the second crowd of the season at Alexandra Park last Monday afternoon in the first game of the O.B.A.A. finals. Billed as the pitchers' battle between Deveraj (Smoky) Smith and Ken (Jake) Biddle, the game developed into a slug fest on the part of the Oshawa Motor champions, who drove Smith from the game in the fifth inning after they had nicked him for nine safeties.

Biddle, however, coasted throughout, allowing but five hits and was backed up with fill-edged support. With the result that Jack Smith and Norm Moffatt, who finished the game, hooking seven chances which proved costly in the runs scored against them.

In Oshawa's second big inning, the fifth, when they scored the same number of runs, they collected four hits, while two errors and a walk helped them considerably. Again in the eighth, Oshawa bombed three hits, which, combined with two walks and an error, resulted in three runs crossing the plate.

Red Jubenville, flashy Oshawa second baseman, was the leading hit attack with four hits in five trips to the plate, while Biddle and Foley both collected three safeties in five tries. Pete Glenn was the only G. and W. player to get any success with the willow, collecting two hits in three trips to the plate.

Yesterday's Stars



(By The Associated Press)

Lou Chiozza, Giants—His homer in ninth beat Reds, 6-5.

Jack Wilson, Red Sox—Held Yankees to six hits in 7-2 victory.

Tony Cuccinello and Milt Shoffner, Bees—Cuccinello drove in four runs with two homers in 17-3 win over Phils; Shoffner held Phils to three runs for eight innings, and drove in three runs with homer.

Jim Tobin, Bill Swift and Gus Hoyt, Phils—Tobin pitched 10-hitter to beat Dodgers, 3-2; Swift fanned six and allowed eight hits to take nightcap 7-1, as Suhr drove in both Bue runs with double.

CEMENTMEN WIN FIRST GAME OVER BURLINGTON 10-6

Point Anne Team Only One Game Away From Title

WINNERS OUTHIT

"Funk" Murray Provides Fielding Features of Pastime

Capitalizing on the mistakes of their opponents and applying the willow for hits when they meant most, the Point Anne "Cementmen" won the first game of the intermediate O.A.S.A. finals, in the "B" semi-finals, on their home lot Saturday afternoon defeating the Burlington "Beaches" by the score of 10 to 6. Stopping the visitors three times in the batting game, the "Cement boys" forged to the fore with a six run splurge in the second frame, when the Burlington nine bowed the spherioid badly. The homesters were never headed from that point.

Stan "Stinger" Laffman was Manager Sedore's choice for mound duty and after a rather unsteady initial inning start, when the burlington nine took to the tune of three runs, Laffman settled away to pitch shut-out ball from that point until he eased off in the eighth, with a seven run lead.

The fielding sensations of the game were supplied by "Funk" Murray, diminutive left-fielder for the Cementmen, whose fine running catches in the second and fifth saved the day for his team mates. Murray was also on the starting end of a double play and handled four fielding chances faultlessly. Sero and Murray also turned in sparkling efforts in the infield. Lynch, the visitors' shortstop, was the only Burlington infielder not to field his position. Batchelor also fielding chances in fine shape. Batchelor, catching for Burlington, Laffman walloped three to Roy Banks' one.

Cementmen Outhit

The visitors outhit the Cementmen 13 to 10, but Laffman was seen to bear down in the pinches and held the visitors' hits well scattered. Rick Sero had a home run and single to lead the batting attack, while Murrey Green collected a trio of hits, including a circuit clout with two on in the official times at bat. Laffman helped his own cause with two timely blows. Tuck, the visitors' third baseman, and P. Banks were the big hitters for the losers, Tuck getting five safeties, Tuck cuffing for the circuit in the fourth. After the Point Anne squad collected their six big runs in the second inning, they were never in doubt from that point.

The second game of the provincial softball finals, between these two clubs will be played on the Burlington lot next Saturday, where a win for the Cementmen will give them the intermediate O.A.S.A. championship. The Burlington nine were strong in the batting line, but in ground balls, the Point Anne team have met this year. The box score:

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TAKING TIME FOR A THOROUGH PHYSICAL EXAMINATION

A boxer and his manager consulted a physician as the boxer maintained that he felt tired all the time and the manager stated that the boxer was "too lazy to train".

"I had him over to see Dr. Blank when he knows, and he just suggested that I give him a dose of salts and let him stop training for a week. I did this and he was a little more willing to work but he's getting lazy again."

The physician began to examine the boxer and found his blood was thin and his blood pressure low. An examination of the throat revealed a pair of tonsils (and the lining of the throat around them) very much inflamed.

"There's your trouble; your boxer has a chronic tonsilitis which is poisoning his blood (making him lazy), and also draining the blood of iron. No wonder his blood pressure is low and that he feels tired all the time."

The boxer was referred to a throat specialist and after a few weeks of treatment he was not only within but anxious to train.

It is because the busy physician does not get enough time to make a thorough examination during the regular office hour or hours (perhaps two hours at most) that there is not enough time for an examination of the teeth (by light or X-rays), tonsils, blood, urine, blood pressure, eyes, stomach and intestine and so common conditions are often missed. For instance this boxing manager stated that there were at least a dozen patients waiting at 2.30 p.m. In Dr. Blank's office and his hours were from 2 to 4 p.m.

The point then is that if you can afford it you should make a special appointment with your physician when you feel "out of sorts", tire easily, get out of breath on slight exertion, have chronic indigestion and constipation. By spending a whole half hour or even forty minutes in examining you, and giving you a chance to state your symptoms fully, the physician gets a real opportunity of locating your trouble and giving the necessary treatment.

If you take up the time of five ordinary office visits for the one examination, naturally you should expect to pay for it, but you can see that it would not only be more satisfactory for you and the physician, but would really save you time and money.

A shadow fell across the sand. Polly looked up and saw two uniformed officers and, between them, a small, wrinkled old man in whose bright green eyes burned the anger of outraged pride.

"Sorry, miss," one of the officers said. "But this lady says she wants to see you and the chief wanted you to spy it was O.K. to let her hang around."

But suddenly Polly was laughing so she couldn't speak. Aunt Jo was standing in speechless anger between two burly police officers. At last Polly got to her feet. "Yes. She—this is my aunt, Miss Josephine Phillips. She—she's not at all violent." She flung her arms around Aunt Jo.

The policemen went off, mumbling. Aunt Jo's little eyes burned in a steady hot flame. "I've never been so humiliated in my life!" she declared. "Can't a body walk up to a house without being arrested?"

Polly tried to explain. The officer had been given strict orders about letting strangers on the premises.....She was terribly sorry.

"Oh, Aunt Jo, I almost forgot. Elsie is Tod—Tod Purcell."

Tod rose, rubbed the back of a sandy fist across his tear-stained face. He said, gravely, "How do you do, Aunt Jo?"

"Miss Phillips, Tod." Polly corrected, gently.

"Nothing of the kind," Aunt Jo snapped. "I'm Aunt Jo and I'm very sad for an old lady, Tod. You're the dead image of——She caught herself, said, "You must come to see me sometime, Tod."

"Thank you," Tod said, stiffly. "I'd like to, very much."

Aunt Jo straightened up. "Talks like a grown-up," she said. "Thanks his B's, too. That's what comes of bringing a child up north of Fifty-second." Suddenly she caught Polly's arm. "Go get your things like animals. Pack them. We're going home. Of all the places for a girl to be reading her mother's——"

Shaking Aunt Jo see that she wouldn't go back to Society street was the work of an hour, but at last Polly saw her aunt depart on the Charleston bus and dragged herself up to her room.

Half an hour later, she descended to the living room to find both Angus and Jerry there and somehow able to avoid conflict on purpose. Angus was the first to get to his feet.

"I've provided drivers for the family cars," he said, crisply. "You're going with me, Polly. I want to talk with you."

She stretched out eyes from his to Jerry's and Jerry said with a little tone-dialed grin "Well, I'll toddle along. Just wanted to be sure there was ample transportation." Already he was moving toward the door. "See you at the banquet, Duke."

Oddly enough, Angus talked very little as they drove to the city and Polly was actually relieved when they drew up at the curb before the sombre morgue.

Jerry, the coroner and Carter were standing at the outside doorway talking and as they were getting out of the car, the three men came down the walk to meet them.

Carter said, "The coroner has again?"

Abruptly he twisted around as that he faced her and all nonsense was out of his voice. "Listen, Polly..... This isn't something for me before. You must believe me. I've kicked around quite a lot and I've always tried to have a good time and with me a girl in distress means mixing company. But I've never gone down in the first round before and until last night I never took the count. There'll be the usual amount of publicity about now on and we'll be mixed up in other people's lives just as you are now as a Purcell. I remember this, Polly, I——"

Her hand flew to his lips. "Jerry —don't say it."

He caught her hand in his and pressed it against his mouth. "Of course I'm going to say it... I love you, I love you, I love you, Polly Markey."

She closed her eyes and dropped her head back against the coming blinding. He really thinks he does. He couldn't say it if he didn't think it. But he's wrong. He never seen me until the day before yesterday and—it simply couldn't happen like that.....

Jerry interrupted her thoughts with a whisper.

Her lids lifted, slowly.

"How many amateurs do I have to take out of the running before I'm Number One Boy?"

"And you weren't getting serious on me," she said.

"Never mind. We're in this now and we may as well work through to a logical stopping place. How many, Polly?"

She said then, "I've never been in love, Jerry—and I'm not now."

"You just think you're not. You are in love with me and you're going to stay that way. And now that we understand each other," he kissed her grinned, "what say we tear into a package of sandwiches? That young sailor up there probably needs something to hold him down until we can go ashore and have lunch in style."

It was mid-afternoon when at last they anchored off the Morris Island light and went ashore in the dory. After lunch Tod wandered off to look for shells and teeth and Jerry and Polly sat on the beach. Polly lay back on the sand and covered her eyes with her arm to shut out the sunlight. She said, "Tell me about yourself, Jerry."

His eyes moved over her slim figure, suddenly he stretched out beside her, propped on one elbow. "The story of My Life, by Jerry Markey. Let's see. I was born in New York City. Until the tender age of six I was attended by governesses and nurses. Then the tailors entered my life—and a hairdresser. The hairdresser was a superannuated detective. He was very good. Every time there was a murder in the neighborhood, then and considered the evidence and picked the culprit. Once we actually picked the murderer six weeks before the police made an arrest.... I wanted to be a detective more than anything in the world, but my father laughed it off as childish nonsense. As soon as I was old enough, he shipped me off to a school in Connecticut and from there I went to West Point, and from West Point to Shanghai and from Shanghai to Honolulu from Honolulu to Geneva and from Geneva I came here under the guidance of a kind heaven to find you....."

Polly turned her head to one side to look at him. "How much of that is true?"

"All of it."

"And you really had governesses and a bodyguard?"

"I'm not boasting about the governesses, but I'm proud to pay my respects to the bodyguard. He was a prince and if there's a smarter detective in the world, I've yet to hear of him."

"But you're glad you didn't become a detective yourself, of course."

"Glad?" He grunted. "Listen, Polly, I'll always want to be a detective—and one of these days I'm going to cut loose and be one. A professional, I mean."

"The little boy refuses to grow up," Polly said.

He grunted again, but he didn't say anything and a long silence fell.

Dusk caught them as they entered the inlet. They were beside the pier and Polly was holding a flashlight for Jerry to stow the mainsail who Sheila's voice came to them from above.

"Do you mind if I take Tod and rush him along? His father's lawyer is waiting to talk with him."

Polly held Tod's hand while he said his prayers. They called good-bye and presently Polly climbed up on the pier and followed Jerry out to the car. She and Tod, who were under way, "I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed the afternoon, Jerry. I only wish it didn't have to end."

He looked at her. "Want to go somewhere for dinner? I could phone Sheila."

"They were passing old Fort Moultrie. She shook her head, said; not tonight, thanks. But you can take me home sometime."

"Through the old fort?" He suddenly pulled the car at the curb and applied the brakes. "Why not now? It's really spooky at night."

To Polly it was worse than spooky. Even before they passed the grave of Osceola and descended the stone steps to the long underground passages, she sensed an ominous quality in the damp air. Jerry walked ahead with the flashlight and presently he stopped and indicated a bare stone enclosure.

"Osceola, the Indian Chief, was imprisoned there," he said. "Poor devil. They brought him up from Florida on a friendly mission and clapped him into that hole."

Polly shuddered—and ran after Jerry who had swung the light around and was entering a long narrow tunnel. She thought, unreally: I'd rather see this in the day time." They came to the end of the tunnel and climbed the steps to another chamber. A heavy barred gate hung in the stone doorway. A sign over it warned: KEEP OUT.

"Hand grenades," Jerry said, and pulled the light down and thrust it through the bars of the gate.; They both saw it in that first instant, of course—the rigid twisted figure of a man, a short stocky man with a corrugated scar over his left eye and a tight slide of his face.

"Marco—Tony Marco!" Jerry breathed—and the next moment the flashlight crashed to the floor.

Business Is—

By OREN MERLE CLARK

WNU Service.

"Let's see now, where was I?" "... we expect immediate payment," Miss Goldman supplied.

Louie Bloom nodded. "If you think we don't mean business," he finished, "just fail to neglect this letter."

Miss Goldman looked up sharply. "Fail to neglect?"

"That's what I said. We got to coin a new phrase now and then. A ruthless can't stand still; it's got to go—"

"But that isn't grammatical."

Louie Bloom waved a fat, bejewelled hand. "Phooey! It's business with me."

She signed the letter. "L. Bloom, per O," and addressed an envelope to Mr. John Ward, 968 Fourth street.

At precisely eleven thirty the following morning the door of the business office opened to admit a little, shabbily-dressed old man. There was about his face a frank, almost boyish openness, and the clothing he wore, although threadbare, was spotless. He looked as if he had just been scoured and polished from head to foot. Obviously bewildered and a little frightened, he advanced toward the vonitor, a letter clutched in his hand.

"My name is John Ward," he said to Miss Goldman who glanced up from a file drawer as he approached. His voice was quavering but not whiny. "Mr. Bloom wrote me a letter."

Miss Goldman fought off a little surge of sympathy as she remembered the letter nervously. "That's just it. Right now I—"

The door of Louie Bloom's private office opened once and his plump figure bobbed into the business office.

"Can't you find the letter?" His impatient glance was directed at Miss Goldman.

She disregarded the question. "Can you spare a moment, Mr. Bloom?"

Louie Bloom stalked jerkily across the room.

"Mr. Ward says he can't pay Dr. Kerrigan's bill."

Louie Bloom snatched the letter from the old man's hand. "Why bother me?" he growled. "They all say that." He turned his attention to John Ward. "Whaoda you do? What kind of work?"

"I sell pencils and shoe laces." Ward's voice under the cut a little and pay us something every week."

John Ward gestured wearily. "I don't make enough just now. I've been sick. I was in bed for a months—"

Louie Bloom shrugged. "We'll have ta put it into the small claims court. They'll collect all right."

John Ward shook dumbly, started to turn away, then hesitated. "I've got an old-fashioned shoe case," he said hopefully. "Yellow gave it to me for some reason or other. Maybe you could get enough out of it to pay this bill."

Louie Bloom shook his head. "This is a collection service, not a junk shop. Besides, I'm sure that you couldn't pay us a little now and then on the bill. What's your board and room costa?"

John Ward mumbled wanly. "I have a bed," he began, "in a place on Fourth street. It costs fifty cents a week."

A look of incredulity spread over Louie Bloom's face.

"On good days," the old man went on, "I have fifteen cent dinners."

Louie Bloom squirmed, and grimaced uneasily. "We can send this bill back," he said after a moment's hesitation, "but Kerrigan we can't collect." he instructed Miss Goldman.

John Ward cleared his throat.

Miss Goldman gulped and otherwise betrayed astonishment. "But, Mr. Bloom," she protested, "you could send the bill once as uncollectable."

Louie Bloom waved the suggestion aside. "No," he snorted, "you got to look out for the reputation of an honest man. Besides, the company makes three fifty thus we'll told you, business is——"

He dug in his pocket for a match. "Lessee now, where was I?"

"—a business," Miss Goldman finished weakly.

Louie Bloom, puffing vigorously at his cigar, nodded sagely.

BRITAIN'S FRIENDSHIP CORNERSTONE OF POLICY

Italy, Germany Aiming At Four - Power Pact, Which Includes France

Rome - London Rapprochement First Step in Policy

BERLIN AND LONDON

Italy And Germany Will Improve London With Fascist Solidarity

Berlin, Sept. 28 (CP) — Premier Mussolini, in his keenly awaited address at Mayfield Olympic Stadium tonight, declared his trip to Germany and his talks with Chancellor Hitler would result in reinforcing of world peace.

Fully 400,000 Germans roared a welcome when the dictators of Italy and Germany entered the flood-lighted stadium.

Bands played the Nazi and Fascist anthems as Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini arrived.

Feats Is Result.

Masses of black and brown uniformed troopers stood on the field while the Olympic Stadium overflowed with cheering crowds.

"The world," Mussolini said, "is asking what will be the result of this Berlin meeting—war or peace? The Fuehrer and myself reply together in a loud voice—Peace!

"There is no secret intentions behind my trip," Il Duce declared.

By Andreas Berding

Associated Press, Foreign Staff

Berlin, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini have begun friendship with Great Britain the cornerstone of their European policy, German and Italian political observers here said today.

The two leaders met at a private luncheon at 1 p.m. (7 a.m. Toronto time) talk before their broadcast — an appeal for peaceful collaboration with other nations—from Mayfield Olympic Stadium.

First Stage

The dictators agreed, well informed spokesmen here said, to work for what might better mad a four-power pact by stages—to include Great Britain now, and later France.

ONLY ONE CLUE TO KIDNAPPERS

Hotel Bellhop Reports Talking to Mysterious Man Who Asked About Ross

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A hotel bellhop's meagre description of a mysterious man in a gray cap offered the only promising clue today to the kidnappers of wealthy Charles S. Ross.

The man talked to Ross in a Sycamore, Ill., hotel a few hours before the 72-year-old retired greeting card manufacturer was abducted on a highway a few miles west of Chicago Saturday.

No demand for ransom had been received by the victim's wife. The kidnappers' silence engendered a belief Ross might have died of shock. He had suffered from heart disease.

The conversation between Ross and the man wearing a gray cap occurred at the hotel where the former had dined with his one-time secretary, Miss Florence Prethage, forty-four.

Cecil Vandemere, 19-year-old bellboy, said the man approached him in the lobby and pointing at Ross asked:

"Do you know who that is? He looks like a man I used to know". Vandemere replied he did not know the elderly man. Later he told the police he was unable to tell whether Ross and the stranger were acquainted.

Many Schools Open Throughout Ontario

Toronto, Sept. 28 (CP)—New Brunswick witnessing additions to the case list when five persons were stricken to bring the total since the epidemic of infantile paralysis broke out to 103. Saint John, N.B., has had 56 persons treated since the outbreak early in August.

Toronto health authorities reported 18 cases yesterday, raising the total to more than 600 who have undergone special treatment.

More than 2,000 children went back to Public and Separate Schools in the Stratford, Ontario, district after almost a month's extra holidays. Public health authorities decided to keep Johnston Memorial Public School open after one of the pupils contracted the disease.

First death in Simcoe occurred yesterday when infantile paralysis claimed Ian Gordon Aitken, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Aitken, Toronto, who recorded a victim yesterday in the death list in the districts to 22. In Oshawa alone 24 persons died from the disease since early June while in the Ontario Dominion the fatalities totalled 77.

BRITISH DEFENCE IS NOW SO STRONG NO FEAR OF WAR

New York, Sept. 28 (CP)—Lord Mottistone, former Secretary for War, today said Great Britain's defensive forces are now so perfect she has nothing to fear.

"No one but a lunatic would precipitate a war now," said the soldier-statesman who, as Major-General J. E. B. Seely, commanded the Canadian Cavalry in France in the Great War. He added he believed there is no real fear in Europe that war is imminent.

Issue is Hepburn Regime Not Minor Affairs—Stewart

Former Federal Minister Declares no Reason For Election

FRANKFORD RALLY

Frankford, Ont., Sept. 28.—Charging Premier Mitchell Hepburn with "benefitting the public services and jugging the public accounts" the Hon. Hugh Stewart of Brockville, former Minister of Public Works, told an audience in the Community Hall here last night "that the main issue of the forthcoming election was not the petty questions with which the Premier is trying to cloud the vision of the electors against the basic questions of the day, but the Premier himself and his administration of the province during the past three years."

At times the hall rang with the applause of the large crowd which gave the speakers a tremendous ovation as they arose to speak. The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Mr. Arthur Burks, ex-reeve of Sidney, while other speakers who spoke in support of Richard Arpold, Conservative candidate for West Hastings, included Mr. George Reid, Belleville, W. R. Wood, Trenton, Howard Alexander, Trenton and Hugh Millar of Glen Miller.

H. THOMPSON OF ARDEN IS KILLED AS CAR UPSETS

William Hinchey, Passenger, in Critical Condition in Hospital

PASSING TRUCK

Constable Hayes of Tweed First Arrived And Rendered Aid

Harold Thompson, 22, Arden, Frontenac County, was instantly killed near Northbrook on Monday evening and his companion William Hinchey, 38, of the same address was admitted to Belleville General Hospital in a critical condition suffering from which they were riding and which was driven by Thompson turned over in a ditch when it attempted to pass a truck.

County Constable Clare Hayes, of Tweed, who was in the neighborhood at the time but on other business arrived at the scene of the accident and reported first aid and assistance. Of the case until Provincial Constables Fred Barrett of Napanee and Constable Dr. F. C. Wilson arrived. An inquest was ordered and after preliminary evidence had taken, the hearing was adjourned for a week.

Constable Hayes stated, that Thompson and Hinchey were proceeding along Hwy. No. 41 about two and one half miles south of Northbrook, when the driver attempted to pass a truck and swung too far to the shoulder of the road, throwing the car out of control and it rolled down in the ditch, hitting a culvert. The officer stated, "I was on my way to Northbrook and after passing the wreckage Hayes and "came upon the accident and assisted with him in extricating the two men from the wreck. Thompson was dead when we arrived and Hinchey was the was instantly killed. Hinchey was in a critical condition and he was rushed to Belleville hospital." The deceased man is single and has resided in Arden practically all his life.

ENDEAVOUR I REPORTED S SIGHTED FOR SECOND TIME

A British oil tanker, en route to Manchester from a Mexican gulf port, has reported sighting the missing ship Endeavour 7, lost since she broke away from the yacht, Viva, while being towed across the Atlantic ocean. The oil tanker reported Endeavour 7 was sighted 260 miles south-west of Fastnet Light, off the Irish coast. It was the second time the derelict boat has been reported sighted; the first time the report proved erroneous. News of the ship being sighted brought joy to the cabled rejoicing at the village of Tolpuddle, County of Dorset, Heard and all members of the crew.

BONNEVILLE DAM A HUGE PROJECT

Officially Opened by President Roosevelt Today

(By D. Harold Oliver)

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Bonneville Dam, Ore., Sept 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt stood on this power-navigation project today and asserted no man would be returned many times over in improved navigation, cheaper electricity, cheaper land reclamation and distribution of power to "hundreds of small communities within a great radius".

In the first formal address of his trip to the western United States he tied in his $31,000,000 Columbia Basin undertaking with his program for regional and national planning. He said, too, that instead of spending half its income on armaments as some nations do, the United States was wiser in building such projects as this which would yield lasting benefit.

He forecast "ultimate development" of the St. Lawrence Waterway for power and navigation improvement. A treaty with Canada on this project was rejected by the Senate several years ago.

The president also:

Predicted through broader use of electric power a "wider geographical distribution of industry" through the building up of smaller communities.

Promised a "definitely balanced" budget by the next fiscal year—July 1, 1938.

Favored a policy of the "widest use" of power at Bonneville, Grand Coulee and other federal dams.

CHEESE FACTORY BURNED

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP)—Fire of unknown origin last night destroyed the cheese factory at Garrition, Grenville County, owned and operated by Samuel Laughry. Contents, including 150 cheese, the dwelling adjoining and outbuilding were also destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Laughry were awakened by their family dog and were able to escape from the burning building. Laughry married his nephew-in-law, Mrs. Ludlow, 90, to safety.

ATTEMPT MADE TO SALVAGE VESSEL

Captain And Six Members of Crew Still Aboard Ship

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 28 (CP)—Captain and six men of the 1,500-ton British freighter Lacsenby hoped today an attempt would be made to salvage the vessel from the mile-long reef at the south of Bell Island where she was driven and stranded.

The captain and six members of his crew were aboard the stricken freighter as giant waves that had battered the ship for days lessly on jagged reef rocks for 36 hours gradually calmed down.

Hope in the waves that almost sufficiently from a storm that swept the Newfoundland coast Sunday. An attempt to haul the Lacsenby from the rocks would be made, it was said.

Already holes had been torn in her hull and her summer one hold was filled with water.

The Lacsenby was bound to Bell Island from Montreal to load with iron ore when she went aground. Twenty-eight members of her crew were taken into Wabana by the steamship Manoo Baronet yesterday.

600,000 TROOPS ARE UNDER ARMS

Japanese Throw Full Force Against Chinese

By James A. Mills

Associated Press Staff Writer

Shanghai, Sept. 28—(AP)—Japan estimated by foreign military observers in North China today to be mobilizing 600,000 troops for a possible clash with Russia as her expeditionary forces claimed advances on all Chinese fronts.

French army authorities at Tientsin, headquarters of the Japanese North China expeditionary force, reported the full strength of Japan in Korea and Manchoukuo, on the border of Soviet Siberia, was being placed on a war footing in the event Russia becomes embroiled in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Every Able-Bodied Man Affected

(Dispatches from Tokyo said the war office had issued military ordinance No. 417, affecting virtually every able-bodied man in Japan and prolonging military service indefinitely for all officers and men on both active and reserve lists.

(Japan and Russia were reported in Tokyo yesterday to be concentrating troops along the Manchoukuo-Soviet frontier. Reliable Tokyo sources described the tension between Russia and Japan as the most critical since 1932 when the Manchoukuo empire was created.

(Russia has lodged a stringent warning with Japan against the establishment of a Mongolian capital, Nanking, in what was believed to be a direct response to a Chinese appeal for aid.)

Japanese Claims Advances

In the first claims of progress in several days in the conflict with China, the Japanese army announced that an armored train had pushed 30 miles south of captured Paotingfu in North China, putting the most advanced Japanese position 40 miles south of Peiping on the railroad to Hankow.

On the Shanghai front the Japanese claimed advances of 300 to 500 yards all along the entire Lotien and Liuhong sector, 20 miles northwest of Shanghai, after days of severe fighting.

Japanese bombers concentrated their efforts today on destruction of China's air strength, bombing airplanes in the vicinity of Nanking, raiding Canton three times and attacking two Chinese areas of Shanghai.

NOT TO RESTORE HYDRO CONTRACTS SAYS EARL ROWE

"Black Emblem of Repudiation" Never Again to be Hoisted in Ontario

GIVE POWER AT COST

Promises Removal of Service Charge in Rural Districts

By CP Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 28—(CP)—Conservative Leader Earl Rowe left the Ottawa Valley for the north of Toronto today after informing electors in this area of his proposed social legislation in event of victory at the forthcoming election, including the removal of the service charge on Hydro-Electric Power in rural districts.

"We intend to bring in legislation tried by the Conservatives, for the employment insurance and minimum wage," he said at Renfrew and later at Ottawa enlarged his views on social legislation while former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, responsible for introduction of the legislation, remained silent on the platform.

Declaring the unemployment insurance and minimum wage laws are inoperative federal legislation, special privy council's ruling they were ultra vires the Dominion parliament.

Neither Mr. Bennett nor Sir George Perley, an ex-member of his cabinet, addressed the meeting in the Coliseum here. Mr. Bennett, however, interjected "hear, hear" when Mr. Rowe, discussing his labor policy, said the main issue at stake in the Ottawa automobile strikes was the individual's right to free association.

Should Co-operate

"No man should get harder than R. B. Bennett to bring in unemployment insurance and minimum wage laws and no man struggled harder than Mr. Hepburn to find a loophole to throw it out," said Mr. Rowe.

"Minimum wages and unemployment insurance should be worked out in co-operation with other provinces and the Dominion. If it is a provincial responsibility, as I have determined to be, we will proceed immediately to co-operate with other provinces and the Dominion."

The Hydro service charge reduction announcement came during a lengthy discussion of Hydro and an assertion that Premier Hepburn "has no mandate to sell Hydro". "I am able to tell the man on the back concessions in Ontario that I stood Hydro rates by cancelling the quasi-sale deal."

"After Oct. 6 we're going to wipe the service charge off entirely to rural districts," he said. "We're going to wipe out the service charge on Hydro-Electric power and we'll give you municipalities that own Hydro representation on the commission."

Not to be Restored

The Conservative Hydro would not 16 restored, he said, but never again would they be the emblem of

Contrasts Work in Health Department Under Two Governments

SAYS C.I.O. IS ISSUE

In a scathing denunciation of "the old Tory gang masquerading under the name of Liberals" and inviting the audacity to ask the taxpayers for their support just as they did in 1934, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, minister of mines, in one crew rounds of applause from Conservative supporters of both political parties, who jammed their way into the Wallbridge Town Hall last night.

"I tell you the old gang is there. Do you want that type of man conducting your business for you?" demanded the speaker amidst a chorus of "nos". "Then show us that you appreciate honest and efficient administration of your affairs and return Premier Hepburn, a man you can trust on his 5-year record. And a man who you know will not betray that trust," thundered the Minister of Health as his warm affection for his leader became apparent.

Claims C. I. O. an Issue

"It has been said that the C. I. O. is not an issue, that the opposition is again, Sir George Drew, a loyal British subject broke with them after leader-at-large, Earl Rowe, his leader was driven out of O, against Hepburn.

"Ladies and gentlemen, in so doing Earl Rowe took his stand against every loyal Canadian.

"You want foreign agitators in a province, where they can press a button and close the doors of Canadian factories? Do you for one minute think that the C. I. O. are concerned with the interests of Ontario labor?"

Speaking of John L. Lewis, head of the C.I.O. movement, Dr. Kennedy said: "Lewis is a man who would have him come into Ontario," ("we won't stand for it here, Doc," a voice interjected.)

"Well I hope not. And I want you to show Earl Rowe just that on Oct. 6," declared the speaker amidst applause.

Highway Without Cost to County

Drawing attention to the fact that nearly thirty miles of new provincial highway had been constructed by the Hepburn government in Hastings County since 1934, "without costing the county one cent," Mr. Faulkner said it was "high time the people in the north and south

PURSUE POLICY TO SUPPLY POWER MADE IN ONTARIO

Not Left to Mercy of Outside Authority Says Premier

WON'T ALTER STAND

Says Policy is "Back to Niagara And Dependence on Own Resources

By CP Staff Writer

Thorold, Ont., Sept. 28—(CP)—If re-elected at the Oct. 6 Ontario elections, the Ontario Liberal government will pursue a policy of supplying Hydro-Electric Power consumers from the Province's own resources, Premier Mitchell Hepburn told a meeting here last night. The Premier who speaks at Aylmer and Simcoe today and against depending tor greatly on power supplies outside the Province.

The Ontario government would not leave the people at the mercy of any outside authority, said the Premier, who mentioned the threat of former Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, while consideration was given by the government to cancellation of power contracts with Quebec firms.

Maybe Free Text Books

Mr. Hepburn also told the Toronto audience the government would give "serious thought to supplying free text books to Ontario school children." He was sympathetic to anything educational, Mr. Hepburn added.

Cambria Establishes New Crossing Record

Foynes, Irish Free State, Sept. 28 (CP-Havas)—Imperial Airways' giant flying boat Cambria arrived here today at 8.15 a.m. (3.15 E.s.t.) from Botwood, Nfld., establishing a new record for the trans-Atlantic flight over the 1,930 miles covered by British and American aircraft.

Today's crossing was made in 14 hours, 23 minutes, compared with the best previous time of 11 hours 37 minutes also made by the Cambria last Aug. 9. The Cambria took over the run for flights in both directions. On Aug. 27 it crossed from Foynes to Botwood in 14 hours, 32 minutes.

Lewiathan Washed up on Shore Eaten by Eskimos

13 ILL, DIE

Mystery of Deaths May be Unravelled by Scientists

By E. K. CARNEGIE

Halifax, Sept. 28 (CP)—A piece of whale meat was brought by the Nascopie on her arrival here today from the annual tour of the Arctic and will be sent to government laboratories at Ottawa in the hope the mystery of thirteen deaths among Eskimos on Baffin Island last winter will be solved.

Dr. L. D. Livingstone, medical officer on the ship brought the specimen, obtained by Mounted Police.

Botulinus Poisoning Suspected.

Botulinus poisoning from eating meat of the same whale is believed by Dr. Livingstone to have caused the deaths. The carcass had been washed up on shore. Botulinus causes paralysis of the diaphram, stopping the patient's breathing.

The victims suffered no intense pain and died from one to six days after eating the meat. Scientists in the laboratory may be able to find the botulinus organism in the specimen.

Last December a native brought glad tidings to a settlement at Crooks Inlet on the south shore of Baffin Island, sixty miles west of Lake Harbor, that a whale was washed ashore on Big Island in Hudson Straight. Several natives went over the ice to Big Island to get great quantities of the meat, a chance not to be lost.

Washed Ashore In January.

Body of the sea giant was found in January, encased in frozen sea water and scented fresh and wholesome. They ate heartily of it raw. Some was cooked and brought back to their settlement. In a day or so after eating the meat the natives of the after another became mildly ill. The first death was on Big Island.

Others fell ill in their own home. Death followed death and Mounted Police were sent to the scene from Lake Harbor. Nothing much could be done, however, and within six days 13 men, women and women, four boys and three girls, under 12 years, were dead.

Some Unaffected.

One of the curious points was that natives who ate most heartily of the raw whale meat and also of the cooked meat were not affected. In one case two families occupied the same igloo until one among them died and then they separated. Three in one of the families died and none in the other family fell ill although all had eaten the meat raw and cooked.

It was suggested possibly the bacteria was in the cooked meat the whale and not in others and therefore some parts were wholesome and other parts poisonous. The natives had disregarded an old Eskimo warning that whale meat should be washed up on shore, should not be eaten.

Word of the disaster did not reach the outside world until the Nascopie arrived at Lake Harbor on her first trip of the season and then no lives been under way to definitely diagnose its cause.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Fall plowing and frost! The value of fall plowing is due to the fact that in breaking up the soil more of it is exposed to the action of frost.

This particularly applies to heavy soils. Of course, fall plowing is also valuable when there is a crop which is plowed under when turned in the fall decomposes more readily and will be of more value to the next crop. Also, if there are insects or harmful insects in the soil and fall plowing is done in the autumn a few frosts they will be destroyed. Then there is the further economic advantage of doing the plowing leisurely in the fall rather than wait until the all-too-busy spring.

THE WEATHER

The weather has been fair and cool from Ontario to the Maritime Provinces and cool in the Western Provinces, with showers in some sections of Saskatchewan and light rain and snow in Southern Alberta.

Lake Superior—Moderate winds; mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday with showers.

Manitoba—Fair and cool tonight and Wednesday.

Saskatchewan—Fair and cool today and Wednesday.

Alberta—Mostly cloudy and cool today and Wednesday; light rain or snow in some districts.

McINTOSH REDS A LARGE CROP AND OF FINE QUALITY

With the general size and coloring of the fruit well above the average, the McIntosh Red apple crop is one of the best in years and farmers of the district are looking forward with optimism to the harvesting of one of the most bountiful crops in years. In keeping with the trend of other crops, the season is fully a week ahead of other years while the general quality appears to be above the average, it is stated. McIntosh Reds, in particular, showing general coloring well above that of last year's and growers of this particular variety produced a record crop in spite of the fact that high winds of the past few weeks have destroyed a certain percentage of the apples. Other varieties are also showing quality with the result that growers are rushing harvesting operations in an effort to secure the crop before further winds cause added loss.

Dense smoke pouring from the rear room of the Belleville Produce Co. on Station Street, early Saturday afternoon, sent city fire squads racing to the scene but damage was done to property, the smoke resulting from a short circuit in a coke furnace.

EIGHT 'LUNGE' CAUGHT AT MOIRA LAKE ON SUNDAY

The frost may be on the pumpkin out Madoc way, but it hasn't failed to put a damper on the ambitions and activities of the local Izaak Waltons, according to reports emanating from that district over the week end. For no less than eight beauties of the "lunge" family were hauled from the waters of Moira Lake by week end fishermen. Outstanding of the catch were two muskies which weighed sixteen and eighteen pounds respectively.

MATTER OF DAMAGES AMICABLY SETTLED

Fender and body damage resulted from what might have been a more serious accident on Dundas near the Trenton Airport last evening. William Allport, Trenton motorist, was proceeding westerly following in the wake of a transport truck. The truck driver suddenly slowed his vehicle down, causing Mr. Allport to serve his car to the left and attempt to pass the heavier vehicle in order to avoid a rear-end collision. In passing the truck, Mr. Allport's car collided with an auto-car being driven in the opposite direction by Harry Ramsbottom, Kingsbay. Provincial Constable Everett Smith investigated and found the front fenders and bodies of both cars badly damaged during the impact. The matter of damages was amicably settled between the parties concerned.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SUPPER A SUCCESS

The Harvest Festival at Emmanuel Church was continued on Monday evening when the usual supper was held at which an unusually large number of old and new friends were present. The fine repast was prepared by the ladies of the congregation and all manifested their appreciation. The table addresses were given by Rev. A. L. Geen, Rev. E. R. Forman of Ottawa and Mr. George A. Reid, Bishop Grout Marshall presided as chairman and the congregation was exhorted by Chairman Reid, Bertie to Give or all Good.

The church was most prettily decorated for the Harvest Festival, fruit, flowers and vegetables being arranged in the most effective scheme. The services on Sunday were conducted by Rev. R. S. Forman of Ottawa. Bishop Marshall presided as chairman and the congregation was exhorted by Chairman Reid, Bertie to Give or all Good.

Talent of the youthful pupils of the Sunday School was cleverly displayed in the numbers presented on an interesting program. The first number was an anthem rendered by the Junior Girls, followed by a reading of good wishes addressed to Mr. Eggleton by Margaret Wilcox. A chorus by the Junior Girls very much enjoyed by the audience, who fully appreciated the musical talent displayed, followed the efforts of the directors of the school. Shirley Hollins delighted them with a pleasing reading entitled, "I Will Never Grow Up." Dorothy Ann was also brought an inspiring message to the Belleville congregation on the occasion of their annual service.

Robt. Eggleton, 80 Years Old, Is Honored on Retirement

Teachers, Members And Parents of Pupils of St. Andrew's S. S. at Stirling Pay Tribute to Veteran Superintendent.

Stirling, Sept. 26 (Special)—Members and teachers along with the parents of the pupils filled the church parlours at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Monday evening to pay tribute to Mr. Robt. Eggleton, eighty-year-old veteran superintendent of the Sabbath School who resigned recently after forty-continuous years' service, twenty years of which were served in leading the Sabbath School in Stirling. Mr. Eggleton, who last month passed his eighteenth birthday, still enjoys good health, though his sight has become slightly impaired, will continue to be active in the work of the young people of the church to whom he has been devoted for so many years but as official superintendent of the Sabbath School he will be succeeded by Mr. H. Hollins who for many years has acted in the capacity of secretary-treasurer.

The evening which was arranged by the teachers and officials, came as a surprise to the honoured guest who was present with Mrs. Eggleton. The purpose of the gathering was made plain by Mr. Hollins, who called the gathering to order and then turned the meeting over to Rev. J. A. Ferguson who acted as chairman. A program of interesting numbers was presented by the pupils under the direction of the various classes, present being a reading and useful gift made to Mr. Eggleton conveying kindly thoughts of former members were also read and luncheon was served by the ladies at the close.

Youthful Talent Displayed in Program

Talent of the youthful pupils of the Sunday School was cleverly displayed in the numbers presented on an interesting program. The first number was an anthem rendered by the Junior Girls, followed by a reading of good wishes addressed to Mr. Eggleton by Margaret Wilcox. A chorus by the Junior Girls very much enjoyed by the audience, who fully appreciated the musical talent displayed, followed the efforts of the directors of the school. Shirley Hollins delighted them with a pleasing reading entitled, "I Will Never Grow Up." Dorothy Ann was also brought an inspiring message to the Belleville congregation on the occasion of their annual service.

his kindly interest and influence Mr. Harper Rollins, representing the Sabbath School and staff, then presented the honored guest with an illuminated address and Dorothy Kent, little Miss Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gibson read and Mr. Eggleton with a fine pair of slippers, as tangible expression of appreciation for his many splendid service. This part of the program was brought to a close with an appropriate hymn. A social period during which luncheon was served by the ladies climaxed a most enjoyable evening.

The Address.

"To Mr. Robert Eggleton,
"Honorary Superintendent.

"Dear Mr. Eggleton: We as a Sabbath School felt we did not want this occasion of your retirement as the superintendent of our school to pass without an opportunity of expressing to you at least, some of our thoughts and good wishes for the future.

"It was a source of deep regret when the announcement was made that you no longer would lead in the Sabbath School was about to retire. The only outstanding feature was your consent to become our honorary superintendent and to remain with us as a teacher.

"Your record in Sabbath school work now past its fortieth year, is a record to be envied in view of the years has been privileged to influence in teaching and in leadership; lives in which you have been able to instill faith in the Saviour and will make for better citizenship on earth and in Heaven.

"St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church deeply appreciates the service you have rendered throughout these years in its Sabbath school, and feels that service will indeed bear fruit in the lives of those whom you have taught in these years.

"Our prayer for you is that the Lord will bless you and bring many more years of service to accompany you through, the future years; and that these memories may be a source of joy to you, His servant.

"The Lord bless you and keep thee: the Lord make His face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee the Lord lift up His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace."

Signed, on behalf of the Sabbath School and Staff — Joseph A. Kofend, Minister, Harper Rollins, Acting Superintendent.

EDWARD TAYLOR TAKEN TO JAIL

Shot in Leg by Police, Man Has Been Guarded at Hospital

Edward Taylor, Toronto,* who was shot in the leg by provincial police on September 17th last, has been under guard at the Belleville General Hospital after having been shot in the leg by provincial Police on September 17th. last. While resisting arrest he was taken home following the breaking, entering and theft at the Picton brewery warehouse, was today released from the hospital and removed to the county jail by Provincial Police.

Taylor was arrested in Toronto where he appeared before a Justice of the Peace and was charged with breaking, entering and theft from the Picton brewery warehouse and also the theft of gasoline from a Bloomfield garage. Taylor, who was wounded in the leg, as the result of gun fire, when he resisted arrest, has been constantly under the strong guard of provincial police attention. His leg was reported sufficiently healed to allow for his release from the local hospital. He was taken to Picton by Sergeant Harry Thompson. On the where he will be incarcerated along with his brother, Frederick Taylor and Fred Stevens, who also face charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Edward Taylor was arraigned and remanded in custody for one week.

For many years he was the village blacksmith in Lonsdale. In religion he was a member of the Holy Name of Mary Church at Marysville.

Surviving him are one daughter, Mrs. Ambrose Doyle of Melrose and one brother, Cornelius, Port Hope, Ont., and one sister, Mrs. James Malone, Forest River, N. Dakota.

The funeral arrangements are made elsewhere in this paper.

First Autumn Meeting Kinsmen's Club Held

Brilliant descriptions of the world's championship rubber meet held in Akron, Ohio, recently by Kinsmen Clive Couling, Cliff Lloyd, Don Rose and James Lafferty, and a detailed report of the recent convention held in London recently by Kinsman Norman Garbutt featured the first autumn meeting of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville which took place following a banquet held in the Queens Hotel last night.

Discussion of the potential activities of the Kinsmen organization of the city followed a brief business session, and numerous suggestions were offered.

Three Wellington Residents Injured

Suffering from serious injuries received when their automobile collided with a car said to be driven by a man named Burley of Newtonville, near Port Hope, on Sunday night, Mrs. Orval Morden, Dorland, and Mrs. C. Craig of Wellington, were rushed to Port Hope hospital, where Mr. Dorland was found to be injured to the extent of a possible concussion while Mrs. Dorland suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. Mrs. Craig was less seriously injured.

The injured passengers in the Burley car were injured and were taken to the hospital after receiving first aid treatment at the police car investigating the accident.

of this riding should be kept ahead together."
"I have been accused of neglecting the sick and needy in this province. I want to tell you here and now that my most precious friends are in the most humble homes in this riding and I will always stand by them. I want to look the matter fairly in the face and I tell you that in the treatment and care of tubercular cases alone our Government has seen fit to spend $768,000.00, not to catch votes, but to cure." (Applause.)

94 Year Tory Record

"My critics were in power from 1910 to 1934, for three years, but 24 years and only $530,000.00 was expended for that in an effort to cure this dreadful disease. Are you going to believe facts like these or are you going to believe the fairy tales of Earl Rowe, who has a different story for every district, but who cannot even satisfy the Tory press that he has any constructive policies in his alleged platform." (Applause.)

"I'm satisfied that you good men and women will sift the wheat from the chaff and when you send me back to fight for your interests after October 6, I will serve you, regardless of race, creed or religion, and so long as my life is spared to do so", concluded Premier Hepburn, amidst thunderous applause.

Introduced by Chairman Morley Ponton, Mayor Thompson, K.C., declared, "It is like coming home to be here in Wellington tonight." Briefly Mr. Cameron sketched the fine record of the Hepburn Government.

Hepburn Businesslike Gov't.

"I am satisfied that you people appreciate honest businesslike administration at a minimum cost, and I want to tell you that I personally know a man who has been throughout all his life and told me this: "I have never known Hepburn to do a dishonest act in all that time." (Applause.)

"That is a fine tribute to any man. But can we get a fair deal old Tory gang with their leader? And while I'm discussing that man Rowe let me branch off briefly into Federal politics to show you how businesslike he is in the way asking for the farmer's vote.

"Do you know that every move the Mackenzie King Government has made to bring about better conditions for you farmers has been opposed tooth and nail by the same Earl Rowe at Ottawa? Do you know that this man who now asks you to support him against the very trade treaty with the United States that has given us a market for our agricultural products and caused prices to move upwards? Do you want good prices for your produce? Do you want money in the bank instead of a mortgage on your farm? I believe you do." (Applause.) "Then vote for Dr. Faulkner on October 6, and come back a Government whose monetary and administrative policies have set this province on its feet again," continued the speaker.

"What do we find when examining this man they say you can trust? A man who is deserting and deserted by the most outstanding men of his own party, and even by his own press, and we see him clutching frantically at religions, liquor, foreign racketeers, and what oral other straws in a last futile effort to save himself and betray the people into resurrecting a group of men who were once condemned and repudiated by the fathers of this province.

Holy Name Society Cleans Up Mount St. Patrick Cemetery

Members Under Leadership Charles Dolan to Beautify Old Grounds

NEW FENCE ADDED

The dank weed-grown wilderness with its ugly gaping scars indented into the ground through the removal of bodies from their last resting places; piles of rubbish placed there by a careless unthinking public and with its many hitherto beautiful monuments, columns and stones defaced and broken by the depredations of youthful vandals, what was formerly known as the Mount St. Patrick Cemetery located at the end of Cemetery Street, has undergone a marvelous transformation, thanks to the united efforts and co-operation of the Holy Name Society of St. Michael's Parish.

Closed officially in 1901 this famous hallowed spot gradually drifted into a state of landscape dilapidation. Grass grew to heights of four and five feet. A coarse shrubbery and cane-like brush grew unmolested over the graves of those who departed. Nearby residents and those from a distance, used this spot as a dumping ground for their rubbish. Old pots and pans disused iron work, tin cans and other rubbish were dumped unceremoniously into convenient spots with no regard whatever for the sentiment attached to places of this nature.

Monuments Defaced

Thoughtless youths invaded the three acre area, and smashed stones, columns and monuments. Figures and figurines of stone and marble were subjected to a mercilless treatment at the hands of the destroying intruders. Remnants of stones protruded from the earth like jagged broken teeth. Small stones used to mark the boundary lines of plots were scattered over the cemetery heller-skelter. Headpieces of other types of monuments were uprooted from their pedestals and placed in varying sections of the cemetery.

Refuse Cleaned Up

Today the picture is different. Members of the Holy Name Society under the leadership of Mr. Chas. Doran, rolled up their figurative sleeves and went to work. Axes, picks and shovels started the work of rehabilitation. Holes, gaping and ugly were filled in. Refuse and garbage were removed to more convenient places. Remnants of broken monuments were retrieved. Monuments that had survived the ravages of time and the elements were placed on the points of origin. Those beyond restoration were transferred to a central spot where today they form an impressive cairn. Surrounding the cairn and adding a touch of reverent sentiment is the original cemetery cross placed there in 1840.

Through the efforts of Monsignor A. F. Nicholson, V. G., a tractor-plough was secured and the entire surface of the cemetery turned over. In the centre of the grounds a cross stretching upward to a height of sixteen feet rears an impressive head. A new fence with steel gates now encircles the entire cemetery.

Some forever is the dilapidated appearance of this hallowed ground. Visitors, some of them coming from the United States have voiced their appreciation of the almost magical transformation within a few short weeks of the cemetery from a brush-covered wilderness to a neat, well ordered ground. Great credit is due the members of the Society for their untiring efforts in the work of rehabilitation of this landmark of the city.

Following is a poem written by Jack Doran, son of Charles Doran, president of the Holy Name Society in commemoration of the work just completed at the cemetery:

The Comforted Dead

Years have passed and time has frowned
Upon what, once, was sacred ground
The forgotten dead lie in their plots
And beg for care of their lot
Unheeding people pass them by Thinking not, they too, must die
Years have passed and still they cry
Rejected by the passer-by
But alas, one hears and turns his head
Decides to care for the forgotten dead.
They look at him disappointed, it seems
A working man, he lacked the means
His determined look, as he climbs the slope
Revives their very fondest hope
Admiring then, they place their trust
In him who knows we are but dust.
Now swinging an axe he may be seen
Or pushing a plough behind a team
Scraping, he stops now and then
And urges on his working men
Weeks have passed, many a weary one
Now at last, the work is done
The mourning stops, the crying cease
Now the dead may rest in peace.

REV. S. R. FOREMAN HEARD IN CITY

Delivers Sermon at Harvest Festival at Emmanuel Church

Exchanging pulpits for the celebration of the Harvest Festival Rev. S. R. Foreman, Ottawa, was the special speaker at the Emmanuel Church Sunday when the annual Harvest Thanksgiving service was held, while Bishop George Marshall preached in Ottawa.

The Emmanuel Church took on a autumn atmosphere, being suitably decorated with the produce of the land with beautiful floral designs, the fruits of the land and a display of vegetables that resulted in the church taking on its most beautiful appearance in some time.

Rev. Foreman chose the passage of the Bible relating to "the ten lepers, who were healed; with only one returning to give thanks for the miracle." "We, as individuals, should give thanks for the many everyday features, that are afforded us and not only for the harvest. We take too much for granted in this day and age. We should be giving thanks every day for the great privileges we of this day are afforded," stated the speaker as he referred to the four cross and the harvest, that can annually be depended upon in this fair land of ours.

Last evening the annual Harvest dinner of the Emmanuel Church was held in the church, parlors following which Rev. A. L. Fenton and Mr. George Reid of this city gave short and suitable addresses. Rev. Foreman was present and also spoke.

RAWDON

Rawdon—On Thursday evening, September 23rd, the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mac-Mullen, 2nd Concession, Sidney, was the scene of a very happy event when they entertained about fifty guests to a reception in honor of their son and bride, Mr. and Mrs. Leon MacMullen, (nee Marguerite White).

The bride received in her wedding gown of ivory satin and was assisted by the groom and his parents.

The dining room table was prettily decorated with pink crepe streamers and made a pretty setting for the wedding party, the bride and groom and their attendants, Miss Ellen MacMullen and Mr. Lorne White and the parents of the young couple. The bride's cake was placed on a plate which was one of the groom's mother's wedding gifts. A delicious buffet lunch topped with ice-cream was served by the sisters, Mrs. R. Hall, Mrs. Sam Marshall, Mr. Earl Sidney, Mrs. Cecil MacMullen and Mrs. George Stone.

At the close of the luncheon, Marguerite gracefully thanked the MacMullen family for their kindly welcome into her new home.

Immediately after, about sixty friends from the surrounding community serenaded the young couple and noisily welcomed the bride to Sidney Township. The leader of the charavard led in series of cheers for the newlyweds and all who were in attendance.

During the function, Mr. Henry Harshman of Edmonton, Alberta, and Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, entertained with a couple of humorous readings. The charavard group departed with plans to enjoy a feed of ice cream in Alma Hall on Friday night. The balance of the evening was spent delightfully and at a late hour the guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Leon MacMullen every happiness.

CHRIST CHURCH FESTIVAL HELD

Impressive Harvest-tide Services Are Observed

Christ Church congregation marked harvest festival on Sunday with large numbers attending the morning service when holy communion was celebrated by the Rev. G.G. Wright, rector of the parish, who officiated assisted by Rev. C. T. Lewis.

In his sermon before communion the rector spoke of ingratitude as the prevailing sin of this age and of every age. Man likes appreciation of his efforts and man can understand that God appreciates man's gratitude for the gifts which He has showered on them.

"This is why we have our harvest festival," stated Rev. Mr Wright. "We are brought to realize that God is the Source. We see in the west an example of the season without the harvest through lack of rains. This condition is affecting transportation systems, manufacturing, business houses and employment. There is no part of our national life that is not bound up with the harvest. Here man is faced with the fact of his own inability—you cannot have harvest unless God is in the harvest."

"How best can we show our gratitude to God?" asked the preacher. "By the service we offer to God. We have the evidence of His bounty, while the result of man's use of implements, yet is due to God through the light God gave us beauty."

Mr. Wright said that the communion service was an expression of man's gratefulness for His gift to man. The only perfect thanksgiving we can offer is ourselves. You do not require to be rich for the rich can do no more than the poorer. After all we are giving God but His own."

During the communion the boys' and men's choir sang the Willan service in D Major and the introit of Christopher Tye in excellent form. In the evening the introit was repeated and the Purcell anthem "Rejoice in the Lord" and Stamford's Festival Te Deum were sung by the choir, Mr. George H. Maybee at the organ and directing.

Very Rev. Dean Craig of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, was the preacher of the harvest festival service.

LIBERAL RALLY HELD AT MADOC

Eric Cross, K.C., Former Madoc Resident, Chief Speaker

Madoc—A huge crowd attended the Liberal Rally held in the Madoc Armouries on Saturday night in the interests of Sid Brown. Mr. Fraser Aylesworth acted as chairman in the absence of the candidate who reviewed the work of the present administration, mentioning the road work being done in the riding. The principal speaker was Mr. Eric Cross, son of Simcoe, who is slated for a Cabinet post if Mr. Hepburn Government is returned. Mr. Cross is a Madoc boy being the son of the late William and Mrs. Cross of this village. He was introduced by Dr. R. E. Mitchell. He dealt in very interesting picture of the Liberal Party and the work of the present administration.

Mr. Ronald Ferguson, M. P. of Hastings Peterboro also spoke.

During the program Miss Barbara Nicol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nicol sang, "The Right Somehow Goes Love." She was accompanied by Miss Betty Nicol. Mr. Charlie Allen played during the dinner and the evening closed with the National Anthem.

Mrs. W. Ellis of Peterboro visiting friends in Madoc on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Garrett spent a few days with Mr. Connor Marmore.

Miss Marjorie Ellis of New York City visited friends in Madoc and Peterboro during the week-end.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy conducted anniversary services at Union Church while Rev. Mr. Wooton conducted services at Trinity United Church on Sunday.

Miss Jean Whytock spent Sunday in Peterboro.

On Monday a good thirty members of Trinity United Church Young People hiked to Moira Lake and were very entertained at Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Johnson's cottage. A large camp fire built and toasted weiners and buns were enjoyed by the crowd. A jolly sing song brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

HUDSON SEAL COAT FOUND ON HIGHWAY

Found on the side of the highway between Belleville and Madoc on Saturday was a new Hudson Seal fur coat, that was turned over to Provincial Police on Saturday. Authorities are at a loss to know whether the coat had accidentally fallen from a passing motor car, or had been abandoned as stolen goods. On the coat was a tab tag marked "T.C. Furs Ltd." Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien took possession of the coat and placed it in secure custody.

IN AN OLD OLD WORLD

To walk through virgin territory where the foot of man has not trod for at least twelve thousand to thirty five thousand years has been the unique experience of a group of scientists in the sky island in the Grand Canyon. Birds of the air have come and gone from this island which was separated from the main canyon many scores of generations ago, for there is not barrier to the winged creation merely because a rocky precipice is high. But as far as known the precipitous walls of the Shiva Temple have kept out man until the scientists made their climb.

It is in the field of the animals on the "island" that the scientists laid stress for discovery of some principle in the law of environment and evolution.

One hundred animals have been found, possibly more than were expected but the nature of these has not been revealed in detail.

Results of the judgment on the value of the animal finds will be awaited with keenest interest.

Whatever the finding of the value of the discoveries of animal life on the sky island, the members of the party have had one of the most unique experiences which can fall to any man.

NEW HOME ISSUE

Vancouver Sun has a new home and has celebrated with a special edition for city and the province of British Columbia, with illustrations and special articles.

Newspapers reflect the community life and so the editor of the Sun can justly claim "this fine new building of ours a reflection of the greater Vancouver that is to come."

The new home of the Sun towers seventeen storeys, is built of sturdy steel and brick. It offers a worth while service to the people of Vancouver in this splendid new centre.

The Sun has not only marked the path of progress but in its enlarged opportunities will continue to bear its share in bringing about further progress.

NO MERCY

"Of horrors in the Sino-Japanese war there is no end. The latest to be disclosed is that neither the Japanese nor the Chinese make a practice of taking prisoners. Almost invariably each side, after a victory, announces that the defeated forces were annihilated. The uniformity of these communiques has aroused the suspicion of the correspondents covering the battlefronts that probably no quarter is asked or given," says the New York Times.

"Of this practice of absolute war an illuminating but horrifying explanation is offered by Pearl S. Buck, the eminent interpreter of the East to the West, in an article in the October issue of Asia entitled 'Western Weapons in the Hands of the Reckless East.' The Orient, she points out, has not had in its civilization a humanitarian development. Individual life is worthless. Consequently there have been no social programs for the control of famine and disease, which take such frightful toll of life. The Oriental's interest, she says, turned toward art and philosophy, and "it is a curious fact that these tend to detach a person from life, so that, where the highest development in art and philosophy is found, there is found also the greatest callousness toward human beings.' Thus there is no 'such thing as fair play in war or distress,' and the lives of noncombatants or prisoners are 'of no more value than any other, which is to say they have no value at all.' Only the group matters, and groups can be replaced.

"The Chinese and Japanese, who have 'nothing in them to balance the inhuman power of the weapons the West has sold them'. . . (Our feeling that a human creature has the right to live we cannot wrap up in separate packages and ship with every bomb and shell)', are practicing war logically and therefore with utter ruthlessness. This accounts for the astonishment and anger of the Japanese at the reaction of Western opinion to the bombing of Chinese cities and the killing of thousands of noncombatants. To the Japanese it is unintelligible that a nation at war should be expected to refrain from use of a weapon in the way in which it can contribute most to victory.

"To be sure, this disregard of human values has been emulated by some of the Western Powers bent on gaining their own ends, but Occidentals still instinctively recoil against such cruelty. Eah day's news, alas! bears out Mrs. Buck's conclusion that 'to have the means of death in one's hands with no fear of death in one's heart is the ultimate of terror not only for those engaged in such warfare but for everybody else.'"

BERENGARIA

Unsung she lies, this fair one,
This Flower of Navarre
Who left her vine-clad mountains
To follow Richard's star,
Whose love, for Coeur-de-Lion,
Was love that held no flaw,
This only Queen of England
Whom England never saw.

Betrothed in Cypriote gardens
Beneath Levantine skies,
She looked, one short week only,
Into a husband's eye;
Then, armed and horsed, he answered
The Holy City's call
To save it, from the menace
Of Saracenic thrall.

And after war, came prison,
A false friend's jealous chain;
Till weary years had scourged her
She saw him not again.
Until, his few days numbered
At Chalus' fatal wall
She saw her king, a moment,
Her kingdom, not at all.

But, in a mountain village,
A house of God arose,
Built by this faithful widow
To buy her lord repose:
Oh, that I had full recorded
And could her portrait draw,
This sad-eyed Queen of England—
Who never England saw.

CORN ON THE COB MAY NOW BE EATEN AT A FORMAL DINNER, grasping an entire ear firmly in both hands—according to Emily Post, Autocrat of Etiquette. Emily Post's "Etiquette" published in 1922 sold more than 500,000 copies, and a new and revised edition has just been published. New chapters have been added dealing with "Modern Man and Girl", "Modern Exactions of Courtesy," (smoking, radio, punctuality, telephone manners). Permissable slang as endorsed by Emily Post in her new volume include lousy, swell, divine, and how, so what, you betcha, Pet hates of Emily Post are "calyum", "ottomobile," "egreit" "tomayto," "cult-your," which she pronounces "cultcha" although Webster's New International Dictionary rules on culture: "Kul-tiir, the second u as in unite." "No lady smokes in the street; no gentleman smokes when he is walking with a lady," rules Emily Post. Pretentious circumlocutions like "permit me to assist you" are ruled out in favor of "Let me help you." Emily's dictum on "children should be seen not heard," still stands.

MILD WINTER IS PREDICTED BY COPPER CLIFF PASTOR who is brave enough to make weather predictions, particulary in the fall. We discremember his prophetic bill-of-fare for last winter but have a hazy recollection that he was a bit off in his reckoning. However, let's give him another chance for a mild winter certainly does not scare us a bit, although this person warns of the danger of pneumonia and similar ills. Thirty-three years ago, says the prophet, a similar winter brought an epidemic of pneumonia. Warm clothing, says he, will be more necessary in the approaching season than in drier, colder one. Gosh, all hemlock! just when we were warming up to the thought that we wouldn't have to buy heavier underclothing and a warmer overcoat for this winter. There's always somepin—ain't it the truth? Says the parson prophet: "The sun having crystallized her indirect rays over the tropics, the prevailing wind or current will be from the south by southwest and southwest. The snowfall will be heavier than usual, with rain and more frequent thaws—in other words generally MILD." AND SO, get out the old grey snowshovel and keep your neighbors' respect and the public generally by a clean sidewalk, at all time safe to walk on.

TO FOLLOW FARLEY

W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster-general, will succeed Postmaster-General James A. Farley when the latter resigns to become sales promotion chief of the Pierce-Arrow Co., according to sources close to the White House. Farley plans to retain his job as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

FOUGHT FOR WINDSOR

George Ladbrook, former chauffeur for the Duke of Windsor, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly when he made a vigorous defence of his former master against criticisms of a soap-box orator in London, Ladbrook declared he interrupted the speaker only "when he told a pack of lies" about the former monarch. The magistrate dismissed the charge when a police surgeon testified that Ladbrook was not drunk.

A flick of a switch, or the touch of a button summons your personal Genii. You should know him better. His name is Hydro.

It is he who, while you slept, kept the motor humming on the blower or oil heater, so that you awoke to a warm comfortable house. It is he who makes the toast—cooks the meals—bakes the cake—runs the vacuum cleaner, the washer and the ironer.

And what a friend when you settle down in your favorite chair at night to read or sew under proper light, with your radio to bring the best in entertainment! You retire in security, knowing that should emergency strike he can be summoned instantly—Lights! Telephone!

What other service can you buy at such low cost, that does so much? And while the price of practically everything we buy has steadily advanced during the past two years, the Hydro has, and is, steadily lowering the cost of electricity to you. In addition, every effort is being made to extend the benefits of Hydro, everywhere in the Province of Ontario.

As a partner in this great enterprise, you should take a keen interest in everything that pertains to Hydro, and its efforts to lower power costs still further.

Half the battle for the possession of the American Cup was won today when General Paint's handsome sloop yacht Volunteer defeated the Scotch cutter Thistle 19 minutes and 23 3-4 seconds over the 30 mile course of the New York Yacht Club.

Three gangs of men are now at work on the water works. One gang is opening a trench down Dundas Street with the view of connecting the hospital this fall. They are about at the old distillery. Another gang is on Church Street. They crossed Bridge Street today working north. The third gang is at the rock on Pinnacle Street, opposite the market. A steam drill is at work here and its operation is watching with interest every day by hundreds of citizens. The coffer dam in the river was completed yesterday and the pump set to work. In eighteen minutes the place was nearly dry. Men were down in the bed of the river leveling the bottom to let a pool of water get to the pump, when a portion of the dam gave way and in a short time the place was again full of water.

ISSUE

Thanksgiving the addresses were selections by the Sidney Township Orchestra, and numerous recitations by Mr. Scott.

Eastern West Truth

"The people of Ontario want the truth regarding this election," declared the Hon. Mr. Stewart. "Hepburn has given you reasons for calling it, but not a single substantial reason. He will have you believe that three years, the time of the O.I.O., Succession Duties and the Hydro are the paramount issue. He has framed the little passing hopes of the C.I.O. into a tempest, to divert your attention from the real issue. And mark my words after Oct. 8th you won't hear a whisper about the C.I.O. The Succession Duties question has been fairly placed before the public. Hepburn has exaggerated the amounts collected and has now introduced any kind of a new policy. It is no more an issue than the recess of the Henry Government, which he is forever bringing up. The Henry Government was tried, indicted and then defeated. It is a dead issue. The real issue is the record of Hepburn and his government and don't let him divert your attention from it," declared the speaker.

"You want the truth and you are entitled to it," continued Mr. Stewart. "If it not the truth that Ontario, the finest province in the Dominion, with the greatest resources is entitled to good government? Back in history the people have always had the same government and have been intelligent in electing it. Scarcely ever a government for thirty years. Then it trains off and Mitch Hepburn became lead, and the party defeated. Whitney returned good government to the people following the war in the post war confusion, the Conservative party formed the Drury Government came in. But it did not live up to its election cries in which it did a lot of good things."

"I am not here for one moment either to defend or to condemn every act of the Hepburn Government. They did some good things but we must weigh the good against the bad and see where is the balance. The issue in this election are being obscured by the petty minor things Hepburn is putting out, and the real reason is, that he did not want any more by-elections. If he can get the approval of the people on his three issues it is bad he has issued the writs for four by-elections.

No Desire To Be Unfair

"Why did he not do that? Because he has not got that confidence, and the most important issue of this election are his administration of the Liquor Control Act, the Hydro and the Public School System."

"I do not desire to be unfair," said Mr. Stewart, "nor place any responsibility not related to him."

Referring to Hydro the speaker pointed out that the late Sir Adam Beck worked out the Hydro, no matter what was done, Hydro, one of the finest administrative systems in the world, should not be allowed to be dragged in the mire of party politics. Hepburn, however, discharged the old commission, but Beck remained as the director of the Globe, in charge, appointing two of his ministers to the commission and thus brought it into the political arena.

"If anything is well established in the British Empire, it is the sanctity of the contract," declared Mr. Stewart, "and the written contract of a government should be as good as anything in the world. But Hepburn made the mistake of disregarding the fundamentals of principle. Still he had set out on a course to tear up the contracts, or he cancelled the contracts. The power called for in these contracts was not necessary, but when we were in the throes of a world depression which reduced the quantity of power needed at that time he cancelled them. He knows that we go back for more. He will require even more in the future and one of the reasons he wants to get elected is because he does not want to be convicted on this great question."

Waste to Tear Down

"Hepburn's whole obsession," declared Mr. Stewart, "is his veto power to the Liquor Question, "is to tear down anything constructed by the Conservatives no matter at what how sound it may be. Ferguson appointed a non-political Liquor Commission but the government of Hepburn set up the board and appointed a political associate, to handle this great problem. There is no more room for the Dominion who is capable of handling a business of millions turnover in one year. The men was preposterous and was not want it in the administration of their affairs."

"Hepburn is erratic," charged the speaker, "and reverses decisions and actions and at times does not know what he is going to do next, but he will promise anything. Hepburn is not blind. He is a clever man and has a bright way of talking."

"His figures in his budget speech shows, that he got back five millions in income Tax and he handed back a one mill subsidy, that five years ago were five million dollars. In short municipalities of this province just lost two millions dollars, but enough to take care of what the municipalities paid in Old Age Pensions and Mothers' Allowances, and he isn't out a dollar."

"He got 36 millions out of the gasoline tax and auto licenses and spent seven millions on roads," continued Mr. Stewart, "and now he is holding that five dollar bill of Ferguson's before our eyes to prove that you won't see anything for it unless you observe your vision of his maladministration of the Liquor Law, of his taundering of the Hydro, his population of contracts and of his dealing without authority with the great Public School system to its detriment. He has made petty reductions to divert your attention from those great fundamental principles of the province and he is going out now and are throbbing in the veins of Ontario."

"The people of Ontario must realize that the axe hangs there petty things and concentrate on the life, the property, and the welfare and character of children of Ontario."

"I am going to ask you three questions, that you sound answer on September 28th, Oct. 8th," said the speaker in conclusion. "Can you trust Hepburn another 4 years with the great Public School system? Can you trust him another 3 years with the Liquor Control of the Province? And can you trust him another 3 years with his administration of the Hydro? I've considered these big questions, that may affect the happiness and prosperity of the Province."

Meeting Held, of Belleville, Assailed the road policy of the Hepburn administration in a brief address, "It is deplorable and disgraceful," the speaker declared, "where men cannot make a living out of their farms, they always had railway employment and they still have a power machine and outside employment. Ferguson received but seventeen days work since 1934, and Hepburn stated that he would give work to the men on the back concessions. He instead put in power machines that do the work of 300 men."

"Another year see a government going to the country without an educational policy? Well, Hepburn has not mentioned a word about it yet. Third and fourth book readers now cost 90 and 80 cents instead of 40 and 18 cents as in the time of the Henry Government."

Premier Challenged

Turning to Hydro, the speaker stated that previously bound to fail. Then it became a matter to ask for profit and not a question of control, with the result that a profit of nine millions is rolling into the government coffers and that is the amount of his surplus.

"Hepburn calls it Sunshine Budget, well it is a Moonshine Budget," said the speaker, amid cheers.

"He can now see the tide of public opinion growing," continued the Hon. Mr. Stewart. "You will never see a government that in three years became so enmeshed and involved in difficulties as at present one? Hepburn's mistakes are coming back. He cannot check the rising tide of public opinion. And I'll tell you another thing, the next administration will be a strong one from the start."

Now he proposes a new commission composed of a Liberal, a Conservative and a Supreme Court Judge. That is what he calls lifting the matter of politics. I believe it is a death-bed repentance and a death-bed repentance never saved a government."

"Hepburn never lifted a thing out of politics, but he lifted liquor, the Hydro and other things into politics," said the speaker. "His object now is to lift Hepburn out of office on Oct. 8th."

Touching on the Public School question the speaker stated that if elected that the public man, Liberal or Conservative has no right to interfere with that great fundamental principle of the Public School system of the province without a mandate from the people to do so."

"He introduced legislature over the heads of a number of his followers, and said it was a matter of long-delayed justice," Mr. Stewart said. "He stated he would stand or fall by it, but what has he done. His record on this question is one of trickery. Now he doesn't know where he stands on that question and it was only through the efforts of the Conservative party that the act was rejected.

Hepburn Quarrelsome in Clinic

"The man at the head of an institution shows his character and individuality upon that institution," declared the speaker directing his attack upon the Premier, "Hepburn is a quarrelsome man, that has been proved. He quarrelled with Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, and when he did he quarrelled with a greater man than himself. He stated, that he was no longer a King Liberal, and it is well for the country, that Mr. King is not a Hepburn Liberal. He quarrelled with the hon. Mr. Rogers, the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, and he quarrelled with several members of his own cabinet. At that the kind of man we want at the head of a government where success depends on co-operation and goodwill."

"If you want a job you must go to the Liberal boss and get a ticket," (Voice—It's the same here in Frankford) "Oh, no you don't the same thing here, regained the speaker, "it is a partisanship and not good government and people do and other municipalities had representation on the Commission. We bought our utilities but Hepburn cut out all representation and although we still have the responsibility we have nothing to say in the matter."

Touching population, the speaker pointed out that Mr. Roebuck told the people of Ontario that we had all the power necessary, yet later he bought thousands of horse power at 12 dollars per H.P. from Chats Falls and since then has run a power line from Chats Falls to Trenton."

"I challenge Dr. Faulkner and Mr. Hepburn to tell you of the secret agreement made with the power interests."

"Hepburn says he has saved you five dollars on your auto licenses," continued the speaker."

Investigations and charges were on the reasons Hepburn forced the election on the people of Ontario Mr. W. T. Tummon, Ex-M.P. Tweed stated in his address to the gathering.

"He claims he has saved our county of Hastings $100,000," declared the speaker, "but he doesn't say, that he took away nearly $280,000 in arrears grants in four years. Nor does he say that contrary to an agreement made by the late Hon. R. J. Cooke to the effect, that the construction of certain highways would not cost the county one penny he sent in a bill for $178,000 which sold are paying now. Furthermore Hepburn did not deduct the contribution given by the Dominion government before he taxed you the 30 percent. He charged you 21 per cent on the Succession Duties and the highway including the Dominion government's grant."

School Question

Touching the school question the speaker asked, "What does Hepburn intend to do regarding this question? In one year he has diverted $400,000 from the Public School boards to Separate Schools. He has made a political football of the Separate School supporters. In view of his action he should not receive one vote of either Public or Separate School supporters until he comes out and says what he is going to do."

"Furthermore," the speaker charged, "Hepburn killed the County of Hastings for $2,500 for cement after he had promised the municipality had agreed to pay for it before constructing a dishonorable near its post at Trenton. The Dominion government agreed to pay for the gravel and the Provincial government the cement. Yet he billed the county for it and when applied for the second time on the matter, demanded still $500.00."

"The election is not a question of maintenance of law and order and Succession duties, but a question of whether Ontario will return to safe and sane government," concluded Mr. Tummon.

Mayor Arnott.

Mayor Richard Arnott, Conservative candidate for West Hastings, received a great ovation as he rose to speak. "In my opinion," he said, "the main reason for this election is that Premier Earl Rowe, Since being elected Conservative Leader he has kept Hepburn on the run, and the premature election is his only hope of salvaging some of the seventy-three seats he now holds. He is coming to the people before there is proof positive there is a power shortage, while his power record is simply a bid for votes. He is not coming in as he did in 1934 with a lot of wild promises but with three years of administration behind him."

"He says he is a friend of the farmer. He proved that when he abolished the Agricultural Development Board. He says he is a friend of the returned soldier. He discharged 603 of them. Ask them whose friend he is."

"Remember those wild promises," said Mr. Arnott, "when you are marking your ballot, and remember it is the chief job of any government in power to keep and order. That is the Premier's position of trust and it is a position in fact as referee in any dispute and not take sides."

In Accord With Policy

"I am in full accord with the Public School policy of the hon. Earl Rowe," declared the candidate, "and that is to protect the Public School supporters and respect the rights of the minority of the Separate School supporters."

"Regarding the rumor being circulated in the district that the Conservative Party will abolish the Old Age pensions and Mothers' Allowance Act if elected, let me tell you it is foolish and absurd. The Conservative Party has placed them on the Statute Books and it will be the Conservative Party that will see that the acts are properly administered."

"The City Council of Belleville is being blamed for the fact that the city has no minimum wage law. Hepburn promised that three years ago and we haven't got it yet," concluded Mr. Arnott.

Eldorado and District

Eldorado—Successful anniversary services were held at Fox's Church at Eldorado on Sunday Sept. 19th, and at the church of the pastor, the Rev. A. W. Wootton.

In the morning service Psalm 65 and the first epistle of Philemon were used and the subject of the sermon was "Count Me as a Partner," taken from Phil. 1. The choir rendered three anthems.

The evening service opened at 7.30 with a large congregation in attendance and the subject of the evening sermon was "The Sin of Holding Back." The choir rendered two anthems. Mrs. Wootton sang a pretty solo.

The first of the Fowl Suppers for this district was held at the Eldorado United Church on Wednesday evening, Sept. 22nd, and was a decided success. The weather was ideal and gave no one an excuse for remaining home. A good crowd came and partook of the good things provided by the ladies of the community.

After everyone had availed themselves of the opportunities at the table, they were invited to the auditorium where a good program was given, opening with "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" and prayer. Mrs. Wootton as chairman gave a short address. The Arkell Quintette gave the first number. Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Wootton sang the duets. Harry and Ethel Whyte gave two duets with guitar accompaniment. Rev. Snelgrove of Madoc and Rev. Wootton also brought greetings from the Quinte District Council and gave a brief address.

Rev. A. M. Wootton closed the program with a well rendered solo and the National Anthem by all. The proceeds amounted to $30.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stapley of Belleville and Miss Irma Hamilton of Toronto were guests over the week's holiday among friends.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Comerford were dinner hour guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. W. McKeown.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Harvey entertained Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blackburn, Donald and Allen, and Mr. Gerald Blackburn.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage on Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Margaret Robbins was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Wyatt of Cooper by the Rev. M. Wootton. After a short honeymoon the happy couple will reside at Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hessel Whyte were tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Andrew on Sunday evening.

The Eldorado and Union W.M.S. met for their September meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Harvey on Thursday Sept. 16th.

The meeting opened at 10.30 a.m. with the President presiding and with a short Worship service.

Mrs. Albert Kenpey was in charge of the program which consisted of questionnaires on the Blue Book with a number of the members taking part. Mrs. George Robinson gave a splendid reading on Temperance and Mrs. C. D. McKeown, a missionary reading. A short business period was conducted by Mrs. Harvey.

The roll call showed 8 present and 1 absent. The Treasurer's report was read and accepted. The question was brought up as to holding an Auction Sale.

It was thought advisable that each member place one dollar in the Autumn thank offering. An invitation from the Corner ladies to visit their society was taken into consideration and accepted.

Dinner was served and all enjoyed a social time together. In the afternoon a sale of clothing consisting of ladies' layette was packed to be sent to the supply secretary at Napanee, valued at fifty dollars.

The meeting closed with prayer.

Weddings

ARMSTRONG—TAIT

At the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, the marriage took place on Saturday, September 25, 1937, of Rena Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Tait of Wellington and Mr. Ritchie Alfred Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Armstrong of Teeswater.

CUMPSON—GIFFIN

On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 21, at 1.30 o'clock, a pretty marriage was solemnized at Moira at the home of Rev. and Mrs. James Smith, when Margaret Velma Giffin, became the bride of Clifford Alexander, second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Cumpson, Inverary. Rev. James Smith, who is an uncle of the groom, officiated.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cumpson left Belleville for Niagara Falls and other points. Upon their return they will reside at Portsmouth.

YOSEPENKO—ENDY

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday afternoon, September 27, 1937 at St. Michael and St. John's Anglican Church, Point Anne, when Miss Ruth Endy, daughter of William and Nettie Endy of Wakaw, Sask., became the bride of Michael Yosepenko, son of William and the late Sanda Yosepenko, Point Anne. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Pepper, Shannonville. A large crowd of friends witnessed the ceremony. The church was prettily decorated with asters, gladioli and ferns.

The bride made a lovely picture in a gown of white satin and lace and wore a bridal veil of white tulle with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and ferns. She was given in marriage by her brother-in-law and Stana Germanovis and was attended by Miss Katherine Lazaruk, who looked charming in a dress of pink net over taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was prettily gowned in blue organdy with pink accessories, and carried bouquet of pink ferns and gladioli. Little Misses Olga and Ella Germanovis, cousins of the bride and were daintily gowned in pink crepe and carried baskets of asters and flowers. The groom was assisted by Paul Blansky and Andrew Waskan.

Mrs. Alfred Wilson presided at the organ during the signing of the register sang "I Love You Truly".

After the wedding ceremony, a wedding supper was served to about thirty guests at the home of Mr. Yosepenko.

Mr. and Mrs. Yosepenko will reside in Point Anne.

BLAKE—MORDEN

Marmora, (Special) — A very quiet and beautiful wedding was solemnized at Mount Pleasant United Church on September 22nd., when Dorothy Fern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Morden of Mt. Pleasant and George Stewart Blake, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Blake of Marmora, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Trumper.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a gown of white satin, fashioned on princess lines, with full veil and white tulle caught in halo effect. She carried a white ivory prayer-book with streamers of red roses.

Miss Mary Cathcart of Peterboro, attended the bride. She wore a beautiful old-fashioned gown of turquoise blue net over flowered taffeta. On her head she wore a braided turban of taffeta in a matching tone of blue. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of blue delphiniums and snapdragons.

Two year old Lois Jamieson of Mount Pleasant, dressed in pink taffeta and carrying a small nosegay of blue cornflowers, performed the duties of flower girl.

Mr. Kendrick Hazel of Campbellford, attended the groom and Mr. Morley Horsman of Campbellford, and Mr. Beecher Blake, brother of the groom were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Morden assisted in receiving the guests.

The happy couple left for a trip by motor to Quebec, the bride wearing a three piece suit of olive green brown turban and a tailored topcoat of brown wool, trimmed with lamb. They will reside in Marmora on their return.

It's Harmful To Worship A Child

Too Much Adoration at Home May Bring Unhappiness Later.

By LISA GRENELLE

THERE ALWAYS was an almost murderer of worship in the Jones home. It was rather refreshing, in a way, but slightly nauseating after a time.

Mostly the worship was centered upon Ralph, the eldest son, adored frankly by all the family, especially by the younger sisters, Irene and Betty, and younger brother, Bobby. As a matter of fact, strange as it may seem, Ralph was not the obnoxious, opinionated offender that one might be led to expect. He was really, one was forced to admit, rather a charming lad, only slightly assertive and extremely cheerful by nature.

But Ralph was not spoiled. That is he wasn't domineering, selfish, inconsiderate, stubborn, "show-off-ish," rude or disrespectful. Ralph did not take advantage of his admirers. If he took their adoration for granted, he did it in a most precious about it, and gave them some of their own back in generous fashion. His family and considerate of them, spending more time with them than was usual with a boy of his age.

Grew Bitter

But as he grew older, not so much older, at that, I'm certain, streak of bitterness appeared in Ralph's character, unsuspected by the superficial observer. Ralph was always being complimented on his wonderful friends, dropping girls to whom he had been paying attention. This one because of that one had deceived him, he would say.

Later there was a marriage, but it didn't last. She proved to be just what Ralph's family said she didn't appreciate him. I guess she didn't find the way his people did ways had, anyhow. But Ralph felt that he had let him down, which really in love with him. She figured out Ralph wasn't altogether perfect, I imagine. Anyway, there was a divorce and another marriage that didn't last. She was not either, although they still were living together the last I heard.

Infidelity is like a drug, and once you become accustomed to daily doses of it, you just have to keep using without it.

What are you leading your child to expect? Not worship, I hope. On the other hand, not adoration, which is a form of respect. Friendliness, co-operation and a natural respect for others' rights, consideration, but not blind adoration.

No small sisters will worship big brothers. Well then, small sisters must be removed from big brothers' vicinity, for I'm sure they will worship, especially as much as possible in intimate, friendly relations and friends. Something must be done to counteract the sickening sweetness of too much worship.

Mrs. S. Milne Is Honored by Tabernacle W.A.

A very delightful evening was spent at the home of Mrs. S. Milne, Bath Street last night, when members of Group No. 4, Tabernacle W.A. held a farewell party in honour of Mrs. S. Milne, who is leaving the city shortly to reside in Lindsay. Music and games were enjoyed by the guests.

Mrs. S. Church read an address honoring Mrs. Milne and Mrs. Smith presented her with the gift of the group, a handsome lamp. Mrs. Milne graciously thanked her friends for their thoughtfulness and good wishes. "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King" followed and sung. Mrs. Smith acting as accompanist.

Rev. D. T. McClintock was present and expressed regrets all felt at the loss of a devoted worker. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The address follows:

Belleville, Ont.

Sept. 27

"Dear Mrs. Milne,

"It was with feelings of regret that we learned of your intended departure from this city. We have spent many pleasant hours together and felt we could not let you leave our midst without expressing in some way our feelings toward you. So the members of our Group No. 4, Tabernacle Church W.A. are asking you to accept this small token. We hope that in the years to come as you sit by this lamp that it may recall the pleasant times we have had together.

GOOD MANNERS

Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married, and I need your help.

She is to be a college girl and plans to be married at the church of her faith in the city where she is attending a family-five miles from her home. The ceremony is to be performed at eight o'clock in the evening on a Sunday in the Fall.

The groom's family are only about half miles from the college town. The groom's mother wants to give the reception at her home. Will it be correct for her to do this? We would almost have to dispense with the reception otherwise.

2—Is it all right for the bride to dress for the wedding at the groom's home? It seems so far to drive from her own home after dressing.

3—In case the reception is held at the groom's home are all the guests to be the choice of the mother only? She is a lovely woman, a real friend of ours, and wants to do the correct thing.

4—My daughter and I want a big wedding. I want to sing also at the wedding. Is it necessary to invite her husband and children whom we do not particularly care for, as guests?

5—I want this to be a simple but correct wedding, but I am in doubt as to what is correct. I want to do any active part except perhaps give the bride away. Will this be correct? It does seem in anything bordering on formality, so that I am inclined to try to escape a part in leading the bride to the altar.

Should her be to walk to the altar, without her father?

I understand the bride's parents bear the expense of the reception, even though the choice of the hour be left to the bride's mother.

Mother

1—I do not at all like the idea of your accepting this kind suggestion from the groom's mother. The wedding reception be held in their home. All details of the wedding are the responsibility of the bride's family, and it is not considered good taste to have the reception at the groom's home. According to the best taste it would be far better for you to dispense with the reception altogether.

—And this is during the bride dress at the groom's home) would be definitely in poor taste. I am sure that it will be easy for her to plan either to dress in her own home at college or "borrow" a room from a friend in the college-town. Convenience should not be placed ahead of good form, good taste, in such important occasions. Impress on your daughter that first she chooses each detail according to the best form and correctness and after convenience fall where it will.

3—If you still decide to have the reception at the groom's home, the groom's mother will undoubtedly ask you and your husband for a list of guests whom you wish to have invited. She would not, I am sure, invite only relatives and friends of the groom's family.

4—It would not be at all necessary to invite the children of this woman whom you are inviting to sing at the wedding, but her husband should certainly be invited. To invite him would be very rude, and would certainly offend his wife and him.

5—I hope that you can persuade your husband to give his daughter the honor of presenting her in marriage. It is so important, so significant. And, if he objected, so capricious, unless there is some definite reason for his refusal, such as being crippled or some pathetic reason like that. you'll be successful in your earnest effort to persuade him then a brother or an uncle might give the bride away with her. Or she might walk alone. But I hope that you'll be able to persuade your father to walk with someone else or alone to the altar, but will at least be within easy reach from his seat in the first pew on the left of the aisle. It is correct at this time in the ceremony to give his daughter in marriage. The only alternative to this is for the groom step forward and give your daughter in marriage.

6—Yes, it is correct for the bride's family to pay for all the details of the wedding and the reception.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Said Nothing About An Engagement Ring Lately

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been very much in love, but he told me we'd have to wait two years before we get married. That seems like a million miles apart, and have been engaged for the past year. I am 20 and he's 29. I have look forward to another year's separation from him. Also he has not said either, although they still were living together the last I heard.

Infidelity is like a drug, and once you become accustomed to daily doses of it, you just have to keep using without it.

Shun Extreme Ways With A Child

Too Much Freedom is as Harmful as Too Much Self Control

(By LISA GRENELLE)

An English mother says she thinks the modern system of children's training, especially as practiced in America, is basically wrong because it puts all the emphasis on self-expression and is very lax in teaching self-control.

"Anybody can express themselves," she says, "but few people can control themselves. If self-control is not learned when young, it is difficult, if not impossible, to acquire later on."

The trials of the latter statement is just about unquestionable, I think. As to the former, there is just enough truth to be misleading.

For people, even children, are not all alike, and while some, like the English mother, have always found expression easy others have had the opposite problem and been naturally inarticulate, reserved, shy and sensitive, scarce to aggression. Excessive control has been, to them second nature, a sort of destructive defense.

Calls It Absurd

In this English woman's opinion, the modern school, especially as practiced in America, is making neurotic on the subject of inhibitions and repressions, and to absurd length in indulgence and lack of discipline to avoid any possible confrontation.

There is no use in denying that there is much in what the English woman says, but what she forgets is the cause of this attitude—those two or three generations of puritans, handicapped if not destroyed, more unhappy and inhuman by so-called repression, than by self-control, at the expense of self-expression.

We can't afford to wipe out all repressions and inhibitions, especially fear, or control, civilization, the family and the man, would go to pieces. Fear, if there are not too many and if they do not entirely dominate the subject, are very useful. But if fear and constant, excessive control are impressed upon the child's mind to such an extent that initiative or desire for self-expression is crushed, then the child grows into a pathetic, furtive failure.

Pivots of Life

Self-expression (seeking an outlet for natural abilities) and self-control (the suppression of desires and emotions for the benefit and convenience of society) are the two pivots of life, the balance of power. One should never permanently dominate the other, for then does the succeeding man.

Children are different. The same child goes through different phases in which he needs encouragement, phases in which he needs "taking down". He should be trained to consider others, also to reserve and control his every sufficient freedom and scope to develop, but he must also be allowed velop himself to the full as an individual.

Hair Styles For Autumn Are Varied

SONJA HENIE
This star's coiffure is smart and becoming

(By Helen Follett)

The new coiffures are exciting. There are quaint arrangements for the naive girls, prim little rolls revealing away from the face. Then licking away from the face. Then licking away from the face. Then sculptured curls for the sophisticated darlings. There are dashing almost ridiculous, designs for the girl who is the life of the party, all kept to the steps ahead of the fashion parade.

When selecting a new coiffure, consider first of all the shape of the nose. Look at your profile and choose after. The shape of the head and the quantity and quality of the hair are factors. The width of the forehead plays a part, too, as does the eyes. There is the figure to keep in mind. The little "curlie" can wear a bunch of hair on the head, while the heavy-weight must stick to a sleek, neat hairdress.

Too many ringlets make middle age look silly and childish. Middle age must have them, they should be netted. While hair calls for a dignified style.

Biting the lips is a bad habit that should be corrected. It indicates nervousness and nervousness interferes with poise.

Keep on hand a white lipstick to use at night after the red rose ointment has been removed. Friction it into the flesh. "It is when the surface of the lips is rough that the biting goes on.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TREATING CATARRHAL DEAFNESS BY USE OF X-RAY

In cases of deafness or severe loss of hearing, when the ear specialist has used all his skill and knowledge and feels that he cannot further improve the hearing it is not unusual for him to suggest a type of hearing aid which he considers most suitable for this particular case. This is necessary because there are some cases of hard of hearing where only certain tones—not their loudness or intensity can or can not be heard. And so the ear specialist adjusts these aids just as a oculist or optometrist fits the eyes with glasses.

However it would seem that another method, other than surgery or medicine, is now helping a number of cases of hard of hearing where the trouble is caused by catarrh of the little tube (eustachian) which carries the air from the back of the throat to the middle ear in order to keep the air pressure equal on the inside and outside of the drum. The catarrhal inflammation of this tube is caused by an extension of inflammation from the throat, just as a cold in the head or the floor of one room will flow along the floor to another room.

Dr. Jarlen in Radiology, reports a series of 140 cases of chronic catarrhal deafness treated by the standard X-ray formula (which he describes). Seventy-three patients were improved, 40 remained out of a group of 50 with tinnitis (head noises) relieved.

The good results are perhaps due to the fact that the rays reach the labyrinthold—soft, spongy tissue like tonsils and adenoids—or in the deeper portions of the bone. Sometimes in the throat for it is known that the tissues of the throat are caused to be highly "radiosensitive", and the fact that there is improvement of the throat by the standard X-ray doses by the use of the X-ray is now well established.

Improvement in hearing, when it occurs (in more than half of the cases treated) usually continues astonishingly speedy, or may be delayed, especially where there are treatments in progressive or gradual steps.

It should be remembered, of course, that the above cases were "selected", and the hard of hearing was due entirely to catarrh. However, that one-half of them did do chronic cr :n were helped by X-ray treatment is gratifying news to everybody; the hard of hearing and those about them.

repudiation" he bolster in the province. When Alderman Gerrard Dolan urged cancellation of the contracts in a long address to the legislature's fellow friends of the government were selling short on the New York market, Mr. Rowe said.

As Premier Mr. Rowe warned against what he called a "back door campaign" regarding the school question. He characterized as "ridiculous" assertions he said were being made that if elected he would close separate schools.

Mr. Drew's method of travelling was also touched upon by Premier Rowe. Mr. Rowe said it was "common knowledge in the north that the Premier "not only travelled by air but that one condemned others for using for business purposes but he is using it for political purposes and scraped the name "Whitney" off and put the number "210" on."

The railroad car Whitney was used by Premier Rowe is the property of the present government's investigation of Administration of Justice in Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

After addresses at Alexandria and Cornwall during the day, Mr. Rowe will speak tonight at Brockville.

If you are one of those who cannot safely drink tea or coffee . . . try Postum's 30-day test. Buy a tin of Postum and drink it instead of tea or coffee for one full month.

If . . . after 30 days . . . you do not feel better, return the tin to your grocer and get your money back. Postum comes from the roasted portion of Grain Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate . . . and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. It is economical, easy to make and delicious. You may like Postum the first time you try it, but after 30 days, you'll love Postum for its own rich, full-bodied flavour.

What Local Theatre Managers Say About Coming Attractions

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Owl For Passenger" and "Circus Girl"

A riotous romance on wheels, with Joan Blondell and Ross Alexander in hilarious, exciting adventure, comes out for second week opens tomorrow (Wednesday) at the Capitol Theatre as 321 No. 1, with lovely Glenda Farrell and dynamic Michael Whalen heading a cast which also includes Jane Darwell, Douglas Fowley and Bennie Bartlett.

As a runaway bride and a high-way Romeo, with a motor caravan of con-cons on their hands, the Trevor-Whalen duo find their lives filled with a multitude of adventures, all of them either thrilling or side-splitting, and proving that when you pick up a hitch-hiking lover, you pick up a carload of heart-trouble!

When Claire Trevor, as the daughter of a millionaire sportsman, learns that the titled foreigner she has just married had arranged beforehand for a quick million-dollar settlement, through her socially ambitious mother, she leaves the house and starts hitch-hiking to California, where she hopes to meet her father.

Unable to get a lift, Clara Peters colleges when she sights an approaching car, only to find it being driven from the factory to the Pacific Coast. Her chance meeting means the loss of his job if she were discovered giving him a lift. driver Michael Whalen finally decides to risk it, and the excitement starts in earnest when he tries vainly to dodge both the leader of the caravan and Clara herself, that mother has set on the trail of her "mentally unbalanced" daughter.

The discovery of stolen diamonds in the car further-complicates matters, while Whalen's efforts to avoid suspecting the others.". When police finally catch up with Claire, Michael thinks it is because of her treachery and rescues her, but in a whirlwind chase the real facts are revealed, and the fight which follows, Michael beats the thieves to a pulp, turns them over to the police, and straightens things out with Claire, who decides that it's where they both took time out for romance.

"Circus Girl"

Father Mariano Escalante, his four sons and four daughters comprise the Flying Escalantes, famous circus aerialists who provide several thrilling trapeze acts in the dramatization of their lives, which presents June Travis, Bob Livingston, Gordon Oliver and Frank Jenks. John Wray, Betty Compson, Lucille Osborne, Emma Dunn and others in the Capitol Theatre attraction opening Wednesday as Hit No. 2.

This all-talented veteran of the flying trapeze was born in Zacatecas, Mexico, and started his circus career when he was 7 years old. All his children have been born under the "big top", else in his winter quarters. They have been featured in leading circuses in almost every country and in their own show up and down the midwest.

Two brothers, and a sister, Billy, Blackie and Esther are the trio in the "Circus Girl". The brothers defy death in a daring act on a broken trapeze right above the endless cage of circus lions. The black-hair, flashing-eyes, and glistening white teeth of Esther Escalante command the eyes of the great circus crowd when she swings from her perch, and is trapped but high up in the big top. It is an unrivalled act which the crowds and she alone, of all circus folk, can do it.

"Circus life is tough, but it's also fun," says this dark-eyed Mexican beauty, "I wouldn't give up the life under the Big Top for any other kind of life in the world." And the glint in her eye gave truth to the saying, "Once a trouper, always a trouper".

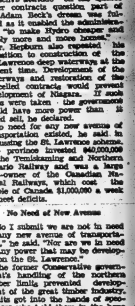
garding the cancelled Quebec contracts.

Part of Dream Fulfilled

"That was the dream of Sir Adam Beck, to develop Ontario power resources under public ownership and to supply power to the people at cost," he continued. By the government's attitude on the Quebec power contracts a large part of Sir Adam Beck's dream was fulfilled as it enables the administration "to supply Hydro power and supply more and more homes."

Mr. Hepburn also repeated his opposition to construction of the Chenaux canal-type waterway at the present time. Development of the waterways and restoration of the canalized routes would prevent development of Niagara. If such steps were taken the government would have more power than it could sell, he declared.



No need for any new avenue of transportation existed, he said in connection with the Welland canal. "The province invested $40,000,000 in the Trent canal, the Ontario Northern Railway and was a large part-owner of the Canadian National Railways, which cost the people of Canada $1,000,000 a week to meet deficits."

No Need of New Avenue

"So I submit we are not in need of any new avenue of transportation," he said. "Nor are we in need of any power that may be developed on the St. Lawrence."

The former Conservative government's handling of the northern timber limits and the development of the great timber industry, limits got into the hands of speculators who held them in the hope of improved prices, Mr. Hepburn charged. A new paper mill in Thorold, The Ontario Paper Company, hired five years to cut a timber limit in Northern Ontario. It is thought it will not be completed those areas from the timber wolves, who were holding them for fancy prices."

A NEW HIGH in luxury garments is a full-length coat made entirely of blue fox skins. The full skins are mounted on velvet in vertical formation, except for the sleeves, where the skins are worked in circles.

ON BRIDAL PATH

Smiling happily, David Philip Williams is shown wheeling his bride to the reception that followed their marriage in Lutton, Eng. The bride, formerly Miss Kathleen Mary Walker daughter of the late Major R. Walker, of the Royal Engineers, is pictured with the world famous Ontario Railway and was a large part-owner of the Canadian National Railways, which cost the people of Canada $1,000,000 a week to meet deficits.

No Need of New Avenue

"So I submit we are not in need of any new avenue of transportation," he said. "Nor are we in need of any power that may be developed on the St. Lawrence."

The former Conservative government's handling of the northern timber limits and the development of the great timber industry, limits got into the hands of speculators who held them in the hope of improved prices, Mr. Hepburn charged. It is thought it will not be completed those areas from the timber wolves, who were holding them for fancy prices."

PURSUE POLICY

"As a matter of policy, I think we should go carefully in regard to development of Quebec power," he continued. "Having in mind that the Ontario Government in Quebec threatened to cut off all power coming to Ontario from that Province."

Mr. Hepburn said his policy was back to Niagara and to make Ontario more and more dependent on its own power resources. He said he refused to allow his stand re-

Giants Need but Four Games In Nine to Play to Cinch Flag No Matter How the Cubs Fare

(Terry And His Men Gain Half Game on Monday

ROOKIE WINS

Bill Lohrman Gives Rest To Overworked Staff

(By Bill Bond)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Like the man trying to go up the down escalator, the Cubs are sliding back each time they take a forward step.

They thought they'd taken a pretty good one when they whipped the Reds yesterday 7-4 —thought so, that is, until the Giants up and took both halves of their doubleheader with the Bees. All of which meant that, despite winning, Charley Grimm's pennant growing crew had lost another half game.

Today they were trailing by 1-2 games with only a half left to play to the Giants' nine. If the Giants win four, it doesn't matter what the Cubs do.

The picture is getting prettier by the minute for the Giants, who proved by stopping the Bees 5-4 and 3-1 that they can win Queen City on two hits with just as much relish as their Polo Grounds attacks rivals the Yanks, win or lose with 20.

In yesterday's opener with the score tide at 4-4 in the top of the eighth, the Giants filled the bases on an error, a single and a walk. At that point the usually reliable Lou Pete, running true to the rookie that he is whip the Polo ground-ers, committed a balk —and boom, there went the ballgame.

Freshman Wins

In the night-cap Jim Turner set the Giants down in order for six innings and got one apiece in the eighth, with the score 1-1. The next batter singled, then Turner, with the second out in his grasp, fumbled Bill Lohrman's bunt. He retired the Bees for the side, would have been the end of the inning, but Dick Bertell broke up his party with a two-run double.

Lohrman, fresh out of the International League, earned himself a handsome set of freshman spurs by hurling a five-hitter—the Giants' first shut out run this Cactus Circuit season—and by stretching his streak to six straight and crowned the score for the season at 20 games each. He also provided a real for the regular pitchers, who have been more double-headers in as many days.

Klein Hits Two

While the Cubs were handing the Reds their seventh loss in a row, the Dodgers gracefully dropped their 12th by the Phillies 7-3 in a game remarkable chiefly for Chuck Klein's two homers and long Tom Winsett's debut as a pitcher. He gave up two of the runs.

The Indians, playing their last home game bowed to the Tigers 3-1. Buck Newsom, after beating the Athletics for the loss in a row for the first game, tried to come back in the night-cap but the Red Sox got gave up six walks in less than three innings and the Sox were shut out 6-0.

The Yanks and Senators were rained out, while the other Clubs were not scheduled.

TERRIERS DOWN CORNWALL 25-6

Win Ontario Title in The Third Game at Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 28.—(CP)—Orillia Terriers, their All-Ontario Senior Lacrosse crown tilted at a belligerent angle, polished the Maple Leaf Cornwall Indians, all-star team of Eastern Ontario 25-6 here last night in the final match for the Ontario honors.

The Terriers lost the first Ontario title game in an 11-10 upset at home. Over-confidence cost them that game, the Terriers said, and went down to Cornwall, beat the Indians 17-6, then took the deciding game in a manner that left no doubt as to their superiority.

Holders of the Mann Cup for the last three years, Orillia Terriers lacrosse world they were in no mood to be kept out of the running for a fourth try at the Canadian Championship. They outscored the Indians 6-0 the first quarter, 10-3 at half-time and 22-6 by the end of the third session. Only hard work in the Indian nets by Goalie Gervaise Kent, literally as low as it was. The Terriers scored almost at will and as play dragged in the fourth quarter part of the 4,000 fans at the game started for home confident of the outcome.

Sports Roundup

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Signs of a jittery World Series: Joe McCarthy didn't go to Washington with the Yanks but stayed here personally to scout the Giants . . . Marcel Thil and his easy-to-look-at Georgette sail for France Friday. . . . Incident may account for the photo finish cheap at Rockingham Park Saturday. . . . Only eight days of the 34 day meeting have gone into history, but more than half the purse is run so far have been decided by the silent films.

Lefty Gomez, first hurler in the Majors to win 20 games this year, will open the World Series for the Yanks . . . Current prices for the Minnesota-Notre Dame game are 10 bucks a pair and the chances are the ante will hit $15 by Oct. 30 . . . Looks like the payoff year for scalpers, who have been trying to capitalize on Minnesota's "hot team".

Bill Terry is laid up with something resembling influenza. He predict the Yanks will fall the stuffing out of Carl Hubbell in the World Series . . . But Cliff Melton is apt to stop the Yanks the first time he faces 'em . . . Max and Buddy Baer are chopping wood in California to get in shape.

Ted Kleinhans of the Reds won a second chance under the Big Top because he developed a screwball . . . The New York football hotshot thing they've seen yet . . . Giants say Sammy Baugh is the hottest thing they've seen yet . . . All Riley did vs the Giants was run 25 yards for a touchdown, kick one field goals and an extra point for all Washington's points. . . . Nice going, Riley . . . Jimmy Johnston moved out of the Garden yesterday.

CALLING 'EM
Between the Lines
—By—
Ken L. Calling

Although not much is known of the relative strength of the Kingston Cardinals rugby squad, the Belleville Panthers are willing to wager large quantities of the coin of the realm on their chances versus the "soldier boys" in Kingston tomorrow. After directing play last week, Gordie Yanover could not withstand the pulling at his heart strings, with the result that Yanover will line up with the Panthers tomorrow. Eddie Perkins, stalwart middle winger of last year's squad, has also returned to his old love so it begins to look as though the Panthers may yet prove the team to beat in the Eastern group. We see Howard Weaver strolling about town as though he is not occasionally. Would it be that Howard is only waiting to be invited out to football practice?

Some of the local rugby enthusiasts saw the Kingston Cadets at Cobourg game last Saturday and report the boys will be right up in the Lake Shore loop for the winter to that of last season. The Cadets have a fast, clever outfit lacky to emerge 7 to 6 victors over the Red Indians while in Monday the 1936 group athletes won 6-0 over the Toronto Eastsiders. We would advise the Lake Shore squads to keep a sharp eye on the Queen City outfit. Throughout the Lake Shore district much interested is because are having no end of fun at the expense of the Orphan Annie's annual visit to the Asbestos. It seems the Asbestos boys were raked out of the first picture by a team from Cheltenham, but the Orphans participated in Western Ontario. Friend Cec Perdue, who has returned to the sports writing chair after holidaying means the people in Quebec, was there when the Asbestos were annihilated.

Good Delaney, who took on the Orillia at Cornwall licenses playor-not infield on the Indians announced the flooring of the new Arena in Cornwall will cost of nearly $3,000.00. "It makes a great playing surface," Good Jacques, but in Cornwall they informed us that with the exception of the Orillia play-off game, the Indians have not averaged above $250.00 per game. Which means the paying for a three thousand dollar floor come rather high," added Good.

Back to football, Bowie Whaples, fan of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, whose home is in Montreal, has been one of the best service with many of the old Hamilton Tigers. The Indians have been invited to come out and look in the Panthers' work-outs this week, so keep the wheels set-up the Panthers will have to revert to keen and strenuous detail attacks. For instance the Panthers tried out their new plays against the Tyros and only completed four. The mistake the Panthers were making in their attempted forwards was—they were trying for too much distance instead of making their forwards earn for ten or twelve yards' gain.

There are numerous rumours floating freely about relative to hockey prospects for the coming season. We hear over in Trenton that the Stewart Warner-Almite Corporation may be sponsor an O.H.A. team, but doubt this statement as this early date. There is an outside chance, however, that two junior teams may operate in the city, that is if Eddie Thomas continues to foster the game as in years past. With the amount of material being suplied through the KI-T leagues there might be room for two junior clubs, at least it would help to keep down expenses that will considerable to the receipts.

The Giants won one of those much-talked of double-headers yesterday and it looks as though the "suckle world's series" is all but secured. Last spring, prior to the opening of the big leagues Collyer's baseball experts, well-known sporting periodical, picked the Yankees and Cardinals to meet in the world's serious". Collyers gave the Yankees to finish first, Detroit, second, then Cleveland, Washington, the Red Sox and White Sox. Their choice of one and two per-o.k. but they missed badly on the Pale Hose. Shifting over to the National League Collyers picked them as follows: Cardinals, Giants, Cubs, Pirates and today we find those four teams in the first division, but the Cardinals are out in front and St. Louis third. Hal Deans, the Great Diary and Paul Dean, to the contrary notwithstanding, have managed to get their respective pegs in Quebec, was there when the Asbestos were annihilated.

2 "FARM" TEAMS TO BATTLE IT OUT

Newark And Columbus to Meet in Little World Series

Newark, N.J., Sept. 28—(AP)—It's "farm" team against "farm" team—representatives of the two major baseball chains—in the little world series opening in Newark tomorrow.

Winners of the pennants in the International League and American Association and survivors of extra-curricular playoff series, Newark and Columbus are the foes in the premier minor league classic. An argument for the farm system in their triumphs, as Newark is the No. 1 farm club in the New York chain, Columbus the top team in the far-flung St. Louis Cardinal circuit.

Columbus won its place yesterday by beating Milwaukee, 10-4, to take the final American Association playoff, four games to two.

ELIMINATES BEARING-WEAR AND BEARING CORROSION

This New Oil Discovery Provides TRIPLE FILM STRENGTH

is a super-refined chemical, the discovery of which marks the greatest advance in lubrication since the invention of Penn-Drake Processed Lubricants. Added to any oil it clings to the bearing surfaces in a film of metal so much closer to metal surfaces, (1) absorbs the shock of friction, (2) reduces the wear, (3) lubricates when all other oil has been squeezed out.

Movieman Moves to The Winning Circle For First Time

Toronto, Sept. 28 (CP)—Brindale Stables Movieman, Roman bred son of Four Man-Martilla Star, breaks his maiden jinx Tuesday to account for the Northumberland Plate, headline feature at Woodbine race track yesterday. O. M. Hendrie's storm Last was second and Prince Jerrek, from the Canadian Stables, third in the 1 1-16 mile test for three year olds and upward. Movieman lowered the route in 1.46 4-5 and was well supported in the mutuels.

Ridge, from the Hamilton Stables of C. M. Bentley, made a running way of the last furlong to raise, a six furlong test for two-year-old maidens, one cantered home four lengths in the van of Norton. Dinkroon was another half length back in third place.

Sterling Young gave one of his good riding exhibitions when he brought E. P. Rickard's Cosmic Prince home on top in the six-furlong second race. Young rated his mount off the pace until the stretch turn, then shot him up between the leaders and went under the wire with a two length advantage over Inanvin. Colored Artist was another two lengths back. Cosmic Prince paid $7.85 for $2 and combined in the Daily Double with Ridge, returned $40.45.

Headed by Sunny Lawson and Skyros, Canadian Plate and Coronation Stake winners, respectively, 41 hyraulics were negotiated for the $5,000 Cup and Saucer handicap at Long Branch race track. The event is over a mile and 70 yards.

JOHNNY ALLEN

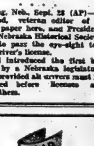
WINS FOURTEENTH

Without a defeat chalked up against his 1937 record, Johnny Allen, of the Cleveland Indians, scored his 14th straight win of the season when he held the Detroit Tigers to three runs. Allen is a former International league player, playing with Toronto in 1931. From there he went to New York Yankees and in 1933 was traded to the Indians.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP)—A new 15-year high of $18.60 a hundred weight was paid for cattle here yesterday. This was the highest cattle market price since December 1919 and matched the all-time high price since December, 1918. Scarcity of choice grain fed cattle was the reason for the unusually high price.

Lowell, Ariz., Sept. 28 (AP)—The daily round trip of an unidentified man through the business district upset the civic-minded citizens yesterday.



They called the Sheriff's office, only to find that the animal was within her rights. She may average down main street as the guest and protection of the State Range Law.

Prairieville, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP)—Joseph Cornegie, 16, a senior in the Minersville high school, was held without bail today on a charge of killing his father.

The father, John Cornegie, a miner, was shot to death as he slept. Young Cornegie told his father had mistreated his mother.

Goring, Neb., Sept. 28 (AP)—A. B. Wood, veteran editor of a weekly paper here, and President of the Nebraska Editorial Society, failed to pass the eye-sight test for a driver's license.

Wood introduced the first bill passed by a Nebraska legislature which provided all errors must be corrected before licenses are issued them.

FOUR MAPLE LEAF STARS SOLD AS N. H. L. TRADE WINDS BEGIN TO BLOW

Although the hockey season is not here yet, rumors and stories of trades and sales are already beginning to fly. At the semi-annual meeting of the National Hockey League Board of Governors, held in New York several sales have already been put over. All of them, incidentally, have been negotiated by Conny Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs. The sale of "Happy" Day and Jack Brill, both of Leafs, to the New York Americans was the first to make the hockey headlines. Day, right, will play defence for the Amerks and will undoubtedly be in the game for a couple more seasons with his new club. Still, lower control, on the other hand had little chance of going any place with the Leafs and should get a better break under his new manager, Red Dutton, due to the scarcity of good hockey ivory on the New York team. Francis "King" Clancy, top centre, who was "Ambassador of Goodwill" with the Leafs for part of last season, has been signed to a contract with Montreal Maroons as assistant manager to Tommy Gorman, while Art Jackson, left, younger brother of Harvey Jackson, was sold to Boston Bruins. Smythe said that he would have a better chance with the Bruins, due to the fact it would be hard for him to outwit another star centre as Syl Apps and Bill Thoms, both with Toronto.

Misunderstanding

By KARL GRAYSON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

I'll never forget the spectacle of Jon Abbott and Connie Obold fighting.

You see, Jon is an American. And he wasn't used to the way they did things in Lusanda.

Anyway, when Joe and I stopped off at Cabindas on our world cruise, we were much pleased with the place. Cabindas is the capital of Lusanda.

That night we had dinner at the Plaza, and it was there that we first saw Kandace. She was sitting alone in a booth, and when she caught us staring at her boldly, she nodded and smiled at him.

In America, especially in Joe's crowd, a smile and a nod like that have a meaning all their own, and before I could stop him Joe was weaving his way among the tables toward the girl. There was a silly grin on his face and he waited unsteadily. It flashed into my mind that he'd had too much to drink.

The girl smiled and moved over and Joe sat down beside Lo and took her hand in his. Right then was when the customs of the country, customs that Joe, of course, didn't know about, threw a monkey wrench into the works. The girl stopped smiling and withdrew her hand and said something in her native tongue that Joe didn't understand or care about. He grabbed her hand again, and allowed his other arm to slip around back of her chair.

Instinctively I felt, when I saw the tall dark man come through the door, that Joe was in for trouble. And I was right. The tall dark man strode toward the booth and there was something about his walk that caused my blood to creep. I stood up, but was by no means quick enough. The stranger had grasped Joe by the coat front, jerked him to his feet and slapped his face.

Joe was hauling back for a haymaker when my arms closed about him. I'm bigger than he and stronger, but I had my hands full holding him. I got out of there and into another restaurant and plopped him up with cold water and black coffee.

After a while a messenger came in and handed me a note. I read it and looked sourly at Joe. "Now you've done it. That was Count Obold and that was his girl you insulted."

"Insulted?" said Joe.

"Insulted" said Joe.

"And he wants to fight a duel with you. He realizes our host rails that thing in the morning so in order to accommodate us he'll await our pleasure at dawn. He will do you the honor of permitting you to choose your own weapons."

Joe shook his head and tried to grasp it. "That punk—he does who smacked my jaw—wants to fight a duel? You mean like they do in Sabatini's books?"

Joe grew thoughtful. Presently he threw up his head.

"And I can choose my own weapons" Joe went on. He stood up. "Yeah," said Joe, "and on your honor as a gentleman you can't refuse. Also, why wait till dawn?"

The count drew himself stiffly erect. He was a good sport. I knew he wasn't going to refuse.

What followed was painful. We trooped into the back yard. Joe and the count took off their coats and squared off. Grinning, Joe stepped in and delivered a left to the count's chin. Blood appeared on his mouth. He swung wildly. Joe set his feet back on his heels. The count came in again and Joe knocked him down. He got up and came back in more.

Three times the count went down and the last time he had difficulty in getting up. His face was a bloody mass. Joe looked at me in amazement.

Swaying dimly, the count came in again and Joe caught him in his arms and eased him back onto the grass. Slowly he wore a queer look.

"Listen, old horse," he said, "you're as dumb about the customs back in America as I am about them over here. Only I didn't have the guts to fight you your own way —and you well, by gosh, there are dangod few Americans can take it the way you have. And right here and now I rise to remark you have my apology, and tell that same so, too, if you'll tell me where she lives."

Well, the count only caught about one-third of what Joe meant. But it was enough. He sat up and grinned and offered his hand. Ten minutes later the three of us were sitting around a fire in Kandace's living room, laughing and talking and drinking punch and telling each other that it was too bad there wasn't a perfect understanding about customs of different countries, and agreed that it made the case every one would be happier.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT

Tarzan blinked. He could not believe his eyes. Woora was dead—yet here was Woora! What devilish magic was this? Then Tarzan smiled to himself. He recalled that Wood had told him—that Mafka and Mafka were identical twins. So this was the great Mafka.

He glanced then at the beautiful girl sitting silent and still beside Mafka. This he assumed was Gonfala, the strange creature who was part angel, part devil. She was the symbol of power, but Tarzan knew that the real power lay in the wizened, hideous old man.

Mafka dropped his hand on the great diamond of the Kaf, which was reputed to endow its possessor with the same mysterious powers that were inherent in the great emerald of the Zoli. "Now you are under my sway," he said ominously, "all men tremble before Mafka."

But Tarzan stood calm and unafraid. Mafka frowned. As his brother Woora had discovered, this man was no other man. No power could bend his iron will. And now the magician grew afraid. This new prisoner might well prove a menace. He must be destroyed!

Livestock

Montreal, Sept. 25 (CP)—Light trading and steady prices prevailed on Montreal Livestock Markets during today's early dealings. More than 200 cattle were received for export to Great Britain.

Receipts also included calves, 118; hogs, 1007; sheep and lambs, 187. Good veelers made $8, fairs to mediums from $7 to $8.50, drinkers from $6 up with grassers going from $3.50 to $4.

Toronto, Sept. 25—(CP) —Sales on cattle were too few in early light prices in early afternoon trading on the Toronto Livestock Market today. A few butcher cows brought $4 to $4.50 and a few fed calves ranged from $8 to $11.50. No sales were recorded on butcher steers and heifers. Stockers moved slowly at $3.50 to $5 cwt.

The calf market was steady at $9.50 to $10 for choice vealers, with most sales on other grades between $6 and $8. Heavy grass calves sold from $3.25 to $4.50. Previous close on calf trade was one cent higher at $10.25.

Lambs were steady, good ewes and wethers selling at $8.50. Bucks brought $3 to $4 and culls $6 to $7. Sheep were also steady at $1.50 to $4.50 cwt.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied by Biggar and Crawford Stock Exchange Brokers

MARKET COMMENT

A sharp rally yesterday morning caused no surprise as it was overdue, but with many stocks opening up anywhere from 1 to 4 points above Saturday's close, profit taking was invited. Just as there was nothing in the news to account for the substantial break of the past few days, there was no reason available to explain the opening. Some short covering, combined with investment demand, were no doubt responsible for the overnight rally in some sections of the board.

The Trader in Barron's states that deflation, rather than inflation, is the implication of the commodity price movement, which so strongly influences business men in forward commodities. That, the two most trustworthy barometers of the financial and business worlds still fail to record readings which would represent the universal confidence that obtained up to last spring.

One of the perceptible facts about the market break of the past few weeks is the feeling is based on about any reduction in the price of gold. With the opinion prevailing in many quarters that such countries as the United States will have to resort to some inflation to balance its budget, in which event gold will become one of the safest haven for investment. Then again if inflation does come and the value of the dollar is lowered in terms of gold, a higher price for the yellow metal appears a certainty. Good buying has been noted in the junior golds and better things are looked for for the mining section before very long.

New York advices point out that frightened and forced selling have played a part in market action recently. Many attempting to pick the bottom of the decline and have found that the list of market casualties is has hardly been a market in the past week in which to indulge in bargain hunting, a necessary fright, but with pamphlets being issued by the Government—from a Government-engineered turnabout to a great depression of unprecedented proportions. But a small wonder that the market movements have been extraordinarily volatile. Actually the market itself has shown small regard for the opinions of those who call these new times.

Opportunities in Gold Stocks

In the present slump, it is apparent that the better gold mines are standing their ground rather well and that they are being sold on a level to believe that such gold stocks as were not too severely affected by the recession will respond very vigorously when the market finally gets on its feet, writes Irving Carneau & Cetigny, members of the Montreal Stock Exchange in a letter to their clients.

After all, gold always provides a good buy in unsettled markets, because;

(1) production and earnings of gold should remain steady even when business fails otherwise;

(2) gold stocks are easily bought after when the market goes up;

(3) in case of war and all through the period of activity, gold is the only accepted medium of exchange.

Outstanding amongst the producing gold mines which provide a strong speculative leverage as well as a real investment value, are the following: Teck-Hughes (with its subsidiary Lamaque), Siscoe, Bu-Kisko-Rainville, Canadian Malartic, Sladen-Malartic, which offer striking possibilities.

Besides the solid quality of the investment type, they are currently quoted at bargain prices, yielding from 7 to 19 per cent.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Sept. 25—Cheese and potato markets were higher here yesterday. Eggs were firm, while butter was dull and about holding steady. Poultry was unchanged. Receipts were 951 cases of eggs, boxes of butter and 946 boxes of cheese, excluding truck arrivals.

Sales in the Canadian Commodity Exchange were 200 boxes of spot Quebec fresh, 41 cases 44 to 45 1-2 cents and one November butter future at 36 cents. Spot prices were quoted at the close at 36½c to 36¾c for Quebec fresh 92 score.

The egg market was generally 28 5-8c to 28 3-4c. Small lots to the retail trade were reported at 29c. Dealers at 27 1-2c for solids and 26c for prints.

The cheese market was 16 3-8c to 16 1-2c for No. 1 Ontario white, 16 1-2c to 16 5-8c for No. 1 Ontario colored.

On the egg market graded shipments in-cartons for 1-c.l. lots were mainly quoted at 29c for A-large, 28c for A-medium, 26c for A-pullets, 25-26c for B and 20 1-2c to 21c for C.

ROTARIANS VISIT THE OTTAWA CLUB

Local Members Entertain Members of Sister Club on Monday

J. O. HERITY SPEAKS

A new departure in local Rotary Club activities was noted yesterday when twenty-five members of the Belleville Rotary motored to Ottawa where they were the guests of the Rideau City Rotary Club there.

Nearly one hundred and eighty members heard a splendid program staged by the Belleville delegation in the spacious rooms of the Chateau Laurier, featured by a spirited address "Country Cousins in the Capital City," by Rotarian Owen Herity.

The Radio Quartette was instantaneous with their fine rendition of favorite songs, while the splendid voice of Jack Pearson was heard to advantage in several numbers. Leo Riggs provided all the piano in his inimitable style.

Messrs. Fred Douglas and Charles Reid, both of Belleville, were in charge of the meeting while Sandy Burrows led the community singing.

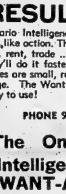
The Belleville Club was thanked for the splendid time in the evening was based upon an ancient and dramatic scene enacted about the tabernacle of the Israelites in the days of their sojourn. From such a scene comes the beautiful piece of philosophy telling us that when the burnt offering be-gins, the song of Lord began. The burnt offering was the symbol of consecration, and today the soul devoid of self sacrifice lacks the true music of living. This is true in the case of the Rotary back-giving ourselves whole heartedly to labor wea-ring the song that sleeps in drudgery. It is also true regarding life's friendships. To carry them without rebelling, hold our friendships among the first strains of music, and it is always easier to march along life's way to music.

In our social relationships selfishness creates discord. The secret of the songless life is this failure to recognize that song and sacrifice are inseparable. Living for self and self alone hides the sweet harmony of life and of all the crimes committed against the abundant life—selfishness is the greatest.

In this way we see a new church here brought about by the sacrifices of its people, whose reward will be the song of the Lord.

DOG ILLUSTRATES STORY IN SERMON

Commissioner's Congregation Has Unique Proof 'How it Was Done'



Unexpected natural illustration of a story he was telling, was the happy experience of Commissioner Ham of the Salvation Army while addressing a congregation at the local Citadel on Sunday.

Commissioner Ham was relating the story of a young lady approaching a house when she was suddenly confronted by a forbidding-looking dog. Afraid but keeping her presence of mind, the lady suddenly thought of a parcel containing liver which she carried under her arm.

Thinking and acting quickly she threw the liver in the street. The dog ran after it and the girl made her way into the house.

While telling of the throwing episode, the Commissioner inadvertently reached downward to the desk, picked up a pair of gloves and demonstrated how the young lady threw the liver.

As the gloves hurtled through the air, the door suddenly opened and a small collie dog, bringing playfully galloped after them and picked them off the floor with his teeth, much to the amusement of the Commissioner and his congregation.

REV. DR. HOWARD AT PETERBORO

Albert College Principal Speaks at Re-opening of St. James Church

Peterboro, Sept. 28.—The formal reopening of St. James United Church since its renovation, was held on Sunday, when Rev. Basil Howard, D.D., Principal of Albert College, Belleville, was the guest speaker both services.

The Rev. Dr. Howard brought a challenge to all church members, as stated by the words, "My friends, salute the church".

He declared that there is not a thing, decent, sweet and clean in life that is not a direct gift of the church. This wonderful organization should be saluted for its ideals and its splendid program, which internationally stands for brother-love, nationally for a higher type of patriotism and individually for satisfaction. In concluding the morning sermon Dr. Howard said: "So let us salute the church profoundly, gratefully, humbly and in the spirit of new dedication, for what it has done and can do, if we are consecrated to its service.

His theme of "Song and Sacrifice" predominated in the evening and based upon an ancient and dramatic scene enacted about the tabernacle of the Israelites in the days of their sojourn. From such a scene comes the beautiful piece of philosophy telling us that when the burnt offering be-gins, the song of Lord began. The burnt offering was the symbol of consecration, and today the soul devoid of self sacrifice lacks the true music of living. This is true in the case of the Rotary back-giving ourselves whole heartedly to labor wea-ring the song that sleeps in drudgery. It is also true regarding life's friendships. To carry them without rebelling, hold our friendships among the first strains of music, and it is always easier to march along life's way to music.

WRINGER TEARS HAIR FROM SCALP

Mrs. Clarence Buker Suffers Severe Injuries When Hair Entangles in Wringer

Painful injuries were suffered by Mrs. Clarence Buker, Sidney, on Murray Street yesterday afternoon when her hair was entangled in the wringer of the family washing machine while she was busily engaged in washing. Living for self and self alone hides the sweet harmony of life and of all the crimes committed against the abundant life—selfishness is the greatest.

Presumed of long hair Mrs. Buker bent over the machine a little too closely and her hair was caught in the revolving wringer gradually drawing her head downwards. She attempted to throw the machine out of gear, but was unable to reach the switch. Neighbors came to help but by the time a sister arrived her hair had been wrapped around the rollers of the wringer quite patches had been torn from her scalp. Medical assistance was immediately summoned and the wounds treated.

EGG PRICES SHOW GOOD INCREASE

'A' Selects Advance to 40c on Today's Market

Eberts' peaches, "the last of the current premier crop to reach us", occupied the spotlight at the city market today where a less than usual display of fruits and vegetables greeted Tuesday morning shoppers. Prices, however, showed no noticeable change from those of last week. Peaches were 2½ to 3c selling at forty-five cents. No. 2's at forty cents and No. 3's at thirty-five cents. In the latter hours vendors offered No. 3's at four six-quart baskets for dollar.

Eggs, however, noted a sharp increase in first-grade quotations. "A" selects being offered at forty cents, while "extras" or "medium" selling at thirty-five cents. Butter was steady at sixty-five cents for pound prints.

Tomatoes sold at fifty cents per basket with "seconds" selling at fifteen cents. Potatoes showed no change in price, quotations remaining steady at seventy cents per bushel and peck lots at twenty cents.

Plums of many varieties were offered at fifteen cents per six-quart basket and Blue Damsons sold to a brisk market at the same price. Pears were also offered at thirty cents per basket with the dark coloured Bartlett Canels quoted at thirty-five cents.

MacIntosh Red apples, fairly plentiful, were offered today at thirty cents per basket and Alexanders at twenty-five cents the peck.

Sweet corn sold at ten and fifteen cents per dozen ears, while staple vegetables sold at the usual prevailing prices. Cauliflower was offered on the market today.

Ginger Rogers Orders Deacon Ski-Suits

Should you by any chance while visiting your favorite movie theatre in the glorious month of August, Ginger Rogers wearing a pale blue ski-suit, with a fetching emblem of some color, you can take a justifiable pride in admiring it especially if you live in Belleville, for both garments were manufactured in Belleville.

A few weeks ago the Deacon Shirt Company received an order from the glamorous girl of the talkies for a Belleville Cloth ski-suit. So pleased was she with the garment that later a repeat order for a sports outfit was placed with the Belleville firm.

FORMER PREMIER ILL AT MEETING

Toronto, Sept. 25—(CP)—George S. Henry, former, Conservative Premier of Ontario, today prepared for a long rest in hospital necessary by the strain of many years in public life. Mr. Henry collapsed last night while addressing a meeting of his York East constituency in Todmorden.

Mr. Henry, York East's legislature representative for 25 years, is again a candidate. He had been speaking in a stuffy atmosphere for 90 minutes, last night when suddenly he fidlied, gripped the table and slumped to the floor. Doctors said the collapse was caused by poor ventilation in the hall and overwork.

After receiving medical attention, Mr. Henry insisted on returning to the platform and he took a seat there, shortly after, however, he decided to go home.

Mr. Henry, having previously served as Minister of Highways and Minister of Agriculture, became Premier in 1930 when Sir. Geo. Howard Ferguson went to London, England, as Canadian High Commissioner. Mr. Henry retained that seat when the Liberals won the province in 1934.

ITALIAN TOMATOES MAKE APPEARANCE ON LOCAL MARKET

Italian tomatoes, pear-shaped, were offered on the market today for than the ordinary tomato made their Belleville debut on the city market today. They grow like to a usual vegetable", declared the vendor. "Not so very plentiful in yield. I had several plants set out, the seed of which I imported from Rochester. I picked about one half bushel from each plant which is the yield of the crop. They appear to be sturdier and more resisting than the ordinary tomato although the flavor is not quite the same," he added.

ADJOURNED INQUEST BEING HELD TONIGHT

The inquest looking into the death of one Richard Clare, 52 year old Toronto man who died in the Belleville General Hospital last week will resume at the police court rooms before Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson this evening at 8 p.m. Efforts to establish full identification are being made by the authorities. The deceased man was admitted to the hospital on or about August 24th by car near Deseronto on Aug. 27 last.

● All the countless thousands who buy newspapers every day are potential customers of those who offer goods for sale to the consuming public.

Practically every merchant in Canada will lose customers in 1935—a law of business. This loss must be replaced or his business will die. The leader who loses customers, even to the danger point, can find them again and increase his turnover by good merchandising linked with advertising in the daily newspapers.

People are reading daily newspapers as never before, not from curiosity, but from need to know today the best things offered to supply their wants.

Lost markets, which are only other words for lost customers, are now being regained by you or acquired by others. You owe it to yourself and to your business to keep in touch through the newspapers every day with the Canadian buying public.

Claim Half Chinese Planes Gone

More than half of China's planes have now been destroyed, the spokesman asserted.

Four Japanese bombers dropped explosives on the Chapei and Pootung areas here for two hours, some of the missiles shaking the city. Foreign residents of the city crowded the roofops to watch the unopposed attack.

The Japanese railroad advance in North China was said to have occupied the town of Sinhi, capturing a Chinese armored train and 100 freight cars. The area was claimed to be filled with Chinese soldiers flocking to the south after the capture of Paotingfu. The main body of the northern army placed 60 miles south of the fallen capital of Hopeh Province.

Armaments Fear Is

Japanese troops, munitions, horses and food stuffs continued to pour into North China, the unending columns. The French military authorities estimated the North China expeditionary force at 340,000 men in addition to the 800,000 being mobilized in Korea and Manchukuo.

Japan's forces in the Shanghai sector were said to number 150,000 aliders and 30,000 sailors, and marines. If these figures are correct, Japan has more than 1,000,000 trained soldiers on the Asiatic mainland to combat the estimated 1,000,000 Chinese which includes untrained and half-trained men, as well as the armed Mongol hordes of General Chiang Kai-Shek's own.

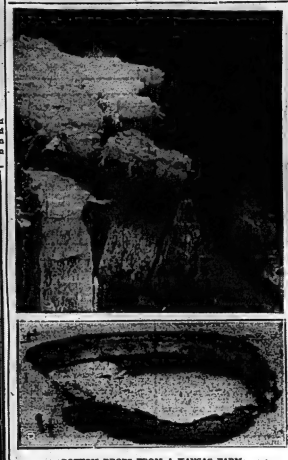
11-YEAR-OLD GIRL DRIVES TROTTER TO WORLD'S RECORD

Alma Sheppard, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Sheppard, of Hanover, Pa., is pictured as she drove Dean Hanover, bred at her father's Hanover shoe farms, to a new world's record for three-year-olds, in a race at Lexington, Ky. The pair covered the mile in 1:58 1-2 minutes. The 90-pound miss, by her speedy feat, drove the fastest mile ever chalked up by a lady driver of either a trotter or pacer, and established a new all-time mark for amateur drivers of all classes and either sex.

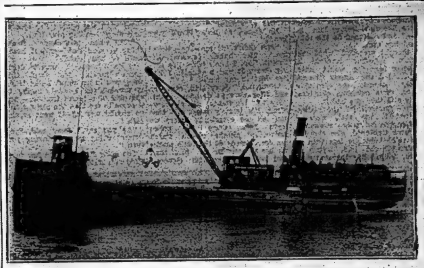


DICTATORS HITLER AND MUSSOLINI MEET ON GERMAN SOIL

This photograph radioed to America via London from Munich, Germany and showing Benito Mussolini, of Italy, and Adolf Hitler, of Germany, reviewing the long lines of storm troops drawn up for inspection as Il Duce arrived in Nasiland, is remarkable for two reasons. First is pictured the initial visit of the Italian dictator to the realm of his Nazi counterpart and the second meeting between Europe's two most notable dictators; and secondly, Il Duce is smiling broadly. Not often is the Italian ruler photographed with other than his baleful frown. Cementing of the Rome-Berlin axis and a mapping of plans for meeting European developments is expected from the visit.

BARRED FROM CANADA, SHE TURNS TO DOLLS

Oblivious to the fact that she is the centre of an international "incident"—albeit a friendly one—between United States and Canada, Margaret Dorothy, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Frederick, of San Diego, Calif., plays with her dolls at Detroit, while customs officials seek to gain her admittance to the Dominion. Margaret Dorothy crossed the United States alone by bus on her way to visit an aunt in Oshawa, Ont. But she forgot or didn't know the aunt's name and address so customs men were placed in a quandary. They sought the necessary information from the little lady's relatives.



BOTTOM DROPS FROM A KANSAS FARM

When the bottom drops out of a farm, here's what it looks like in the process. The upper picture was taken at night on the farm of Charles R. Joseph near Potwin, Kas., a few hours after the ground gave way. The hole 'grew' to 260 feet long and 200 feet wide and got or didn't know the aunt's name of earth still fell away. Below the first occurrence—in Idaho.

LABOR LEADER HECKLED

Appearing at a London meeting planned to close a Labor membership crusade, Major Clement Attee, parliamentary leader of the British Labor party, was met by jeers, catcalls and stink bombs which threw the meeting into confusion and halted his speech. Police ejected a number of interrupters. Attee and other labor chiefs charged that the demonstration was organized by Britain, Fascists.

SINKING GRAVEL BOAT DROWNS FIVE IN GREAT LAKES' STORM

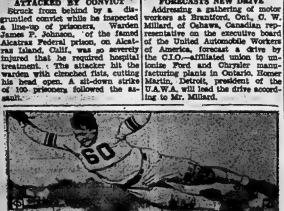
Here is the ill-fated gravel boat Neebing, of Fort Arthur, Ont., which sank in Nipigon Straits, while towing a heavily loaded barge, carrying five of her crew to a watery grave. Another died in hospital from injuries and exposure. Four mountainous waves swept over the vessel as she headed into the straits which connect Nipigon Bay with Lake Superior and she sank in a few moments. Nine crew members survived though tossed about for four hours in the raging waters. Capt. A. L. Carney of Port Arthur, master of the Neebing was one of the lost.

ROUTS WOULD-BE THUGS

H. C. McQuay, garage owner of Islington, Ont., routed two thugs who attempted to hold up his service station at the point of a gun. When attacked by the stick-up men McQuay seized one as a shield against his gun-toting partner then attacked with his fists. Both would-be robbers fled. McQuay is pictured sporting a court-plaster bandage across head cuts garnered in the fray.

WHERE ITALIAN TROOPS ARE REPORTED MASSACRED BY ETHIOPIANS

Reports filtering into London and Paris via the French Somaliland port of Djibouti, assert that Ethiopian tribesmen in a fierce revolt against Italian rule have massacred every white soldier in Makale, Adowa, and Aksum; all cities which fell before the advance of Il Duce's legions during the invasion of Ethiopia. This scene in Makale was taken shortly after the invaders had captured the town in November, 1935, and shows Italian warriors staging a wild celebration of their victory. Every white resident, civilian as well as soldier, was slain in the ferocious revolt in this city according to the reports. At the same time international commentators see in Il Duce's recent friendly gestures to Britain and France a tacit recognition of his Ethiopian empire as a means of combatting revolts among the tribesmen.



ATTACKED BY CONVICT

Struck from behind by a disgruntled convict while he inspected a line-up of prisoners, Warden James P. Johnson, of the famed Alcatraz Federal prison, on Alcatraz Island, Calif., was so severely injured that he required hospital treatment. The attacker hit the warden with clenched fists, cutting his head open. A sit-down strike of 100 prisoners followed the assault.

FORECASTS NEW DRIVE

Addressing a gathering of motor workers at Brantford, Ont., C. W. Millard, of Oshawa, Canadian representative on the executive board of the United Automobile Workers of America, forecast a drive by the C.I.O.—affiliated union to organize Ford and Chrysler manufacturing plants in Ontario. Homer Martin, Detroit, president of the U.A.W.A. will lead the drive according to Mr. Millard.

BEST BLOCKER—One of the best blockers in the Big Ten, they call Fred Vanzo, 215-pound Northwestern quarterback.

NEW CHAMPION ENTH USIASTIC OVER VICTORY

Harry Jeffra, who defeated Sixto Escobar for the lightweight championship of the world is pictured waving an enthusiastic greeting from his dressing room after the bout. Their bout was the last event of four in the carnival of champions held in New York. Jeffra, a Baltimore boy, who beat Escobar twice before in over-weight non-title bouts, copped the decision from the Puerto Rican after fifteen rounds of furious fighting.

OUT OF THEIR ELEMENT

Obviously enjoying themselves, although neither is in the field where their talents show to best advantage, are Janet Gaynor petite film star, and Bob Ashton, Australian polo star, as they are pictured dancing in a Hollywood night club.

INSTALMENT 11.

It had happened so quickly, so unexpectedly, that Polly could not be sure whether the flashlight had slipped from Jerry's fingers or been knocked from his hand. Later she would wonder she could have been so stupid, but even when she heard Jerry's low groan, she did not understand. She was seeing in that entire blackness the grotesque rigid body on the stone floor, the upturned face with its corrugated scar. She was hearing Jerry's incredible cry-throated exclamation, "Marco—Tony Marco!" and remembering a moment when a short, dark man with a scarred right cheek pursued her along the ferry wheel shouting her name.

She pulled herself together and almost her arms out, groping when she found him at last, he was a limp heap on the floor.

"Jerry, dear, what happened?" ing then she knew, for as she sat on the floor to pull his head into her lap she heard the steady growl of rushing blood..... The stone floor was spouting. Some one had been in that gruesome chamber with Tony Marco's body. Was in there now—opening the gate—about to come out!

Then the bilogue were silent. There was no faintest sound. Polly shouted: "Who is it? Who are you without a light.... He'll strike a match and——"

Something touched her left shoulder. It was barely a touch, but she sent to the floor, sat there listening to the terrified pounding of her heart.

She hated herself for being afraid, She told herself, "I can't sit here like this, letting him get away—" and stiffened as the thing brushed her arm.

No thought preceded what she did then. Whether inspired by courage or fear, she could never know.... but she threw herself directly towards the invisible menace, arms outstretched, clutching, closing and then she knew.

"Legs—human legs! The realization that it was real, material, tangible was curiously reassuring. Her arms tightened. She clung to strength she had, trying to scream, feeling her throat tighten but hearing no sound. This man was a murderer. He had killed Tordell and Marco and—for all she knew, he had killed Jerry Brell. And she couldn't hold him, she couldn't.....

A soft hand touched her face, quickly slipped under her chin and closed over her throat. Again trying to scream, but the weight across that cause was suddenly cut off by fingers that were cutting into her flesh, choking her.

All the strength went out of her then—but in the moment before she lost consciousness, her clutching hand closed on cloth and though it seemed no longer to matter, she knew that what she held in her frantic, futile grip was not the cuff of a man's trousers, but the hem of a woman's skirt.

X X X X

The little light from the match Jerry held blinded Polly. She shut her eyes.

"Give me time, Jerry," she said. "I'm trying to think." She was sitting on the stone floor with her back to the wall, her hands leaning against her throat. She opened her eyes and peered up at the face of the man who crouched there over from the rim of his hair. It ran diagonally across his forehead, down the side of his nose, around his mouth to the corner of his chin. And then she saw the scar, the scar falling from his chin..... "Jerry—Jerry, you're not a detective."

She tried to rise, but he put a hand on her shoulder, pressing her about me. Tell me what happened. Did you see him? Did he have a flash?"

The match went out and he struck another. "Throw me the light—and it wasn't a he. Jerry, it was a woman."

He stared at her. "How's your head?"

"She didn't hit me—she—choked me." Her hands caressed her throat. "Oh, I know what I'm saying Jerry. It was a woman. I had thirty in my hand. It was."

"Nonsense," Jerry said, abruptly, and they were in darkness again. "I'm positive, Polly—positive of one thing. It's terribly important that you tell me everything before we leave here..... Another match flared up. Jerry stared at the little marks on her throat. He sat back then and looked at her with clenched fists.

"I'll make him pay for that," he said. "So help me, I will. He tried to kill you, Polly." His deep voice was terrible.

She looked up at him. "Jerry, try to realize I'm not out of my head. It was not a he."

He was lighting one match from another now. "All right, we won't argue," he said. "Tell me the whole story. Try to remember every detail—it may help——"

Polly forced a smile: "The boy detective," she said. But Jerry only looked at her gravely. "I remember she told him everything she could remember from the moment the flashlight was knocked from his hand until she opened her eyes to find Jerry bending over her.

"And when you caught something in your hand—it was it heavy cloth of light cloth?"

"I don't know. I wasn't doing much thinking just then. One thing was in my mind. I had taking it for granted I was clinging to the cuff of a man's trousers—then I realized it was that the cloth didn't go around one leg—it went around both.

"As you say," Jerry said, "you weren't doing much thinking just then."

The color flamed up in her face. "You still insist I can't know what I'm talking about?" Suddenly angry, she put a hand down to the floor to get up—but he checked her.

"Let's see your hands."

"He won't," She glared at him. "Who do you think you are?"

The corners of his mouth quirked. "Listen, honey—I don't want to make you mad; but two men have been murdered and you've both encountered the murderer tonight. If you'll be a good girl and help me——"

Still angry, Polly said, "I'll talk to Angus, or the police. You refuse to believe what I tell you—and besides, you're not a detective.

"I'm not?" He smiled openly now. "Listen—I'll tell you a little secret: I am a detective and I'm working on this case and the minute I find the murderer I'll have marks on your throat, I——" He checked himself, said gently, "Let's take a look at your hands, Polly."

The little drops were still falling from his chin. And suddenly the thought made her sick.

Polly's voice was no longer angry. "You've got to do something about your head." Her hand crept out in the darkness and found his. "I'm sorry, Jerry."

He pulled his hand away and scrabbled about on the floor, and when he looked down at her, she lifted her hands and laid them palms up on his knee.

"Turn them over."

She obeyed, and instantly they both saw the torn nail and the tiny piece of thread caught in the tear. Jerry pulled the thread from the broken nail and held it close to the match, rubbing it between his fingers. His brow furrowed.

"It's blue." Polly said, "and about an inch long. Outside of that, what does it tell you about the heavy scowl?"

In silence he rose, gave her his hand and pulled her to her feet. "Did you," he asked, gravely, "ever see a man wearing blue silk pants!..... As much as I hate to confess it, this is a silk thread."

"If that's an apology," Polly grinned, "I accept it. And now let's get out of here. You must see a doctor for a bump——"

She saw him staring toward the barred gate in the stone doorway, suddenly she remembered Tony Marco. Gone, clutched his arm, "Marco!" she said. "You said it was Tony Marco—the man with the scarred face. He was in there."

"Yes. You had never seen him had you?"

She nodded, slowly. "I didn't know it was Marco, though. I——" Jerry's interrupting voice cut in, "but here are the last of the Mohicans. He held two matches between his fingers. "There's a small flash in the pocket of the car; we'll have to go up and get it. I want one good look at that doll—big stuff, huh?"

Before she could protest, he caught her arm and marched her up the narrow stone stairway. His once cut in the door, Jerry ahr, she said, resolutely. "We're not going back down there, Jerry. If you have been hurt or had attended to, I'll start screaming. I really will!"

"I'll be down there only a few minutes. You wait here in the car."

"But what is there to see? You've seen everything."

He put her in the car and leaned on the door. "Not like this, Polly. The person who killed Tordell also killed Marco. That isn't proved, but it's a reasonable deduction to make. Now if we can take all we know about Tordell's murder and add it to all we can find out about the killing of Marco, we may be able to get somewhere."

"But I thought Marco murdered Mr. Tordell."

Jerry grinned. "No, you didn't. The police thought so, and Gerbrook thought so and you took their word for it. The evidence against Marco was planted, I knew that five minutes after I stepped into Tordell's study."

"You didn't, really?"

"All right," Jerry said, "I didn't. Nevertheless, I'll take you off in a corner sometime with pencil and paper and I'll draw pictures so simple that even you will understand what it's all about. And now," he said, before she could think of an appropriate answer to that, "if you'll let me have the flash, out of that pocket there....."

Polly had no intention of going back in the car alone, and she didn't want Jerry to go back alone. She said, "Wait a minute, Jerry. I'm talking about!"

G. W. Proctor Manager

Nobody's going down there tonight. Come on and get the car looked after and come back in the morning. You'll find everything just as it is now."

He leaned over her and took the flash from the car pocket. "Sorry," he grinned, "but business is business. We must notify the police and I want my look before they get here. I'll be back in a jiffy."

He started off. Polly said, "Jerry, if you come to the sidewalk, I'll scream bloody murder.."

His grin widened. He looked back at her over his shoulder. He went on. Polly waited until he had crossed the sidewalk—then she screamed.

It was not a screech, but a high, shrill scream, and from half a block away two soldiers ran toward the car. Shades went up in windows of nonconmissioning officers' dormitories lined both sides of the street. A rangy black dog started with every breath.

Jerry stood in his tracks for a moment—then came back and slid under the wheel. "It's all right, boys," he said as the two soldiers looked up. Polly gulped a snicker.

The car swung around, shot ahead with a violent jerk. Polly said, sweetly, "Don't be angry, Jerry. I just discovered how much I really like you tonight."

His face shone white and set under the passing street lights. He didn't say anything and presently they turned into the Fordell yard. Sheila and Ted came around the house, behind them a stooped figure shuffled through the glare of flashlights going towards the servants' cottage—Mel Dyson feeling his way with a cane, his dog quite not in evidence.

Sheila and Ted came to the car. Recognizing Jerry, Sheila said, "Angus called from Bavannah about half an hour ago, Jerry. The man they were holding there was not——"

"No kidding?" Jerry said, soberly. His was watching her face, closely. "Oh, by the way, Sheila," he asked, casually, "do you happen to own a blue silk dress?"

Which just then pop came down and started to drink his coffee, ma saying, Willyum I want to ask you something.

Ask me why, in a new package of razor blades, every other blade is an old one, or at least seems to have whiskers of its own before you introduce it to yours, pop said. Ask me that and I'll just shake my head in helpless ignorance, he said, and ma said, Now Willyum you've all shaved now, so there's no use raking over dead ases.

Raking is the very word, that's just what I've been cmaug, my face feels like a hot stove, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum, it cert really, so why stretch your imagination to your own detriment. They say Cornet and Sorny serve a very good dinner these days at quite reasonable prices, she said.

Then let them eat at themselves and save money, pop said. I believe it would pay a man to use those razor blade people if he could get a jury with strong beards, he said, and ma said, Well is there any place that appeals to you where young like to eat?

Efie here, there's no place like it, pop said, and ma said, Well for goodness sake, what a head try to be home on time, I can ask you that, cant I?

Sure, you've already proved it, pop said.

Well she had.

"BIG PUSH" ON SHANGHAI FRONT BEGINS

Machine Gun Fire Used To Halt Strong Attack Along a 25 Mile Front

Wave After Wave of Japanese Troops Sent Into Action

VILLAGES OCCUPIED

Eighty Bombs Dropped in Area of 1,000 Square Yards

By James A. Mills

Shanghai, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Chinese declared today the long-awaited Japanese "big push" on the Shanghai front had begun and the Chinese troops manning the 25-mile northern defence line had turned back attacking infantry.

The closely-woven net of machine gun nests from Shanghai's north, Hailun to Loken, 25 miles to the northwest, mowed down attacking Japanese as fast as they could reform their lines and come within range, the Chinese said.

They admitted they were holding their positions only at the cost of heavy casualties. Incessant Japanese artillery and warplane bombardments had declared at midday they had not yielded a foot.

Japan said a strong attack along the Liuhong-Loken motor road had driven the Chinese back 800 yards and the northeastern half of the village of Liuhong had been occupied. Several small villages were occupied, the Japanese claimed, in a 300 yard advance in the Loken area where the fighting was extremely bitter. Six times, the Japanese attacked, the Chinese said, but six times they were driven back with serious losses.

Scholars Study In Barroom

Detroit, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Suburban Garden City School children will study lessons in a barroom during the emergency.

H. Franklin Donner, President of the Garden City School Board, said the dormitor of pupils has outgrown present facilities despite additions and the board found it necessary to accept the offer of a club for free use of its quarters as study hall.

Donner said the place would be United Automobile Workers of America, as to what would happen if he "incites to riot" Ontario workers and night by Premier Mitchell Hepburn. The premier made a campaign address here after spending a day in his Elgin riding where he returned today for official nominations.

In describing the stand on the labor issue, the premier referred to the address made in a Hamilton church Monday night by Mr. Martin, a prominent worker on behalf of the strikers during the 1934 General Motors strike. Martin's automobile union is affiliated with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Homer Martin Warned.

"Now we have Homer Martin over here," the premier said, "the man who publicly challenged the laws of the United States. He is true hypocrite; Martin spoke in a church last night.

"I say to Homer Martin if he incites to riot while in Ontario I will instruct the Attorney-General to take the proper action."

Mr. Hepburn said labor was entitled to bargaining wages commensurate with the profits of industry and the government's machinery was to be used to bring this about in orderly and peaceful fashion.

The C.I.O., he charged, believed in sit-down strikes and "lawlessness" and he was satisfied with the attitude of the people of Ontario.

"I never at any time said I could keep the C.I.O. men out," he said. "I asked Ottawa to keep them out and Ottawa refused. But I could and would keep them out by means in law that's why they are not here in greater numbers. They do not want to behave."

No Power Shortage Claim.

Mr. Hepburn charged the Conservatives with attempting to create unwarranted alarm by talking of a power shortage. The premier declared: "There is no power shortage, just silly chatter."

Before him 10,000 horsepower under option from the Gatineau system, he declared, "not a kilowatt is being taken but it could be all turned on in ten minutes. And in one year the Hydro system will have 50,000 more tasks River power sites the previous government bought at a cost of $1,-250,000. This would produce another 100,000 horsepower."

By reduction of taxation by the government injected life into the mining industry, he said, the Cobalt district at present brought more employment, more business from hardware mills in Northern Ontario and better houses for the people.

FAMILY MAILED SPECIAL LETTER

Hinted That Contents Contained Demand For Ransom

Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—Receipt of a special delivery letter which investigators hinted contained ransom demands for bonds probably today into the kidnapping of Charles S. Ross, 73 year old retired manufacturer.

The letter, written in pencil and postmarked Washington, D.C., was delivered to Ross' wife last night.

Capt. Harold Gilbert, head of the State's Attorney's Police said he would neither deny or confirm the report that ransom demands were retired.

A letter demands were made was bolstered by the advent of federal agents in the case. The latter may take action immediately upon receipt of a ransom note.

The letter shared attention with a clue to the identity of a man believed to have been "the finger" on the victim for the three kidnappers who snatched Ross Saturday.

Cecil Vandine, a clerk at the Fargo Hotel in Sycamore, Ill., saw a stranger talk to Ross in the hotel lobby about an hour before the abduction. Yesterday Vandine picked from police files a photograph which he said resembled that of the man.

HEPBURN ISSUES STERN WARNING TO C. I. O. HEAD

Tells Homer Martin What Will Happen if He "Incites to Riot"

Premier Reiterates Statement There is no Shortage

CHURCH OF ST. MICHAEL THE ARCHANGEL

St. Michael's parish today marked one of the notable events in its history, the celebration of the silver jubilee of Right Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, the pastor, and the centennial of the founding of the original stone church, of the parish. The events came together many of the clergy and His Grace Archbishop O'Brien attended.

Solemn Mass Celebrated By Pastor at His Jubilee

His Grace Archbishop O'Brien, Large Number of Clergy And Parishioners Attend Celebration And Pay Honor to Monsignor Nicholson at Jubilee Tribute Paid to Pastors And People of Past by Archbishop

Today the parish of St. Michael the Archangel gave itself up to rejoicing as their pastor, the Right Reverend J. P. Nicholson, V.G., celebrated the silver jubilee of his ordination to the Catholic priesthood and the centennial of the foundation of the first stone church in the parish. The occasion was one that will long linger in memory the beloved pastor celebrated Solemn High Mass which was graced with the attendance of one of the largest and most representative gatherings of clergy ever assembled in the stately parish church. His Grace Archbishop M.J. O'Brien, monsignors, parish clergy, heads and members of religious orders, and a vast congregation which included the children and scholars of the parish as well as guests came to do honor to the Monsignor and to the office of the priesthood which he represents.

Among the worshippers were Mr. Thomas Nicholson of Kingston, father of Monsignor Nicholson, Mrs. (Dr.) Harbeson, sister of the pastor, and Dr. Harbeson.

Scene Within Church

The scene within the church, was one which expressed the spirit of the occasion.

As the Archbishop entered, the choir of sixty girls of St. Michael's Academy, under the direction of the Sisters in charge of music in the school, sang "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus" (Gounod), followed by "Jubilate Deo". The beautiful voices of the children were heard in the fifteenth century "Mass of the Angels" rendered with the accompaniment of the young singers. At the Offertory the choir sang, "O Jesu Mi Dulcissime" (C. Rossini).

Archbishop Presides at Throne

His Grace, Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., LL.D., co-adjutor Archbishop of Kingston presided at the Throne, in capa magna, and was attended by Very Rev. Michael Meagher, Perth, and Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P., Campbellford.

Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, D.D., V.G., assisted by Very Rev. J. J. Hanley of Brockville as Deacon, Rev. J. Whiting of Trenton as Sub-Deacon, Rev. J. Kelly of Napanee as Master of Ceremonies and Rev. J. Hanley of Brockville as Deacon of the Cross.

MODERNIZATION, SIMPLIFICATION OF GOVT. PLANK

Rowe Advocates Appointment of Non-Political Commission

PLEDGES COOPERATION

Claims Money Collected From Hotelkeepers For Political Purposes

By C. P. Staff Writer

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP) — Modernization and simplification of municipal government was a new plank today in the platform on which Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, and eight members of Ontario electors in the October 6 vote.

Mr. Rowe advocated appointment of a non-political commission to study municipal government and taxation in an address broadcast from here tonight. The commission would be asked to make recommendations for:

Simplification of municipal administration; recasting of assessment laws; division of responsibilities among municipal, provincial and federal governments and application of scientific division of revenues, aimed at relieving the municipal tax burden on real estate.

Recasting of assessment and taxation laws would have a tendency to increase the assessment of home-building and ownership, said Mr. Rowe. Provincially would be time considered. Taxation was the greatest retarding factor in building today.

Flood Control System.

A Conservative administration would put into effect a flood control and water conservation program in those sections of Ontario requiring it, Mr. Rowe promised. Both municipal and civic effort would be benefited.

Money now spent on relief might be diverted to labor for a flood control program, he said. He proposed purchase and control of lands, marginal land and water shed areas; construction of reliable storage reservoirs and dams on upper water courses; planting of forests under provincial ownership and supervision; co-operation with farmers to preserve and increase privately-owned forest areas.

Pledged Co-operation.

Mr. Rowe pledged co-operation with the Dominion government and other provincial governments to provide unemployment insurance, health insurance, hours of labor laws, minimum wage laws and "other plans calculated to bring good social and economic security. The Hepburn administration has fought social legislation by the Bennett government on constitutional petty grounds of provincial rights".

Money was being collected from hotel keepers for political purposes, charged Mr. Rowe. His party would accept none of it.

"And I want to tell the hotel keepers that any money taken by police and I know you have paid plenty—has gone straight into Liberal campaign funds."

PAPAL ENCYCLICAL IS DOUBLE-EDGED IN ITS ATTACK

Supreme Pontiff Prays For Greater Devotion to Virgin Mary

Vatican City, Sept. 29 (AP)—Pope Pius XI today issued a dramatic encyclical which was construed as a double-edged attack on Communist Russia and Nazi Germany.

The document, "an encyclical letter on the Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary", urged faithful to pray against the evils of Communism and the tendency of some state leaders who war against Communism to "assume pagan errors and morals".

Fraction of Enemy Devotion.

The encyclical, sent to the Catholic hierarchy carried the texts of addresses in Berlin last night by Italian Premier Mussolini and German Chancellor Hitler. Both heads of state had thrashed against the threat of "Bolshevism" in Europe.

The encyclical urged the practice of Rosary devotion to Mary, a device which is specially reserved on religious calendars in homage for the maternity of the Virgin Mary.

MOVEMENT GROWS TO BOYCOTT GOODS

Protest of Japanese Attacks on Civilian Area

LONDON, Sept. 29.— (CP)—A widespread movement was growing today in Britain to boycott Japanese goods as a protest against Japanese attacks on civilian areas in China.

One of London's leading newspapers sponsored a meeting meeting to be held at Albert Hall October 5. The Archbishop of Canterbury will preside.

Church leaders were discussing plans for a "peaceful" boycott.

The executive committee of the Labor Party was expected to endorse at Bournemouth to draft a resolution condemning Japan's "outrageous" attacks on civilian populations. The resolution will be presented at the annual conference of the party which opens Monday.

The Albert Hall meeting was described as being called to give the public an opportunity to express horror at the indiscriminate warfare on civilians in China and urge the British government to call upon the British world to take concerted measures to prevent its continuance.

A Japanese boycott committee was formed which began bearing the words "I will not buy Japanese goods". The profits from the sale will be used to purchase provisions and medical supplies for the Chinese.

Why the Weather?

(By Major A. H. Thiesen
Science Service Meteorologist

Lightning set swimming!

Last June we asserted that no one was ever struck by lightning in the water. (We meant while actually swimming.) There is really no reason why a person could not be struck while swimming, but no case had been recorded as far as we knew. However, in the latter part of August a man was killed by a stroke of lightning and his wife stunned as they swam at Kitty Hawk, N.C.* There are probably other cases, but statistics merely give the number of cases and not the circumstances.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 29 (CP)—Pressure is high from the lower Mackenzie Valley southeastward across Ontario to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, thence eastward across the St. Lawrence Valley to Newfoundland with relatively low pressure over the western half of the United States with a disturbance of moderate intensity off the Nova Scotian coast. The weather has been mostly fair in Ontario and Quebec with heavy rain in the Maritime provinces. Light snow and rain have fallen in southern Alberta.

Lake Superior—Light to moderate; variable winds; partly cloudy and cool today and Thursday.

Manitoba—East to southeast winds; cloudy and cool tonight and Thursday; probably rain, chiefly in southern districts.

Saskatchewan — Southeast winds; cloudy and cool today and Thursday; some rain, chiefly in southern districts.

Alberta—Cloudy and cool today and Thursday with some snow and rain, chiefly in southern districts.

St. Michael's Parish Honors Silver Jubilee of Pastor and Building of First Stone Church

Basquet Graced by Presence of Archbishop O'Brien of Kingston

MANY ATTEND

Felicitations From All Organizations of Church Given Beloved Pastor

Complimenting St. Rev. J. P. Nicholson, V.G., on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, his congregation in the parish of St. Michael the Archangel held a banquet last evening in the spacious auditorium of St. Michael's Academy. Coincident with the jubilee was the commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the building of the first stone church and the 84th closest for the observance of both events was the feast of the titular saint of the parish.

Colorful fall flowers were used in the decoration of the tables of the hall, and of the long tables. Over 200 guests were present at the banquet, and the affair was one of the most interesting and successful in the history of the parish. Members of the congregation welcomed the opportunity to pay tribute to a pastor who has endeared himself to many, Mr. Aquilius Keller Mackay indicated the document would be read to the jury later today.

The alleged confession was claimed to have been obtained by police from young Labadie shortly after he was arrested March 13 and brought from Brigden to the Provincial Police office in Sarnia. The confession was allegedly made before Constable R. J. Whiting

Mysterious Sleep Ends In Death After Years

Abyss of Unconsciousness Unrevealed as Patricia Maguire Dies

SLEPT 5 1-2 HOURS

Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—The enigma of pretty Patricia Maguire's strange 5 1-2 year sleep was sealed today in death.

The 21-year-old suburban Oak Park stenographer died at a hospital here after a struggle which ended the abyss of unconsciousness, revealed by her baffling silence, lethargic encephalitis.

An autopsy affliction—pneumonia —was the immediate cause of death. Dr. Frederick Saltz, physician who Maguire was taken to the hospital for the removal of an abdominal tumor. Two blood transfusions failed to check the disease or shake her from the comatose condition.

World-Wide Interest

With her illness, she won world-wide interest, her family, including her mother, Mrs. Peter Maguire, who had watched for her day and night since she was stricken, Feb. 19, 1932.

Scores of telephone calls, one from a London newspaper during the past two days attested to the interest and curiosity which her seven years and months sleep excited among laymen.

Many eminent physicians studied the case but none of their deductions proved successful. In October, 1933, she showed signs of a potential reawakening when she endeavored to talk. She appeared to recognize her mother and at the latter's command, would wink, raise her hand and smile. But a relapse followed and seven years and two months later.

Miss Maguire's sleep was among the longest recorded in medical annals. One case was that of a 19-year-old Russian girl, Evdokiya Lopatkina, who fell asleep after an attack of typhoid fever and awakened seven years and two months later.

ALBURY FARMER HARVESTS 3000 BU. OF TOMATOES

Representing one of the best tomato crops in years, over one thousand bushels of the red vegetable have been harvested from the farm of E. R. Hubbs and Son, of Albury, and conveyed to canning factories, the favorable weather conditions and adaptability of the soil on which the crops were grown in the main, responsible for the record yield, it is stated.

CANNING SEASON DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Concluding one of the most successful seasons in a decade, canning factories of the district are beginning to close operations on the week ending of tomatoes. Tytzer Factory in Prince Edward County closed on Monday night, after a record pack, and employees showed their appreciation of the management with a presentation of a gift. This was returned by refreshments and ice cream and cake served to the employees by officials of the plant.

FEW CALLS YET FOR APPLE PICKERS

In spite of the fact that the current apple crop is reported to be one of the best in years there have been few calls at the local Employment office for help in harvesting the crop, Manager Lockhart of the city says, adding matters in their own hands and any of the orchards themselves in an effort to procure work.

SEVEN WOMEN BUY HUNTING LICENCES

With the opening of the official season for deer only a few days away hunters of the city and district are preparing for their favorite fall pastime.

Licences are being sold at a high rate, George Hall, issuer, stated today, but" he added, "they are not being sold to the youth of the city alone, but over the entire county of the district. Wallace Webber, who is well over eighty years of age, bought a licence the other day. He has hunted in nearly every country in the world, he claims, and has not failed to get his licence for a number of years. Also quite a few women are buying licences in numbers never recorded before, more than seven were sold to fair huntresses during the past week".

The official season for the district south of the dividing line which is Highway No. 7, opens on October 1st and continues until November 30.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE ON CITY STREETS

Two automobiles collided at the intersection of Queen street and Bleecker avenue yesterday afternoon when a car driven by Mrs. J. S. Wilson, Belleville, and proceeding west on Queen street, struck a south bound vehicle, driven by Mr. S. H. Forman, Ottawa, resulting in considerable damage to the latter vehicle. The accident was investigated by Constable Fred Beard, who reported that both front and rear left hand fenders of Rev. Foreman's car and the left hand front fender were damaged to the extent of some $40.00. Only minor damage resulted to the front of Mrs. Wilson's car. The extent of damages was amicably settled and no charges were recommended yesterday, although the matter is still in the hands of the constables.

LATE HARRY VEAU

Trenton, Sept. 29.—(Special)—Harry Veau was buried in Mount Calvary Cemetery on Monday, following services in St. Peter's Catholic Church. Rev. Father O'Neill sang Solemn Requiem Mass at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Veau died in his home on Bay Street on Saturday. He was born in Trenton in 1872 the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Veau, and lived in this place all his life. He was a member of the Father Cash Council. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Addie Veau and eight children, two daughters, Mrs. Ethel Marsh and Mrs. Ponce Gingras; four sons, John, Donald, Godfrey Baptiste, Harry and Robert, all of Trenton. Bearers were four sons of the deceased Reginald, Godfrey, Harry, and Robert and his two sons-in-law, Mr. Ernest Marsh and Mr. Ponce Gingras.

ELISABETH A. WILLOUGHBY

Many old friends in Belleville of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Willoughby will sincerely regret to learn of her death which occurred at Berkeley, California, on Monday, Sept. 27th. For some time she had been, mentally, her home in that city.

The late Miss Willoughby came to Belleville on Nov. 19th, 1908, to assume the position of assistant in the Ontario School for the Deaf and she most efficiently filled the position until the year 1926 when she retired. At School days she was popular and highly esteemed by the pupils and the members of the teaching staff, and in the city she was popular with many friends.

While a resident of Belleville she was a faithful member of St. Thomas' Church and took an active part in the work of the parish organizations.

Miss Willoughby came to this city from Colborne, Ontario, she was a sister of Mr. Dr. W. Willoughby of that town. Mr. Arthur Willoughby of Colborne is a nephew of the late Miss Willoughby. Interment will be made at Berkeley, California.

MRS. ANNE T. COPELAND (Toronto)

Miss Anne Thrasie Copeland, sister of the late James Copeland, died suddenly at her residence in this city, some years ago, passed away at the family residence, 40 Dewson Street, Toronto, on Monday, Sept. 27. Friends of the family in Belleville will regret to learn of her death.

Surviving her are two nephews, Mr. Allen Copeland and Mr. J. F. Copeland; two nieces, Miss Lavinia Copeland and Miss Anne Copeland all of Toronto.

The funeral will take place at Toronto on Thursday, September 30. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes at 9.30 a.m. Interment will be made in the family plot at Mount Hope Cemetery.

Millbrook Store Looted by Thieves

Overcoats And Suits Taken to the Value of $800

Posting an entrance through the outside door with a crowbar, thieves entered the store of Fowler and Reynolds, Millbrook, merchant's on Monday night and 'tore away with practically the entire fall stock of the establishment valued at $800.00.

The loot included 30 new fall overcoats, fine suits, four dozen shirts, the entire stock of windbreakers, approximately ten dozen pairs of socks, some ladies coats and, yeks, of cloth.

It was discovered that the thieves had broken into an adjoining hardware store and stolen the crowbar, and after failing to break into the safe part of that establishment turned their attention to the Fowler-Reynolds store.

The robbery was discovered at seven o'clock the next morning by George Fowler, senior member of the firm. Police are investigating.

Meetings Will be Held at Moira and Queen Alexandra Schools

Teachers of South Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox, Addington, Northumberland and Durham Counties Associations will converge on this city on Thursday, Oct. 7th when a joint meeting of the Associations will be held in the Collegiate Institute where an address of welcome will be given by His Worship Mayor H. D. Arnott, Principal F. C. Macaulay will extend greetings and an address will be delivered by Professor William Line of the Department of Education, Province of Toronto.

On Friday the teachers will gather at Wellington Consolidated School where Chairman R. D. Gerrow will welcome the convention to Wellington. Fred Rupert will deliver the presidential address. H. E. Stothers, I.P.S. for Prince Edward County will also address the meeting, reading a general discussion of the new course of public school study. The afternoon session will be held in the Sunday School Rooms of Wellington United Church.

Bancroft Woman Finds Monday Unlucky

Mrs. W. Bowers Injured by Car, Returns Home to Find House on Fire

When Mrs. William Bowers was returning to her home in Bancroft last Monday afternoon she was knocked down by an automobile said to be driven by Charles Rutledge and Lawrence Boubert to the office of Dr. S. S. Lumb she received treatment for her injuries and was sent by her home. Arriving there she discovered her house in flames and was taken to a neighbor's house where she is recovering.

The house apparently took fire about eight o'clock in the evening. A volunteer fire brigade soon extinguished the blaze, which broke out again two hours later. Considerable damage was done to the house by fire and water.

Paralysis Rate Drops in Ontario

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario today experienced a drop in the daily infantile paralysis reports but the disease appeared to advance in New Brunswick where school opening may be postponed a fourth time.

Cold nights are said by doctors to help in the elimination of the disease but Ontario has more than 2,000 cases have been treated since the epidemic started early this summer. Yesterday Toronto was the only point in the province recording new cases. Six new patients in Toronto raised the city's case list to 566.

LABADIE FRIENDLY

and A. F. Grant after another story of Labadie's actions at the Lockins' farms the previous afternoon had failed to stand up.

Constable Whiting testified the boy said he and John had been playing cowboys and Indians on the barn during the afternoon but he could not remember what happened.

The two officers left him in the office in their office for a time while they talked of other things. Finally, Whiting testified, Labadie asked, "How's John?"

The officers told him John was in a critical condition at the hospital. Constable Grant wrote down the first statement and read it to the youth. Labadie then admitted with tears in his eyes the story was "all bunk".

Labadie told them then he had bought a bottle of liquor in Burton the previous night. On his way home he drank about half of it and hid the rest at the base of a large tree on the line fence of the Lockins' farm.

Next afternoon, while he was alone at the farm, he drank the rest of the liquor. He told police, Whiting said, he got so drunk he could not work and put his horses in the stable. He then went into the cow stable.

There John found him when he came home from school, and said, "you're drunk and I am going to tell Dad."

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP)—Trial of William Labadie, 17-year-old farm hand, charged with the murder of John Lockins in Sarnia Township on March 13, continued here today with W. B. Scott, defence counsel, cross-examining Thomas Lockins, father of the murder of the dead boy.

Lockins said Labadie came to his father's farm about a year before the lad's death. He said he did not know of any trouble for employment but Labadie received wages. He said that "he was like his brother and mother" and Labadie were all good friends. He did not know of any trouble that between Labadie and members of the family.

After a recess James L. Campbell, grandfather of Labadie, was called. He said Labadie arrived at his home near Brigden about two a.m. on March 14. The Crown and defence officers had visited him at 7 p.m. and it was the previous night.

On his arrival Labadie, he said, was carrying a gun which he placed in a corner of the kitchen. The boy had complained that he was hungry and after eating went to bed. The next morning they arose and the grandfather did not hear he knew anything what had happened and that he was going to town until Sunday.

The next morning police arrested Labadie.

"Have you any reason to suspect he held a grudge against your family?" Mr. Scott inquired.

"No." Lockins replied.

"Was he ever addlebrained?"

"Yes, for his age."

"Was he boisterous?"

"We never missed anything."

Questioned about the trip rope produced in court yesterday, he said he was "pretty sure" it was the one from his father's barn.

"You being the first person to arrive at the spot, could you tell whether the boy had been dead before he was struck on the head with the axe?" Counsel Scott asked.

"If he had been hit blood would have been on his little hands and there wasn't any."

Your Honor, is that the boy must have been tussed before he struck him?" Scott asked.

"Yes, sir."

Lockins said that Labadie had told him that his mother resided in Detroit and his father lives in some place in Michigan.

"They were separated?"

"They were living together," witness answered.

Referring to Labadie having attended a Sarnia theatre the previous Saturday, Lockins said the accused left the farm about six o'clock in the evening. Witness said he was in bed when Labadie returned and he did not see him until the next morning.

Miss Alma I. George, teacher at S.S. No. 11, Sarnia Township, in which John Lockins was a pupil, said he was in the first grade. She said John left the school at 2.50 p.m. on March 12th.

Thomas Charles Lockins, father of the dead boy, said he had conversation with Labadie during the morning of March 12th, and the farm hand appeared normal. Witness said he went to Strathroy to attend a funeral and when he returned about 4.30 the next afternoon he was told by Fred Lambert, a neighbor, of the assault on his son. The father said he took the boy to the Sarnia General Hospital by ambulance. Provincial Police

Witness identified a shotgun produced in court Thursday.

Identifies Hammer

Lockins also identified a hammer as his property. He said he made the handle from a wood chopper. Shown a small axe, Lockins said, Lockins said it looked like one which he had given to John. He said it was usually kept in the kitchen cabinet.

When shown a cap, the father, tears welling in his eyes, said, "It didn't."

Mr. Lockins said that although Labadie came to live as a hired hand he was treated as a member of the family. He said relations between the accused and the family were pleasant.

Questioned by His Lordship as to the accused's intelligence, Mr. Lockins said he found him a good worker.

"He didn't know much about farming when he came, but he was learning," the witness said.

IL DUCE HONORS GREAT WAR DEAD

Stands With Hitler as German Display Military Strength

Berlin, Sept. 29—(CP)— Premier Mussolini honored Germany's Great War dead today and then reviewed a mammoth display of the third Reich's military strength.

Side by side on a reviewing stand at Chancellery polytechnical school, the Italian and his host, Chancellor Hitler watched 35 units of the German army on parade.

Fifteen thousand officers and men and 1,000 motorized units passed before them in a two-hour display. Mussolini went to the review after placing a six-foot wreath at the foot of Germany's monument to her war dead.

Thronga packed the way from the Wilhelm Platz, where Mussolini detrained to the polytechnical school's parade ground. Among them were countless numbers of those who last night traveled a driving rain to hear Hitler and Mussolini make a joint overture for a European security that would exclude "Bolshevism".

"We both believe in the will as the determining power in the life of peoples," Mussolini proclaimed. "We both glorify labor in its countless aspects as a sign of the nobility of man. We both build on youth which we train to discipline, courage, tenacity, love of the fatherland and contempt for the luxurious life...Europe of tomorrow will be Fascist, not through our propaganda but by the logical necessity of events."

APPEAL JUDGMENT

Toronto, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Gertrude McCumber and Byard McCumber have given notice at Osgoode Hall of an appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice E. B. E. Cherrier in their action against Dr. L. O. Bogart and the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The plaintiffs alleged in their suit that when the surgeon performed an operation on Gertrude McCumber in the hospital January 25, 1936, a sponge was left in the incision and it was not discovered until February 12.

Malone School History

Malone—Many teachers of Hastings County have been called to give the life history of the schools in which they are teaching. Miss Gertie Franklin of S. S. 4 has contributed to the history of the Malone School.

Situated in the Malone district began in a year that is remote from the earliest recollections of the oldest living scholar, to have attended school there. That individual readily admits having been in him that a few passengers got together and built a school which was the beginning of better things to come. Even its location cannot be ascertained now. Only the mere mention of its existence remains.

As far as can be conjectured the erection of a log school house took place about three quarters of a century ago. The building, facing south, took shape on the north side of the main road, and west of the house now owned by Miss Ellen Terrison. The land on which it stood was bought at that time for a small sum from the late Henry Derry.

Furniture in this old school was vastly different to what may be seen in a modern, rural school. The solitary desk was the teachers. The scholars were seated on long unvarnished benches.

There were no eager glances at the clock to divide the closing hour of study as the teacher's time piece regulated the periods devoted to reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling.

Scholars' equipment of that time would be considered meagre in these days. It consisted of a slate and pencil and sometimes the occasional book.

Difficulty was experienced by the compiler of this log in obtaining the names of various teachers who taught in this school of pioneer days but the following available names are submitted because of the interest they will doubtless occasion: W. H. Minchin, Miss Angie Osterhout (1877); Miss Celestia Bonter (1873) and Miss Annie Dolan (1873).

It was about the summer of 1875 that a new school was built about one mile northeast of the log school house on land purchased from the late Mr. Mizill for one dollar, plus the old school property. The dimensions of the new building were 30 feet by 24 feet. The construction was undertaken by a Mr. Wright of Elzevir, Originally it had more windows than at present. Some windows were later set up to improve the lighting system and to make room for more blackboards. Included in its present number of desks are twelve purchased in 1892 at $28.35. Here the school is lighted by five windows on the west side and one on the east. There is also a small window in the porch which faces the south. Fuel for the building is accommodated in a frame structure 12' X 17' which is situated in the northwest corner of the school grounds.

An interesting item in the account book runs as follows: Nine dollars are paid for six cords of wood in 1883.

A more complete list of teachers who have taught in the present school house is available and is appended herewith: Miss Annie Smith (1875) W. H. Minchin (1876) Miss Bridget O'Connel 1877-8) J. M. McPhail (1879-80) Miss L. M. Murray (1881) Mr. R. Hart (1884-5) probably in 1886-7 Thos. Lafferty (1888) M. Gallagher (1889) Miss Minnie Geary (1890) Miss Molly E. Hall (1891) Miss Mary O'Reilly (1892) C. Jones (1893) Miss Amelia Hait (1894) R. P. Macdonald and J. A. Smith (1895) W. H. Minchin (1876) Miss Bridget O'Connel 1877-8) J. M. McPhail (1879-80) Miss L. M. Murray (1881) Mr. R. Hart (1884-5) probably in 1886-7 Thos. Lafferty (1888) M. Gallagher (1889) Miss Minnie Geary (1890) Miss Molly E. Hall (1891) Miss Mary O'Reilly (1892) C. Jones (1893) Miss Amelia Hait (1894) R. P. Macdonald and J. A. Smith (1895) W. H. Minchin (1876) Miss Bridget O'Connel 1877-8) J. M. McPhail (1879-80) Miss L. M. Murray (1881) Mr. R. Hart (1884-5) probably in 1886-7 Thos. Lafferty (1888) M. Gallagher (1889) Miss Minnie Geary (1890) Miss Molly E. Hall (1891) Miss Mary O'Reilly (1892) C. Jones (1893) Miss Amelia Hait (1894) R. P. Macdonald and J. A. Smith (1895) Miss L. E. Hait (1899-10) Miss L. E. Hait (1909) E. Bailey (1911) Miss Marcella Fry (1912) Miss Della Empey (1913) Miss Ruth Empey and F. Reid (1914) Miss Mildred Fry (1915) F. J. Nickle and Miss M. Sheoch (1915) Miss I. Easton (1916) Miss D. Empey (1917) Miss A. J. Nickle and L. E. Hartis (1918) L. E. Hartis and Miss Jennie Devolin (1919) Miss Jennie Devolin and Miss Sarah Calabrese (1920) Miss Clara Hamilton, Marguerite Coulter and E. Nicholson (1921) Miss Marguerite Coulter, Mrs. Anna Bouchard (1923) Mrs. Anna Bouchard and Miss Mildred Gawley (1924) Misses Mildred Gawley and Greg. Blakely (1925) Misses Greg. Blakely and Marguerite Finnegan (1926) Miss Marguerite Finnegan and Miss Mildred Gawley (1927) Misses Marguerite Finnegan and W. Adamson (1928) Misses W. Adamson and Margaret White (1930) Miss Margaret White (1931-32) Misses Margaret Gerrow and Gertrude Franklin (1933) Gertrude Franklin (1934) . . .

A few moments on some of the teachers might not be out of place here. It is recalled of Miss Annie Smith, the first teacher in the new school that on its opening day she paraded the children two by two around the room from the old building to the new one.

W. H. Minchin who was related to the Lapum family added the experience of teaching in both schools with an interval between. He also taught at Wiley's school and was the holder of several public offices.

Miss L. M. Murray was a sister of James and John Murray who still reside in Marmora Township and vicinity.

T. P. Hart who taught there several years was married to a sister of Dr. Neil Weir who is also practitioner for many years in Marmora.

The late Mrs. James Sheridan was formerly Miss Annie Farrell whose name appears on the list of teachers. She also taught at Shanick.

Reminiscences of those early days given by the octogenarians of today whose memories are good include references to salaries and the boarding of the teachers of those by gone days. Thus we learn that the teacher's salary was about $200 in 1900 and 1901, each ratepayer boarded the teacher for a period of one or two weeks according to the amount of his taxes paid.

W. D. Nickle has been holding the position of Secretary of S S No. 4 Malone since 1906. Included among his predecessors are these names. Ed. Nihill, Wm. Broadworth, John Terrion, Sr., Daniel Nihl and Barney Derry.

Names obtainable of those serving as trustees throughout the course of the years are as follows: Ed. Nihill, Wm. Broadworth, John Murray, Sr., Thos. Derry, Daniel Thompson, George Richardson, W. J. Derry, James Terrion, W. H. Derry, Vincent Terrion, Harry Nickle and Charles Kelly. The present trustees are: John Latour, Walter Gawley and Harry Wessel.

The inspectorate in which the school is situated was under the direction of Inspector MacIntosh for many years, following him was Mr. Mimm. The present holder of the office is Mr. A. W. Mackenzie of Tweed who has been inspector for about fifteen years.

Among former pupils who have taken up professional are: Joe Murray (Dr. in Ottawa) Patrick Terrion (teacher in by retired and living in the west) Edith R. Nickle (nurse) A. J. Nickle (teacher) W. L. Terrion (Priest) and F. J. Nickle (doctor.)

Tweed and District

Tweed—'Smokey' Smith, Tweed's gift to amateur baseball, pitched Toronto G. and W. victory over the London Silverwoods in the Senior O.B.A.A. semi-finals a few days ago and two days later relieved his team-mate in the box in the 9th inning to score a second win and enter his team in the finals. He struck out two men and forced the other to pop out weakly.

Glen Spry Jones, proprietor of the hotel all Tweed, is the pitching man of the Chicago Black Hawks who left a few days ago for their training season at Hibbing, Mich., on Oct. 1st.

Mrs. F. C. Bowers of Sulphide who will shortly take up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) A. D. Waite, Desoronto, has been elected a member of the Women's Auxiliary which met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Curtet. An address was read by Mrs. H. J. Cordy, who, on behalf of the Auxiliary, presented Mrs. Bowers with a beautiful cameo clip as an expression of her services. Mrs. Bowers expressed her appreciation to her friends for their thoughtful gift.

Rally Sunday was observed at Tweed United Church Sunday addresses were given by the Superintendent, Mr. W. S. Jordan, Rev. Nicholson, Mrs. S. G. Way and Miss Margaret Moffat.

Miss Gail Ketchum was given a pre-nuptial shower on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Myra Moffat, October bride-to-be, who received a number of beautiful gifts during the evening. The gifts were placed in a child's automobile which was brought into the drawing-room by little Barbara, Ann Ketcheson who presented the gifts to Miss Moffat. Each gift was accompanied by good wishes and friendly advice in rhyme. After the bride-elect had opened the gifts and thanked her friends, the evening was spent in playing bridge and monopoly. A dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served by the hostess.

Miss Margaret Hindle of Simcoe spent a few days as guest of Miss Cara Moffat.

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston of Toronto spent the week-end with his brother, Mr. John W. and Mrs. Kingston. Mr. Kingston is a poet and song writer of ability. Here is one of his hymns, especially of a patriotic nature, been written on special occasions in various churches throughout the province.

The September meeting of Hungerford Township Council was held on Monday in the Township Hall. Members present were: Reeve Jordan, Deputy-Reeve Chas. Shaw and Councillors Genore and Tufts. Mr. S. McCrea interviewed the Council with a view to having the county crusher placed in his district for crushing of stone for the roads. The council advised Mr. McCrea that they would consider his request.

The various tax rates were fixed for the year. County rate is 9 mills, a reduction of 1 1-2 mills; Township rate 8 mills. The township subsidy reduces the tax rate another mill.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

J. L. Newton, sheep killed by dogs $28.00; E. Tuffs, sheep killed, $16.00; Felix O'Coin, sheep killed, $8.00; Jay Larkins, pay list, $638.36; Dr. Hopkins, vet. job, $42.00; Inc. Miss Doris Elliott of Smith's Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, graduated from Chambers' Memorial Hospital at Smith's Falls recently. She has entered the staff of the hospital.

Rev. Mr. Nicholson delivered a special address at the morning service in the Uniting Church on Sunday, his topic being the subject "Ye Are the Light of the World." His address was based by a large number of members of the Sowerby School. Mr. Reg. Wilson sang "My Task."

A Hungerford Township resident who, a few years ago, lost his wife, but was wisely, but too well, in celebration of Tweed Fall Fair, Friday last, entered the Star Cafe, it is alleged, in a quarrelsome mood. He became abusive. It is said, threatened the Chinese proprietor of the Cafe. During the disturbance the president of the township was struck on the head of the head, allegedly by a bottle in the hands of the proprietor of the Cafe. Medical attendance was necessary and several stitches were required to close the cut. The matter is being investigated by the police.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Poisons from this decaying food are absorbed into the blood. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

All you need are those good, old-fashioned Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely to make you feel like skipping and singing. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists.

A NEW JOB FOR RADIO

How many cattle owners in this section are using radio in their barns at the time of milking?

This inquiry is not aimless. Actually milking in the barns to the strains of music from wireless waves is practised. The United States Department of Agriculture advises the turning on of radio at the time the cows are milked.

Results are said to be more contented cows. Music, experts say, has power to make more gentle horses and more happy chickens.

Lights have been used in barns for keeping the winter days for fowl. Now comes radio to soothe the mentality of animals in the milking time.

There is something in the quality of music. The "hot-cha" stuff does not soothe but actually does harm to the equanimity of cattle and horses. One must not arouse the passions of a cow by a music which irritates. "The animals do not like tinpanny music any better than most humans," says T. E. Woodward of the dairy school of the Department.

FROM THE PYRAMIDS

Advertising space is to be let on the pyramids. This news from the Egyptian Ministry of the Interior prompts the New York Times writer to remark "so that forty centuries can look down from a cigarette sign, no doubt. The next step will be to fit radio connections to the gleaming statues of Memnon and teach them to croon jazz for a facial cream. And after that, Rameses can kick the dashboard off his sarcophagus."

This does cheapen the purpose of the pyramids, which were the royal tombs of ancient Egypt. Respect for the great progenitors of the Egyptians would seem to prompt no such action.

Surely tourists do not require such an appeal.

BRITAIN AND ARMAMENT

The ultimate truth of human nature is governed by three laws—those of power, pleasure and pride, declared the Rev. John R. Mackenzie, Professor of Principles Theological Seminary in his sermon at the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, New York. "Man seems to give himself the inevitable claim that he is a good man as if nothing evil can happen. Yet it is seldom heard of a man deliberately accusing himself of going out to do wrong." Dr. Kuizenga said that the gospel can reform a bad man into a good one and can make a good man a saint.

Great Britain, with her armament program is not preparing for another war but is merely protecting herself against attack, said Dr. Roelif H. Brooks at St. Thomas's Church. "England disarmed during the first part of this decade but Germany, Italy, France and Russia embarked upon a great armament program. When sanctions were raised against Italy in the Ethiopian War, England had to back down because she was not able to follow through to the end. As a result of this Ethiopia was ravished. "Today things are different and England is prepared," he said.

The spiritual results of the work of martyrs are not to be measured by human yardsticks, Rev. Father Hammer stated at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. "As the church looks abroad today and sees persecution and the death of martyrs, the church is optimistic, because where martyrs die, the church lives as the blood of the martyrs makes up the seeds of Christianity. There always must be martyrs in the church." Father Hammer hailed as the modern martyrs the men and women who were godly and whose hearts were filled with golden charity.

"What we need today is more uncanonized saints like you and me, to carry out the objectives of Jesus and act for the greater glory of God." Father Hammer recounted the stories of Fathers Isaac Jogues and de Brebeuf, Jesuit martyrs of Colonial days. The immediate results of their sacrifices were not equal to their sufferings, but the spiritual results cannot be measured by ordinary human standards."

Atrocities in modern warfare by supposed civilized people surpass those of the Assyrian conquerors centuries before Christ, Rev. Dr. Bonnell declared at Fifth Avenue Presbytrian Church. He called on every church in Christendom to protest the modern massacres of the innocents that is going on in China. "We have the modern boast of material achievement and saying to each other 'Behold the great Babylon we have builded up.'

"Today we realize that our mechanical advances have far outstripped the moral and spiritual. Today man is as Professor Julian Huxley has presented him, an irresponsible mischievous child who has been presented with a set of machine tools, a box of matches and a supply of dynamite. Enormous energies have been put into our hands and only a new found spiritual mastery for their use can save the world from destruction." Dr. Bonnell called on the clergy to strive to recapture the vision of the prophets of Israel whose function was to be spokesmen for God. Then only will the note of the trumpet challenging and defiant be heard in the churches of the land.

ROAD CALL

Anew and never ending
The gleaming roadways run,
From the silver rim of the morning
To the gold of the setting sun.
They may draw close together
Or lead forever apace,
But one and all they beckon
To every dreamer's heart.

It matters not for a moment
How perilous they may be,
And although countless rovers
Have never returned from the sea,
Though wings as yet too fragile
May melt a-grain in the sun,
A dreamer will take a road call
Till the uttermost track is won.

Then we must rise and follow
The roads that haunt the heart,
And whether they bring us together
Or lead us forever apart,
One heart will call to the other
Across this starlit span,
For you and I have been dreamers
Since ever the world began.

—K. A. MacKinnon.

"NO GENTLEMAN GOES TO A LADY'S HOUSE if he is affected by alcohol. A gentleman seeing a young man who is not entirely himself in the presence of ladies quietly induces the youth to depart. An older man addicted to the use of too much alcohol need not be discussed since he inevitably ceases to be asked to the homes of people of distinction." Emily Post, arbiter of etiquette, laid down that alcoholic rule in her first book "Etiquette" published fifteen years ago, and she saw no reason to change it for her revised volume just published, though drinking habits have changed materially inside and outside the home.

A FOUR-ROOM TRAILER FOR THE FLOOD DISTRICTS, a home which can be whisked away quickly when flood waters threaten, was shown at the first New York city all-trailer show recently. Appropriately called the "Rollaway Home" 150 of these vehicles have been sold to residents of the Ohio Valley where floods are regular visitors. Twenty-two feet long, seven feet six inches wide, and weighing 3,000 pounds, covered with composition shingles designed in the style of bricks, a gabled roof and small chimney lend the appearance of a small one-story house. It is mounted on four rubber-tired wheels. The living room is 7 1-2 x 10 feet, bedroom 7 1-2 x 7, kitchen 7 1-2 x 6. The bedroom is closet size and has a shower.

TWO LIBERAL CANDIDATES MAY RUN IN PORT ARTHUR CONSTITUENCY, on account of a mixup there, resulting in half the delegates to the Liberal convention walking out of the hall. Hon. C. W. Cox, member of the Hepburn cabinet without portfolio, is campaigning for the seat, but Arthur B. Conmee, President of the Port Arthur Liberal Association, states that he will run in order, he says, "to give people a chance to cast a good Liberal vote." Arthur Conmee is a son of "Jim" Conmee, once political king of the north shore, also mining magnate of the early days, and one-time member of the provincial legislature representing a constituency as large as all outdoors and reaching from Lake Superior to Hudson Bay, with an expanse east and west, including most of the territory between Ottawa and Winnipeg. Those were the days of magnificent distances.

Little Benny's Note Book

Sunday afternoon I said to ma, May ma, can I go around to Cousin Ardies and stay overnight and Mr. Issabel asks me?

Ask your father, ma said, and I said, Can I, pop?

Not in them shoes you cant, pop said. At least not in those shoes in their present condition. Go and shine those shoes and then come back and present your request and your mother and I will take the matter under advisement, he said, and I said, Well O, pop, appealing Arthe's shoes are even fearser looking than mine, what then?

Then I guess you will have glimpsed a goal to wich even you could not aspire, pop said.

Meaning such a thing was practically impossable, and I said, Well anyways, pop, O wimnickers, maybe Ant Issabel will have company or something on account of Sunday, so maybe she wont want me to stay for supper, and if Thats a case maybe I better not even go around there because maybe I'll only be in the way, maybe.

Now thats a thought that does you credit, pop said. Consideration for others is a shining jewel in children, did you hear that, mainer? he said, and ma said, I could have told him that.

And if I went around there and wasn't invited to stay for supper I'd just be shining my shoes for a waist of time, I said.

The cruel irony pop made me go and shine them just for a good example to himself, so I went around to Arthe's anyways so as not to waist the shine and Ant Issabel invited me to stay for supper.

Wich I did.

FRED S. DEACON SPECIAL SPEAKER

Addresses Kiwanis Club on "Trend of Education"

"In the years to come more time will be devoted to vocational training than academic studies," Fred S. Deacon, member of the Board of Education predicted at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club when he spoke on the "Trend of Education". A large number of the members were present with Eddie Logan in the president's chair and Jack Mitchell as Sergeant-at-arms. A royal welcome was extended to P. C. MacLaurin, principal of Belleville Collegiate and a past president of the Kiwanis Club on his elevation to the Lieutenant-Governorship of District No. 4 of the Quebec Maritime Ontario division. This is the first time that the local club has been so honored and the thanks of the club was extended to the Lieutenant-Governor P. C. MacLaurin in a few well chosen words thank the club for the honor conferred and expressed his appreciation for the wonderful co-operation shown by the delegates at the convention.

New Members Introduced

Two new members, Fred Whyte and Bruce Latimer were introduced to the club, Fred Whyte by Harold Seldon and Bruce Latimer by George Griffin. Both boys were welcomed in true Kiwanis fashion and Bruce Latimer especially as his father, the late William Latimer was a former president of the local club and a man held in high esteem by the members. P. C. MacLaurin was called upon to instruct the new members and congratulated them on the outlook they had in joining with a club that was serving youth and that the Club would do as much for them as they did for the club. The speaker stated that Friendship was one of the primary factors of the organization. Eddie Logan then presented buttons to the members and a roll call was taken of the members so that the members might know their colleagues.

Chairmen Appointed

Chairmen for the various committee for the Kiwanis Club were named by the President with Joe Imlah as general chairman, who has called a meeting for tonight at his office on Campbell Street. The speaker of the day was introduced by Jr. B. Collins K.C., and Mr. Deacon, who is a member of the Kiwanis Club was welcomed back at the meeting after being on leave of absence, due to pressure of business, stated that education in his time was a dull affair and there was little incentive for a person to go to school, but that the masters of that day left their imprints on the minds of the pupils. The speaker told of how his interest in education was aroused after living in New York for some years and his efforts on behalf of education, when he returned to his native city. "In thirty years the growth in education in this city has been 300 per cent.", said the speaker.

Turned Down Proposal

Mr. Deacon told of the time in this city, when the ratepayers turned down a proposal to build two schools at a cost of $20,000 each simply because they were not interested in education but they were soon compelled to institute public instruction and then there was no place to put the children and finally the four fine public schools in the city were completed. He told of the struggle in secondary school education and the building of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, one half of the cost of the school and equipment being borne by the Province. "At the present time there are 950 students in the day classes and education was costing the city in the public schools at the rate of 50 cents per week per pupil and in the Collegiate Institute $1.40 per week per pupil and that Belleville was spending at the rate of $131,500 per year for education of 22 per cent. of the taxes collected. The speaker believed there would come relief from the heavy taxation from the Provincial government in the near future as governments saw the need of education." The thanks of the club was expressed by George Lee.

JURY'S VERDICT ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Richard Clare Struck by U. S. Car Near Deseronto on Aug. 27

Massive pulmonary embolism of the lower right pulmonary artery supplying the lower lobe of the right lung, was the cause of death given by Dr. S. R. McCreary at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of Richard Clare and held before Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson at the police court last evening. At the conclusion of the evidence submitted the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of "death as the result of personal injuries received when accidentally struck by a motor car driven by Samuel Hazelton, New Cumberland, Pa."

Mr. Clare died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sept. 21st. after sustaining a compound commuted fracture of the left arm and general shock on Aug. 27th ult., while struck by Mr. Randolph's car, out of Deseronto during a heavy fog. Dr. McCreary testified of his discovery of the cause of death following a post mortem, that had been ordered during the preliminary investigation by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C. Dr. W. C. Morgan also testified, stating he had attended the injured man from the time he was admitted to the hospital, at which time the witness said the man's injuries did not appear to be critical, but that the "massive pulmonary embolism" could not be determined from the appearance of the injuries received.

No Trace of Relatives

Sergeant Arthur Harman stated he had endeavoured to ascertain the whereabouts of Mrs. Marion Keegan, who was reported to be a daughter of the deceased and residing in St. Catharines. No information as to such a person was available from St. Catharines, stated the witness.

"During my conversations with the deceased he told me his name was Richard Clare and he received his mail at 2 Bond Street, Toronto. He also said he was a laborer without a home," stated Dr. Morgan. Chief Constable A. R. Herrington, who investigated the accident on Aug. 27th, stated that Mr. Randolph, the driver of the car to strike the deceased, had co-operated in every manner towards assistance after the accident. "Mr. Randolph drove the injured man to the hospital after he received first aid from Dr. Blackwell. There was a heavy fog that morning," stated Chief Herrington. After the jury rendered the verdict of "accidental death," Chief Coroner Robertson ordered the body of the deceased buried in the potters field as no relatives were in evidence. The investigation was conducted by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan.

The coroner's jury summoned by Sergeant Arthur Harman was composed of R. H. Ketcheson, foreman, Chas. Cochrane, L. F. Green, Hope McClinnis, Fred Gauthier, Don Jefferies, Harry Abbott and Clifford Rowle.

St. Michael's Parish Honors Silver Jubilee of Pastor and Building of First Stone Church

As the guests assembled, and during the serving of the delightful banquet, by young ladies of St. Michael's, orchestral music was played throughout the evening under the enthusiastic direction of Mr. Harold Barrett was a complimentary part of the evening's entertainment. The musical program also included vocal solos by Misses, Harold Davidson, Jack Pahey, Edward Brown and Bernard Doherty, with Mrs. Alonzo Grant and Mrs. Harold Barrett acting as accompanists.

Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., presided at the luncheon and in opening the evening's program expressed his pleasure at being present at such a fine gathering, graced by Archbishop Spratt, to do honor to the revered and beloved pastor, Monsignor Hickson, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination. The chairman then called upon Archbishop O'Brien to offer prayer for His Holiness Pope Pius, after which the gathering drank a toast to the King and sang the National Anthem.

As the occasion marked an anniversary in the life of the church in Belleville as well as the jubilee of the pastor, a comprehensive history of the establishment and growth of the church in diocese and consummation was given by Mr. A. B. Collins, K.C. Preceding the historical sketch, the speaker paid his respects to the beloved and zealous Archbishop who honored the congregation by his presence last evening, and by himself, only last week commemorated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the episcopacy.

History of Parish

"The history of the Parish of St. Michael and the Archangel," the speaker said, dates back to those pioneer days at the beginning of the nineteenth century, when the district of Quebec having been the final battle ground between the French and the Reverend Alexander MacDonnell, Bishop-designate of Upper Canada, Canadian church history and Pastor at St. Raphaels, was nominated to the Bishopric of Upper Canada. The district, Thus St. Raphaels became the first Episcopal See in the new Province and the second established in all Canada, the adjacent See at Quebec to Father MacDonnell must be given credit for the settlement in Glengarry of the Scots, who after the 1804 of the members of the famous Scottish Regiments, Fraser's and Glengarry Fencibles—disbanded in Scotland and Ireland, in Canada Upper Canada boasted of but two Priests, Father MacDonnell, and his colleague Father Roussel, the scattered Christian Settlers and Indians in the Province of Quebec.

On the 27th day of January, 1826, the Diocese of Kingston was created by Pope Leo XII and Kingston was named the See.

College at Assumption

With the creation of the Diocese came the establishment of the college of Iona, at St. Raphaels, the first College of Higher Learning in Ontario. The demand for more clergy was pressing and the saintly Bishop MacDonnell set about to secure Seminarians, and have them prepared for the ardous and rugged life of the Priesthood.

Among the first to be obtained by His Lordship Bishop MacDonnell, was a young man, who was immediately appointed on November 18th, 1826, to Priest at Belleville a name which had recently been given to the rapidly growing village, which was within the jurisdiction over all the adjacent Townships. The saintly Bishop and Parish of St. Michael the Archangel which he founded Michael Brennan its first Pastor.

At Belleville Father Brennan found a small band of Catholics gathered with a few settlers scattered in the surrounding Townships, amongst the wilderness of the Midland district. The life of the Parish Priest was a strenuous one. Journeys from settlement to settlement were made on foot or at best by canoe, and days would be required to make distances which now with modern modes of transport can be accomplished in a matter of minutes or at most in a few hours. As the district became more settled trails and paths were blazed through the forest and there are still a few of the older residents of this Parish, who recall with pride improvement of conditions to such an extent that the Pastor, Father Brennan was able to cross country from one commission to another in his extensive Parish with horse and saddle.

First Church in 1839

On arrival in Belleville Father Brennan immediately made plans for the building of the House of God and laying the site of 1829 had erected upon the south east corner of the site of our present beautiful edifice a log church 40 by 30 feet. Immediately to the south the rectory, a frame building which many of you will remember—and which was demolished within the last few years—was constructed. At the same time the Cemetery was adjacent to the Church.

In the scattered settlements of the District as often as it was possible for the Priest to reach them the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass would be celebrated in the humble home of a parishioner, and later all many of these stations churches were erected, most of which have since been replaced by magnificent overcome with grief rendered the cathedral but continued to reside among his sympathizing parishioners and friends in the City of Belleville until his death on July 8th, 1906. His remains rest in St. James Cemetery.

When the Church burned there was little insurance and it looked as though financial difficulties might delay its reconstruction. However, His Lordship Bishop Gauthier immediately selected the Reverend Denis Jeremiah Lynch, a man who had demonstrated remarkable executive and administrative ability, and placed in charge as priest at Tweed, to the vacant Pastorate of St. Michael's. At the appointment was made on January 22, 1906 and he set about at once to make plans for the restoration of the Church and in October of that same year the cornerstone was laid, elaborate than his predecessor, was blessed by Archbishop Gauthier, who content with the marvellous achievement Father Twomey saw the need for a new Presbytery and consolidated school and he erected St. Michael's School staffed by the Sisters of Providence on the site of this beautiful academy in which we are privileged to meet tonight.

Out Down In Prime

Father Twomey, an indefatigable workers, was cut down in the prime of life, passing away at the age of ward on January 32, 1909. He remains and under the tower of the beautiful edifice which stands as a monument to his memory.

In passing, this historical brief would be incomplete without an expression of the deep appreciation of the pastor and congregation to the citizens of Belleville for their many generous offers of assistance and co-operation for holding worship during those months in which the Church was under construction. For the Mass was celebrated in the auditorium of the City Hall and a little later the Carman Opera House was graciously offered by the congregation for Sunday services.

The fourth pastor of St. Michael's was Rev. Father W. J. Spratt, who was appointed in 1909, and whose pastorate was cut short when in 1915 he was elevated and became Archbishop of Kingston. He is still remembered and remembered for his saintly virtues and zeal.

Succeeding Archbishop Spratt as fifth pastor of St. Michael's, was Monsignor T. J. Walsh, whose very successful pastorate ended with his death on June 7th, 1936. He left many more outstanding temporal achievements were the laying out of St. Michael cemetery, the purchase of the Bay of Quinte, the re-decoration of the Church interior and the rebuilding of St. Michael's Academy, which was destroyed by fire January 1st, 1931. His memory lary life and his many virtues of heart and head will be long remembered for his saintly virtues and zeal.

Appointed in 1936

This brings me to the second but none the less important part of this Toast—for it was on the 7th day of the month of June of the year 1936.

His Grace Archbishop O'Brien was pleased to appoint as the sixth pastor of the Parish of Sacred Heart and Monsignor, present respected and beloved pastor, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Michael Hickson, our great Monsignor Hickson. Born of exemplary Christian parents in the City of Belleville, our honoured guest, having there received his early elementary education and his preparatory course entered the Grand Seminary at Montreal, P.Q., where he completed all his studies there he was the recipient of the Holy Order of Priesthood by Archbishop Sprait on July 18, 1915.

There was a shortage of priests in the Archdiocese at the time and Monsignor Hickson upon the Cathedral in Kingston he was sent by Archbishop Gauthier to Frankford where after a short sojourn in 1914 became assistant pastor at Prescott, where he was associated with the late Rt. Rev. Monsignor Masterson, P.P., of Prescott, and shortly after went Overseas as Chaplain in the 38th Ottawa Regiment, returning in the 1th front he was attached to the Eighth Brigade, Canadian Mounted Rifles, and was wounded and gassed at the Battle of Amiens for gallant conduct in the field. Again he was wounded under heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

Principal at Regiopolis

Shortly after his return in 1919 he was appointed to the principalship of Regiopolis College where for eleven years he carried on most successfully and many were led to take up the sacred calling.

In 1928 Archbishop Sprait appointed him to the post of Vicar-General of the Archdiocese and later His Grace Archbishop O'Brien, after his appointment to this Archdiocese, conferred upon him the same honour.

When it became necessary to fill a vacancy in this parish, the message that our honoured guest had been appointed as our parish priest was received with mingled sorrow ordinary rejoicing. His appointment here dates from September 8, 1930.

During his term of short years here his achievements have been many. May I refer to just a few.

1.—The beautification of the lawns and grounds about the Church and School, which completely transformed the appearance of those beautiful buildings.

2.—The Church has been redecorated and restored to their original artistic beauty.

3.—An modern lighting system has been installed in our edifice.

4.—But probably his crowning work has been the development of St. Michael's Academy until it now comprises all grades from the Kindergarten to the completion of Upper School under the able direction of the diocesan community of

DISLOCATED ELBOW LED TO NEURITIS

Could Not Straighten Her Arm

Four months ago, this woman dislocated her left elbow. Although the silver was replaced and set, she developed neuritis and could not straighten her arm. Then she ordered to take Kruschen—with the happy result described in this letter:

"I had an accident four months ago, and my elbow was seriously dislocated. Fortunately, it was set by the doctor, but, as time went on, I found I could not straighten the arm to its full extent. My friend and the surgeon told me I was inclined to be rheumatic. I was ordered to take Kruschen Salts one teaspoonful in a glass of hot water on waking. Now I am getting along famously. The pain in my elbow is better, daily, and I am able to extend the arm more easily."—(Mrs.) P.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. The two ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. The ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Most Devoted to Parish

No one could be more devoted to the welfare of the youth and the parish than Monsignor Hickson. In fact, I think I can truthfully say that his every thought has been the apple of his eye for which he has cheerfully spent himself and his substance, without expense in caring for the temporal and spiritual welfare of the children.

Greeted By Ovation.

An ovation greeted Monsignor Nickolson as he rose to reply to the toast in his honor.

"At the outset I might say that a man has attained to the full in the heart of stone to be insensible to the kindness manifested here this day witnessed here this evening," he said. sure you that my measure of happiness is full to overflowing and running over, and that the cup of joy overflows. I am deeply appreciative tonight of our beloved Archbishop, who has honored me with his presence banquet is but another of the many acts of consideration and paternal affection for which he has shown me beyond my desserts, and I beg His Grace to accept my sincere thanks for my name and that of the people of the parish.

"I desire to express my gratitude to those in charge of the wonderful banquet, to those who served us, and to the young ladies who served us so graciously.

"I am not so presumptuous as to ascribe to myself the responsibility for which I have listened. I realize that they spring from the fine bloom of faith that has ever characterized the people of this parish and are directed to the office which I have held and have the privilege to hold among you.

"The past has been evoked and a vista of memories spread before our eyes. The history of the parish during this jubilee has been merged with the history of the Diocese and of the building of the first stone church in 1839 through the years to the present sacred emotions of the human heart is the impulse to pay grateful homage to the memory of those who have planted in the fabric of one's being the seeds of faith. Through them this sentiment is sanctified by religion it acquires a tenfold greater glory.

Memories Recalled.

"Tonight memories have been recalled; we have looked down the years and have seen the names of those in connection with the parish. I would like to refer briefly to some of our own intimate and personal relations during the years of my own Jubilee anniversary, I go further, and I would say that it has a significance for the whole of our existance to the cross that shines on the Church.

"For one hundred years the highest ideals of faith and morals have been enunciated here. Is there not of concern to public good? For one hundred years the faith and morals taught here obedience to the dogmas and principles of the Church has taught the duty of citizens to civil government, the sanctity of home; the unity and indissolubility of the marriage tie, for it is on the foundations of the family that the state rests. This centenary is of importance to public weal, for it has rendered clear the voice of the priest has been raised in season and out of season to duties to God, to neighbours and to self. In this sacred sanctuary, in confessional, preaching, when nations are standing on the brink there has emanated from the Michael's Church throughout the world, to be engraved in the hearts and minds of its peoples, their duties to civil law, to their neighbours and to the community."

Monsignor Hickson thanked those present at the banquet for their very tangible symbol of the loyalty and love always manifest to its spiritual leaders.

People Very Kind.

"I assure Your Grace," he continued, "that the parishioners have been most kind and good by me; whatever has been accomplished has been done with the co-operation of the people."

His Grace, Archbishop O'Brien, in addressing the congregation paid he was pleased to participate in this fitting gathering in paying a tribute of affection and gratitude to Monsignor Nicholson. Eight years ago when Monsignor and Father Lenz came to New York to welcome him to Canada and to the See of Kingston on his return from Rome, a friendship began which has grown steadily.

"Monsignor Hickson," the Archbishop continued, "has been as loyal to me as to Archbishop Spratt who had shown his confidence and good feeling by naming Monsignor Vicar General. I was glad to do the same and my confidence was not misplaced in the last eight years.

The speaker referred to Mr. Collins' beautiful portrayal of the history of the parish always known for its loyalty to faith, a devotion demonstrated by the building, after severe loss, of the present church, its magnificent edifice. Father Killeen whose far seeing eye was responsible for the erection of the school could hardly have anticipated the growth of the parish particularly in educational matters.

Monsignor Nicholson had started a high school in St. Michael's Academy which means that religion took a hand-in-hand with secular education. This was the only type of education known prior to the American system introduced at the end of the 19th century. Unfortunately Ontario chose to imitate the United States in educational matters rather than the British Isles. Even today in Separate and denominational schools are the accepted and preferred schools.

His Grace then praised the Sisters of Providence who staffed St. Michael's with highest education, al equipment they were well qualified to give excellent training from kindergarten to university entrance, all available in one building. He urged the people to cooperate with the instructors to the fullest degree.

Grateful For Help

In conclusion, His Grace expressed his gratitude to Monsignor for his help during the past eight years. The parish had flourished in his understanding, foresight and generous interpretation of the needs of the parish, well disposed and grateful people, which existed between Archbishop Spratt and the Administrator, had continued during this Archbishop's short period of office to term.

Mr. Charles Dolan, chairman of the Separate School Board assumed the role of chairman at this point, and during the evening entertained the program with announcements of the jubilee festivities to Monsignor Hickson on his anniversary. Each spoke of the kindly interest shown by the pastor in their enterprises. Robert Bonter, president of the Holy Name greetings of the Knights of Columbus and other organizations of the most active chapalin the local council had and one to whom the congregation owes a debt of gratitude.

Mr. Allan Meagher, representing the Holy Name Society in the unavoidable absence of the president Mr. Charles Doran, who had been most active in making the banquet a success, read the address to the priest and friend shown by Monsignor Hickson's many friends in the parishioners and members of the congregation were happy to cooperate with him in his every way. The speaker read a poem written by Miss Mary Ann Lynch in addition to tribute to Monsignor.

Mrs. Thomas Hayes, president of the Catholic Women's League, expressed the hope that he would celebrate his fiftieth anniversary and that all would be present to celebrate it. Mr. Jack Pahey for Mr. Nolan, president of the Children of Mary, read the address, greetings of the Sodality said it was their wish that his next twenty five years would be as full of blessings and good works as the past twenty five; they prayed that he might have, and they could not wish him more.

Felicitations Extended

Mrs. F. S. Anderson, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary Society, the oldest organization in the parish brought greetings of those closely associated with Monsignor in that great work of charity and benevolence to the needy, and the welfare of children. The society was unable will be present on all occasions when charity called and trusted that the happy association would continue for many years to come.

Miss Helena Lynch, secretary of the League of the Sacred Hearts, expressed the gratitude and good wishes of this society to which the pastor was so devoted and which he had honored by presiding at their special duties during the First Sunday of each month.

The youngest speaker, Miss Shirley Flynn, representing the Sodality of the Holy Name. The heart of each member rejoiced on this occasion and the congratulations that he would live on in the years to come until the very farthest limit of life, and referred to Monsignor Hickson's Mary Margaret McVey representing the Altar Society of the church extended to Monsignor heartfelt greetings on this occasion, and thanked him on the kindness and assistance given in all its activities.

Following the address Mr. Dolan spoke in high terms of the goodwill which existed between the parishioners and other members of the community, a feeling brought about to a great extent by the warm personality of the pastor who had become a popular and revered citizen of Belleville.

Bringing the most successful and happy function to a close Archbishop Thomas, Cushing tendered thanks to the ladies and others responsible for the banquet for the splendid dinner served last night.

The Result of Nervous Tension

Since the nerves control all bodily functions,
Any weakness of the nervous system
Is soon reflected in physical disorders.
It is common knowledge
That worry and fretfulness cause indigestion,
But modern science also attributes
Stomach ulcers and ulcerative colitis to the same cause.
The worry and anxiety of recent years
Have enormously increased nervous disorders,
As well as constipation, stomach ulcers and colitis.
Why not learn to relax
And thereby live more happily as well as longer.
By restoring vigor to the nervous system,
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can be of great benefit to you.
It is generally acknowledged by thousands of people
To be a most effective means of relieving
Nervous indigestion, sleeplessness and other disorders of the nerves.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

A FLAT FOOT CAN CAUSE PAIN ON INNER SIDE OF KNEE

A patient consulted his physician regarding a pain on the inner side of his left knee. He stated that there was no pain when he first rested the knee for a half hour; that after walking for a short distance, there was no pain when he started in the morning. There was no history of injury.

As the pain was directly over the inner cartilage of the knee the physician concluded that the knee had been wrenched slightly unknown to the patient, so he strapped the knee with adhesive tape and the pain soon afterward disappeared.

When the patient returned he stated that the pain did not come on quite as soon after arising in the morning but toward evening the pain seemed to be just as bad as ever.

The physician then looked at the sole of the left shoe (the side on which the pain was located) and found that it was worn on the inner side. He had the patient take off his shoe and found what he expected—a flat foot or fallen arch.

He explained to the patient that with the weight of the entire body resting on this arch and on the inner side of the knee; that if the arch should fall, allowing the inner side of the foot to reach or nearly reach the floor or ground, the extra strain of holding the weight of the body was put on the inner side of the knee. If was this the fallen arch or flat foot that was causing the pain at the inner side of the knee.

The arch was then strapped up with two or three pieces of twoinch adhesive tape starting from outer edge of foot across the sole, then pulled up on inner side lifting the arch, and across the upper side of foot in front of ankle bones to the outer side of the lower leg—a few inches above where it started. This strapping was done once a week for six weeks, a plaster cast of the foot then made, and an arch support made to fit the foot. The pain soon was entirely disappeared with the first strapping and after a period of six weeks wearing the arch support—has not returned.

That a flat foot can cause pain in inner side of the knee is strongly Rasmuni holding the cartilage (cushion) between the upper and lower leg should be remembered.

SENATOR LEMIEUX DIES IN MONTREAL

Former Speaker of House And Minister in Many

Montreal, Sept. 26 (CP) — Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, one-time federal cabinet member, senator and one of French-Canada's favorite sons, is dead here, ending a long political career.

Death of the 71-year-old former Speaker of the House of Commons ended 41 years in the federal arena marked by his retention of portfolios in the Liberal cabinets of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. A fifth, offered in 1921 by Sir Lomer Gouin, premier of Province of Quebec, he declined, too, the Lieutenant-Governorship of Quebec Province. He preferred to handle the post in the lower House. For the same reason he declined the Public portfolio in Quebec.

Always In Federal Field.

All through his political life he remained in the federal field. Gaspe elected him to Parliament first in 1896, and he stayed there in 1900 when he went into the House. Gaspe electors defeated him in the 1911 campaign, but he was returned in two bi-elections, and Rouville sent him back.

In two other elections, he carried two ridings. Nicolet gave him a 342 majority in 1908, and Gaspe an acclamation. Thirteen years later, Gaspe and Maisonneuve both voted him majorities.

Strong Man of Party.

One of the strong men of the Liberal party for a quarter century after he was credited as Postmaster-General under Sir Wilfrid, with much pioneering work in the postal service. And later, as Labor Minister, he brought down the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act providing for conciliation boards in labor disputes. The measure became known generally by its parent name.

He served also as Minister of Marine and Fisheries and as Solicitor General, and he was noted as an authority on Canadian and International law.

Minister King expressed deep sorrow at his death. "He received honors," he said, "as one of the most distinguished public service," Mr. King said at Ottawa.

IMULAH W.M.S.

The September meeting was held at the parsonage May 22nd. Mrs. Clifford Mills, Group Leader, presiding.

The devotional service was led by the usual opening exercises. The theme of the devotional period being, Love and Service Ideal.

After singing Hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" Scripture Lesson was read bearing on the theme. Stressing more Bible reading, was dealt with by Mrs. Clemens.

The hymn "Master Let Me Walk With Thee" was sung and Mrs. Hubbard took the chair for minutes and business.

Mrs. Palmer had a reading on "Temperance".

The watch Tower was dealt with by "Herald".

Mrs. Frost gave the last chapter of the Study Book.

The meeting closed by the Singing of Hymn "Lead Kindly Light". Prayer by Mrs. C. Mills. Vote of thanks to Mrs. Lacks for her hospitality.

MISSED FIRST COUNCIL

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP)—Richard Jarman of Hamilton missed his first City Council meeting in more than 20 years, last night. Faithful attendant at every meeting, Jarman's absence was noted. City Clerk James Derry told inquiring friends Mr. Jarman's son had died.

PAPAL ENCYCLICAL

In an official summary of 750 words the Vatican Secretariat of State said the encyclical credited the Virgin "in the past with having been victorious over all heresies".

The summary quoted the Pontiff's belief as saying:

Dangers As Great As In Past.

"The dangers which threaten are no less grave than in the past: The world is divided by the fight for material and spiritual crisis due to the forgetfulness of God; deep dissension between and the classes of society; no one hand Communism rears itself in denial even of all right to private property; on the other, the cult of state and deems to make itself the public authority against the intrigues of Communism leads men to forget justice, charity, liberty and to exhume pagan errors and evil.

"A wave of Atheism sweeps over the world and threatens destruction of all civilization.

The Holy Father did not mention specifically the Soviet Government but interpreted his remarks on paganism and Atheism as directed at Germany just as the remarks on Communism were believed to be directed at the Soviet Republican Spain and Mexico.

In urging greater devotion to the Virgin Mary, the Pontiff said:

"As the wickedness of the Allegorists was overcome by the invocation of Mary, so we hope will they be overcome who, as Communists of today, remind us of them by their cruelties and violence.

As At Times of the Crusade.

"Even as at the time of the crusade, all faithful, whether in cities or in country, should raise up their voices as one, in confident supplication to our lady."

The Pontiff added his personal thanks to the mother of God for the participation in the peace which he attributed to the Virgin's "sovereign intercession".

His encyclical mentioned by name the people of Poland, urging them to fight against "the insults offered with impunity to the Blessed Virgin by the press of a civilized country."

"Knights Without Armor"

Thrills and Excitement in Robert Donat and Jeanette MacDonald Film

Tomorrow and Friday, at the Belle Theatre, Marlene Dietrich and Robert Donat are co-starred in Alexander Korda's "Knight Without Armor", the most thrilling romantic adventure story of the year.

The story was adapted by Frances Marion, the Hollywood writer, from the famous novel. Laid in Russia during the exciting time of the Revolution, it brings the stars with the finest acting opportunities of their careers.

Donat plays the part of a young English journalist in pre-war St. Petersburg who is under threat of arrest. He appeals to the British Secret Service which commissions him to take the identity of Peter Durnovo and investigate Bolshevist army activities.

Trouble breaks out and Fotherhill is appointed by the Bolshevists to guard the beautiful Countess Alexandra, who later agree to escape together. Madly in love, they encounter incredible dangers. One scene reaches a climax as they barricade themselves in a hall-room and finally in each other's arms, reach the haven of a foreign border.

Prominent in the supporting cast are Irene Vanbrugh, Herbert Lomas, Austin Trevor, Basil Gill, John Clements and Miles Malleson.

"Knight Without Armor" is magnificent entertainment that has an appeal for all types of fans, and it reveals the star of international beauty team an ingenious film producer never thought of before. Going Hollywood.

Pathe Topics, with its gits of screen entertainment, is varied and amazing, and "Beach Sports" a timely and entertaining film completes a splendid program of screen entertainment.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Circus Girl"

Two Hit Stars "Romance" and "Circus Girl"

Two very entertaining stories one of the highway, the other under the big top.

Hilarity and adventure run riot on the highways in "Time Out for Romance" the thrilling romantic production now playing the Capitol as smash hit No. 1 with Claire Trevor and Michael Whalen hitting new highs in romantic comedy as a run-away bride and a highway Romeo involved with a cross-country auto caravan.

Picturing the carload of heartthrobs that a driver acquires when he picks up a hitch-hiking heiress, "Time Out for Romance" also features Lon Davis, Douglas Fowley and Bennie Bartlett, in a film every bleeding second of which is crammed with hilarious, exciting adventure.

To the daughter of a millionaire sportsman, Claire Trevor flees home when he learns from her father that the titled foreigner she has just wed had secured a half-million-dollar settlement through her socially ambitious mother. Hoping to meet her father at Niagara Falls, she starts hitch-hiking across the continent.

At the approach of a caravan of cars being driven from the Pacific Coast to the Canadian Rockies, Claire climbs a fence and, one of the drivers, Michael Whalen, takes her aboard his car, although he knows that 91 pounds is the sum of his job if she is discovered.

With police on the trail both of the missing heiress and of stolen diamonds which have been hidden in Michael's car, complications ensue thick and fast, with Michael and Claire constantly protecting the other. A whirlwind flight from the police serves to reveal the real thief, and brings the couple together in the realization that it's true they both took time out for romance.

"Circus Girl"

A "Loop-the-gap" bicycle man, acrobat, high-flyer, and chariot racer in circus-land romance is only part of the adventurous career of Donald Cook, sensational new comedian who is featured in "Circus Girl". This romantic drama of circus life co-stars Jean Travis and Bob Livingston at the Capitol Theatre as hit No. 2 until Friday nite.

Donald Cook, Charlie Murray, John Wray, Emma Dunn, Betty Compson, and Lucille Osborne head the supporting cast in this breezy procession of actors appear in the picturesque setting of a circus with the mills about the sideshows, down the fairways, and packs the narrow circle under the big top. The "Flying Travis" act is featured in these parts, as a thrilling feature of the picture.

"Circus Girl" is a breath-taking picture of life under the big top. Its dramatic punch is on the grade. It carries also a pulsing interest of romantadventure as the trapeze artists, Cook and Livingston, fall in love, however, with the trainer who wants to fly the rings — Jean Travis.

"Circus Girl" Kerr hitcrowded a brand new type of comedy to the screen, and has a tradition for originality in the comedy field.

Giants Need Only Two Wins In Seven Games Left to Play To Cinch National Loop Flag

Cubs Could Win All Their Seven Games And Still Lose

YANKEES HITTING

Can Create New Record For Games Won in a Season

By BILL BONI

Just about the only things left standing today between the Giants and Yankees and their five-cent world series were seven games by the Naional League and as many by the American.

For the Giants bombers, "in" since way back when, those seven games really couldn't be called an obstacle. Exercise, perhaps, with the chance of winning one of today's tests from the Athletics and thus hanging up their 100th scalp of the year.

The seven games the Giants have left to play are a bit more of a hurdle, yet not much more. And for that the Terrymen, campaigning without their fin-stricken boss, can thank their lucky stars.

It rained in New York yesterday—rained a gusher, sufficient with the Bees right off the Giants' and the National League's necks.

Thus, despite the fact the Cubs set their margin to four games by blanking the Phils, 3-0, in the 11th, champions were left needing only two more victories to wrap everything up the marbles in the old prayer rug and becoming 1937 champions, as well.

Only Need Two Wins.

Should they win only two of their final seven, and the Cubs win all of their remaining five, the final standings would show:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Giants	92	58	.613
Cubs	91	60	.610

Instead of stacking up against the Bees and their three-man pitching staff, the Giants today were in Philadelphia's band-box Baker Bowl, with a pitching staff headed by the extra day off and a wrecking crew with the sticks trained on the Phillies' short, beckoning fences.

While the Giants had a chance to achieve their major milestone this afternoon, the Yanks had an opportunity to attain a minor one of their own. Belted by Joe Krakauskas, freshman Washington southpaw, from Hamilton, Ont., in the second game of a double-header yesterday, they won six straight to the 100th victory and stood a good chance of tethering their best mark of 102 games won by the year.

That Washington hurler Bill was the occasion for a good many events. Charley Ruffing, pitching a two-hit, shut-out in the opener, got back on form to win his 19th after two failures. In the nightcap, Krakauskas after a brief rest to bit his 28th homer of the season, tied Babe Ruth's 40th as well as a triple and double, then added a single in the nightcap.

Good Omen For Giants.

For Giant fans, on the other hand, there was satisfaction in seeing Krakauskas spike the Support Riffes 2-1 in the second game. Since Krakauskas is a left-hander, his triumph was the eighteenth by a southpaw in the 46 games the Yanks have lost, and the Giants boast two fine southpaws in Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton, 42-boy took it as an omen of things to come.

In yesterday's rain-curtailed program, the concluding one-man job was delivered by Clay Bryant of the Cubs. Clay pitched two-hit ball, drove in the winning run with a triple and scored the other himself.

The only other National League game saw the Pirates take third place from the Cards by whipping them 6-4. In the American League, the Tigers beat the last-place St. Louis Browns 6-4 and Julius Solters' tenth-inning homer, plus Bob Feller's relief pitching, gave the Indians a 7-6 win over the White Sox. The Sox were leading 10-4 when the second game was called after 3½ innings because of darkness.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Clay Bryant, Cubs—Pitched two-hit, 2-0 shutout against Reds, batted home winning run with triple and scored other himself.

Julius Solters, Indians—His 10th-inning homer gave Cleveland 7-6 verdict over White Sox.

Joe Dimaggio and Charley Ruffing, Yankees, and Joe Krakauskas, Senators—Dimaggio blasted homer, triple and double as Ruffing pitched two-hit ball and Yanks won opener 9-0; Krakauskas hurled seven-hit ball and fanned nine to give Nats night-cap 3-1.

Gerge Gill, Tigers—Turned Browns with five hits as mates won 6-1.

Paul Wagner, Pirates—One of five pirate singles, with bases loaded, drove in deciding run in 6-3 victory over Cardinals.

INSTALMENT 12

"A blue silk dress!" Sheila repeated, puzzled. "Why, yes, I have two in pack. Evelyn has several and I dare say Miss Markey has one or two. Thinking about your being a ladies' ready-to-wear, Jerry?" Jerry frowned the fidgeted case. "No other dress, Sheila? Just blue silk frocks are fairly common."

"Very. Particularly with blue-eyed women. One of your little flirtations is that blue eyes and a blue frock combine to do strange things to men's hearts. If you are sure you're susceptible you have been in the past, it's be glad to clean up and wiggle into one of my silks at once."

"Will you like a good girl?" Jerry said quite seriously, ignoring her bantering tone. "I mean it, Sheila, it tremendously." And then as she looked at him in silence: "I promise my head into a door and I'll like to run up to the hospital and let them apply a little stitching-plaster. I'll be back in thirty minutes. If you could get on the dress in the meantime...."

"Quit not joking?" Sheila said. "No, I'll explain when I come back.... By the way, where were you and Ted headed?"

"Ted wanted some chewing gum," Sheila replied. "We were starting to the store."

"Then you let Ted go alone with me? Well stop at the store on the way." He leaned over. "How about a kiss, Sheila?"

Ted grinned. "May I, Sheila?" Sheila nodded and Polly sat on the car and held the door while Ted climbed in.

As the roadster left, Sheila took a sad Polly. "What's the idea, Miss Markey?"

Polly shrugged. She didn't say anything. When they reached the living room, she looked down at Sheila's hands. The were white and thin hands for she doubted they would be strong as the hands she had had let her brandish a sheet before. Still....

Ted sat in the anteroom while the doctor dressed Jerry's wound. But the door between the two rooms remained open and he was deeply pussing by the conversation he overheard.

Doctor: "You ran into a door, you say? Is say you were hit with a blackjack."

Jerry: "You think he meant business, Doctor?"

Doctor: "He tried to kill you, if that's what you mean.... I hope you're not imagining yourself a detective again, Jerry."

Jerry: "Imagining? That's gratitude for you. I landed that crook soon behind the head before he murdered everybody in the joint, didn't it?"

Doctor: "Right. But you came within an inch of getting your throat cut in the process. Leave the detective business to the professionals, Jerry. You're no good an officer to be taking risks with things."

Jerry: "I was a detective at heart before I was an officer. Being a detective is something in your blood, Bert. Once it gets in, there's nothing you can do about it."

Doctor: "And what are you putting your nose into now, the—Sheila?" Jerry: "Thinking about your being a ladies' ready-to-wear, Jerry?" Jerry frowned the fidgeted case. Then: "No other dress, Sheila? Just what has he heard, but he said blue silk frocks are fairly common."

jumped up. "Bedtime," she said and led him to the stairs.

Polly followed and had disappeared up the stairs, Sheila paused a chair around and sank down. "And now, what's the mystery all about, Jerry?"

Jerry looked at her and little lights danced in his brown eyes. Suddenly everything was completely out of my head," he said, smiling. "Everything but the wonder of a blue-eyed girl in a blue frock that exactly matches the color of her eyes."

Sheila laughed, softly. "You've certainly taken your time to pretend you're impressed. I was quite serious about wearing this frock for the benefit. But I never got a chance."

"The light in Jerry's eyes went out then. The hall smile faded. After a moment he said, "Can I get a hunch.."

Polly came down the stairs then and Jerry rose and offered his hands to Sheila. Sheila said, "that is too absurd, Jerry," but she rose and let him lead her to the centre of the room.

"Now, Polly," Jerry instructed, "sit on the floor at Sheila's feet and when I call out the lights, put your arms around her legs and go through the same motions you did—on the beach—he stressed the last word—and then "until you have the ham in your hands. Then hold it."

Polly thought. "What does he mean, 'on the beach'?" But she saw his warning look and walked to the light switch and snapped off the lights. Then with her arms around Sheila's legs—feeling unspeakably foolish—and drew her down until her hands clutched the hem of the frock.

"All right," she said.

Jerry's voice came through the darkness: "Now blink, hard. Are you still sure it was a skirt?"

"Positive," Polly said.

"And was the material like this?"

"I've told you—" Polly began and was suddenly silent. Then: "No—I remember now. It was heavier. It had the feel of silk, but it wasn't as thin as this—not nearly."

And then the screen door creaked, "What are those light on? Who is that talking?" a new voice asked.

Jerry pushed the light button and stood there gaping sheepishly, as Evelyn and Julian came into the room. Evelyn was wearing a blue silk evening gown that was much lighter blue than that of her daughter's frock. But if any one noticed it or found it relevant to the inquiry they had been engaged in, he, she or they saw no reason to mention it. They were too busy wondering how to explain their conduct to Evelyn.

Jerry was attempting a halting and wholly unsatisfactory explanation—trying not to hear Sheila's uncontrollable laughter—when the jangle of the phone saved him. Polly was relieved the living room phone and she caught up the receiver. A voice said:

"Savannah, calling Miss Cleaves."

Polly surrendered the receiver to Sheila and after a moment's attention, Sheila pushed the phone back on the table.

"Angus has met up with an old friend in Savannah and decided to stay over. He wants some one to go over and look up and bring the key back here. Everything is packed, he said, but the front door and the key is in it."

"I'll do the dirty work," Jerry said, glad of an opportunity to escape Evelyn's sharp, inquisitive eyes. He went next door, turned the key in the lock and returned. Sheila was alone in the living room.

"It's a night for interesting things to happen," she said, smiling.

Jerry grinned. "Right, and another, right they will. But I've a job to do," he said, and hurried out.... He found Polly sitting in his car. "Now what?" he demanded. "More screaming?"

"You're going back in the old fort, aren't you?" Polly said.

"Yes, I am. And all your screaming can't stop me."

"Right," Polly said. "I'm going along."

He obviously didn't like that, but he took the course of least resistance and drove back to the old fort. With the small flashlight he led the way down the stairs and along the barred gate open and stepped inside, pressing close at his back, Polly felt his sudden start and peered around his arm.

.....Tony Marco's body was no longer there.

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville—Mrs. J. Walmsley of Chicago accompanied by her son, Elwood, and John Lawrence Shark, has returned to her home after visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shadard and sister, Mrs. Kathleen Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Long and Mr. and Mrs. Young of Campbellford were Sunday guests of Mr. Marshall Lewis.

Mr. Alex Mavracic of Deseronto is a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fredric Lewis.

Mr. Edward Dens of Deseronto was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cook.

It is expected that this week will wind up canning operations in the local canning factory. The factory had a large acreage of tomatoes this year and has employed a large staff of workers. Farmers enjoyed record crops this year but had considerable difficulty getting men to pick the tomatoes as there are very few unemployed in this district at this time. While picking tomatoes on the farm of Marshall Lewis, Jack Long picked one hundred and five bushels in less than three hours which has been the largest recorded thus far this year.

The political meetings were held here last week in the interest of Dr. Harold Wood, Conservative Candidate and Mr. Brown Liberal Candidate, with small audiences present and little enthusiasm shown which contrasted to the meetings held during the East Hastings election, when the Hall was jammed to capacity especially when Premier Hepburn and Hon. Earl Rowe gave addresses.

Mr. Neil Cook spent a day in Saturday evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bedford.

Mrs. Coyle of Cobourg was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allen MacDonald.

Due to the absence of the Rev. Mr. Craig on Sunday evening Mrs. Craig was in charge of the service in the United Church.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield—Mr. David Gillespie of Toronto has been spending a few days with friends here.

A number of the Plainfield people attended the anniversary services held in the Wesley United Church on Sunday where Rev. Mr. Bowerman of Belleville was the special speaker.

Rev. J. F. Everson spent Monday morning attending a meeting of the committee of Social Services and Evangelism which was held in the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, at which the matter of a program for the November Presbytery meeting was the topic of discussion.

Mr. Stanley Hamilton has returned after spending several months in Detroit.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Stock market leaders fell by the wayside in today's market, many suffering recurses of 1 to 4 or more points at the worst.

There were quiet rallying intervals, however, and near the final hour extreme recoveries were halved in many cases. Dealings slowed considerably after a fast opening and volume failed to expand to any great extent during the remainder of the proceedings. Transfers were at the rate of about 1,300,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Sept. 29.—(CP)— Heavy selling drove base metal shares downward on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and other market groups swung in behind. Midday firmness brought some listings back from their extreme lows and the market was steady at the close. Volume dropped sharply from the previous session.

International Nickel, a volume leader, closed around 51 1-2 with a log of one point. Monday it closed 50 in the early session. Smelters rebounded from a low of 60 to finish 3 points net at 61 1-2. Wright Amulet, Hudson Bay and Pend Oreille showed substantial losses on end.

Livestock

Toronto, Sept. 29.—(CP)— Trade was dull on the Toronto livestock market today with most sales on the cattle division being stockers. The calf market was 50 cents lower at $9 to $9.50 for choice vealers. Previous close on off trade hogs was $10.25. Sheep and lambs were steady. Holdover from yesterday was 4300 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 560; calves 200; hogs 800; sheep and lambs 900.

Common to medium stockers sold from $3.50 to $4.50 and a few good feeders reached $5.50. Sales on stillers were few, mostly boners and common butcher cattle, and prices ranged from $3 to $5.50.

A few good butcher heifers sold up $7. Butcher cows sold slowly at $3 to $6.50. A few fed calves went at from $8 to $11. Prices on butcher cattle and stockers appeared 25 to 50 cents lower for the week.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, Sept. 28—(CP)— One change was recorded on Dominion hog markets, reporting today. Hull quoted liveweights 10 cents lower at $9.50 and Grandmorgitte 25 cents down at $13.05. Barrie at $12.45, still held the head in its groundweight prices.

Liveweights: Brantford $10; Hull $9.50; Stratford $9.15; London $9.75; Chatham $9.50.

Groundweights: Hull $12.05; Kitchener $13; Stratford $13; Harrow $13.65; Chatham $13; London $13.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Services.

MARKET COMMENT

The rally of Monday continued at yesterday's opening, although some profit taking reduced some of the overnight gains. Nevertheless, a much better tone was noted in many departments as the last and public sentiment is slowly improving. A continuation of the recovery will depend much on the recent gloom and precedes talk that another depression is in the offing.

The Mid-Week Review, Jones-Heward and Co. state that there is reason to hope in the present market. And there is also hope for reason. A vigorous rally should now interrupt the downward tendency. A little further readjusting may be necessary, but the upward pull of increased buying should be felt. Tangible arguments (apart from the low level of prices) cannot be advanced for the present market. But the action of the market itself suggests strongly that the recent phase has been completed.

This view does not rest on a sufficiently strong foundation to justify wholesale optimism. There is yet no background of a strong bond market, or of immediately expanding business. Even commodities are still sinking. Nevertheless, so precipitous was the drop (even in stocks that conditions are more in favour of a rebound than at any time since the decline started. Unfortunately, all the necessary such expectations must be based on certain technical conditions within the market itself.

A glance at the 1937 range of prices in New York and Montreal reveals that while a great number of stocks here are today selling at less than half their 1937 high, the same is not true of American stocks where the decline has not been as severe. It is difficult to explain why the percentage of decline should be so much greater in Canadian securities, although the fact that stocks here do not have a broad public interest may be one explanation.

Bargain Hunting

Keen traders are scouring for under-priced issues these days. The security buyers who are in the market are also looking for bargains on asphalts of facts. Once their courage to act upon their convictions regarding the current market diet of the market. In the midst of this flux, bargain hunting sets up the process of investment. The judgment to pick them and concentrate on them is the reward awards in the right selection will be substantial over a period of say a year or two.

Opinion on Gold Stocks

There are many reasons to believe that the gold stocks in the coming months will be definitely favourable to the gold stocks should be concerned. Consequently, careful purchases of the better junior properties now seem to us to be timely. We write Jones, Heward and Co., Members of the Montreal Stock Exchange in their Mid-Week Review.

The sharp selling commodity prices have usually called for some type of rise in compensation. Apart from anything else, lower prices should have a favourable effect on the golds and the prospect of further reflationary steps by the United States Government should dispel all immediate dangers of a further drop in prices. From such a longer term point of view, however, the fact that the fall in the price of gold may be a logical expectation. For the time being there is no prospect of that, and a group purchase among gold stocks at the moment could prove extremely interesting.

The continued technical position of the market, however, may act to limit the gold stocks to a considerable extent. Any such elevation to the Holy Order of the Priesthood, the Most Reverend Bishop Spratt, so well and affectionately remembered by the Parishioners of St. Michael's, whose pastorate was once removed in the incumbency of the Parishioners of St. Michael's, an occasion we see your loving parents, and members of your household, to come with, joy and thankfulness. We see too your friends and admirers and those of us who have been privileged to follow your career from that day to this, have witnessed your simplicity and sincerity, your affability, earnestness of purpose, and devotion to duty on all occasions, coupled with your diplomacy and extraordinary ability, can readily understand why you have attained so much in a short time and why your carefully considered counsel is so eagerly sought by all classes of people.

Educator and Chaplain.

"As an educator during your association with Regiopolis College you stamped the imprint of your noble character upon many young men who have gone out into the world as well as to many more whom you guided to successful vocations. Your parishioners can thank you for the lead to share your own happy and exalted state.

"As a soldier and Chaplain in the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the Great War, your every action testified that priestly charity and fortitude were the dominant characteristics in your life. Regardless of the danger you never shrank from duty, and the physical comfort and spiritual welfare of the men in the ranks especially those in the trenches, was always your first consideration.

His Work in the Parish.

"We are particularly thankful to the Most Reverend Ordinary of this Archdiocese for having appointed you pastor of this parish. In the seven years that you have been with us our mind we have learned to love and respect you. Your interest in everything pertaining to the parishioners and to the city of your selection is well known. In you the children have a real Father and the older members of your flock have found in you a friend and counsellor.

"Your great qualities of mind and heart, evidence of which appear on every hand, have drawn us together in one big happy Catholic family in the city. Right Reverend Monsignor, the kind loving charitable Father of us all.

Big Brother to Every Family.

"Our sorrows have instantly become your sorrows. Our joys ever find ready sympathy in your heart overflowing. The Big Brother of every family, wife, kindly, generous to a holy fault, your life so intimately bound up with our own, you have daily shown us the Way, the Truth and the Life.

"Please accept our respect, love and esteem please, on this day of rejoicing in your life, and we accompanying gift with the ardent prayer that God may continue to shower upon you his choicest blessings, that health and happiness may be yours and your priestly career life may lead us all to the Throne of Our Heavenly Father.

"Signed on behalf of the Parishioners of the Parish of St. Michael and Archangel."

After the reading of the address, Mr. Bishop presented Most Reverend Monsignor McMahon with a purse as a token of the parishioners' appreciation of his work in the parish and to mark their congratulations on his anniversary.

Pastor Expresses His Gratitude.

Monsignor McMahon in accepting the gift spoke with heartfelt feeling on the occasion. There are, he said certain things in life that stand out as landmarks and such was today's event. He spoke of the gratitude to His Grace the Archbishop for having made it possible for ceremonies and to the visiting Monsignori and Clergy, the guests and the people of the Parish. Monsignor McMahon today was but another evidence of the appreciation of his fellow priests at their hands. This, the pastor stated in his life was a great contribution to the flower of faith which is manifest here.

The one hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the first stone church in Belleville, he said, should drew from the pastor the highest tribute to the people during the pastorate of one of the parish's existence and to the clergy who have labored in the parish. Monsignor McMahon's influence upon the community and the parish was evident to all present. Man more than books, tradition man than literature marks the steps of destiny. The history of the parish of this parish who had preceded him in the office of pastor, and who had left witnesses to their faith. The generations have come and the strength of the ties or bonds between pastor and people as holy beyond all telling.

"This morning we remember those spiritual sons who have left us, the names of those priests have not died. Monsignor Lynch, who first erected to their name but their record is written in the Lamb's Book of Life," the pastor said.

On the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, the patron saint of the parish, he asked that the people pray for Monsignor McMahon, that he intercede to obtain from Almighty God the gifts which He so freely needs.

The Monsignor closed with an expression of his appreciation and continued progress in the future.

Many Distinguished Guests.

His Grace Archbishop M. J. O'Brien rising from the episcopal throne immediately preceding the first Mass of Monsignor McMahon's anniversary as pastor of the Parish of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, Ontario, delivered the following address:

"With, filial reverence and deep respect your Parishioners have assembled in this Sacred Edifice to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary Archbishop and the Reverend Clergy of the Archdiocese to participate in the twenty-fifth Anniversary of your Consecration to the Holy Priesthood.

In memory we travel back to that hallowed day in the Cathedral of Saint Michael Diocese, Ontario.

"Your parishioners have every reason to be proud of their Pastor. Monsignor Nicholson took a seat above the sanctuary steps and Mr. Bishop, Parish Priest of the congregation read to him the following address:

"Right Reverend Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, D.D., V.G., M.C., Pastor of the Parish of St. Michael The Archangel, Belleville, Ontario. Right Reverend and Dear Monsignor,

The Reform of Gilbert

By MARGARET JACKSON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate
WNU Service.

Some people class men as animals, and frequently as wild animals. But Gilbert Swanson didn't belong in that category.

He was a bookkeeper and liked his job—never having had any other and never desiring to make a change.

Perhaps it was fate, or merely the way of life that he fell in love with Millie Wheeler, a most attractive, lively, vivacious creature that was employed by the same firm as Gilbert was.

On one of their evening dates together Millie gave Gilbert some helpful advice. "I do love you, Gilbert," she said, "but you're slow! You haven't got enough pep, honey."

"I realize I've never set the world on fire—" Gilbert interrupted.

"But you're really a swell guy and you're decent and you love me, and those three things count for more than everything else."

"Well," Gilbert answered, "I'll enjoy having your respect in other ways and make up for my deficiencies."

"Well, there you are. You've got possibilities, all right—I can tell by your eyes. But probably the trouble is that those decent sorts of yours have treated you like a Dresden china cup, dragging you around with kid gloves when you should have been out breaking windows with snowballs."

"They don't even know I have a girl," Gilbert was forced to admit.

"Good—they need a big jolt. The trouble with you is you respect girls or people's feelings too much. In fact, you're a bit afraid of people. You've got a right to a few raises, you! Now hear is it since you've had a raise, Gilbert?"

"Two years."

"Two years! Gee! Haven't you even asked for one during that time?"

"I haven't lately," he admitted, "because business has been so bad. I didn't want to give them a chance to let me go."

"Good gracious!" said Millie, slapping a tender pat at her face. "Now, I'm going to give you some good advice. Tomorrow you're going to ask the boss for a raise and make him like it. If you don't get it, I won't marry you. It's up to you to win or lose me."

Gilbert thought over everything Millie had told him as he tried to get to sleep that night. It wasn't the time to ask for a raise. You had to await special opportunities to muscle in and catch the boss in a good humor. Any time wouldn't do.

But the next day he concluded that perhaps it was best to tackle the boss. With beads of perspiration on his forehead, his hand moist and his tongue rather cottony, Gilbert made his way into the boss' office.

When the boss looked up from his work and said, "Well, Swanson, what's on your mind?" Gilbert felt like picking the nearest exit, and making a hasty retreat.

But he finally mustered up his courage and blurted out, "I want a raise."

"A raise? Most people do. Do you think you're worth any more to the company than you were a year ago?"

A flush of anger spread across Gilbert's face and he was amazed at the word that slipped out of his mouth.

"No, I don't, but I was worth more to the firm last year than I got, and I know darned well I'm not going to stay around here after this weak wallet I do get a substantial raise."

"For Pete's sake, Swanson, what's got into you? I didn't realize you were so turbulent. I had an idea you were one of those 'timid souls'."

"Leaving out personalities, do I get the raise?"

"I can see I'm not the judge of personalities I thought I was. Well, Swanson, I guess I can arrange things so that you'll get what you're after."

"Thank you," said Gilbert loftily as he walked out of the boss' office.

As they lunched together that day, Millie heard the news. "I knew you'd get it if you stuck your chin out and talked right straight to him. Honestly, Gilbert, you look two inches taller than I ever saw you before. You seem to have changed overnight. All in all, I agree with my mother that 'most men are mysteries'."

That night at supper Gilbert broke the news to his aunts.

"I am going to get married," he said. "Pass the bread, please."

"What! You're going to get married?" Aunt Hannah was overawed.

"I guess I have a right to get married," Gilbert stated firmly.

"Dear, dear," said Aunt Milly. "I can hardly believe that you're old enough."

"Oh, h—" said Gilbert disgustedly as he got up from the table before the end of the meal and went upstairs to his room.

Later in the evening he overheard his aunts refer as she talked to a friend over the phone. "I don't know what's come over Gilbert. He talks to us as if we were helpless babies, but next week I think women are that way anyway."

Gilbert smiled to himself and decided to drop over to see Millie and give her some of the credit.

Melrose Women's Institute

The regular monthly meeting of Melrose W. I. was held on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Walter Morden with only a fair attendance. The President was in charge and opened the meeting in the usual way following which items of business were attended to.

The President was appointed to purchase hats and linings for the two quilts to be quilted.

Mrs. Orval Stratton, offered to help Mrs. Morden pack the donations of vegetables and canned fruits which were brought by the members for the western drought area. Members having their quilt blocks ready were asked to hand them to Mrs. Hinds or Mrs. Morden as soon as possible.

Articles for the "Thrift Exhibit" were requested to be brought to the October meeting.

The roll was called to which each member responded with a cake or cookie recipe.

An impromptu program was given since the leader overlooked having one prepared. A number of items gave readings, jokes were given and the pianist gave an instrumental number. All joined in singing "Long Long Ago."

The National Anthem closed the meeting.

Dainty lunches were arranged for all at which the members were served a social hour by the hostess and a number of assistants. Members present 18 visitors 3.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Mafka dared not question the strange prisoner before the people of the court; he did not wish to betray the fact that he had no power over Tarzan, who commanded. He would observe this unusual creature for a while, then destroy him at his leisure.

The guard took the ape-man to a large chamber on the upper floor, bolted the door, and left him. The room was bare except for two benches. In the opposite wall was an enormous fireplace in which, apparently, no fire had ever burned. The ape-man was intrigued.

The jungle had taught him to note the unusual. Why the fireplace if it were never used? He stepped into it to investigate. The flue might provide an avenue of escape. But there was no flue! He reached up into the darkness. His fingers tips felt a ledge.

Raising himself on his toes he gripped the ledge and drew himself up. His hands groped out and he determined that he was in a corridor. Where did it lead? He moved forward in pitch blackness. Was this Mafka's devilish trick to lure his captive to a pitfall?

CHALLENGE DUCE TO PROVE HIS PEACE OFFERS

Franco-British Decision May Prompt Invitation To Triple Power Talks

Britain Orders Probe into Sinking of Chinese Junks

Britain And France Agreed At Is Said on Pressure Move to Force Duce

TROOPS' WITHDRAWAL Britain Said to Consider Granting of Belligerent Rights

By J. C. STARK
Associated Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 30—(AP)—The decision reached Anglo-French move to end intervention in Spain's civil war has brought Premier Mussolini today to prove by deeds the peace offers during his visit to Chancellor Hitler.

The Italian dictator was expected by certain diplomatic quarters to consider withdrawal of Italian troops, talks aimed at withdrawal of Italian "volunteers" from Spain with a request that both ends of the Rome-Berlin axis be represented.

Whether the withdrawal creates an insurmountable barrier for British and French policy remained to be seen. There was no authoritative comment on the Anglo-French pact and London is such a possible counter-proposal.

Pact Not Formed

Great Britain and France were reported last night on a pressure move to force Mussolini to call Italian troops home from Spain. Where they have been fighting under the Insurgent banner. This would be re-cognition of the Franco regime, similar to a free flow of munitions.

Great Britain was said to be ready to consider granting belligerent rights to both factions in Spain and possibly to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia as a compensation for withdrawal from Spain.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist
Climatic changes! Our present historical epoch belongs to a glacial or ice age, which, however, is not at its peak just now, but on the decline. In ice ages there are great temperature differences between equatorial and polar regions. In warm periods climate of the earth is regarded as one in which it is meant hardly any ice anywhere with the temperature differences between the polar and equatorial regions relatively small. In warm periods are associated with a nearly level earth, while the ice ages are those of mountain building and continental uplift. Mountains and continents are now being worn down by weather agencies.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP)—Pressure is high over the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay, also over the northwestern portion of the continent with a disturbance of moderate intensity centred over eastern Manitoba. The weather has been rainy or cool in the western provinces with snow and rain in southern districts. Rain fog fallen in the Lake Superior districts and in eastern Nova Scotia.

Lake Superior — Fresh or strong east and southeast winds with occasional rain. Friday, fresh winds, shifting to northwest; cloudy and cool with scattered showers.

Manitoba — Northwest winds; cloudy and cool with some rain in southeast portion and showers or possibly snow elsewhere. Friday, northerly winds; mostly cloudy and cool.

Saskatchewan—Cloudy and cool; snowflurries over southeast portion. Friday, partly cloudy and cool.

Alberta—Southeast winds; cloudy tonight and Friday; probably some rain.

Nomination Meeting at Stirling a Lively Affair

Addresses Prevented by Continual Heckling And Shouting

HALL IS PACKED

Stirling, Sept. 30 (Special)—Gathering from all parts of the Constituency of West Hastings in the Provincial election campaign, nearly one thousand persons representing both parties crammed their way into the Stirling Theatre, crowded closely around all exit doors and even entered the stage doors to be present at the official nomination of Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health for the Hepburn administration, Liberal candidate, and Mayor B. D. Arnott of Belleville, Conservative candidate. The hall began to fill rapidly after 1.30 p.m., when Mr. J. R. Dingman of Tweed, Returning Officer, acting as chairman, called the meeting to order and proceeding with the routine business of nominations. The names of the two candidates were presented and further nomination called for. With no other nominations being made this part of the meeting was declared closed at 2 p.m.

Premiers Speakers Prevent But Unheard

Some of the most outstanding speakers representing the two parties were present to speak on behalf of their candidates in West Hastings, but Dr. Faulkner was the only one to be given a hearing, the only one to be given a hearing. Continuous shouting and heckling-Ingless questions fired in rapid succession,at the other two speakers who attempted to address the gathering brought the meeting to a close.

Among the prominent citizens and party officials present on the platform who were to deliver addresses in support of both candidates were: Chas. A. Cannon, K.C., M.P., H. R. Cory, Mayor of Trenton; Mayor Ross Thompson of Belleville; Mr. Harry Moorman of Belleville and Mr. Thos. Lapcock, President of the West Hastings Liberal Association, in support of Dr. Faulkner, Dr. Faulkner's brother-in-law, Mr. Earl Lawson, Liberal-Conservative Association; Mayor George Ketcheson of Belleville; Mr. George Stokes, Conservative Organizer for West Hastings; Mr. W. H. Ireland, ex-M.P.P., and Mr. Harry Rollins, President of the Belleville Liberal-Conservative Association.

266 CANDIDATES NOMINATED IN ONTARIO RIDINGS

20th General Election Campaign Roars Into Home Stretch

86 LIBERALS NAMED

Conservatives Have 89 in Field With Rowe as Leader

Toronto, Sept. 30.—(CP)—On-tario's 20th general election campaign, getting up steam over a period of weeks, roared into the stretch today with 266 candidates of 16 political persuasions ready to lay their lots before the polls October 6. More than 1,500,000 voters are expected to cast ballots in forty constituencies that day.

When nominations closed yesterday, Premier Mitchell Hepburn's Liberal election strength was reckoned at 86, compared to 99 for the Conservative forces of Hon. Earl Rowe. Four Independents were friendly to the Government ran in forty constituencies uncontested by the Liberals.

In all but one riding Conservative candidates were nominated and in that single exception—Wellington South—ex-Col. George A. Drew, former Conservative candidate, now broks with Mr. Rowe and sided with Premier Hepburn on the question for industrial organization issue. Col. Drew ran as an Independent Conservative.

Still Party Fight

Only the old parties nominated enough candidates to win a majority of seats in the new legislature but the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation put up candidates in five Provincial Leader, John Mitchell, and an entirely new group under the leadership of Social-Leader Tead 11 candidates.

Premier Challenged by Rowe On Issues of Campaign at Local Conservative Rally

Conservative Leader Heard at Belleville Arena on Wednesday

PREDICTS SWEEP

Asks Premier to Deny There is Power Shortage in Ontario

More than 3000 people crowded into the Hastings Arena Wednesday evening to hear the Hon. Earl Rowe, leader of the Conservative party discuss the issues of the day at a joint rally for the ridings of East and West Hastings. Long before the scheduled hour of the meeting residents from the outlying villages trooped into the Arena to secure advantage points in regards to seating accommodation. The platform was most tastefully arranged with potted and cut flowers artistically placed.

Seated on the platform were active workers, both men and women of the Conservative party. The Belleville Municipal band under the leadership of Lieutenant Fred Jobson paraded through the main streets of the city and escorted the Hon. Earl Rowe and party from the Arena from his hotel. As the band headed the procession the tremendous reception greeted the leader and his entourage throughout the greeting given so spontaneously. Seated on the platform with the leader of the party were Mayor B. D. Arnott, candidate in West Hastings, Dr. H. A. Lamb, of Bancroft, W. H. Ireland, president of the Ontario Conservative Association; Mayor Ketcheson, ex-M.P., R. H. Ketcheson, Harry Rollins, president of the Belleville Conservative Association, James Moore, news of Sherr. Wesley Grey, Warden of the County and president of the East Hastings Conservative Association, Dr. A. T. Embury and W. H. Pattenden.

Women Present on Platform

The ladies on the platform included Mrs. Wesley Grey, Mrs. M. Reynolds, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, wife of the candidate, Mrs. MacIntyre, Mrs. Harry Naylor, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. J. L. Chandler, Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs. (Dr.) S. S. Lamb, and Mrs. (Dr.) R. E. Wilson. A public address system was used, which carried the voice of the speakers to every corner of the Arena. Howard D. Graham of Trenton had the honor of presiding as chairman of the meeting. In opening the meeting the chairman stated that he saw a tremendous turnout and predicted a sweeping victory for the Conservative candidates in West and East Hastings on October 6th. Earl Rowe, in referring to the nomination meeting held at Stirling on Wednesday afternoon, the chairman stated "it was rotten and no question about it."

"I submit," said the speaker, "that no Minister of Health should from a certain section of the crowd at that place was organized because they were instructed to so perform. All they needed was black shirts and they would be at it like they were if they do not give a speaker a fair hearing." At this point Dr. H. A. Lamb, Conservative candidate in Hastings-Peterboro, for the Legislature was called upon for a few remarks. Dr. Lamb expressed (Continued On Page Eight)

SALE SANCTIONED OF BRITISH PLANES

London, Sept. 30—(AP)—The Air Ministry disclosed today the government had sanctioned officially the sale of aircraft to the Chinese Nationalists.

The Gloster Aircraft Company already has delivered a supplied number of military planes and holds permits to export additional craft. The permission to sell the planes was given before the outbreak of fighting between China and Japan.

Air Ministry official said, but there was no indication the permits would be cancelled.

Gloster disclosure created surprise since all British aircraft companies are working overtime to fill the needs of the government as rearmament program. Imperial Airways has placed orders for planes abroad.

An Air Ministry official said, however, the Gloster Company was the only concern at present, holding a permit to export planes to China.

The planes were understood to be single-seater fighters capable of speed of 250 miles per hour and armed with four machine guns. The London Evening Standard says British independent British pilots may go with them to fly them as mercenaries.

HOMER MARTIN POINTS REVOLVER AS DOOR OPENS

Detroit, Sept. 30 (AP)—Homer Martin, President of the United Automobile Workers besieged in a hotel by rank and file members of the Union, poked a revolver out of the door of his suite today when the fire of the group pounded and kicked against the door. His gun was aimed when he saw the U.A.W. caps and shop stewards badges clipped to my coat pockets.

He explained that "I didn't know who was at the door," and added that the group had interrupted a conference he was having with Ford Motor Company representatives.

The "rank and file" workers set up by Martin's opponents in the hotel this morning, apparently to lodge a protest against recent dismissals by Martin of union organizers active in last winter's strikes.

After the revolver episode Martin told them, "I'll see you at the first opportunity but I can't see you now," and closed the door on them.

Martin said of the incident, "I have been threatened before and when somebody knocked on the door I thought it might be some one trying to get me."

Motorship Soloy Reported Aground

Seattle, Sept. 30 (AP) — Coast Guard radio operations today had intercepted fragments of radio messages from the motorship Soloy which is chartered by the Empire Shipping Company of Powell River, B.C., stating the vessel was aground on Thormanby Island 30 miles northwest of Vancouver, B.C.

The ship reported it went aground in a heavy gale and was leaking badly. Its crew of 36 was dispatched to its aid immediately.

The Soloy ship carried a crew of 30 to 33 men.

The Norwegian freighter was enroute from Houston, Texas, with a general cargo and left Vancouver last night for Powell River, B.C.

SECRETARY HULL TO VISIT OTTAWA

Mr. and Mrs. Hull Will Be Guests of Lord And Lady Tweedsmuir

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP)—The Governor General's Secretary today announced Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Mrs. Hull will visit Ottawa, October 26, for a stay at Government House.

The announcement said Mr. and Mrs. Hull would be guests of Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir and would leave Ottawa the following November 1st.

Last spring by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

It added that while he was in Canada Mr. Hull would receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Toronto.

Rowe's Conclusion is Enough for Liberal M.P.

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in a political address Hon. Earl Rowe and Premier Hepburn had finally convinced him that the latter "was right when he did away with the power contracts as the first he did". The Federal Minister spoke in support of Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Liberal candidate in Ottawa South.

"Mr. Rowe" said Mr. Gardiner referring to the power contracts cancelled by the Ontario government, "has stated that if returned to power he will not re-establish those contracts. Well, he has apparently come to the conclusion that the Hepburn policy of 1934-37 is right in every way. I am satisfied for me in connection with those contracts."

Premier Hepburn Speaks to Sault Voters by Radio

AT ST. THOMAS

Denies Story He Was in Favor of Licencing Trade Unions

By CP Staff Writer
Toronto, Sept. 30—(CP)—Assurance the Liberal government if re-elected Oct. 6 would speed up construction of the trans-Canada highway was left today with Sault Ste. Marie voters by Premier Mitchell Hepburn as he headed east in his election campaign tour. The Premier speaks today at St. Thomas en route to Sault Ste. Marie.

The Premier last night at the same time Hon. Mackenzie King was opening the meeting the chairman, Mayor Ross Thompson, announced turnout and predicted a sweeping victory for the Conservative candidates in West and East Hastings on October 6th. Earl Rowe, in referring to the nomination meeting held at Stirling on Wednesday afternoon, the chairman stated "it was rotten and no question about it."

RITA JEWELL OF WINDSOR, KILLED

Girl Companion Seriously Injured When Pair Struck at Intersection

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 30—(CP) Rita Jewell, 18, Windsor, was killed and a companion, Jessie Tracey, 17, Windsor, was seriously injured last night, when struck by a car. Fred Grubb, Windsor, driver of the car, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

The girls were struck as they were crossing an intersection.

Three brothers and five sisters, in addition to the parents, survive Rita. They are Mrs. Roy Bentley, Hazel, 20; Dorothy, 18, Gladys, 14; Helen 13; Gordon 27; Roy 24; and Ray 22.

Rita was born in Windsor but the family spent here 18 years from Gravenhurst.

Paralysis Strikes Two Nurses at the Brockville Hospital

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)—Two nurses at the General Hospital here are suffering from infantile paralysis it was learned today. No visitors or persons in the institution and nurses are not allowed to leave it or the Nurses Home.

Miss Grace Paterson, Brockville, took ill Tuesday and Miss Winnifred Leeder, of Iroquois developed it today.

Miss Paterson is at her home and Miss Lake confined to the hospital.

The Board of Health is watching the situation closely and the strict restoration of the ban on public gatherings lifted two weeks ago when only one case of the disease developed in the town.

Dr. H. Vincent de Paul Hospital notices have been posted barring visitors unless they bear written permissions from a physician.

Inquiry to Determine If Britishers' Interests Suffered in Attacks

"First-Class Issue" is Developing in Britain

EMBARGO ASKED

Labor Unions Strongly Incensed Against Japan

By GEORGE HASKELTON
London, Sept. 30 (CP Cable)—British naval authorities at Hong-Kong today ordered an inquiry into the sinking of Chinese junks by Japanese destroyers. Sinking of the junks, reported in Tokyo, has been officially reported to Hong-Kong authorities by the German ship Schantung. The Schantung rescued a couple of the survivors.

One of the objects of the inquiry is to determine whether British interests are affected and whether any persons entitled to British protection suffered injury. The junks enjoy a form of limited register from Hong-Kong, which gives them certain rights but does not entitle them to the full protection of the British flag. They were attacked on the high seas in the neighborhood of Hong-Kong.

Situation Grows Menacing.

Meanwhile the situation in the Far East becomes more menacing. Japanese bombing of open towns threatens to raise a first-class issue in Great Britain. Every new bombing raid swells the tide of public indignation and horror.

Campaigns to boycott the trade of Japan increase in intensity. Pending international conferences, labor leaders are urged not to buy Japanese goods. Sympathetic shopkeepers may display window cards proclaiming to the world they do not sell Japanese products.

Embargo Wanted.

The National Council of Labor, supreme co-ordinating authority of the British Labor and Trades Union Movements, demands an international embargo. Clement Atlee, on behalf of the Labor opposition, is reported, intends to demand parliament's consider Japan's "gross infringement of international treaty obligations."

Paris, Sept. 30 (CP-Havas)—The campaign for an anti-Japanese boycott under way in the British Empire spread to France today.

In Paris and Marseilles

Wellington, Sept. 30 (CP-Reuters) Prime Minister Michael Savage announced today that the New Zealand government does not approve the action of dockworkers in threatening to boycott Japanese goods and refusing to load them.

Tokyo, Sept. 30 (CP-Havas) Japan today rejected a British protest against the bombing of the British-owned Shanghai dock and engineering works by Japanese troops to investigate the attempted bombing of the Japanese flagship Idzumo.

NEW APPOINTMENT AT QUEENS

Candidates in East Hastings Address Nomination Crowd

Good Attention Given Speeches of Dr. Welsh and F. Ed Brown

KEEN REPARTEE

By Staff Reporter

Tweed, Cult. Sept. 30.—Representatives of practically every corner of the far-flung East Hastings riding, numbering over 2,000 political pilgrims converged on the auditorium here yesterday afternoon to give unanimous acclaim to F. Ed Brown, Tweed farmer, and Dr. Harold Welsh, Health, physician and present sitting member as they were officially nominated Liberal and Conservative candidates respectively to contest the riding in the forthcoming provincial election. Long before the official scheduled time for opening the nomination was packed to the doors while outside a large crowd milled in an effort to hear the addresses of the candidates and their supporters.

Supporting Mr. Brown was Reg W. Gray, Liberal Whip in the Federal government, of Sarnia, Dr. F. Carroll, Brockville appointed to support Dr. Welsh did not put in an appearance. Dr. Welsh was given the allotted time for candidate and supporter, speaking for forty-five minutes. He was followed by Mr. Brown who spoke for the same length of time. Mayor Ross Thompson and Mr. Grey, Dr. Welsh was given ten minutes in which to make rebuttal.

Good-natured heckling and interjections featured the proceedings with the brunt of the interruptions failing on Mr. Gray. The crowd, however, observed good order and several times acceded to the request of Chairman Fred Ashley for order. Cheers and jeers and various noises greeted the speakers on several occasions, especially Mr. Grey who at times was forced to stop his address until the noise subsided.

PRINCE EDWARD NOMINATION IS CLASH OF WITS

James DeC. Hepburn And Thos. Bowerman Officially Nominated

HECKLING PLENTIFUL

Picton, Sept. 30 (Special)—Only a fair-sized crowd attended nomination meeting in Picton Court House on Wednesday afternoon, September 29th. William McLean of Picton presided and at two o'Clock declared nominations closed.

Returning Officer Bowerman was announced to be the Liberal candidate for the Counties of Prince Edward-Lennox and James deC. Hepburn, the Conservative candidate.

T. G. Bowerman

Speaking first, Mr. Bowerman said that Prince Edward County had received under the Hepburn Government where the total assessment was reduced to $115,000. The Government had assisted $2,367,500 Old Age Pensions and $6,344.00 in Mothers' Allowances in the County. Hydro rates had been reduced $30,000 in the County including Picton. One mill on the dollar off property assessment. "Never before," said the speaker, "has so much been handed back to the municipalities." Car Licenses had been reduced $5 so that the license for a four cylinder car costs only $2. In these times alone $15,000.00 was saved. Mr. Bowerman predicted there would not be these savings if Mr. Rowe became premier as Henry, McAuley, Finkbeiner, etc., who spent down to one of the greatest defeats in history in 1934, were waiting again for Cabinet positions. Similar savings for Lennox County were noted, making a total saving of $220,786.00.

Tourist trade had been doubled and Prince Edward-Lennox Counties put on the map today by the extension of Highway No. 33—thirty miles of scenic road, taken over. The new ferry at Glenora brought tourists and trade. The Government has now come to the assistance of the Cold Storage Plant at Picton, which has been reorganized with hands on poultry and cheese as well as apples.

The High Shore Road linking Napanee and Picton will be improved this coming year.

Dealing with the C. I. O., Mr. Bowerman said $12,000.00 in new industries had applied to start in Ontario since Premier Hepburn refused to allow the foreign agitators to stage a "all-down strike" in Ontario. Our trade had increased 17%.

James Hepburn

James Hepburn, speaking next, accused Mr. Bowerman of "stooging" "Hepburnism" because the Premier had said he was no longer a "Hepburnite" in the affairs of the speaker's opinion, Mr. Hepburn did not support the Hepburn party. He also thought the credit for the saving of $3 should be given to the Henry Government which first took the road over. The speaker criticized the Government for a hundred pounds on cheese by the Minister of Agriculture and the "Cheese Patrons' Association. This Association received $46,000.00 thus collected in keeping a man in London, England, at a salary of

TEN TRANSIENTS SHARE CELL BLOCK

"The citizens and visitors to Belleville are to be congratulated on the fairly orderly behaviour during the past night's celebrations," said one and all, "and we expect the same conduct from all during evening when the second large meeting will be held in this city," declared police officials today. With the exception of routine duties and the patrolling of the market square, where hundreds of automobiles were parked during that night's political meeting, no serious out-breaks or crimes were reported last night. Two transients and an inebriate shared the cell block at the police station while the only other report pertained to a charge laid against a local resident, preferred by his family, and charging him with non-support. The accused man has left the city and a warrant for his apprehension was issued by H. B. Wilson, local Justice of the Peace, today. Provincial and city police patrolled the market square last evening providing the contents of parked automobiles with the result that no petty thefts or articles from parked cars at that point were received at the police station following the evening's activities. FRACTURED ANKLE IN RUGBY GAME

Thomas W. Norton Jr., 19 Ontario Street, suffered a fractured left ankle as the result of an injury received during an interclub rugby football game at the Belleville Collegiate campus yesterday afternoon. The lad was taken to the Belleville General Hospital where the injury was diagnosed by Dr. R. S. Gibson. The football game in which Frank Norton was participating had only commenced a few moments prior to the accident. The lad was making his first tackle of the game when he turned his ankle, thus resulting in the injury. Following the reduction of the fracture the lad was removed to his family residence. The accident was the initial major injury sustained during the current football season in Belleville.

MOVIE SHORT OF V. O. N. WORK

"Patrons at the Belle Theatre tonight, Friday and Saturday will see a very interesting movie short "The Little Rhode Red", which is in graphic form the story of the activities of the Victorian Order of Nurses. The film is in connection with the committee's appeal for funds which begins on October 1st and continues until October 8th.

REQUEST CO-OPERATION IN PARKING CARS

Police have requested the co-operation of motorists in the matter of parking their automobiles in an orderly manner around the market square during tonight's political meeting at the Arena. "McAnany and Market Streets will be crowded some and all through traffic will be prohibited from 7.00 p.m. until the conclusion of the meeting," Motor cars should enter Market Street from the east and park parallel with the curb. Motor vehicles parking on McAnany St will enter from the Front St. intersection. The market square will also be utilized", stated police officials. The co-operation of the motoring public is requested in order to eliminate any possible chance of traffic congestion at the termination of the meeting.

BREAKS BONE IN FOOT, MAN RETURNS TO WORK THE SAME DAY

Breaking a bone in one of his feet did not deter George Porter, employee of the Lipson Canning factory, Wellington, from resuming his job.

Following an accident a few days ago in which a heavy crane fell on his foot causing a painful fracture of the bone, Porter left the hospital on the member, dug up a pair of crutches and was back at his job in the factory at night.

POOR FUND BOXES ROBBED AT NAPANEE

Laying claim to being the "smallest" thieves in the world, vandals entered the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee this week and rifled the poor fund collection boxes. The vestry also was ransacked.

A small amount of money was obtained from the boxes but publicity of value was taken from the vestry.

The thief or thieves entered the church through a side door, breaking a lock on the vestry door to secure admission.

J. A. ROBLIN, 88, PLANS TO GO DUCK HUNTING

Though he has seen eighty eight duck-hunting seasons come and go, Time has not quenched the fire in the misty mornings, the whirr of wings and the bark of guns when the season rolls around, of, Mr. J. A. Roblin, of 791 West Moira Street.

Yesterday, Mr. Roblin procured his 1937 license, and will be "out with the boys" when the official season starts."

Obituary

LATE MRS. HUGH W. DELINE

The funeral of Mrs. Hugh W. Deline took place from the family residence, 183 Pinnacle street, Wednesday afternoon. The service in the home and at the graveside in Fox-Rose Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. E. Farnsworth. During the service in the home Miss Dorothy Marcus sang "The Beautiful City of God".

The bearers were Messrs. James Donaldson, H. W. Barrager, William Chambers, G. R. Cole, Lew Mason and James Smith.

Point Petre Farmer Dragged on Ground By Runaway Team

Dragged on the ground for some distance by a runaway team yesterday, Jack Beaumont, Point Petre farmer, escaped serious injury when his father-in-law, Herbert Scott, sprinted after the animals and stopped them before they crashed into a fence.

Falling from the wagon on which he was loading crates, Beaumont caught his ankle in the whiffletree, and fell to the ground. The team took fright and dashed for the barn, dragging Beaumont on the ground although he managed to retain his hold on the reins.

Scott sprinted after the animals and managed to stop them as they were making for a gap in a fence. Beaumont's shirt was torn from his body and though no bones were broken he was badly bruised and shaken.

THURSDAY MARKET REPORT

Practically the last of the 1937 crop of peaches were displayed on the city market today with prices showing a slight increase as quantities marked a sharp decline. No. 1's were quoted at 55 and 60 cents and 2's at 40 and 45 cents. Buying was slow with vendors holding out for the higher prices until a late hour.

Blue grapes were plentiful today and proved popular with Thursday morning shoppers, selling at a new low of 30 cents per six-quart basket. Blue damsons at 35 cents and pre-serving plums at 20 cents per basket; pears at 40 cents and Macintosh apples at 30 cents per basket and $1.25 per hamper-lot rounded out a fair fruit display.

Tomatoes and potatoes held firm at the usual prices with the latter selling at 80 and 75 cents per bushel and the former at 50 cents for the same quantity. A fine sample of cauliflower and cabbage was available today selling at from 10 cents up. Other vegetables in fair quantity sold at the usual prices.

Eggs held firm at mildweek prices selling at 40 cents per dozen with "pullets" offered at 33 cents.

Sweet corn is gradually disappearing from the market, a small quantity of Evergreen being offered today at 15 cents per dozen ears.

Truck Load Tomatoes Upsets Near Deseronto

A cargo of tomatoes was strewn along the highway and was a total loss following a motor vehicle accident two miles west of Deseronto on midnight last night. The driver claimed the semi-trailer and tomatoes were forced off the highway by an oncoming motor car from the opposite direction. The large truck was filled to capacity with tomatoes enroute to Western Ontario, and turned over in the north ditch at what is commonly known as Avis's curve, west of Deseronto last night. The trailer was a complete wreck, Motorcycle Policeman Ted Irvine reported after investigating the accident. The vehicle was driven by Donald E. Roberts of the Roberts Cartage Company, Essex, Ont. The damage to the trailer was estimated at $500 while the entire cargo of tomatoes was a total loss. The tomatoes were strewn along the north side of the highway and into the ditch for a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile," Constable Irvine stated this morning.

Enterprise Resident Rewarded for Aiding Arrest of "Firebug"

Recognition of his services in apprehending a "firebug" responsible for a number of fires last year near Enterprise, Ont., was given John Rogers, Enterprise resident, recently in the form of a $1,000.00 reward from the Provincial government.

Firms starting from a suspicious origin resulted in the apprehension of the man responsible, by police through the efforts of Rogers.

The reward will be paid in monthly instalments of $75.00 each, with the balance in a lump sum. When asked what he was going to do with the money after he had received, has a family and has been on relief for some time, replied, "I am going to buy a farm."

Rev. J. Brownlie Moved To Lansdowne Parish

Announcement is made by the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario as to the appointment of the Rev. John M. Brownlie, rector of Wellington and Hillier as rector of the parish of Lansdowne Rear, with churches at Alberta, Lake and Oak Leaf where he will assume duty on November first.

Mr. Brownlie, a graduate of Trinity College, Toronto, was previously in charge of Wellington and Hillier parishes.

In Lansdowne Rear he succeeds the Rev. C. G. Wallis, appointed to Kemptville. No successor has been appointed as yet to fill the vacancy at Wellington.

Former Preceptress Of College Dies In Her 100th Year

The death occurred recently in Vancouver, B.C., of Mrs. M. J. Blair, who celebrated her ninety-ninth birthday last June, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Barber, 864 West Broadway.

Mrs. Blair was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Tuttle, and was born in Fairfield, N.Y. June 27, 1838. She received her education at Falley Seminary, Fulton, N.Y., where she graduated as master of arts in 1861, being one of the first women to receive this degree.

In 1862 she was appointed preceptress of Albert College, Belleville, where she served for this institution. There she met Rev. William Blair, B.A., to whom she was married in 1876, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Albert Carman, D.D., then principal of the college. After his death Mrs. Blair came to Vancouver in 1913 and has occupied a bungalow in Kitsilano, which had been erected for her.

In recent years she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Barber, continuing her active connection with the church. Until a couple of years ago she was a faithful teacher in the Sunday school and took deep interest in the work of the Woman's Missionary Society. She was also a member of Central Church Ministers' Wives Association and never missed the meetings of the quarterly gatherings of that body.

The funeral service will take place Friday from Canadian Memorial chapel, the pastor, Rev. G. Harrison Vallett, will conduct the service and will be assisted by Rev. T. Rhind, D.D., Rev. G. E. Hartwell, D.D., Rev. A. M. Stanford, D.D. and others. Interment will be in Mrs. Waller McGee and Mrs. J. R. Smith.

Mrs. Blair is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Barber, and by one granddaughter, J. Kearney Lod., in charge of arrangements.

PRINCE EDWARD

$6,000.00 and six or seven more throughout the province. The special charged the Hepburn Government with only making public the account of 17 months of the 24 months of its administration and maintained it should not force an election on the people until it gives an accounting for the last months of its administration.

Dr. H. S. Robbin,

Dr. H. S. Robbin spoke in behalf of the Conservative party. He said Mr. Rowe never condemned one act of the Hepburn government. He would have three men right back in his great newspapers of the province to defend it. Second, with all the great newspapers of the provinces behind the Hepburn government would be returned, with a Conservative majority. The speaker thought a Liberal representative from this riding would be able to help the Conservatives in the riding.

Dr. Robbin maintained that the Belleville factory pairing could well afford to pay 5 cents a hundred pounds to the Cheese Factory Association as cheese that sold for 9 cents a pound during the Henry administration now sold for 14 cents a pound. He quoted the Financial Post to commend the financial policy of the Hepburn government.

L. Nethery.

Lance Nethery spoke next in support of James Hepburn. He accused the Hepburn government of extravagance and bungling the people's business in the negotiation of the Quebec power contracts, which caused long and expensive litigation, loss to Ontario taxpayers and the repudiation of a debt of the province. The speaker scored the province for the selling of a large area of pulp wood at $1 per cord to an American interest, while the Canadian mills were forced to pay $1.50 a cord for pulp wood. Besides he accused the premier of intending to spend $250,000 to facilitate the shipping of this pulp wood into the United States. Such a policy meant that five thousand Americans would be put to work while as many Canadians would remain idle and on relief. Of the $62,000,000 collected by the province in taxes on gasoline, Nethery said, in 1936 the speaker claimed only $11,000,000 had been spent on roads. In accounting for the spending of the remaining $51,000,000 the speaker pointed out that 1,900 Mr. Hepburn fired, that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is $22,000 higher than in 1933 and the salaries of registrars $23,000 higher. Also that the Hon. Peter Heenan spent $2,000,000 on roads and his own riding of Northumberland had been rendered for the same road. In spite of $23,000,000 collected from the treasury of Hydro, Mr. Nethery claimed the province was in debt to the tune $100,000,000. This despite the cutting of grants to agriculture, education and public health.

When Mr. Bowerman was given the platform he briefly dealt with charges, hecklers made speaking very difficult. When the Liberal candidate explained that "we only were paying $1.75 per horsepower under the new contracts we compared with $3 per horsepower under the previous contracts," the hecklers shouted, "tell us about the separate schools" and suggested so many topics for discussion that the meeting closed in a clash of wits. One heckler, a stranger, persisted longer than the rest, and Mr. Bowerman finally said "I don't know your face. You may even be an agent of the C.I.O." God save the King closed the meeting.

Second Victim Dies Of Sleeping Sickness

Portland, Me., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Strange sleeping sickness that recently ended in death of the five-year mystery slumber of Pauline Magrite, Chicago's 22-year-old "Sleeping Beauty", had claimed another victim here today.

Miss Verona F. Nichols, 36-year-old librarian, succumbed to the disease last night after a 16-year-sleep of the mysterious disease was announced by Dr. A. F. Stucki, her physician, a victim of encephalitis Lethargica, the medical term for sleeping sickness.

Dr. Stucki said Miss Nichols had suffered periodic attacks of the malady but never had lapsed into a prolonged coma.

C. H. MORTON, PUBLISHER

A PLEA FOR SHORT SPEECHES

Abraham Lincoln spoke for about three minutes or less at Gettysburg battlefield, using less than four hundred words which will live as long as the English language lasts.

Today in the United States Mr. Roosevelt makes brief speeches, even on subjects of great weight.

Do Canadian speakers realise that the affairs of mighty tangled European politics which hold the future of the globe are dealt with in brief speeches? Do they realise that Mussolini and Hitler who hold sway over more than one hundred millions of men, women and children spoke in Berlin the other day and the complete texts of the two addresses could be contained in a little over two columns of newspaper space?

Brevity is the soul of wit and the strength of oratory, though many speakers do not realise it. There are models in Anthony Eden, and outstanding statesmen today for the short speech. In the past few weeks there have been long addresses delivered in the Ontario election, which is an occurrence to be expected, but it is greatly to be doubted if the long speech has anywhere near the vitality of the short pithy address.

THE MEETING IN BERLIN

There are two men in the world whose names are household words because of the turn they have given to countries over which they dominate, no others than Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. They have met this week and discussed momentous questions.

What will be the result of their collaboration? That is the question that European and American statesmen will try to answer.

Enemies in the Great War, though Italy was a member of the Triple Alliance on which Germany depended before the opening of the struggle, today they are friends of the Berlin grip. A political ideal of a somewhat similar type has been developed in Germany and Italy as against the Soviet. This has made them friends. Italy suffered in the Great War and got little out of it according to historians but with the coming of Mussolini a new outlook developed. The new trend is much to the German ideal.

It is a stormy time they have chosen to meet in Berlin, for there in the Mediterranean problem not quite settled, though no recent raiders have been reported, there is the Japanese outrage on China and there is the talk of Chinese dealings with Soviet Russia for aid. In Spain there is the strife which may or may not make Spain a Fascist state which would delight the German and Italian hearts.

No one outside of the two dictators know why they met. Their speeches were quiet and said nothing that was not expected.

ST. MICHAEL'S PARISH AND PASTOR

Rejoicing by the parishioners of St. Michael the Archangel as they mark the centennial of the founding of the first stone church in this parish and observe the silver jubilee of the ordination of their beloved pastor, Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, D.P., V.G., is shared by the archdiocese of Kingston and by the entire community here of which the parish is a vital part and by other communions in the city. The people of Belleville as well as those of the parish know how great a part was played by this parish and its priests during the long record of the congregation, which of course dates back of the stone church to a small frame church erected in 1829. Today the parish of St. Michael's is one of the great parishes of the archdiocese and parochial affairs are in a healthy state, as its fine parish church, its influence in the community, its school and its affairs in general testify. The people of Belleville appreciate how much of this is due to the clergy who have been in charge of the parish and how much is due to the loyalty of the parishioners to their rectors. Names of these parish priests can never be forgotten, so abiding an influence have they left. The present rector, Monsignor Nicholson, who yesterday marked his jubilee is one of the outstanding churchmen and he is beloved in his parish and in every part of the archdiocese and beyond, for he brings to the performance of the onerous task which rests upon his shoulders qualities of sympathy and leadership of a degree which give him an outstanding place among the clergy. His appeal to his people was well set forth in the address read by Mr. E. J. Butler on behalf of the congregation when he spoke of the pastor as "the big brother of every family." No words could more fittingly describe the kindly parish priest who has born hers indefatigably in the cause of the Christian life. Of his intellectual gifts and his qualifications of administration the position he holds with the church are proof enough.

ENCHANTED WOOD

I never knew how sunset could
Be so entangled in a wood,
Or could be setting bush and tree
Conferring with such majesty.
Yet where I went each branch and briar
Glowed as if it were dipped in fire;
And leaves were dripping with a light
That dappled everything in sight.
Wild roses, even where I stood,
Stampeded crimson through the wood,
And maples semaphored with fire,
Till my heart answered their desire.
I could have sworn all were about
To raise a universal shout
To me, to me, and one another!
I could have sworn they cried out, "Brother!"

But sunset, guttering out, went black;
All flowers to themselves went back.
The wood resumed its discipline;
And trees were trees as they had been.

While I went back, an exile and
A stranger, to an alien land.

—Louis Ginsberg.

CURED HIM OF SMOKING AND HE SUED THE COMPANY. There is no accounting for tastes. Here's a guy who is cured, inadvertently, of the smoking habit, and instead of rejoicing greatly thereby he turns right round and sues the patent medicine company who concocted the mixture which cured him of throat trouble but destroyed his taste for tobacco, which he says is essential to his continued good health. This peculiar individual is Count Stefano Barbiano of Italy.

GOOD WORK AT THE CROSSROADS on the highways of the United States centres in the first aid stations now being organized every few miles from coast to coast. The Red Cross is sponsoring this work with the co-operation of service clubs. The Kiwanis Club of Winchester, Virginia, helped to establish the first highway first-aid station in America. Filling stations are being utilized as first-aid stations and equipped for the purpose. Red Cross experts conduct classes and give certificates of merit. Aside to filling station crews, and a new organization has sprung up called Samaritans, Incorporated, with a membership consisting of people who live close to the highways. Members take courses in first-aid and give their services gratis in case of accidents. All of the Red Cross first-aid service is free but if anyone profiting by it wishes to make a donation to the Red Cross funds such is accepted thankfully. The principal things taught these volunteer first-aiders is how to stop bleeding, what to do in case of fractures, how to set splints. Well-meaning people who insist upon moving accident victims, without the required knowledge of first-aid, and the motorist who insists upon packing the injured into a car and rushing them at a speed of sixty miles an hour or more to the nearest hospital, are especially discouraged by Red Cross first-aid experts.

FIRST AID WORK IN BELLEVILLE will have able exponents in the members of the fire department under Chief Lynch, who having studied the work for some time is very much interested in it, and has used his first-aid knowledge to good advantage on several occasions. Alderman Jesse Barlow, father of the local first-aid movement, is also greatly interested in the success of the plan, and will no doubt feel amply repaid for his work when the first accident victims are benefitted by the expert aid of the local corps. The local police force under Chief Kidd will also cooperate and attend the first-aid classes.

What price SPACE
MR. ADVERTISER?

Space in a daily newspaper possesses a power that is lacking in the lineage of other advertising media.

It is not only more economical . . . which is a matter of easy computation . . . it is not only more flexible, it is not only more timely and rapid, but also it is the advertiser's unfailing point of contact with the mass market and every spot market of the Dominion of Canada.

The Daily Newspaper possesses a power by means of which an advertiser, who knows how to use it, can reach and move to action all or any part of the Canadian consuming public.

In this North American continent there was spent during 1934 in the columns of the daily newspapers more than $500,000,000. The strongest of all supplementary media was used to the extent of $114,000,000. Why?

Because for prompt action on sales plans . . . for quick consumer influence at minimum cost . . . for willing co-operation from the retail trade, the daily newspaper is today, as it always has been, the outstanding and most economical basic advertising medium.

cois are Hon. N. O. Hipel, Liberal, speaker in the last Legislature, and P. Stewart Scott, Conservative. The other political groups have not announced if they have recognized leaders.

Solidly behind him, the Premier has his entire cabinet, the Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon in Brant, Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten in Hamilton-Wentworth, Health Minister J. A. Faulkner in Hastings West, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Northern Development, in Kenora; Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, in Ottawa East; Agriculture Minister Duncan Marshall in Peel, and Hon. C. W. Cox, Minister without Portfolio, in Port Arthur.

Croll, Roebuck in Fight

Disapproving of Mr. Hepburn's fight against the C.I.O. during the Oshawa strike of automobile workers in April, Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck and Labor-Welfare Minister David A. Croll resigned at the Premier's request. But both are Liberal candidates—Mr. Roebuck in Toronto Bellwoods and Mr. Croll in Windsor-Walkerville.

Each of the big sides has a star from the sports world. Lionel Conacher, famous "Big Train" of National League hockey, is Liberal candidate in Toronto Bracondale. Leslie Blackwell, former coach of the University of Toronto football team, is Conservative nominee in Toronto Eglington.

Miscellaneous Material

Like his opponent, Conservative Leader Rowe has lined up experienced Cabinet men for the battle. George S. Henry, Conservative Premier from 1930 to 1934, has entered in York East. Brig.-Gen. T. L. Kennedy, former Minister of Agriculture, is contesting Peel with the present Minister, Mr. Marshall.

In Algoma-Manitoulin runs Dr. J. M. Robb, former Minister of Health. George E. Challies, ex-provincial secretary is a candidate in Grenville-Dundas and William Finlayson, former Minister of Lands and Forests, in Simcoe East. The last general election had 362 candidates — three less than this time—but it had more women aspirants. All C.C.F. and all unsuccessful, the contested seats in 1934. Yesterday only two were nominated —Mrs. Jean Laing, Labor, in Toronto St. George and Mrs. E. A. Miller, C.C.F., in Fort William.

Dr. Welsh confined his remarks in the main to county affairs but also sharply criticized the Hepburn administration in his primary speech. The one still unsafe was a Jobs, his position on labor and capital, a few cents to the working man. Mr. Hepburn removed the examination duties, he pointed out, but he also raised the price of automobiles from 15 to 60 cents and cut the school grants of the county approximately $200,000.

"Hepburn is the greatest taxing individual the province ever knew," the speaker charged pointing out that over $5 million was added to the taxpayer during the past three years, including succession duties. "It means that every man, woman and child in Ontario is charged $12 per head," he said.

"The lower townships of the county built up a $27,000 surplus in the Belleville Rural Hydro, and this was taken by the government to balance the deficits in other parts of the province."

"Take all these things he says he has given you and balance them against what he has taken and you will find he has put one dollar in your pocket and with the other hand has taken ten dollars out of your other pocket."

"The large he has lowered the tax rate. Look at your bills and see. Voice: "I did and they are $30 higher").

Highway Program

Charging the premier with spending 35 millions which must be paid after Oct. 4, for a highway program, the speaker condemning it in no uncertain words. He attacked the "Ringhaver Agency" and "Hepburn a Liberal can get a job," he declared. "This will not be handed away after October 4," he said. "The highway work will be completed and men will be employed in the British way, and not whether they are Liberal or Conservative."

Mr. Hepburn set up a bargain counter in some Memorial Hall, he asserted, and the revenue must come from somewhere. Is he going to raise the gasoline tax? There is no Liberal party in Ontario now, there is but Hepburnism," I ask Mr. Gray if he was not republished by Mr. Hepburn." (Boos and cheers).

Dr. Welsh said he was in favor of the liquor control policy of the former government but not the present system of alleged mushroom hotels. Mr. Hepburn suggested a policy of taking liquor out of politics by the appointment of a commission of a Liberal, a Conservative, a judge was not feasible.

The premier negotiated a gigantic deal in timberland with "timber men of the United States" charged the speaker. "He allocated six million cords of pulpwood to U. S. interests and both sons-in-law received at the cost of $200,000 to export it with.

"I mean to open mills here give Canadians work".

Defining his own policy, Dr. Welsh stated that he was fully aware of the problems of the farmer of Hastings county. As a farmer, a country school teacher and a country doctor, and will serve not only the farmer but, every class in the county."

"To show that I am not a party to tax rate should be lowered $ mills next year," he said.

Speaking of liquor control, Mr. Brown charged that had the previous government been in power hotels and restaurants would be selling beer and wines.

School Question.

A roar of dissent greeted Mr. Brown's announcement that the school question was "a dead issue". It has been repealed and is taken off the statute books. (Voice: "I'm we paying it?") "No," replied Mr. Brown. (Voice: "We are.")

Mr. Brown and Dr. Welsh argued for a few minutes while the crowd yelled. "You are paying the same as you pay every year," interjected Mr. Gray from his seat. (Voice: "It has not been taken away. We are billed for $150 right here in Tweed.")

"The Conservatives can promise you anything, but they won't be there, neither will Rowe, or the good doctor unless he is with the opposition," said Mr. Brown as he sat down amid cheers.

"You can trust Rowe, you are told," noted Mr. Ross W. Grey who spoke in support of the Liberal candidate.

"Whoever heard of a leader having to advertise that fact? The issue in Ontario is whether Hepburn made it a better place to live in. He made mistakes but he was man enough to admit them. (Cheers).

Mr. Welsh opposing a government that has made savings for the people and given them good government? Hepburn came when hot gets weren't being balanced, and in a period of depression. He went in determined to establish a measure of confident confidence and sound finance and as a result has given you the largest surplus of any government since Confederation."

The 1938 Marker.

"Here," declared Mr. Grey, "I will show what he has done," producing the calendar and blue 1938 automobile marker.

"Hold it up so we can see what is on it," yelled a voice from the audition.

"What are those figures on it, read them, we can't see them from the fourth row," came another voice.

"What did you pay for it?" came yet another.

"Two dollars less than I would have if the Henry government was in power," flashed back the speaker, "and I dare anyone to stand up and say it was an election bribe. Hepburn promised this last spring."

Voice: "Why didn't he bring out the calendar and license of last year?" Cheers greeted this sally and Chairman Ashley was forced to call for order. This occurred several times during Mr. Grey's speech and the large crowd good-naturedly accepted.

Producing a newspaper the speaker said, "I have here in my hand—a voice interrupted "it looks like anything".

"It isn't. It's a prominent Conservative newspaper that commends Hepburn on attaining a surplus.

"The Tories put $173,000 on your road here and I dare anyone to stand up and deny it," the speaker said.

Asst. Dr. Welsh if he is going to oppose a man who assumed the Old Age Pension and Mothers' Allowance, who brought savings of thousands of dollars to his county and who had reduced taxation." Roars and jeers greeted this announcement. "And to you people who are yelling out there I say that you are going to support a man who can talk nothing else but "man of the back concessions." I repeat Hepburn has done something for Ontario."

GEN. BOOTH LEAVES FOR CANADIAN TOUR

General Evangeline Booth, 71-year-old head of the Salvation Army, is receiving an enthusiastic send-off from her headquarters in Queen Victoria St., London, as she leaves for a tour of Canada and the United States. She will visit Salvation Army centres in both countries. General Booth, centre, waves her 'arm in acknowledgement of the cheers of her friends.

Voice—"He he hasn't and we will support Welsh."

"Here you will vote Conservative and for no other reason than because your grandfather did." (Boos and yells again rang through the hall but subsided as order was called.)

"On Oct. 5th, Mitchell Hepburn will again be elected as Premier of Ontario" declared the speaker. Voice "You're mistaken, you mean Rowe."

Leads Candidate Forward

"Here is your man," thundered the speaker grasping Mr. Brown by the arm and leading him to the front of the platform. Cries of "yes" and "no" came from the crowd.

In conclusion, Mr. Grey amid silence said that anything he had said did not contain any personal reference. His speech was purely political. He received rounds of applause as he resumed his seat.

Dr. Welsh in his ten minute rebuttal speech, declared that the by-election proved whom East Hastings wanted for their member. He claimed Sir John Macdonald did not have to deal with, the same type of politicians as the Conservatives have to deal with today. The one mill subsidy was favored by the people, "but it should have been ten," he added.

"In Ontario a better place to live in? Before Hepburn went into power we never knew economic and religious fear and I challenge anyone to deny it." ("Give it to them, Doc" shouted a voice).

In answer to Mr. Brown's assertion that only one per cent of discharged civil servants were returned soldiers, the speaker said that seventeen soldiers in Madoc were discharged and are still awaiting a job. ("That's right Doc" came from the crowd).

"Hepburn has retained his surplus. I ask you as taxpayers if he has given it to you. He talks about timber scandals, he should tell you that 30 millions profit was paid by the government to the laps of the lumber barons. Hepburn cannot give you any data on public accounts except for seventeen months".

"The school issue is as dead as a ninety horse," declared Dr. Welsh. "Tweed has been billed for $150.00. Ottawa's bb. runs in the thousands and Belleville will pay over $900. Is that a dead issue?" concluded the speaker.

Weddings

FARRELL—HALL

Rawdon, (Special)—A very pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized by Rev. J. R. Reekie at Rawdon United Church parsonage on Wednesday, September 29th, at two p.m., when Era May Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Stockdale, became the bride of John Wesley Farrell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Farrell, all of Rawdon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was charmingly gowned in Wallis Blue crepe with deep insertions of lace. She entered the drawing-room to the strains of wedding music played by Mr. Malcolm Hutchison of Burnbrae.

Miss Helen Farrell, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a frock of new fall shades with crepe and the groom was assisted by the bride's brother, Mr. Everett Hall of Stockdale.

During the signing of the register Mr. Malcolm Hutchison rendered "I Love You Truly". The groom's gift to the bride was a gold emblem bracelet.

After congratulations the bride donned a tailored suit of ashes of rose, with navy accessories and the happy couple left on a motor trip to Oshawa, Kingsdale, Toronto and western points. On their return they will reside in Rawdon.

HULSEMAN—LAFFIN

Queensboro—St. Henry's Church, Queensboro, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday morning, September 27th, at nine o'clock, when Gladys eldest daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Jerry Laffin, became Mrs. Ellsworth Milton, son of George Hulseman of Elzevo.

The wedding party entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. F. Carry, the bride looking very charming in a pink crepe and her costume with a bridal veil. The bridesmaid, Miss Annie Laxon was becomingly dressed in brown velvet with hat to match. Mr. John Laffin, brother of the bride, supported the groom and Rev. Father Hyland celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents.

Monsignor J. F. Nicholson Presented With Beautiful Watch—Clergy at Banquet Extol Kindness and Virtues of Pastor Honored—Brilliant War Record Referred to in Fitting Manner

Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, D.P., V.G., was honored at a banquet held in St. Michael's Academy at noon yesterday when he celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination. The function was given by the Catholic Women's League for Monsignor and his guests, the clergy present on this occasion. Among those attending were His Grace, Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, co-adjutor Archbishop of Kingston, Mr. Thomas Nicholson and Miss R. Nicholson of Kingston, father and sister of the guest of honor, Dr. A. E. Hayes, Kingston, priests of Kingston and the neighbouring dioceses of Pembroke, Alexandria, Peterborough and Toronto and representatives of various religious orders.

A decorative scheme of purple and gold was carried out in flowers and papers on the artistically arranged tables and a delicious dinner was served by the members of the League.

Dean Stanley Chairman

At its conclusion, Very Rev. A. J. Hanley acted as chairman for the toast addresses and congratulations which were given by a number of the guests. Those associated with Monsignor throughout his career as a priest from seminary days, through the years, during his offices of education, administrator and pastor were happy to be with him on his anniversary and to give expression to their affection and admiration. The speakers recalled many incidents grave and gay which had served to strengthen the bonds of friendship. Reference was made to the priestly qualities of the jubilarian, to his intellectual achievements, to his hospitality, geniality and never failing spirit with which few are endowed. Associate-chaplain dwelt on the subject to which the Monsignor's name will ever be associated, the highest military service, when the highest military standing merits as priest and soldier, General Currie, speaking of "Father Nicholson", said that in thinking of him there words of Shakespeare immediately came to mind: "The elements are so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'this was a man'."

Monsignor Nicholson, as chaplain, was the Father Duffy of the Canadian Corps in France.

Many Speakers.

The speakers at the banquet included Very Rev. M. Meagher, Perth, Very Rev. John Hanley, Smith's Falls, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McCall, D.P., V.G., Lindsay, Rt. Rev. M. Cline, D.P., Holy Name Church, Toronto, Very Rev. M. Cullinan, Sacred Heart, Cathartes, Rev. John M. Foley, Cornwall, and Rev. T. J. Brennan, Maynooth. War Chaplains who spoke were Rev. R. Costello, Hastings, Rev. J. Kelly, Toronto Diocese, Rev. Vincent Meagher, Sioux. Felicitations from religious orders were extended by Rev. E.J. McCorkell, C.S.B., St. Michael's College, Toronto, representing the Basilian Fathers, Rev. J. McCreed, CSSR, St. Mary's College, Brockville, representing the Redemptorist Order, and Rev. J. Merry, S. J., of Regiopolis College, Kingston, who spoke for the Jesuit Fathers. Father Merry has only recently arrived in this country from Belgium.

Presented With Watch.

On behalf of the priests of the Archdiocese of Kingston, Very Rev. D. A. Cullinane of Tweed presented Monsignor with a handsome watch.

Monsignor Nicholson expressed his deep gratitude to His Grace and to the visiting clergy for their presence here, for the kind words addressed to him and for the fine example of the unbroken spirit of priestly fellowship which was displayed on this occasion would never be forgotten.

Bringing the happy gathering to a close, Archbishop O'Brien congratulated the congregation of St. Michael's on the wonderful demonstration witnessed Tuesday evening when parishioners paid their tribute of loved pastor. It was inspiring to see people crowded in their pastor and the gathering last night was the embodiment of that beautiful spirit. It was a day of rejoicing for Monsignor and members of his family, a real day of happiness for the parish and it made the Archbishop rejoice to see priest and people happy.

Tribute of Youth of Parish Paid to St. Michael's Pastor

Music, Poetry, Pageantry Mingled to Express Joy of Children on Occasion Joint Jubilee of Pastor And Church.

Tribute of the youth of St. Michael's Academy, culminating a series of celebrations in honor of his silver jubilee was paid Monsignor J.F. Nicholson, D.P., V.G., at a concert in St. Michael's Academy last evening when music, poetry and pageantry were happily blended to express in a particularly pleasing manner the joy of the children on this occasion.

The entertainment was the finest held in the auditorium where so many successful programs have originated. Before an audience that taxed the capacity of the hall, the children showed by the wholehearted manner in which they took part in the evening's events and by sentiments so beautifully expressed in song, drama and recitation their very affection and gratitude to a beloved pastor who has their interests ever at heart.

Upon his entrance, Monsignor was extended greetings by a choir of girls, trim in their school uniforms, who conveyed their congratulations in a song which came straight from their hearts.

The program then proceeded with drama depicting scenes in the life of an Indian Maiden, Kateri, Lily of the Mohawks, whose virtues have merited the presentation of her cause for beatification. Miss Joan Rose gave a synopsis of the history of Kateri. Against a background picturing the forest primeval, totem pole and wigwam, the girls and boys taking part gave realistic performances. Kateri, as a child, and a young girl was successfully portrayed by Marie Chapelle and Joan Mosher, and the Indian maiden was by Ella Christian maiden was very convincing and moving.

Members of the cast were:

Kateri—as a little girl—Marie Chapelle.

Kateri—as a girl of twenty-one—Joan Mosher.

Chief Hot Powder, convert of Oneida tribe—Jack Johnson.

Missionaries in the Mohawks—Father Fremin, S. J. Ray Poets; Father Bruyas, S. J. Hilly Ford; Father Pierron, S. J. Earl Tray; Father Pierron, S. J. Earl Tray; Father Chaloner, Jack Burnett.

Chief Long Hair—Harold Dell.

Braves of the Mohawk tribe—Big Bear, Ernest Pelton; Big Otter, Wilfrid Rolland; Lone Wolf, Jack Hamilton.

Silver Star, friend of Kateri—Ella Keon.

Indian Mother—Lorna Whalen.

Daughter—Irene Savage.

Indian Maidens—Ruth Jones, June Boyd, Helen Huffman Helen Henry Bernice Boyle, Norma Dunn.

Angels—Aileen McGowan, Mary Culhane.

Between acts a piano duet by Mary Dolan and Anna Mosher, and a piano solo by Patricia Mahoney were well received by the audience.

The Junior Band of St. Michael's added to the interesting program by the splendid way in which they rendering their various numbers. Under the able leadership of Tweedie, these tiny musicians revealed the progress they have made in recent months. The addition of larger instruments recently handed to Bobby Bowen, Saxaphone, Eddie Barrett, trumpet, and Bobby Moher, cornet, gave a professional air to the group. Their playing of "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down" left nothing to be desired.

A dramatic tableau honoring Monsignor Nicholson was a graceful and original tribute to the pastor. Entitled "Mystical Gifts", it had the following cast of characters:

Spirit of Music—Anita O'Connor
Spirit of Prayer—Pat Alexander
Spirit of Gratitude — Shirley Flynn.
Angel of Prayer—Mary Culhane
Spirit of Poetry — Evelyn Lottridge
Guardian Angel — Aliene McGowan.

Music by a children's choir, with Miss Carol Kiser as soloist, and poetry by Miss Evelyn Lottridge were introduced in this number. Miss Aliene McGowan then presented Monsignor with a beautifully prepared spiritual bouquet, the gift of the students of St. Michael's Academy and the children rose to sing Ad Multos Deo.

Donald Dell, representing "the student body of St. Michael's" conveyed to Monsignor the congratulations, gratitude and heartfelt good wishes of his comrades. The priestly presence in the midst of the pastor had been a source of blessing and inspiration to all and the children would deeply regret if he should be spared many years to guide the destinies of the youth of St. Michael's Academy.

Monsignor Nicholson expressed his cordial appreciation and deep gratitude to all who had made possible the magnificent events which had transpired during the observance of his jubilee, culminating in this wonderful entertainment. His Grace, the Archbishop deeply regretted the fact that he had to forego the pleasure he had anticipated in being present with the children tonight but it had been necessary for him to return to Kingston. The speaker pointed out that the success of the evening was another tribute to the zeal of the good sisters. He commented on the excellence of each part of the program. The drama depicting early days on this continent reminded to mind that Canada owed its first impulse to Christianity, to christianization and to national life to the missionaries; all of which was brought out so vividly in the pageant which none would forget. Monsignor called upon Rev. J.J. O'Brien, of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, to address the gathering.

Father O'Brien spoke of the pleasure it gave him to come to Belleville to help His Grace the Archbishop, the Right Reverend and Venerable Clergy of the diocese and of all sections of Ontario, religious communities, with the people in general, Catholic and non-Catholic of the city, young and old in offering their congratulations and good wishes to Rt. Rev. Monsignor on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. During the years of acquaintance with Monsignor the speaker had found him to be a man of such outstanding qualities that it was a privilege to be his friend; a man gifted with all the gifts of mind and body, and with the greatest gift the grace of God. Besides these natural qualities of mind Monsignor has shown not only in his love for God and his fellowman as the-twenty-five years that has passed.

Adding his congratulations, Father J. V. McAuley of Campbellford referred to the pastor's work in the building of a very perfect day, a day reflecting the very happiness for Monsignor surrounded as he had been by members of the hierarchy, and his devoted people. This concert by the little children made today a very happy and complete jubilee day. Father McAuley spoke of the friendship with Monsignor, a friendship which beginning thirty years ago in seminary days had grown with the years. Monsignor, originally honored by his country and by the people, has also been honored by the love, loyalty and confidence of a devoted people. He praised the Sisters responsible for the concert and the children who had taken part, and in congratulating Monsignor on his jubilee day hoped that the years to follow would merge as gracefully into the golden year of jubilee as the years that had gone by had culminated in the beautiful celebration today.

Monsignor responded to the words of the speakers and called upon Rev. Father Cullinane who took this occasion to convey to the members of the congregation his appreciation of their co-operation he had received from them in the planning and carrying out of the events of the jubilee.

YOUNG WOMEN'S GUILD

formerly of John St. Church, held their first meeting of the 1937-8 season at the home of Mrs. Wishart, Dufferin Avenue. The president, Mrs. Archibald presided very graciously and welcomed the new members and guest speakers, Miss Templeton and Mrs. McClintock. Miss Templeton was again elected as leader of the Sewing School of the School for Leisure, and Mrs. Bews as convener for Study Groups.

Mrs. Bews then outlined the plan for the Fall programmes and discussions for October: Recent British Foreign Policy; China's Christian Point of View. For November Canada's Part in the Work of War. Rev. McClintock gave his interpretation of "The Gospel of the Kingdom." It is the utmost importance that all try to understand what Jesus meant by the Kingdom of God — if Christianity is to be related constructively to the major problems of the modern world.

Miss Elson led the worship service.

Mrs. Bews then introduced Miss Bunting of our Belleville College of Education, who very ably sketched the Sino-Japanese crisis. With the help of excellent coloured maps Miss Bunting commenced by comparing China and Japan in area, in 1937. Then how Japan had annexed Formosa, 1895; Port Arthur, Kwantung and south Manchurian Railway, 1906; Korea, 1910; Tsingtao, 1914; Inland to the south of China, 1918; Manchuria, 1931; down to the present struggle for Northern China.

Miss Bunting has deep sympathy for the suffering and only utters alternatives for her salvation:

1. Intervention of Russia.
2. China might wear down Japan, due to her greater population and resources.
3. A defeat for Japan might bring on a civil war in Japan.

Miss Bunting also had some interesting pictures of Chinese everyday life, reminiscent of her life in China.

Refreshments were served, and a friendly hour enjoyed.

VICTORIAN ORDER HAS BUSY SEASON

Nurses Complete 3615 Visits During Past Seven Months

A brief summary of the past eight months in Victorian Order work was given at the meeting of the Committee by Miss Sookie Rose in Chirge. 3615 visits have been made during this seven months, 2205 of these being free visits.

At a glance one can see how responsible it would be to carry on the work without financial support from other sources, and this brings us to the present financial subject which was so successful last year and we feel that Belleville citizens will measure up again this year.

For the benefit of any who may not understand the term "Associate Membership."

Every community that uses the service of the Victorian Order Organization must be responsible for financing it locally. Although the National office directs the policies of the Order to keep methods of nursing procedures uniform in all districts, yet no financial help is given and since it is not a governmental organization it receives no local government grant so therefore it can only receive its financial support from the community it serves. Since the nursing service is for all members of the community, old and young, men as well as women, whether rich, poor or otherwise, the Board of Directors are giving the people of Belleville an opportunity once a year of showing their appreciation of the community nursing service, by subscribing to a Fund to help finance Victorian Order work locally. This Fund is known as a Membership Drive.

All contributions, large or small, are being much appreciated, and anyone paying $1.00 one dollar or upwards is given the honor of being called a member. This membership does not necessarily mean that contributors need be active workers in the V. O. N. Organization, it simply means that you are part of a large group of people in the community who will make it possible to send the Victorian Order Nurse to families who are facing financial embarrassment through perhaps no fault of their own, and cannot pay much, if any, for the cost of nursing service when it is needed. The above figures quoted to the end of August of this year speaks for themselves. We trust that Belleville citizens will respond generously to our appeal for financial assistance of their Organization.

There are 400 fur farms within the boundaries of the province of Manitoba.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—When your husband doesn't notice that new dress you have on he's not snubbering. He's paying you a compliment.

So said Lucien Le Long, French designer in a lecture before the school for fashion shovers here last night.

"A woman is well-dressed when you can not remember anything she was wearing, even to the color of her dress or the style of her hat," he said.

Hollywood, Sept. 23 (AP)—Lupe Velez, Mexican movie firebrand, has signed a contract with Azteca Films of Mexico City to play the leading role in a romantic picture depicting her country's colorful history. The contract calls for a salary of $12,500 a week, with a minimum of three weeks' work guaranteed.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 20 (CP)—Robert Wadlow of Alton, Illinois, eight feet seven inches of 18-year-old youth, visited Canada for a few hours yesterday.

"I don't mind being so tall and I'm used to people gaping at me," Robert said, "I grew five inches last year and am still growing." Robert weighs 253 pounds.

When his automobile drew up at the customs stand officials thought there were several people in the back, but they found only Robert.

Chester, Cheshire, Sept. 20 (CP) —One Royal Air Force pilot was killed today and another injured with 11 workmen in a fresh airplane crash at Sealand airdrome near here.

The plane crashed near the workmen who were at the old of the trapped fliers. When they were within three feet of the plane, a gasoline tank exploded, enveloping the workmen in a sheet of flame.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 20 (AP)—Robert Henry, 25, is studying the Bible in jail.

Anxious to learn the Ten Commandments, he told police, he went in order to steal a Bible from a minister.

Instead, Judge Cohn said he would defer sentence until Henry memorized the Decalogue. The Commandments to him.

Two hours later Henry was back in court. He thanked.

Hazard, Ky., Sept. 20 (AP) — Stephen McNeish, 42, erstwhile minister, today awaited arraignment on a charge of murdering teacher Jerry Engle, 36, while 50 or more people looked on.

Deputy Sheriff Talbert Holiday said McNeish shot Engle after accusing him of whipping McNeish's 12-year-old son Richard, a pupil.

Old Orchard Beach, Me., Sept. 20 (AP)—Hills shots fired by a Rhode Island priest yesterday brought down a cluster of 25 balloons which broke loose from their post and carried a New York nonwood photographer 2,000 feet into the air.

The cameraman-flier, Al Mitchell, dangled from a rope beneath the runaway balloons, landed safeguard in a tree above the take-off.

A few shots fired by Rev. James Mallen of Old Orchard Beach, found their mark hydrogen escaped from the several punctured balloons and the windborne cluster descended gradually.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 20 (AP)— When Mrs. Minnie Gift, 77, rubbed her aching legs a genie emerged.

Soon she remembered swallowing the needle more than 50 years ago.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 20 (AP)—The old gray mare galloped to the rescue when a bell charged her owner, Joseph O'Connor.

Three years, 13 years old, was grazing when the bell attacked O'Connor in a pasture. He quickly kicked the bell into retreat. O'Connor escaped with minor injuries.

GILEAD

Gilead—Mrs. James Huffman had the misfortune, to fall on the sidewalk in Belleville on Saturday. At first it was feared that her leg was fractured, but by way showed it to be only badly sprained. Everyone hopes for a speedy recovery.

Premier Challenged by Rowe On Issues of Campaign at Local Conservative Rally

prepare at being present and appreciative and be able to hear a message from the next Premier of Ontario who will always be interested in the welfare of the youth of Ontario." The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, all joining together and in co-operation for the welfare of every man and woman in the County of Hastings," said the speaker. He assured his audience he was 100 per cent behind the leader, of the Conservative party and endorsed his policy in every particular.

Candidate Speaks

The chairman of the meeting then called upon Mayor R. D. Arthur, Conservative candidate for West Hastings and the candidate on rising Rowe was greeted by a standing audience, while the band played a rousing tune. Mayor Arthur thanked all for the fine reception stating that it was the first one, that he had received on the same day. "I was not surprised at the reception I received at Belleville on Wednesday afternoon," said the speaker, "for I had established free speech in the Legislature of this Province at the October session when I opposed at Sitting. I asked a simple question at this meeting and why am I defending an election? and proceeded to answer my question. The Premier had four by-elections on his hands and remembering the lesson of the last Hastings by-election decided to call an election."

The speaker had no doubt as to what election West Hastings would be placed in on October 6th and thanked his supporters for the loyal support on that date. "And after what happened at Sitting I am not so dense my supporters and myself will work twice as hard from now until election day," was the speaker's conclusion.

Sharp criticism of the "three plank platform of the Hepburn Administration" and a detailed outline of the "constructive policies of the Conservative party" featured the address of the Conservative leader following a thunderous ovation received, when he stepped to the rostrum. A throng of listeners was present in his speech, the result of enthusiasm speaking in the fair-ring ridings of the province. Mr. Rowe held the attention of his audience on several questions of the day by a soothing denunciation of the present administration.

Commenting on the remarks made by the previous speaker, the Tory party was "nothing but the Old Gang under a false face" Mr. Rowe pointed to Dr. Walsh and Richard Arnott as being representative of good men serving the party opposite, capable and energetic men ever ready to help any party, ones who would add prestige to the "remnant of the discredited government now in power."

Fight Clean Contest

"I have always tried to observe good sportsmanship," he said, "and I do have always fought a clean fight. You won't win this province through any leadership but because the people of Ontario no longer endorse those who create differences between Canada and the Old Land, and who close Ontario House in London and Buckingham Palace to Canada. I know the people of Ontario will not stand for the Hepburn British gestures and the voice, which says it is the conception of the British people. You don't hear Hepburn talking now about closing Ontario House, Regina or England for her debts; all he can talk about now is the three reasons why he went to the country with an election."

He says he must have a mandate to enforce law and order against the working man he refused to trust. What, is a mandate? What more mandate does he want than seventy seats in the house? After Oct. 6th when I have sixty seats in the house I'll call that a mandate." He wants success more than planks, for his planks are finished, he won't take a very big platform to hold the remains of the government. Mr. Speech Part, Mr. Rowe stated, date to collect succession duties, mentioned Mr. Howe, "and says he needs two years to clean up the mess after three years of pussy-footing through graveyards with a lantern looking for unpaid duties."

Mr. Rowe stated that when tallying of the amounts collected, some times he says he has collected forty shillings, then again fifty millions. He says now he will investigate the estates and then $50. After three years of his graveyard search he says he wants two years to collect seventy millions, when all he collected in the past three years was six millions."

Charging that Hepburn "merely endorsed the act established by the best and biggest business man ever at the head of Canadian affairs, the late Sir Henry Thornton," Mr. Rowe declared that Hepburn collected more from one estate quietly than Hepburn did with all his "graveyard" methods. "He only collected 38 million during the past two years, he was merely playing politics."

"My hands are as clean as his," declared the Conservative leader, "and I'll collect every cent owing to this province including $5,000 from the estate Mr. Hepburn knows about. And furthermore we'll collect from Mitchell Hepburn every man who has been getting benefits from Crown lands. Is there one right for Mitchell Hepburn, and another right for the man, who tries to get a timber limit?"

Only a Duty

"The collection of taxes, like the maintenance of law and order is not a question of 'responsibility' of any government in power."

Touching on the "repudiation of Hydro contracts, the Conservative stated that "Hepburn established a precedent he can live to regret from contracts and then found it necessary to ignore the decisions of the courts of Ontario. We are a British province and our integrity is known throughout the world. Ontario's word is as good as her bond and Ontario stands as the Old Land, British province."

Mr. Rowe still the grand champion of repudiation," charged the speaker, "and he has cast the die for the Socialists, that gave the credit the most unprecedented ride to power of the country."

"When he broke Crown contracts with Ontario mines, he cast the die that other provinces had to follow. He had to take this step throughout the world, Ontario's word is as good as her bond and Ontario stands as the Old Land, British province."

TRENTON and DISTRICT

Trenton, Sept. 29 (Special)—When the new pumping machinery is installed at No. 2 spring water well on the John Alyea farm in Murray Township about a mile west of No. 1 well, the residents of Trenton will have double the amount of spring water at their disposal that they have now. According to H. R. Stockdill, manager of the Trenton Public Utilities, the new well came through splendidly and will be utilized in the near future. If necessary the pumps can turn out 1,200 gallons of water a minute when the second well is in use, or four times the amount of water used by the population at present. It is expected that work will commence on the spring water main under the river in a few days. Recently a six inch fresh water pipe to feed the R. C. A. F. station was completed, giving the Air Station much stronger pressure.

St. George's Church Redecorated

After being redecorated completely throughout, St. George's Anglican Church was reopened on Sunday by the Bishop of Ontario, the Right Rev. John Lyons, D.D., of Kingston. Annual harvest service of the church was combined with the renovation service. A capacity congregation saw a beautiful wheat sheaf cross in the chancery of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Morden of Belleville, whose bequest of several thousand dollars to the church made the renovation possible. The evening was by Rev. F. A. Smith, rector of the church, preacher. Archdeacon Ellis Talbot, Cobourg, F. A. Smith read the lessons and the choir sang the evening service. The interior of the church has been re-finished beautifully. New floors and carpets have been laid throughout, and the old cherry seat and chancery have been retained. The main entrance has been completely changed and a new vestibule has been installed. The grounds surrounding the church are in tune with the refurbished church.

Visited Rotary Club

At the regular weekly dinner of the Trenton Rotary Club, Mayor R. Stewart of Colborne, and members of the Gananoque Rotary Club were present. Mayor Stewart, past president of the Gananoque Rotary Club gave an interesting address on Gananoque. Several motion pictures was shown depicting the activities of the Gananoque organization along that line. During the showing of the films Conductors Mayor Stewart acted as commentator. Ted Bird of Gananoque introduced the speaker, a vote of thanks was moved by Kenneth Young, of Trenton. Bert Hawkins, A. E. Bull conducting all present took part in the singing of several old numbers. Leslie Hearn was at the piano.

Alleys Open

The MacKenzie Bowling Academy on Dundas Street opened late last week and already plans are being made to form the R.C.A.F. and town leagues. Both leagues appealed very successfully last year it is expected that a women's league will be established this season, and contests with teams from Belleville and Peterborough is a feminine league.

Rugby in High School

Soccer was dropped and rugby will again be played at the Trenton High School. The English pastime was tried out at the High School last year but did not take with the fans. The first rugby practice took place on Monday afternoon. Mr. Garrett put the group of lads that was present through a number of limbering up exercises. It was announced that Larry Gibson of the R.C.A.F. was engaged as coach and will take command sometime this week.

Golf Notes

Mrs. W. J. Hogarth, Mrs. W. Bain and Mrs. W. McClung were tied for the ladies weekly golf tourney honors on Monday afternoon. At a luncheon after the match Miss Flossie Batchelor acted as hostess. This afternoon the Belleville men's golf club visits the local course and will take part in the final interclub tournament of the season on the Trenton team. Following the match a banquet will be held in the Gilbert Hotel.

Dentist Shoots Gunman Holding Up Bank

Midland, Mich., Sept. 29 AP)—A Midland dentist shot and killed one of four gunmen attempting to hold up the Commercial State Savings Bank, across the street from his office today. Two other robbers were captured, one wounded in the arm. A fourth escaped.

Paul B. Rywster, cashier of the bank, was shot in the hip; Clarence H. McConnell, bank guard, was wounded in the chest, and a Bay City truck driver, passing the institution, was shot and wounded by the robbers who sped in submachine gun.

Dr. F. L. Hardy fired with a shotgun from his office window on the quarter of gunmen fled from the bank. The charge struck one of them in the head and killed him.

SIR H. TWYFORD NEW LORD MAYOR

His Ancestor Sir Nicholas Twyford Held Position 540 Years Ago

London, Sept. 29—(Cable)—Sir Harry Twyford, whose ancestor, Sir Nicholas Twyford, was Lord Mayor 540 years ago, today was elected Lord Mayor of London, succeeding Sir George Broadbridge.

The traditional service in the Church of St. Lawrence Jewry was held in connection with the election, the sheriffs and aldermen driving from the Guildhall in state.

The new Lord Mayor is governing director of George Ivatile and Company, warehousemen and hosiery manufacturers.

The Lord Mayor-elect will assume office Nov. 9, when the Lord Mayor's show will be held, followed by the traditional banquet at the Guildhall in the evening.

STUDENTS HEAR NOISES IN HEAD

Head is "Wired" For Sound at Medical School

Philadelphia, Sept. 29 (AP)—George Yocum, 44-year-old Luzerne County miner, today shared with sympathetic listeners noises in his head that have bothered him for two years.

With his head "wired" for sound, Yocum sat in the Temple University medical school auditorium while 500 students and a score of medical teachers listened. From a loud-speaker came a rhythmic roaring and whistling noise.

Doctors said it was the first successful amplification of the sound caused by a cranial aneurysm (a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain).

In February, 1933, Yocum suffered a fracture of the skull when a pile of loose rock fell on him.

"FAKE" DOCTOR ROBS RECLUSE

Thief Overlooks Two $1,000 Bonds Hidden in House

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP)—A "fake" doctor robbed $7-year-old James Hawkins of $15 and night while the aged man lay helpless in bed at his Ridgetown home where he lives alone. Two $1,000 bonds were overlooked by the thief.

The thief told Hawkins he was sent to examine him by Hawkins' doctor son. After a brief examination he asked for $2 fees. When Hawkins took the money from a small box underneath his pillow, the "doctor" looked at his eyes and decided there was too much light in the room.

As the thief closed the only light in the room he grabbed at the box, took the remaining $8 cash but left the bonds at the bottom. Charles Lovell, a neighbor, who looks after Hawkins, took the bonds for safekeeping to a bank today.

ASKS HUSBAND BE DECLARED DEAD

Paul Redfern, Aviator Missing Since August 1927

Detroit, Sept. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Redfern, whose husband disappeared 10 years ago on an airplane flight to South America, disclosed today she was preparing to ask that he be declared legally dead.

Reds' legends have grown up about the ill-fated aviator since he last was sighted flying 150 miles off the coast of South America on Aug. 26, 1927.

Several expeditions, one of them financed by the Smithsonian Institution, have failed to verify recurrent rumors he was captured by South American savages that he was a captive "god" in some jungle temple, and that he was killed in the crash of his airplane. Rewards failed to bring positive information of his fate.

Mrs. Redfern has been seeking work in Detroit, where she has relatives.

"I feel that my position would be more secure—at least, more natural—if I knew whether I was legally a wife or a widow," she explained.

FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Montreal, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Funeral of Senator Rodolphe Lemieux, who died here last night, will be held Friday. Services will be held in St. Jean Baptiste cathedral at 10 a.m. with the cortege leaving the Senator's home in a private motor hearse-house earlier. Burial will be at Cote Des Neiges Cemetery.

Simply pour a little Hawes' Floor Gloss on floor, spread it with cloth or mop—and that's all there is to it! No rubbing or polishing required. Dries in an hour. Evenly spreads it will not show brush marks. Gives a beautiful, lasting lustre.

DUKE OF KENT PLAYS SELF IN

Only Drove Ball Sixty Yards From First Tee

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 29 —(AP)— The Duke of Kent today "played himself in" as Captain of the royal and ancient golf club by a 60-yard drive off the first tee.

Accompanied by Sir John Simon, the retiring captain, the Duke appeared somewhat nervous as he looked down the fairway where groups of caddies were gathered at the club's clubhouse to retrieve the ball. The best-guessing caddy received a golden sovereign from the Captain.

The Duke took a few waggles and then a full swing, but the ball went only 60 yards— considerably less than the distance marked up by King George when he "played himself in" on a previous occasion. The Duke's caddie handed him the retrieving caddy, presented him with the sovereign and then ate breakfast before starting out in the Club's autumn competition.

SARNIA JUNIORS DEFAULT

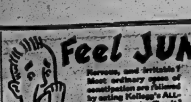
P.E. CALF CLUB WINS PRAISE

Annual Fall Exhibition of Amalgamated Society Held Wednesday

"The general run of the calves shown here today compare favorably with those exhibited in other parts of the province, which demonstrates the effort which has been put forth by the members of this club in attaining such high standards," declared Dr. C. Y. Hopkins, Dominion Animal Husbandman, Branch of the Dominion Government, after judging the calves and poultry of the members of the Prince Edward County Calf Club, at the Amalgamated Park yesterday.

Twenty head of young cattle owned by the youth of Prince Edward County, were on exhibition at the park, in connection with the third consecutive annual exhibition of the club. Ribbons were awarded thirteen calves and six yearlings comprising the entries in the calf club. The members of the Calf Club were awarded points for feeding and management of their animals during the exhibition which was conducted by Dr. Hopkins, Dr. Cecil Lloyd Webster, Agriculturist, Representative for Prince Edward County under the Ontario Government.

The top class of calves and yearlings competed for the Silver Challenge cup of the club, throughout the year.



Generally affected by the interest of provincial standing committee on agriculture at the 32nd annual Amalgamated Park, was noted in the address delivered by Arthur Mitchell, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Harry Redner, Secretary, Harry Redner and their successors.

Mr. Mitchell spoke especially of the "new blood" which is constantly coming to the county, and of the favorable impression made upon the eye of the feminine visitors and beautiful Prince Edward County scenery.

Also a feature of the exhibition was the parade of prize winning animals, judged, and shown by the members of the club.

Following the judging by Dr. Hopkins, a representative of the Government representative and the qualifications necessary for passing the Government test examinations, tried by the boys of the club. Following are the results in the calf section were announced: 1st, David Whitehall, Shiloh, Hillier; 2nd, Leland Donsee, Demorestville; 3rd, Douglas Black, Hillier; 4th, R. R. No. 7; Donald Thompson, Picton; Ralph Simmons, Demorestville; 5th, Lloyd Wright, Belleville R. R. No. 1; Wm. Nightingale, Belleville R. R. No. 7; David Walker, Belleville R.R. No. 7; Ralph Clow, Northport; Clarence Chard, Starr and Bert Cannons, all of Mountain View.

In the yearling competition of the club, Floyd Huffman of Mountain View was judged first, for his dairy and calf-raising, Leland Donsee, second, Robert Cairns, third, Roland Starr, fourth, Lough, and Ralph Richards followed in order.

INSTALMENT 12.

Standing at Jerry's back, Polly stared down at the empty stand floor where she had expected to see Jerry Marco's body in anticipation of that unwholesome sight her nerves had braced and were set. Polly, fully aware of the acceleration of her heart-beat, was conscious of the dank, gray walled-in stairs. She had not thought to wear her hat and coat; some where a short time before had been tossed carelessly across the railing. Her hair, disarranged and loosened, was pushed back from her forehead and rested heavily on her shoulders. Absently she let the exhibition which was conducted by Dr. Hopkins, Dr. Cecil Lloyd Webster, Agriculturist, Representative for Prince Edward County under the Ontario Government.

A ROSE IN HER HAIR

A rose by any other name—even "chapeau"—is still a beautiful thing to look at. Particularly is that true when the accompanying beauty is as charming as Miss Lucy Saunders, society girl who is pictured at Belmont Park, N.Y., wearing something different in the way of millinery. A mate of robin's egg blue crepe draped to resemble a rose perched on top of her head.

through his and laughed, softly, "Oh, Jerry, you're such a pouty! You're still angry because I screamed, aren't you?"

"I'm not angry," he said. "I'm disappointed. Until then you gave every evidence of having more intelligence."

"But I couldn't let you go down there alone, and I was afraid to go back—then. Don't be like that, darling."

Abruptly he jerked the reddish head around and kicked the brake pedal. The car came to a stop with a protesting screech. He turned around and looked down at her, frowning.

"What did you say?"

"You heard me, mister," Polly returned, feeling increasingly brazen with Jerry?"

Polly had a mental picture of herself as she had seen on the floor by Purdell's desk. Suddenly she looked up at Jerry.

"Jerry, do you suppose it could have been the Frog Baby?"

Jerry frowned. "Frog Baby?"

"The little brown figure that disappeared in the fire."

"Say...." His eyes lighted up. "I'll bet a new hat against a dime nut that's the answer. He took that figure from the desk and——"

"Oh! did you mean."

"He or she, have it your own way, after Purdell was killed for 'he,' smartly. He took the 'Frog Baby' from the file and stuck it away where it would be handy."

"Not in the House," Polly said with a shudder. "We would have found it."

"In the house," Jerry said, firmly. "Maybe he didn't intend to, but very far from it. That thing must have meant extraordinary rewards. You don't think he carried it around in his pocket do you? His whole big head, every ditto, the sap use a gun. I wonder? A nice little automatic would do the job like that more efficiently, and would certainly be easier to carry around."

"Automatics," said Polly, "make noise."

"But you say you heard a shot go off. What's the difference whether you shoot a man or kill him some other way and fire a shot just for effect?"

Polly's head came around. "You think the person who killed Purdell fired the shot Tag and I heard?"

"Certainly. There's no other reasonable explanation. For the murderer to kill him, the murderer wanted the body found right then. Long the chances are he meant for you to find it. Suppose he is standing outside, on the porch maybe, when you come downstairs the first time. He hears Tod call you and goes up to get you again. Clearly, he figures that as soon as you've taken one look you'll come down again. And he probably figures, too, that because of the draft of the 'Frog Baby' and the formula, you're keyed up for trouble, and you'll run right away, shooting. It did, you know."

Polly didn't say anything. She was remembering Julian coming in from the porch, darting into the library.

TO BE CONTINUED.

YOUR WATER BALANCE MUST BE MAINTAINED

One of the amusing yet pathetic sights is to see a boxer step on the scales at 3 p.m., expecting to weigh the required weight and find himself three-quarters of a pound overweight. He is allowed an hour to get this extra weight off and has to indulge in severe exercise or have his trainer try to rub some of the moisture or water from his skin.

The cause of his being overweight is most cases is careless eating, taking foods—water, tea, coffee, soft drinks; he forgets that these liquids weight something. Most persons have knowledge of the weight of water, get down to within one or two pounds of the required weight twenty-four hours before weighing in time, and do without liquids (except what is in the food). They then come in at the required weight or under and do not have to undergo the physical work or undergo the hazard of removing weight. These boxers immediately drink some water after being weighed as they realize that their bodies must have plenty of water—the proper water balance—if they are to be strong for the bout in the evening.

Those who are not boxers, jockeys, or others who have to "make weight" should remember that water is necessary for all the tissues and all the workings or processes of the body.

Dr. F. A. Cutler, Ann Arbor, Michigan, Indiana, State Medical Association Journal points out that excessive loss of body water through vomiting, diarrhoea, or drainage from large abscesses or sores must be measured and put back in the body (in the form of water) after the loss, continued over a number of days, and not restored to the body in sufficient amounts will result in a great loss of needed body fluid, in spite of the fact that the individual appears to be taking plenty of fluids."

"In cases where the patient cannot drink water for various reasons two quarts of water should be allowed for for each degree of evaporation and three pints for the body temperature. In this amount (3 1-2 quarts) should be added the amount found in the urine and excretions or other cases."

"A patient deprived of water should be given fluid equal to 4 per cent of his body weight and his water balance kept. Any disturbance of water from intestine should be replaced by salt solution, and if vomiting occurs, it should be given as 5 per cent. dextrose (sugar) in distilled water, 1 pint every 6 hours, injected into and under the skin.

SCENE 1: A corridor in the Los Angeles Hall of Justice. It is filled with people, all of the end, guarded by two stalwarts in uniform, are two others, obviously detectives. A PERSON COURT—DEPARTMENT: 71.

A steady hum of talk arises. We are privileged to overhear the following scraps of conversation between two gentlemen in the very front rank:

1st GENT: Say, Al, are you sure Lily'll be here?

2nd GENT: Why, absolutely! My cousin knows her personally. She's a peach, I'm telling you. Say, I hope she beats the case! Pity that a beautiful girl has allegations of affections! Probably all a frame-up, and——

(Behind them there is a sudden commotion. A man's voice booms above the others.)

Behind them there is a sudden commotion. A man's voice booms above the others.

(Scene 2: The courtroom an hour later. Every seat is filled with eager spectators stand. In the witness box, Polly, beautiful, glamorous lady of the films. At her left is the judge upon his rostrum. Before her stands the attorney for the prosecution.)

PLAINTIFF'S ATTORNEY: Did you, on the night of February 29th, accompany the plaintiff's husband, Jerome W. Shimp, to Sherry's Night Club, and there remain until the following morning?

LILY (sweetly): Could you repeat that?

PL. ATTY: Oh, never mind. Your Honor, I offer photographs of Mr. Shimp's car and Viola Longs as Exhibit 1.

LILY'S ATTY. (leaping up): I object! This proceeding have no established connections with the case.

JUDGE: (Severely) Overruled.

LILY: Thank you, Judge.

PL. ATTY. (suavely): Now, Miss La Belle! have you an affidavit from Epstein and Murphy, dealers in antiques, stating that you purchases to the amount of twenty-six hundred dollars worth of goods on Shimp's account and delivered them to 713 North Hyacinth Place. Is that correct?

LILY: Why, I've just moved. I have no place with a garden.

PL. ATTY.: I protest this line of questioning is entirely irrelevant and entirely crack-brained!

PL. ATTY. GOODLY: If counsel for the defense will step into the hall with me a moment, I shall be happy to show him the proof.

JUDGE: Gentlemen! Restrain yourselves! (Addressing plaintiff's attorney.) Proceede, but please confine your line of the facts set forth in the complaint.

PL. ATTY.: May it please the court, I have prepared a list of well-known men whose names have been authentically linked with that of the defendant at various times. I will read this list upon the record as correlative evidence.

(His commences, amidst the profound attention of the court. As he proceeds, a rather furious change comes over the face of Lily. Fingers, noticeably, and his eyes fasten unpleasantly upon the man who speaks.)

PL. ATTY.: Very well. Your honor we have presented overwhelming testimony that this (His recapitulation is really most convincing; but no one is looking at the lights at attention. The eyes have it—and Lily Lee La Belle!)

PL. ATTY.: ..... and so I ask that my client receive the proper consideration for the loss of Jerome W. Shimp's affections. Plaintiff rests.

LILY'S ATTY.: Defense rests.

JUDGE (forgetfully): Having heard the arguments and carefully weighed the evidence in this case, I, Albert Alonzo Smith, do now find for the plaintiff and award damages in the sum of fifty dollars.

(A single gasp sweeps the chamber. Attorneys for the plaintiff slumps grossly in his chair.)

LILY'S ATTY.: Your honor, I hereby give notice of appeal.

(Lily steps from the witness stand with smiling, majestic grace, to be met by photographers' flashes and to receive praise from her lawyer. Our two Gentlemen of Scene 1 emerge from the crowd, near the front, and one of them are eavesdroppers on their conversation.)

1st. GENT: Some trial! But, say—what about that lawyer of hers? He acted like he was her press agent, too.

2nd GENT (incredulously): Don't you know who he is? Why, that's Lily La Belle's husband, you chuck. Lily La Belle handles things like this for her.

Duke of Windsor Visited By L. Hore-Belisha

Paris, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A visit to the Duke of Windsor by T. O. Carter, chief clerk accountant of the Privy Purse office of the King's household in London, gave rise to speculation by the Duke's friends that affairs were under discussion.

Carter made the trip to Paris especially to see the Duke, whose stay in Paris also was marked yesterday by his first conversation with a British Cabinet minister since the abdication. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, attending French army manoeuvres, called at the Duke's hotel.

Stirling and District Ministerial Assoc. Meets at Stirling

Central Hastings Group Attend First of The Fall Meetings

Stirling, Sept. 30.—Resuming activities after the summer recess the Central Ontario Ministerial Association met in Stirling on Monday afternoon, when the members of the organization and their wives were guests at the home of Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Kofford of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Among the most important business transactions of the day was the election of officers for the coming year and the following group were elected to the various positions:

President, Rev. Canon Swayne of Bonarlaw; vice-president, Rev. W. J. Scott, of Stirling; secretary, Rev. James E. Beckel of Tweed and the Church Circuit.

Arrangements were also completed for a retreat to be held in November in Madoc, Ont. The matter of leading relief for the drought area of the Canadian west was also dealt with. Contributions of canned fruit loaded, one in Madoc on October 12 and 13, and in Stirling October 13.

Rev. Wilkinson Speaks.

The guest speaker of the day was Rev. Wilkinson of India. Having spent considerable time in mission work in India Rev. Wilkinson with the aid of a motion picture machine gave a most interesting and educational illustrated address on that strange land. At the conclusion of the meeting Wednesday was served by the hostess and a brief social period enjoyed. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. A. S. McConnell of St. John's Anglican Church Stirling Rev. Canon Swayne, Rector of Bonarlaw, Rev. Wilkinson, Rev. and Mrs. W. Harding, Rev. E. R. Lashley, Rev. I. E. Kennedy, Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Kofford, Rev. R. D. Rodgers, Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Tristram, Rev. and Mrs. Beamy, Rev. Herrington and Mrs. Jean Herrington, Rev. and Mrs. James E. Beckel.

62nd Anniversary Carmel U. Church.

Carmel United Church according to official records enjoyed the most successful anniversary of its history when packed congregations crowded the church auditorium on Sunday to join in the celebration of its sixty-second anniversary. Extra seating accommodation had to be arranged on short notice as visitors from other congregations who withheld their services in co-operation came from all parts of the district. The completion of the redecoration of the church and the wide array of flowers that banked the pulpit presented an impressive sight of beauty to the visitors. Special music by the choir under the capable direction of Mrs. Arthur Fyear was another interesting feature of the services held in the morning and evening. Rev. H. W. Rowland of Peterboro, former pastor of the Stirling and Carmel pastorate charge was the special speaker of the day and delivered inspiring messages at both services. Particularly at the evening worship, when his message was directed to the younger members of the congregation and dealt with problems facing them in every day life. Special music by the choir in the morning service included two anthems exceptionally well given and a soprano solo by Miss Nita Carlisle. In the evening the music included two anthems by the choir and a sacred selection by a vocal quartet, consisting, of Mrs. Percy Hubble, Miss Nita Carlisle, Mr. E. J. Fyear and Mr. Harry Bracy.

The evening services at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling and Mount Pleasant United Church were withdrawn so that all could join in worship and once again hear Rev. H. W. Rowland who is well known throughout the district.

Over 500 Attend Supper.

Crowning the very successful spiritual service of the Sabbath was the annual chicken supper held on the Monday following, when the ladies of the congregation catered to the largest gathering ever assembled in the history of the church. Over five hundred persons were served in the dining hall and the church was again filled to its doors by many who remained for the program. Rev. W. J. Scott, minister of the congregation, acted as chairman for the evening and greetings were brought from other churches in the district by Rev. Tristram, West Huntingdon; Rev. Beckel and Rev. Lane, Frankford. Musical numbers on the program were provided by the Austin Quartette of Wooler. The Sulphide Male Quartette and Miss F. MacDonald, musical supervisor of the Ontario Department of Education, Mrs. Hayton of Rawdon and Mrs. Charles Dracup of Stirling, well known elocutionists, also contributed numbers in the completion of a splendid program.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble and family and Mr. and Mrs. F. Jeffs of Rawdon were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Fyear.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greenley of Wartworth, Ont., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlisle.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sandercock of Belleville visited friends and relatives in Stirling and district this week.

Miss Ada King of Toronto is visiting at the home of Rev. J. A. Kofford and Mrs. Kofford.

Rev. R. W. Rowland of Peterboro and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker and family of Stirling spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fyear.

Rev. and Mrs. MacMillan and family of Burnbrae visited friends in Stirling on Monday.

Changes of Residence.

During the past few days several Stirling families have changed their place of residence. Mr. and Mrs. E. Palmer have moved from Front St. to Church St., and will make their home on the property known as the Tomlinson house. Mrs Sarah Knox has moved from her former home on the Campbellford road to the home formerly occupied by the late Mrs. M. Bird. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Chanston and family who for the past couple of years have lived in the east end of the village have moved into an apartment on Emily street, Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis and family of Toronto who have been camping at Oak Lake during the summer have moved into the home formerly occupied by Mr. R. W. Mathiejohn, who has moved up to apartments on North street.

Friends at Queensboro Honoured Newly Married Couples

Queensboro—On Monday evening friends and neighbors numbering over one hundred met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thompson, Queensboro, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson who were recently married.

During the evening Rev. R. D. Snelgrove called the crowd to order and Miss Freda Sager read the following address:—

Queensboro, Sept. 30, 1937

To Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson,—

Dear John and Marguerite,—

We, your friends and neighbors have gathered here tonight to convey to you both, our best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

John, you have always lived here. Some of us have known you from childhood and others have grown up with you and we have always found you willing to help in every way you could anything that was asked of you and we sincerely hope that the other journey you have started on may be happy and prosperous.

To Marguerite, although you have not lived amongst us you are not a stranger and we heartily welcome you into our community. We hope you will make as many friends here as you did in your own neighborhood.

Signed on behalf of our citizens we ask you to accept this library table.

Signed on behalf of your friends Roy Tokley, Bernard Barry, Gerald Glover, Alma Love.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson made a suitable reply thanking their friends for the gift. Lunch to which all did ample justice was served by the ladies and the remainder of the evening was spent in visiting and dancing.

On Wednesday evening Sept. 22 a large crowd of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rollins, Cooper, to spend a social evening with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson (nee Marguerite Rollins) and Marguerite Parks (nee Phyllis Parks read the following address and the couple were presented with two wicker chairs from the community, a magazine rack from the Young People's Society and a table cloth from the Women's Institute.

Cooper, Sept. 22, 37

Dear Marguerite and John,—

We, your friends of this community took this opportunity of coming to you on your good wishes. It is more pleasing to us in times of this that we are permitted to share with you for a little while the joy and happiness which should be yours at this period of your life. We rejoice with you for in the words of the poet:

O fortunate, O happy Day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriad homes of earth
Like a new star just sprung to birth.

And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space.

The bride having lived in this locality since childhood has won for herself many friends. Her sterling good qualities and example of Christian devotion as well as her associates — a veritable ray of sunshine wherever she went for she brought cheer and happiness into the lives of those whose privilege it was to associate with her.

Though not as well acquainted with your husband we realize he is to be commended in choosing as his life partner one who has endeared herself to all.

Our hope is that the coming years may be full of happiness while your lives long an influence for good on all with whom you come in contact.

Please accept these rookers as a token of the esteem in which you are held and as you use them may they recall this happy event.

Signed on behalf of the community,

Dear Marguerite,—

We, the members of the Young Peoples Union, wish to offer you our very best wishes. May your married life be a happy one. We ask you to accept this small token of appreciation for your ever-willing and efficient help in our society at all times.

The Giants could have done the ir part yesterday afternoon by ne of a double bill with the Phillies, but Manager Bill Terry's 20th victory, the ers Terriers needed only the one ory, slipped a mental mail- a home with the bases ded in the ninth inning, ndidly Thieving by Lefty La- gave the Phils a 5-4 edge nightcap.

Yankees Double Up

The Yankees, tuning up for the ld Series opener with the Chi- 1-2-4 with a 15-hit attack in first game of their bargain bill Manager Smith a south- with plenty of pitching poison, ted them 3-0 with the lone hit Pirates, which was called ne darkness.

The Pirates' seventh-inning fire- ignited whipped Cy Blanton ory, Dave Dodgens and ers were rained out.

Doubleheaders are coming ay-a-day division out of the World- ed Series. The Senators have ed behind Lefty Grove, and 7-6 ictory Monday afternoon effective ly cut the Athletics' margin behind to squeeze out a 7-6 victory over Detroit Thursday. Cleve- ll managed only an even break ainst the White Sox, taking the 2-4 in 10 innings, on Frankie Pytlak's game-wrecking ble with the bases loaded and ubsequent 4½-inning nightcap 1-0.

Belleville Panthers Lose Tough Game to Garrison

Winning Point Scored After Field Time Ex- pired

FORWARD PASS WINS

Kingston, Sept. 30.—(CP)—A sen- sational finish that saw the win- ning point scored on the last play of the game gave Kingston Garri- son a 7-6 victory over Belleville in the first game of the Kingston Inter- mediate Ontario Rugby Football Union group and the opening fix- ture of the season here. A 6-1 lead Belleville had held since early in the second quarter ap- peared enough to give them the game, but the soldiers came through with a major score as the final whistle was blowing and the con- vert proved the point that won for Garrison.

Garrison scored a point in the first quarter on a rouge kicked by Agnew, and clung to their slim margin until the second period when a kick by Johnson hit the goal posts. In the ensuing scramble McCreary recovered and went over for a touchdown that was converted by Johnson.

Belleville flashed some smart ball during the first half but found the soldiers and in the last quarter put up a determined attack when ploughing through the centre of the line for a long gain of 30 yards to the Garrison's 20-yard line.

With one minute to play Dunn threw a forward pass to Houston, who pounded over the Belleville line for a major score. At this point full time had expired but Dunn was had to be allowed for the convert. Houston, however, dropped over the point from placement to give the soldiers the win.

Belleville—Flying wing, Yanover; halves, Odell, Johnson, Shreiber; quarter, Hood; scrimmage, Wil- liams, Perkins, Faux; middles, Ripley, Lanthier, Outside, Burns, Hafey; subs, McCreary Kelly, Baker, Brad- ford, Ireland, Whitman, McDonald, Minor.

Kingston Garrison—Flying wing, Dunn; halves, Strachan, Downie, Ewford; quarter, Houston; snap, Wright; middles, Simson, Huston; Stolen, Sanderson, Anderson and Stroud, Sherriff; subs, Lew, Birch, McConnell, Pyle, Goldery, Vivian, Pullen, Cole, Vallee.

COLUMBUS WINS OVER THE BEARS

Poor Base Running by Charley Keller Lost Pastime

Newark, N.J., Sept. 30 (AP)— Base-running say the oldtimers, isn't what it used to be when Ty Cobb was ghosting around the paths. But it still a fine art that can mean the difference between winning and losing a ball game.

Ask the Newark Bears about it and they'll agree both observations are correct.

They learned something about it in the first game of the Little World Series yesterday, their lat- est conspicuous novelty to their losing 5-4 to the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association. Charley Keller was the goat three times was picked off twice—tossing one run for the second—and himself as a scoring threat the second time.

A four-hit, four-run spree in the seventh chased Lon Begga from the mound and won the game for the Association champions.

JOHN MONTAGUE A REAL GOLFER

Never Played Course Before But Scored 65, Five Under Par

Port Washington, N.Y., Sept. 30 —(CP)—Those scoffers who believe the golfing prowess of mysterious John Montague of California is a mere myth might consider his game over North Hempstead Coun- try Club.

Monty had never played the course before. But he toured the 6,300-yard layout yesterday with a 35, five strokes under par.

Playing with the California mys- tery man, the former Laverne Moore of Upper New York State, was Orantland Rice, sports columnist; Alex Morrison, golf teacher; and Clarence Budington Kelland and Dr. Leander Newman of the North Hempstead Club.

Montague, who hob-nobbed with Hollywood's elite of the cinema world until his real identity became known, had five birdies and was putting for others all the way, in- stead of the customary pars. His card of 32-33 was one stroke above the course record set by Harry Deldeo, a professional, almost 10 years ago.

CHICAGO FATHER CHAINS DAUGHTER, 11

Gloria Repole, 11 years old, is shown with a police officer in the Chicago station house to which she was taken when she was found in her home with chains padlocked to her ankle. The father, who later appeared at the police station, said he had chained the girl because she wouldn't stay home.

Founding Joe Begga, ace Newark moundsman, late in the seventh, the Columbus Red Birds surprised the baseball realm by defeating the Newark Bears 5-4 in the first game of the little world's series yesterday.

TRENTON GOLFERS ARE UNDEFEATED

Complete Season's Play With Win Over Belleville Club

Trenton, Sept. 30 (Special)—The Trenton men's golf team became undefeated inter-club champions of the Bay of Quinte district yester- day afternoon when they outpoint- ed the Belleville men's club 9½ to 1½. The contest was the last inter- club affair of the season and was marked with success from every angle. Weather conditions were per- fect and had a lot to do with the splendid brand of golf displayed by both the visitors and their op- ponents' performers. Tommy Carruth- ers, O. H. Scott and H. Drew, members of the invading squad turned in fine victories over their opponents while F. O. McAllister, F. O. Peterson, Dr. F. L. Reid and Dr. Lang did the same for the home- steaders. By virtue of the win the Trenton aggregation chalked up their fifth successive triumph of the season. Players and points:

POLO GROUNDERS GRAND SHORT-END BET TO LICK YANKS

By Gayle Talbot
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—There's been something downright uncanny about the "hard luck" of the Giants, this season.

If Col. Bill Terry's forces had been afflicted with only a little more of the miseries they might have clinched the National Baseball League flag weeks ago.

Drop them on their heads and they come up wearing a wreath of roses. Deal them a really scurvy hand from the bottom of the deck and they'll take the jack pot. That's what their rivals say, anyway, and it's one of the reasons why the Polo Grounders are a grand short- end bet to lick the plunging Yan- kees in the play-off starting next Wednesday.

The failure of Lou Chiozza to fill Travis Jackson's old shoes at third base; Terry's decision to pull Melvin Ott out of right field and, in desper- ation, plant him at the hot corner; the knee was too bad. With Ott in there, the Giants dropped 15 out of their last 20 games.

Dashing Comes Through

Then, entering the home stretch, Gus Mancuso, the team's great catcher, was felled. There was no mourning among the Giants' sup- porters. It lasted clear until the day, this week, when the home Dashing picked the bench splinters out of his pants and moved over to backstopping.

The rest, from that "made" the Giants, of course, was the shifting of Ott to third base. His inspired play, Medwick and Vaughan has fitted in with Dick Bartell at short- stop, Gilbert Brown at second base and the freshman, Jack McCarthy, at first after the Terrymen as ob- vious bulge over the Yankee infield. Ott, leading home run hitter of the National League, is back in right above "Red" Rolfe of the Yanks on defense. Burgess Whitehead at Crosetti at short for the American Leaguers nor did Tony Lazzeri as second in Billy Rhad enough to dent a tomato. Bartell and White- head, Brown and Lazzeri, Medwick and the figures, have it all over them.

OSHAWA BEATEN BY TORONTO TEAM

G. & W. Score 4-3 Win After Free-For-All in 9th Frame

Toronto, Sept. 30.—G. & W. Toronto's senior baseball champ- ions evened the score with Oshawa Motors 4 to 3 in the final series by scoring a 4 to 3 win at Maple Leaf Stadium on Wednesday. Jake Biddle, Oshawa's ace hurler, hit pinch-hitter Norm Fisher with the bases loaded in the ninth frame of a game that had everything from razz- berting, fine hitting, excellent fielding, and a free-for-all.

Irish Rasson turned in one of his best games of the season, mix- ing a beautiful assortment of ball to hold the provincial champs, Oshawa, to eight hits. The free- for-all that broke out in the eighth frame, was immediately charged Dowling after crossing the plate with the winning run.

Dowling, after recovering Gir- oux's throw which had been knock- ed out of his hands at second, tossed to Rasson, who covered the plate and tagged Dowling as he came on the same play. Rasson tagged Bennett with a left hook. Dowling tore into Hurst, and nearly every member of both teams mixed in a short but furious battle. Only Oshawa dug-out C. and W. coach, "Hap" Watson and Rasson, came some away with scars and a couple of the G-men fared along the same line before the game resum- ed.

Johnny Turner held the Distill- ers in good style till the last when a fumbled ball at centre field on base with none out. Biddle stepped in at this stage and after Wilson had struck out, Fisher sent in the tying run with a single. Then Dowling walked, filling the bases and Moffatt, hitting for Rasson was hit to force in the winning run.

Outweighed considerably along the line the Belleville Panthers battled the Kingston Garrison gridders courageously at Richard- son Stadium yesterday, only to lose in the dying moments by the count score of 7 to 6. The amalgamated "soldier" team from the Limes- tone City proved to be a man- moth squad carrying much avoir- dupois, but the Panthers moved into the fore when McCreary dribbled the ball some 65 yards after the Garrison had fumbled. This play resulted in McCreary eventually regaining an attempted placement, that hit the bar, and racing over for a touch, that was converted. With the score stand- ing 6 to 1, late in the last quarter, the Garrison team put two successive forwards for substantial gains and a subsequent touch that was con- verted and gave the homesters ultimate victory.

The Panthers have lost their first two starts, but we still be- lieve that Coach Duffield's squad have what it takes to make a winning team. We did not see the pastime, but unbiased spectators inform us that the offending was anything but in favour of the Panthers. As true sportsmen the locals did not re- sort to the dirty belittling of officials, but on the other hand the Panthers battled ferociously against the breaks, with officials for their games always being taken from those points. The Panthers displayed more than the aver- age amount of fight and we're yet to be reckoned with in the group. Ask the Fire boys who witness- ed yesterday's game.)

Eddie Perkins, playing his initial game of the season, sustained an injury to his knee early in the game and was not expected to start on from that point. The work of Mose Rigby along the line was good and that could be expect- ed, as a matter of fact "Taran" really went to town, when it came to blocking and tackling. Bud Johnson, who was moved into the backfield last week, turned in a stellar effort also. The Panthers have two down, but all they have to do is win their next two games and they'll be in the intermediate "B" semi-finals simply because the scores count in the final reckoning. Coach Archie Duffield is far from discouraged, while his charges realize they are the team still to be reckoned with in local football circles.

Toronto's veteran baseball mentor, Pal Dowling, who has done much to keep senior ball alive in the Queen City the past few years, thinks very high- ly of Bob Greer, former Wilson- ville and Bellville athlete. "Greer resembles Mickey Cochrane more than any catcher I've seen in re- cent years. The boy has every thing required by a good receiver and can hit," stated the veteran, when he even rated Greer next to his own Roy Downing, of the G. and W. mite, considered by Sunny Morgan and other Toronto baseball auth- orities as tops in the T.A.B.A.A. Further, Manager Downing rec- commends Greer to Dan Howley of the Toronto Leafs as splendid material for another year. Greer has been playing with Toronto with abandon ever since joining Skipper Downing's squad in the Fit League, the identical spot where "Goody" Rosen, former Toronto batsman who is starring with the Brooklyn Dodgers, got his start.

Whenever Greer's name is men- tioned in connection with baseball it recalls the day he first appeared in a Belleville baseball line-up; "Peeney" Mills had broken a finger and was unable to don the catch- er's paraphernalia for the opening game of the 1933 season. Peeney, having sustained the traitum dur- ing the pre-season period. At any rate Greer was drafted into ser- vice at the last moment. The club officials had contacted Greer and he agreed to come to Belleville, but no mention or catching had been made. Ten minutes before game time no signs of Greer were in evidence and the management of the National was anything but at ease, when suddenly Greer appear- ed on the scene. It was game time, Greer was of ten opnion he was playing in the outside, when sudden- ly Manager "Peeney" Mills dir- ected him to put on the catcher's equipment. In amazement Greer turned to Mills and actually shout- ed—"who me?" Upon receiving an answer in the affirmative, Greer went out to distinguish himself in his first senior O.B.A.A. game, and he has been improving ever since.

The following epistle was com- posed and penned by our ancient and honorable contemporary sport scribe, and deserves due considera- tion. It reads:

—We enter the following Ten Commandments of the Gridiron: Thou shalt not commit murder in a profane manner on the field nor out of it. Thou shalt not deliber- ately injure an opponent nor be injured; & Remember that the rules pay too insipid in football; 4. Thou must not be sucked in on a fake play; 5. Honor them with neither mercy nor malice, or thou will be berated; 6. Thou shalt open up play, forgetting straight rugby, when down in the fourth quarter; 7. Give all thou hast every minute of the game, except only of 2 & Thou shalt not mutter "Thou fool!" to a teammate lest thou be one on the next play; 9. Thou shalt not memorize the rules, thereby causing confusion among the officials; 10. Thou must never quit trying whether winning or losing.

It's all even in the senior O.B.A.A. finals, the Toronto G. and W. being Oshawa 4-3 yes- terday, but the game was not played without incident, however. The veteran Irish Rasson bested the mitted Turner in the Limestone City 4-3 victory. Turner and Jake Biddle as he limited the Motor City-quad to eight hits. Dowling came in the eighth frame and a general free-for-all ensued with both the players of both teams participat- ing. What a merry old battle the third game of a three-in-five series will be at Oshawa on Saturday. To start the Fox-fac- ed the diminutive Pay Hurst is reported to have charged Catcher Roy Dowling. Rasson is said to have tagged Bennett with a left hook and Dowling had point it was every man for himself, but don't take that first sock.

STERLING TOWER — TORONTO

LORD TWEEDSMUIR NAMED NEW HEAD

Invested as Grand Master of The Order of Good Templars

(By Arthur Merkel)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Annapolis Royal, N.S., Sept. 30—(CP)—Lord Tweedsmuir was installed as Grand Master of the Order of Good Time today in a ceremony that rolled time back three centuries, to the years when Champlain, de Monts and Poutrincourt acted in that office at Port Royal, first settlement north of Florida in America.

After flying here from Charlottetown, the Governor General of the Dominion was presented with the robe and chain of office as Grand Master in America's oldest fraternal society by Lieutenant Governor George Irwin of Nova Scotia, who acted as Master of Ceremonies.

Past and present were linked in the simple installation ceremony. French Premier Albert Lebrun was honored by presence of Acadian inhabitants of Nova Scotia; Indian chiefs of the once-great Micmac tribe were present and smoked the Pipe of Peace with Lord Tweedsmuir.

Surroundings were filled with memories of the old French regime in Acadia. Close at hand were the mounds and buildings of France's historic fort at Port Royal, centre of the great fight between France and Britain for possession of North America.

Cost of Living Mounts to $17.48 For Weekly Budget

Ottawa, Sept. 30 (CP)—The cost of living mounts, Figures issued yesterday by the Labor Department show the weekly budget of the average Canadian family for food and shelter rose to $17.48 in August from $17.24 in July and $16.72 in August 1936.

The index has been rising steadily from 1933. In August of that year it was 113.92. In the boom year of 1929 it was up to 121.90 which was still below the post-war peak of 126.60 in 1920.

The food budget has climbed to $8.8? from $8.17 in the past year and the weekly rent average for a modern city house of six rooms has increased to $6.97 from $6.71. Fuel and light costs reduced, however, to $2.77 from $2.80.

Wages Disgraceful, Comments Magistrate

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)—"It is an absolute disgrace that any company should pay a man $6 a week to drive a truck and expect him to live on that," said Magistrate Watt in Court today with reference to Harold V. Biehl of Kitchener, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft from Bryden's Gasoline Station. The amount involved in the two charges was nearly $60.

Biehl, an employee of a Waterloo laundry, was sentenced to 15 days in the County Jail.

"I will give no severe punishment as your wages are disgracefully small and you might easily have been tempted," said the Magistrate.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, Sept. 30.—Local produce markets were steady to higher yesterday. Butter prices moved up cheese ruled firm, while eggs, potatoes and poultry were steady. Receipts were 2,228 cases of eggs, no butter and 5,195 boxes of cheese, excluding truck arrivals.

There were no sales at the Canadian Commodity Exchange, where spot Quebec fresh No 2 score butter was quoted at the close at 31 cents bid. Small lots to the retail trade were mainly 27 1-2c for solids and 28c for prints, with some sales at 1-2c more.

No. 1 Ontario cheese was 14 3-8c to 14 1-2c for white and 14 1-2c to 14 5-8c for colored.

On the egg market graded shipments in cartels or 1-1. lots in free cases were selling as follows: 37-38c for A-large 35-36c for A-medium 30c for A-pullets, 26c for B and 21c for C.

HOGS

Toronto, Sept. 30 —(CP)—A downward trend was indicated in hog prices on Ontario markets reporting today, with decreases in liveweights and dressed weights quoted in two cents. Chatham and Peterborough each reported a 25-cent drop in liveweights and Chatham dressedweights were down 40 cents to $12.60. Peterborough dressedweights declined 35 cents to $12.75.

Liveweights — Brantford $10; Hull $9.50; Peterborough $9.65; Stratford $9.75; London $9.75; Chatham $9.25.

Dressedweights—Hull $13.00; Kitchener $13; Peterborough $12.75; Stratford $13; London $13; Barrie $13.45; Chatham, dar ..nnli? .il 17 ol??j

LABADIE CASE READY FOR JURY

Defence Counsel Argues Youth's Mentality Deficient

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)—Defence Counsel W. S. Haney asked a hurried Court jury today to bring in a verdict "other than guilt" in the murder trial of William Labadie, charged with the killing of John Lickina, seven.

"The whole facts can be a verdict which will not necessarily mean the rope must go around this boy's neck," Mr. Haney said in a 45-minute speech as the trial of the 17-year-old farm hand drew to a close. "We are taught not to pick on a cripple and if you are satisfied you have a mental cripple before you, I suggest you have reasons based on facts, that will warrant you bring in a verdict other than one of guilt."

He pleaded for acquittal of Labadie, 17, on three points: the mental deficiency of the 17-year-old youth, the effect of the confession and the burden of proof on the 17-year-old accused with the intelligence of a 10-year-old child and the absence of any motive for the commission of the crime.

Mr. Haney reviewed the case. Counsel said that during the trial much evidence was given by the two psychiatrists, who had examined Labadie on separate occasions.

CAPTURED WHILE ROBBING A SAFE

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)—Captured today while attempting to rob a safe in the centre of Ford Products, Ltd., here, Joseph Lapine, 40, former member of the provincial police force, and Walter Prestyko, 23, Windsor, completion, were remanded eight days on appearance in police court. Lapine, shot in the abdomen captured, showed no difficulty in walking into the courtroom.

Lapine was charged with breaking and entering and having a gun while committing an offence. Prestyko was charged with breaking and entering. The wounded man was brought from hospital to face the charges. Lapine was dismissed from the police force more than a year ago for insubordination. He was wounded by Constable Andrew Johnston who caught him and his accomplice crouched behind the safe they had attempted to open.

FRANCO-BRITISH

The Anglo-French invitation for Italian co-operation, to be delivered in Rome upon the heels of Mussolini's demonstrative visit to Chancellor Hitler, was not likely, however, to contain any such outright threat to open the border. It may come later.

Near French Frontier

Already forces of the Spanish government and of the insurgents were fighting for areas near the French frontier through which munitions would flow once border control were wiped away.

Such a government would be the chief beneficiary of such a move.

Noteworthy in this connection was a Madrid report that General Franco had been forced to withdraw an Italian division from his Guadalajara front because of the government's drive in upper Aragon, near the French frontier.

France was understood to be seeking to conclude definite offers to Italy until the three powers get together at conference table. Then France, with Britain backing, might threaten anew to open her Spanish frontier.

Breaking of the last strands of non-intervention in Spain would give much wider scope to what Spanish quarters already describe as an "international civil war."

Besides helping the Valencia government, to get fresh armament and munitions, the end of border control possibly would bring a surge of French volunteers to the republican cause.

Informed persons, however, said there was no question of France sending troops to aid Valencia.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Tarzan moved slowly through the dark, mysterious passage, feeling forward with each foot before he put his weight on it. After a while he saw a faint light ahead, coming from the floor of the corridor. When he reached the brink of the opening, he looked down.

Some seven feet below he saw stone flagging—the floor of a fireplace. Evidently this secret passage led from one stone fireplace to another. Ever cautious, Tarzan listened intently, for he had the jungle beast's aversion to entering an unfamiliar enclosure.

He caught a sound so faint that it barely registered on his sensitive ears—the sound of soft breathing. Then his nostrils detected the faint aroma of a woman. For a moment Tarzan hesitated, then he dropped without a sound to the floor of the fireplace.

Before him lay a chamber of barbarous luxury. At a window in the opposite wall, looking down on the city of the Kali, stood a girl, lithe and trim, her back toward the fireplace. Tarzan did not have to see her face to know that this was Gondar, the Queen.

WOODLEY'S

WORK ON HIGHWAY

Mr. Sproule said the Premier, when he left St. Thomas after the meeting, was going by telephone to the northern city to be present at Queen Victoria Park, Toronto, when Premier Hepburn would be welcomed by Mayor Conboy and Mr. Sproule said the Premier would be back in St. Thomas on Friday morning to attend the meeting with Hon. Earl Rowe's nomination as the Conservative candidate in the provincial election.

Mr. Sproule charged his Conservative opponent, Norman B. Martin, with being a campaigner of personal abuse and vilification. Mr. Martin, he said, was going back 30 years to find material for his campaign. He referred to Mr. Martin as "the boy orator of Dover, when the Liberal party was in power, but the boy orator of Dover when he was out of power."

Mr. Sproule said he was not going to sit idly about because of the "boy orator of Dover" but "know it."

Speaking of a story circulating he said in favor of Premier Hepburn was that he was the first head of the Province of Ontario to attend the Northern Ontario Railway Association meeting, and he was the first international unionist to attend the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention. He discussed the true relationship between the Province and the Dominion, how the government borrowed its money in the United States and how the Dominion government paid its debts to the United States.

Mr. Sproule made a new Industry Act, which provided the bounty for the building of twine would not affect Canada, as it was dependent on the United States for twine until after the war scare and pointed to the Dominion government's action in the matter.

Mr. Sproule said the Premier would start now and keep straight on. For that's the way to go.

A word of cheer a helpful hand,
We know you are sure to give,
Your joy along we know
Will help someone to smile and live
Will miss your cheery smile,
But hope as you travel on,
That at the end of every mile
You'll still be going strong.

To you these cups we bring,
And hope you like the tune,
And think they are just the thing
When serving social tea.
Each recipe we find inside
They're all most tried and true,
We hope to your table bring good luck
And help you each day thro',

Signed on behalf of your girl friends,

Muriel Sine, Doris Sine, Faye Anger, Eileen MacMullen, Frances McKown, Anna Sharp, Isobel Wagner, Edna Hubble, Marjorie Hagerman, Vera Madden, Mabel Sharp.

WITNESSED KIDNAPPING

Miss Florence Priebag (above), secretary to Charles G. Nice, wealthy retired Chicago manufacturer, who was driving with Rose when he was kidnapped by three armed men. Miss Priebag and Rose were returning to Chicago after a dinner engagement when the kidnapper's automobile forced them to stop. Ransom demands paid to get her were made by the abductors. Miss Priebag is being held for questioning in connection with the kidnapping.

RAWDON

Rawdon, Sept. 30—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thrasher entertained a number of friends to tea on Tuesday evening September 28th, in honor of Miss Marguerite Sine and Mr. Wesley Parrell.

Mrs. George Stone and family of Bethel, Mrs. Leon MacMullen, Frankford visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White a few days before Marguerite departed for Belleville to reside.

About thirty-five folks from Mound Pleasant journeyed to Canifton, Monday evening and attended their friend Oliver and spraggan.

Mrs. Evelyn Bertrand, Marmora, visited Mrs. Willie Montgomery on Sunday evening.

Among those who attended the Parrell-Hall nuptials were Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell, Helen and Doris of Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Everett, Lillian and Laura of Melville.

On Monday evening a large number of Stockdale friends tendered Mrs. Eva Hall a miscellaneous shower, prior to her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday with over fifty relatives in attendance. Their children, grandchildren and two great-grandchildren were all present at this happy event. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp were married fifty years on Tuesday, September 28th and were the recipients of several gifts and felicitations on this happy occasion.

Mrs. Leon MacMullen Surprised

On Tuesday afternoon the girls on the east side of Rawdon church with a few relatives and intimate friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Mark White to spend another social hour with Mrs. Leon MacMullen before she left permanently for her new home in Sidney.

The affair was a complete surprise to Margaret as she was spending a few days at the old home this week and had no thought of any event of this kind.

During the afternoon all enjoyed a happy time together and pictures of the group were taken. Mrs. Percy MacMullen called the gathering to order and Miss Ina Sharp read an address of appreciation. Marguerite received the parcels and was the recipient of sixteen lovely cups and saucers with a delicious sounding recipe enclosed with each one.

At this juncture Marguerite gracefully thanked her friends for the happy surprise, the lovely gifts and kind words, and hoped all would visit her and have a cup of tea in her new home. The group formed a circle and sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A dainty lunch consisting of sandwiches, cookies and tea was served by Mrs. Blake Sharp, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Ross McKeown and Mrs. MacMullen.

The guests departed wishing Marguerite every happiness in her new home. The address follows:

Mount Pleasant, Sept. 28, 1937.

Dear Marguerite:-

We girls, have gathered here this afternoon to spend another social hour with you in your old home before leaving for your new home. We feel we would like you to know how much we have appreciated your fine sterling qualities and many willingness to enter all the activities of the community, your many disposition has endeared you to us all. At church especially we shall miss your voice in the old choir.

There is a road to happiness,
We do hope you find it so.

FRENCH DEFENSE BILL INCREASED

Total Military Expenses Total $634,333,333 For 1938

Paris, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Finance Minister Georges Bonnet announced today a sharp increase in French Armament expenditures in presenting the 1938 ordinary budget Bill to Parliament.

The Budget draft, submitted to the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee, showed total National Defense expenditures for 1938, in both ordinary and extraordinary budgets, would be about $798,333,333, compared with the 1937 total military expenses of $634,333,333.

The 1938 ordinary budget (for normal expenditures in government and normal revenues) included a total surplus of $63,400,000. Receipts were estimated at $31,700,000 and expenses at $31,736,900,000.

This compared with the 1937 budget's estimated surplus of $1,004,- 868,806 and receipts of $1,333,333,333.

The 1938 extraordinary budget (for special armaments and defence) which will be fixed in a cabinet decree at $598,666,666 is to be covered by borrowing.

NEW KIND OF IRON LUNG

Juneau, Alaska, Sept. 30 (AP)—An iron lung made from a garbage can was held ready for use today in the event of further outbreaks of infantile paralysis.

The apparatus, put together by Dr. Robert M. Coffey with the aid of a machinist, Kenyon Mellen, transformed the garbage can into a respirator device which causes the subject to inhale and exhale at a rate of 26 times a minute.

Nine Year-Old Most Exclusive School Boy in United States

Teacher Paid $65 a Month to Teach One Pupil

ROOM FOR 38

Cherokee, Kas., Sept. 30—(AP)—Bashful, 9½-year-old Gene Simms, who has a lock of unruly hair and more freckles than there are sunflowers in his back yard, is now the most exclusive school boy in the United States.

Grinning Gene, every inch a "regular fellow" in striped overalls and blue shirt, is the only pupil attending the one-room rural schoolhouse of District No. 63—and there are desks for 38.

Teacher was "drafted" to wed in the farmhouse of the rich coal mining country of southeastern Kansas as to Wiy Geney, 11, classmates of last year did not report to the new teacher, but Gene neither knows nor cares.

"I like this school," he says, "my arithmetic betters reading, and recess best of all."

He was one of two pupils to enroll this week when some one telephoned all the way from Toronto, Ont., to inquire about the two children named over to the pull-down map and when he found Toronto he stood open-mouthed.

Blonde, 39-year-old Robert Shaw is paid $65 a month—$15 more than the $695 for nine months—he teach Gene six hours a day, five days a week. The money comes from taxes paid by residents of the district who this year are sending their children to the Town School at Mineral.

LABOR BOARD ENDS SITTINGS

Continues its Inquiry Into Textile Industry at Peterboro

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 30.—(CP)—The Ontario Industry and Labor Board moved to Peterborough today to continue its province-wide investigation of the textile industry.

After two days of sittings, the board yesterday adjourned indefinitely its Cornwall hearings into conditions at the three local mills of Canadian Cottons, Limited.

Chairman H. J. Young said the board intended to inquire into other textile industries in Ontario before resuming these hearings. Final public hearings as it desired, to view the local situation on a comparative basis.

He urged employees and employers at yesterday's sittings to consider grouping the classifications so that the minimum wage scale could be set for each group.

"It would appear," said R. L. Kellock, Canadian Cottons' representative, "that the problem facing the Cornwall management and the Board is to arrive at minimum wages which will enable the products produced by the employees of Canadian Cottons to be sold in competition with other mills in Ontario, mills in other provinces in Canada, and goods produced by workers in other countries. We feel that employees should co-operate with the Board to that end."

Improvements Asked

Mr. Young said certain improvements in departments in the mills could be made and he hoped these would be carried out before the Board returned. He mentioned ventilation in the dye house, fire fighting facilities in the wash wood and re-arrangement of some shifts. Some shifts, witnesses have testified run through the noon hour for a let-up for lunch.

In its two-day hearings in Cornwall the Board has gathered much data, relating to hours of work, wages and conditions in the three mills, whose 1,700 employees went on strike last month.

One of the agreements reached between the employees and the company when the strike ended was that these matters be investigated by the Board.

PARALYSIS TOLL NOW STANDS AT 78

Twelve New Cases Added Yesterday to Toronto Total

(By The Canadian Press)

Toll claimed by infantile paralysis in Canada since the outbreak early this summer mounted to 78 when a Lucknow, Ont., youth died in Toronto General Hospital. Twelve new cases are reported in Toronto yesterday decided to keep schools closed until October 12. Although Dr. Archibald Jeffrey, city chairman, said too many cases existed to reopen schools until the date decided on.

Quebec R. M. A. Favor $5.00 Chain Store Tax

Quebec, Sept. 30 (CP)—Quebec branch of the Retail Merchants' Association was on record today as favoring provincial government taxation of chain stores, despite a Quebec cabinet minister's plea the retailers consider what effects restrictive legislation might have on home industry.

The branch urged a $50 chain store tax at the closing session of its annual convention yesterday, a few hours before Hon. Joseph Bradette, Minister of Municipal Affairs, warned the delegates at a banquet to "be careful" in their requests.

Hon. William Tremblay, Labor Minister, told the banquet guests the government soon would ask retail merchants to increase wages and shorten working hours for employees.

The government knows the position of the retail merchant and he assured we seek your co-operation from a humanitarian point of view," Mr. Tremblay said. "We must see to it that consumers have the necessary possible and the resulting increased buying power.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Albuquerque, N.M., Sept. 30 — (AP)— A private tri-motored transport plane, with three men aboard, was missing today, feared down in the wild mesa and desert country between here and Winslow, Ariz.
